15 GENERATIONS OF

Volume II

THE GENEALOGICAL SECTION includes approximately 24,000 individuals, 4,500 surnames, 8,800 marriages, and 3,200 places. The period covered is from about 1510 in England for the Crosby family of York county (Hepzibath Crosby married Benjamin Whipple and is my great (4) grandmother) and approximately 1560 for the Whipple family of Essex county. The Whipple lineage ends in 2005.

The book format follows the Modified Register Style where all children receive an Arabic number in birth order beginning with the next number after the last number used in the previous generation. Children whose line continues have a plus (+) in front of their number. Names of main persons are printed in bold upper/lower case letters. All notes appear at the end of the genealogy.

This not a professional genealogy. It is a compilation with thousands of sources, many of which have not been verified by other sources. Major portions of the content came from family historians who responded to my request for assistance. They provided their lineage from their earliest known ancestor. My Whipple descent is from Matthew, The Clothier, of Bocking, Essex Co., England (abt 1560), and his son Matthew, Jr. of Ipswich, Essex Co., Massachusetts and from Thomas Crosby of Home Upon Spaulding Moor in York Co., England (abt 1510). Some lineages are explored more extensively than others. Some cited sources, others did not.

All sources are cited as endnotes. They are as diverse as vital statistics; town and county histories; cemetery, church and Bible records; deed, probate, and guardianship records; and personal knowledge of the summiteer. Documentation is from both primary and secondary sources. How accurately the compilers recorded the sources or how correctly they appraised the information is unknown and they may include conflicting information. Therefore these records have the possibility of error and I do not vouch for the lineages. Corroboration and verification of sources is essential to prove any lineage. When information does not include a primary citation it should be validated with other sources of independent origins. After 50 years of research, the author believes his Whipple lineage is accurate.

Genealogy is cumulative. Researchers may return to a family and new evidence not previously available may add to their understanding of it. Thus, no ancestral line is ever truly complete and all conclusions are open to critical evaluation.

This compilation includes 15,099 endnotes, many of them Ibid. In order to reduce the number of pages, consecutive Ibids are combined with the first citation. Example: the first citation of a note may be followed by 45 Ibids. These 46 notes are consolidated into one so if the original endnote was number 4545 it would appear as 4545 through 4591. However, in the text the notes are numbered consecutively. Thus the reader can easily check the appropriate citation in the endnote section.

This is the second of three volumes to be published on the Whipple families of America in the twenty first century. The first volume, History and Genealogy of "Elder" John Whipple of Ipswich, Massachusetts His English Ancestors and American Descendants was written and compiled by me and published in 2003. Readers interested in this volume can obtain a copy from me at 236 N. W. Sundown Way, Portland, Oregon 97229.

The third volume covers the family and descendants of Captain John Whipple of Dorchester, Suffolk county, Massachusetts and Providence, Providence county, Rhode Island. The compilers-authors are Charles M. Whipple, Jr., PhD, EdD, Litt.B., Emeritus Professor of Psychology and Philosophy at the University of Central Oklahoma and former Senior Minister of Mayflower Congregational Church and past Associate Minister of Plymouth Congregational Church, both in Oklahoma City. His co-author is Barbara R. Carroll of Exeter, Rhode Island. Dr. Whipple is author of Sons and Daughters of Jesse, authorized by the Jabez Whipple Family Association and published by the Southwestern Press in Oklahoma City in 1976. Descendants wanting to be included in the book should mail their information to Dr. Whipple at 327 Sundance Lane, Edmond, Oklahoma 73034 or to Barbara Carroll at One Quail Hollow Dr., Exeter, RI 02822. Charles can also be reached at charles@whipple.net. and Barbara at brcgenealogy@yahoo.com.

The intent of this work is to be a singular resource on descendants of Matthew Whipple of Ipswich and I have made it as comprehensive as possible. However, it only represents a small fraction of Matthew's descendants. As you read this tome you will note that the vast majority of individuals do not have the plus (+) sign in front of their name, meaning the families of those individuals have not been identified. This contribution is as far as I can take it unless reader additions, corrections, and constructive input of any nature are received. A second volume will be considered if a sufficient number of submissions, along with source citations, are received. Contact Blaine Whipple at 236 N. W. Sundown Way, Portland, Oregon 97229-6575 or blainewhipple@eschelon.com.

The software program used to generate this genealogy is Ultimate Family Tree, copyright © 1999, the Learning Co., Inc. Ultimate Family Tree is a trademark of Learning Company Properties, Inc. Computer-generated text is repetitive and verbose. To overcome this, I have analyzed the raw data and attempted to write in a readable style.

FIRST GENERATION

1. Matthew[1] Whipple Sr.,[1] son of (__) Whipple and Margaret (__), was born in England, probably in Bocking, Essex County, abt 1560 and died in Bocking in January 1619 at abt 58 years of age. He married Joan (__) maybe Stephens, probably in Bocking, abt 1582. Joan was born in England abt 1562 and died in Bocking where she was buried 19 May 1612 at abt 49 years of age.[2] Matthew's will, dated 19 December 1616, was proved 28 January 1618-19. While in England in 1963, the author obtained a photostatic copy of the will from the Principal Probate Registry, Strand, London, England W.C.Z. The will was written in Old English and the probate in Latin. Professors Valdis Lejnicks, Ph. D., and Richard Van Fosson, Ph. D., of Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, translated the documents for the author and were able to read all but a few of the words. They described the Latin as "some very good, part poor."

The Latin introduction to the probate:

Probatum fuit testamentum supra scriptum apud Lon coram Magistro Edmundo Pope legum Doctore Surrogato uenerabilis uiri Domini Johannis Benet militis legum etiam doctoris curie Prerogatiue antuariensis Magistri Custodis sine commissarii legitime constituti uicesimo octavo die mensis Januarii Anno Domini iuxta cursum et computationem Ecclesie Anglice millesimo sexcentesimo Decimo octauo.

Mathei Whipple filli natutalis et legitimi dicti Defuncti et Executoris in eodem Testamento nominat. Cue commisa fuit Administratio Bonorum Jurium et Creditorum dicti Defuncti De bene et fideliter administradis etc as sancta Dei Evangeli Jurat.

The English translation:

The above written will was probated at London in the presence of Magistrate Edmund Pope, Doctor of Laws, Surrogate of admirable man master John Benet soldier (?) of laws and also Doctor of the Superior Court of the Kentist magistrate without (?) legal constit__ on the 28 day of January A.D. according to the progress and computation of the Anglican Church 1618.

Matthew Whipple, a natural and legitimate son of the said deceased and executor named in the same will to whom it was entrusted, the administration of the property rights, and debts of the said deceased, Cornering good and faithful administration he swears by the Sacred Evangel of God.

Richard Tebold of Bocking, a yeoman, left Matthew, Sr. five shillings in his will proved 12 February 1603. The will was filed in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury 25 December 1602. Future Whipple researchers might find it productive to look for a relationship between Matthew and Richard.

Matthew Whipple Sr. and Joan (__) had the following children born in Bocking:

+	2	i.	Anne (Anna)[2] Whipple[3] in 1583 (baptized 1 September 1583) and died 13 November 1646 in Bocking, at 63 years of age. She married John Pepper in Bocking 13 January 1605/06. John Pepper was born in England abt 1583 and died abt May or June 1618 in Bocking, at approximately 34 years of age. Persons interested in perusing the Pepper family might find John Pepper's will helpful. It was proved 8 June 1618 and a copy is in the Family History Library in Salt Lake City, Utah, Film #94216. The original is on file in the Commissary of London under the Essex and Herts Division (Vol. 1, includes 1431-1619.) A second John Pepper lived in Standford Rivers, a village near Bocking. Apparently both Peppers were cousins or related in some way to a Richard Pepper who married Sabine Copard (Everard?) in 1605 in Doddinghurst, Essex, another nearby village. They are mentioned in Richard's will.
+	3	ii.	Margaret Whipple in 1585.
	4	iii.	Johane Whipple. She is identified as Matthew's daughter in his will but is not in the parish records.
+	5	iv.	Jane (Jana) Whipple in 1587.
+	6	v.	Matthew Whipple abt 1590
	7	vi.	Elizabeth Whipple[4] in 1594 (baptized 14 April 1594) and married Isaac Green in Bocking 3 September 1618.
+	8	vii.	John Whipple in 1596.
+	9	viii.	Mary, maybe Marie Whipple abt 1599
	10	ix.	Amy (Amye) Whipple[5] abt 1604 (baptized 20 January 1604/05 and married William Hoston 31 October 1626. Some records give his surname as Horton.

3. Margaret[2] Whipple (Matthew[1])[1] born in Bocking in 1585 (baptized 28 March 1585) and was buried there 13 February 1608. She married Laurence Arthur in Bocking 5 July 1603. He was born in Little Waldingfield, Suffolk Co., England[2] and married (2) Judith (__) in Bocking aft 1608.[3] His will was probated in Little Waldingfield 15 June 1632. Wife Judith and sons Hercules and John are mentioned.

Margaret Whipple and Laurence Arthur had the following children born in Bocking:

11 i. Hercules[3] Arthur in 1604 (baptized 26 August 1604) and married Anne Brown in Essex Co., England 27 October 1632. (Date they were licensed to marry.) Anne was from White Notley Parish. Her maiden name may have been spelled Broune. Hercules and Anne died without issue.[4]

\+ 12 ii. Margaret Arthur abt 1606.

5. Jane (Jana)[2] Whipple (Matthew[1])[5] was born in Bocking in 1587 (baptized 3 September 1587) and married twice. (1) Henry Caldam in Bocking 6 May 1613. (2) Edward Feast in Bocking 15 April 1619.

Jane (Jana) Whipple and Henry Caldam had the following children, probably born in Bocking:

13 i. Henry[3] Caldam[6] who was under 21 in 1616 when his grandfather Matthew Whipple's will was written.

14 ii. Ande Caldam [7] who was under age 21 in 1616 when his grandfather, Matthew Whipple's will was written.

6. Matthew[2] Whipple (Matthew[1])[8] was born in Bocking abt 1590 and died 28 September 1647 in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass., at 57 years of age. He married twice. (1) Anne Hawkins in Bocking 7 May 1622. Anne,[9] daughter of John Hawkins (abt 1570-1619) and Mary Levitt (abt 1580-1635) was born in Bocking abt 1604 and died after September 1643 in Ipswich. (2) Rose (Barker) Chute in Ipswich 13 November 1646. She was born in England and died aft March 1657/58 in Ipswich.[10] She was the widow of Lionel Chute, Ipswich's first school master.

Matthew Whipple and Anne Hawkins had the following children all but Joseph born in Bocking:

15 i. Matthew[3] Whipple abt 1623 and was buried there 27 October 1623.[11]

	16	ii.	Matthew Whipple abt 1624 and was buried there 3 April 1627 at abt 3 years of age.[12]
+	17	iii.	Mary Whipple abt 1626.
+	18	iv.	Anne Whipple abt 1628.
+	19	v.	Elizabeth Whipple abt 1629.
+	20	vi.	Lt. John Whipple 6 September 1632.
+	21	vii.	Matthew Whipple abt 1635.
+	22	viii.	Joseph Whipple abt 1640 in Ipswich.

8. John[2] Whipple (Matthew[1])[13] was born in Bocking in 1596 (baptized, 29 August 1596) and died 30 June 1669 in Ipswich, Mass., at 72 years of age. He married twice. (1) Susanna Clarke 28 Ausgust 1621 at St. Andrews by the Wardrobe, London. She was baptized 11 January 1595/96 at Theydon Garnon, Essex County and died aft 13 July 1661 in Ipswich, at approximately 61 years of age. Ipswich historian Joseph B. Felt gives her name as Sarah and cites 14 June 1658 as her date of death.[14] John was an elder of the Ipswich church and approximately 6,900 of his American descendants are included in the author's book, History and Genealogy of "Elder" John Whipple of Ipswich, Massachusetts published in 2003. It is available from the author or Trafford Publishing Co. at www.trafford.com. (2) Jenett (__) Dickinson in Ipswich aft 1662. Jenett was born in Rickmansworth, Hertfordshire Co., England and died 30 January 1687 in Ipswich. She married (1) Thomas Dickinson in Yorkshire, England 14 April 1640. The Dickinson's were among the early settlers of Rowley, Essex Co., Mass. where Thomas was a large landowner. Both Jennet and Thomas are buried in Rowley.

John Whipple and Susanna Clarke had the following children all born in Bocking except Sarah:

23	i.	Susannah[3] Whipple[15] 1 July 1622 and died 10 August 1692 in Newbury, Essex Co., Mass., at 70 years of age. She married Lionel Worth in Massachusetts abt 1648.
24	ii.	John Whipple[16] 11 January 1624 and died there 4 August 1624, at almost 8 months of age.
25	iii.	Elizabeth Whipple[17] 1 November 1627 and died 15 December 1648 in Ipswich, at 21 years of age. She married Anthony Potter in Ipswich in 1647. No issue. Anthony, son of Robert Potter, was born in Rickmansworth, Hertfordshire Co., England in 1628 and died in 1690 in Massachusetts at, 62 years of age. Anthony's father, of Coventry, England, was in Lynn, Mass. as early as 1630. Anthony married (2) Elizabeth Stone in Massachusetts abt 1652.

They had a son Samuel. Many records incorrectly identify Elizabeth Whipple as the mother of Samuel.

26 iv. Matthew Whipple[18] 7 October 1628 and died there 12 October 1634 at 6 years of age.

27 v. Capt. John Whipple[19] 21 December 1625 (baptized 25 December 1625) and died in Ipswich 10 August 1683, at 57 years of age. He married twice. (1) Martha Reyner in Ipswich abt 1653. Born in England, Martha was the daughter of Humphrey Reyner and Mary Lane. She died 24 February 1679 in Ipswich. (2) Elizabeth (Cogswell) Paine in Ipswich 28 June 1680. Captain John Whipple's line is carried forward in the author's book on Elder John Whipple and is available from the author or Trafford Publishing Co. at www.trafford.com.

28 vi. William Whipple[20] in October 1631 and died in Ipswich 4 June 1641, at 9 years of age.

29 vii. Anne Whipple[21] 2 June 1633 and died there 4 May 1634, at less than 1 year of age.

30 viii. Mary Whipple[22] 20 February 1634 and died 25 June 1720 in Watertown, Middlesex Co., Mass., at 86 years of age. She married Dea. Simon Stone abt 1656. The Mary Whipple-Simon Stone line is carried forward in the author's book on John Whipple and is available from the author or Trafford Publishing Co. at www.trafford.com.

31 ix. Judith Whipple[23] in August 1636 and died there 27 June 1637, at less than 1 year of age.

32 x. Matthew Whipple[24] 17 February 1638 and died there 30 March 1638, at 1 month of age.

33 xi. Sarah Whipple[25] 3 November 1641 in Ipswich and died there 23 July 1681, at 39 years of age. She married Dea. Joseph Goodhue in Ipswich 13 July 1661. The Sarah Whipple-Joseph Goodhue line is carried forward in the author's book on John Whipple and is available from the author or Trafford Publishing Co. at www.trafford.com.

9. Mary[2] Whipple (Matthew[1])[26] born in Bocking, abt 1599 and died there abt 1663, at 64 years of age. She married Richard Baker in Bocking 9 May 1625. He was born in England and died abt 1646 in Bocking.[27] His will, dated (?) November 1637 and probated in Bocking 16 January 1647, refers to him as a "Bocking Wheelwright." Mary was named executrix. The will refers to Mary, eldest son Richard, sons John and Matthew, and daughters Mary and Sarah. The probate records refers to her as Maria, not Mary. The original will is in the Deanery of Bocking. Mary's will, signed with her mark, "M," was probated in Bocking 26 February 1663. Date of the will is missing. She was identified as a widow of Bocking. The will refers to sons Richard, John, and Matthew and daughters Mary and Sarah. Sarah was identified as the wife of Moses Sourroff.

Mary Whipple and Richard Baker had the following children born in Bocking:

34 i. Richard[3] Baker.[28]

35 ii. Mary Baker.[29]

36 iii. John Baker.[30]

37 iv. Sarah Baker[31] married Moses Sourroff in Bocking. His surname may have been Lourroff.

38 v. Matthew Baker.[32]

12. Margaret[3] Arthur (Margaret Whipple, Matthew[1])[1] was born in Bocking, England abt 1606 and married Henry Pye there 17 May 1627.

Margaret Arthur and Henry Pye had the following child:

\+ 39 i. Judith[4] Pye.

17. Mary[3] Whipple (Matthew[2], Whipple[1])[2] was born in Bocking abt 1626 and died 28 April 1694 in Newbury, Essex Co., Mass., at 67 years of age. She married John Emery in Ipswich, Mass. John was baptized in Romsey, Hampshire Co., England 3 February 1628/29 and died 3 November 1683 in Newbury, at 54 years of age.[3] Mary was remembered in the will of William Nevill who had been an indentured servant of her father. Nevill's will, dated "the 2 month the 15th day 1643 and proved the 7th mo., 1643" identified him as a single man of Ipswich. Mary was the first person mentioned in the will ". . . I give Mary Whipple my bible and I give to her & to the rest of my master's children that which my master oweth me also I give that which my dame oweth me."

Mary Whipple and John Emery has the following children:

\+ 40 i. Mary[4] Emery born 24 June 1652.

\+ 41 ii. John Emery born 12 September 1656.

42 iii. Rev. Samuel Emery[4] born in Newbury 20 December 1670 and died in 1724 in Wells, York Co., Maine, at 53 years of age. He married Tabitha Littlefield who was born in Wells and died there in 1736.[5]

18. Anne[3] Whipple (Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[6] was born in Bocking abt 1628 and married twice. (1) John Annable in Ipswich, Mass. abt 1647. He was born in Little Waldingfield, Suffolk Co., England and died 8 October 1664 in Ipswich.[7] The name was also spelled Anniball and Annyball.

John arrived in New England from Boston, England in 1638 as a servant of John Whittingham. He was a commoner in Ipswich by 1641 where he was a tailor. He bought a house and lot at the eastern corner of Market and Summer streets in 1642 (then called Annable's Lane). He had shares in Plum Island and Castle Rock in 1664.

On the first day of the tenth month (December) 1647 John purchased from the estate of his father-in-law, Matthew Whipple, Matthew's dwelling house, barn, and a house lot of approximately 2 acres; a planting lot of four acres m/o/l; and seven acres of marsh ground for £39. The estate was to use the money for Matthew's children and other legacies.

Matthew's dwelling was on the corner of County and Summer streets. (See Appendix 6 for description of property.)

According to the will of Rev. John Norton of Boston (filed in Suffolk county), formerly of Ipswich, signed 14 January 1661, he purchased the "house lot containing two acres, more or less," from Matthew Whipple's (sic) deceased. The will acknowledged the property was "now in the occupation of Goodman Annable" but Rev. Norton bequeathed the property to his brother, Mr. William Norton of Ipswich.

John Whipple, as clerk of writs, signed a writ against John Annable attaching his house and grounds. The case was to be heard in court in Ipswich 28 September 1652. Research needs to be undertaken to determine if it was the house and lot he purchased in 1642 or the house and lot purchased from Matthew Whipple's estate in 1647. If it was the latter it would be interesting to know the outcome of the case.

(2) Nicholas Clapp in Ipswich bef 15 April 1667. Anne and Nicholas are recorded as selling land in Ipswich on this date. Nicholas,[8] son of Nicholas Clapp, was born in England, probably in Venn Ottery, Devon Co. in 1612 and died in 1679 at 67 years of age. Nicholas arrived in Dorchester, Suffolk Co., Mass. about 1633 and eventually held the office of Deacon there. He was married twice before marrying Anne (Whipple) Annable. (1) Sarah Clapp, sister of Roger Clapp; (2) Abigail, widow of Roger Sharp of Brookline, Mass. Abigail died in 1659. He had four children with these wives.

Anne was left a chest by William Nevill, a single man of Ipswich, who had been an endentured servant of her father. Nevill's will was dated "the 2 month the 15th day 1643 and proved 7 mo 1643."

John Annable died intestate and on 10 November 1664 the Ipswich Quarterly Court named Anne administrator and ordered her to present to the Court an inventory of the estate. The inventory she presented 28 March 1665 was valued at "181li, 2s, 7d total clear estate."[9] The Court ordered that the estate remain in her hands for "the bringing up of the children." She was directed to pay the eldest son John 20li and 10li to each of the rest of the children, "three sons and three daughters, at age, the land to be security."

The estate included a dwelling house & barn & land about it; 6 acres of marsh and 4 acres of upland; a small feather bed, boulster, 2 pillows, old rug, old curtains, valants & 2 blankets & bedstead, chest & some other things; 5 pair of sheets, 4 pair of pillowbeers, 3 table cloths, 1 dozen napkins & a towell; a chest & 2 boxes, a mantel & another old one; an old chest, kneading trough & other lumber; a pair of andirons; an old warming pan & other small things; his wearing apparrel, pewter, tin ware, brass, 2 iron pots, tramells, pothooks & other things, 2 pressing irons & sheers, wooden ware; 2 wheels & cardes; 2 little tables & chairs, a craddle & what belongs to it; 2 axes, bows, and other tools; an old cupboard, 2 sives & small things; books valued at 1li; 60 bushel of Indian corn, English corn, apples & garden stuff, butter & beef; 3 cows, 3 young cattle & hay to winter them, hogs and shotes, a young horse and 22li in debts owed to the estate and 47li, 2s, 5d in debts owed by the estate.[10]

Anne Whipple and John Annable had the following children born in Ipswich:

+	43	i.	John[4] Annable abt 1649.
	44	ii.	Anne Annable abt 1653 and died in 1687 at 34 years of age.[11] She married Humphrey Atherton in Dorchester, Mass. 19 December 1671.
	45	iii.	Joseph Annable 2 October 1658 and married Mary (__) in Ipswich bef 1694.[12]
+	46	iv.	Elizabeth Annable 17 April 1661.
+	47	v.	Robert Annable abt 1663.
	48	vi.	Sarah Annable abt. 1665 and died 28 June 1674 in Dorchester, Mass., at 9 years of age.[13]

Anne Whipple and Nicholas Clapp had the following children born in Dorchester, Mass.:

49	vii.	Noah Clapp 15 July 1667. He married Mary Wright in Sudbury Mass. 28 July 1690.[14]
50	viii.	Sarah Clapp 22 November 1670 (baptized 10 December 1670). She married Joseph Miller.[15]

19. Elizabeth[3] Whipple (Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[16] was born in Bocking, England abt 1629 and died 12 February 1685 in Ipswich, Mass., at 55 years of age. She married Sargt. Jacob Perkins in Ipswich abt 1648. Jacob,[17] son of John Perkins Sr. and Judith Gater, was born in Hillmorton, Warwickshire, England in 1624 (baptized 12 July 1624) and died 29 January 1699/1700 in Ipswich, at 76 years of age. He married (2) Mrs. Damaris Robinson in Ipswich aft February 1685.

At age 7, Jacob was the youngest of Perkins' children, siblings John, Thomas, Elizabeth, and Mary, when the family sailed from Bristol, England for New England. They left 1 December 1630 in the ship Lyon on a stormy passage of 67 days. Among the other passengers was Rev. Roger Williams, founder of Rhode Island. The family settled in Boston where daughter Lydia was baptized 3 June 1632.

Jacob's ancestors are: Thomas[1], Henry[2], Thomas[3], Henry[4], John[5] whose 15 children included John[6], born 23 December 1583 at Hillmorton and died in Ipswich in 1654. He and Judith Gater were married at Hillmorton 9 October 1608. Jacob's older brother, John, Jr. (1614-86), married Sarah Wainwright and they are the ancestors of Millard Fillmore (1800-74), 13th President of the United States. Jacob and Elizabeth Whipple are ancestors of two U.S. presidents: (John) Calvin Coolidge (1872-1933), 30th President, through their daughter Judith and Nathaniel Brown; and Franklin Delano Roosevelt (1882-1945) 32nd President, through their son Jabez and Hannah Lathrop.

Dr. George A. Perkins, compiler of a genealogy on the family of John Perkins, Sr. was not certain if Matthew was Elizabeth's father. Early in his book he wrote that Elizabeth is "possibly the daughter of Matthew Whipple" but later in the book he said he was uncertain.[18] Mary Lovering Holman (1868-1947), one of New England's leading professional genealogists, identifies Elizabeth as Matthew's daughter in the Pillsbury Genealogy published in 1938. Gary Boyd Roberts, compiler, Ancestors of American Presidents, published in cooperation with the New England Historic Genealogical Society in 1995, also names her as Matthew Whipple's daughter.

The names Jacob and Elizabeth gave their nine children supports the Whipple connection. Elizabeth had siblings named John, Mary, Matthew, and Joseph, names given to the Perkins' children. The oldest Perkins child was named Elizabeth, presumably after her mother.

John Perkins, Sr. moved his family to Ipswich in 1633 where he became one of the more prominent settlers. Brothers Matthew and John Whipple moved their families to Ipswich in 1638.

John Perkins' will, dated 28 March 1654, was proved 27 September 1654 and names his wife, children, and some grandchildren. The estate was appraised at £250. Jacob was bequeathed "my dwelling house together with all the out housing and all my lands. . . together with all improvements. . . after the decease of my wife. . ."[19] The farm was in the eastern part of Ipswich near the river. Jacob farmed the land the rest of his life.

Jacob was chosen sergeant of the Ipswich military company in 1664 and from then on was known as Sergeant, or as he wrote it, "Sargent Jacob Perkins, sen.," to distinguish himself from two others of the same name. Their house (built by his father) was struck by lightening on Sunday 18 May 1671 and his "waistcoat [was] pierced with many small holes, like goose-shot, and [he] was beaten down as if he had been dead for the present." The house was destroyed by fire in 1668 through the carelessness of a servant girl who knocked the ashes from her pipe upon the thatch of an outbuilding.[20]

As a condition of his second marriage (to the widow Damaris Robinson), Jacob promised to support her during her life and on 20 March 1693

deeded property to sons Matthew and Jacob with the following language: "I Sargt. Jacob Perkins, sen., having grown old & decrepit and not able to manage my farm, I give the other portions of my land to my sons Jacob and Matthew, provided they support me and my wife. . ." His will refers to bequeaths of other land he had given each on their marriage.[21]

Damaris, widow of Nathaniel Robinson, mariner, was from Boston. Upon Jacob's death, she returned to Boston where she died and left all her property to her children by Nathaniel.

Elizabeth Whipple and Sargt. Jacob Perkins had the following children born in Ipswich:[22]

+	51	i.	Elizabeth[4] Perkins 1 April 1649.
+	52	ii.	Serg. John Perkins 3 July 1652.
+	53	iii.	Judith Perkins 11 July 1655.
+	54	iv.	Mary Perkins 14 May 1658.
+	55	v.	Jacob Perkins 3 August 1662.
+	56	vi.	Capt. Matthew Perkins 23 June 1665.
+	57	vii.	Hannah Perkins 11 October 1670.
+	58	viii.	Joseph Perkins 21 June 1674.
+	59	ix.	Jabez Perkins 15 May 1677.

20. Lt. John[3] Whipple (Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[23] was born in Bocking, England 6 September 1632 and died 22 November 1695 in Ipswich, Mass. at 63 years of age. He married three times. (1) Sarah Kent in Ipswich. She died there 14 June 1658.[24] (2) Elizabeth Woodman in Ipswich 5 May 1659. Elizabeth,[25] daughter of Lt. Archelaus Woodman and Elizabeth (__), was probably born in Christian Malford, Wiltshire, England (no birth records are found in Newbury, Mass.) and died in Ipswich. Her parents sailed from Southampton in April 1635 on the James and settled in Newbury where they lived the balance of their lives. Her grandparents were Edward and Edith (?) Woodman of Corsham. Edward's will was proved at the court of Corsham Peculiar 14 July 1654. Her great grandparents were Thomas and Elizabeth (Pryor) Woodman who were married 24 April 1574. Her sister Sarah married (1) John Brocklebank and (2) Lt. John Adams of Ipswich. John married (3) Mary Stevens in Ipswich, 21 July 1662.

Lt. John Whipple and Sarah Kent had the following child born in Ipswich:

+	60	i.	Sarah[4] Whipple abt 1657.

Lt. John Whipple and Elizabeth Woodman had the following children born in Ipswich:

	61	ii.	Hannah Whipple[26]. She was named in her father's will.
+	62	iii.	John Whipple 30 March 1660.
	63	iv.	Elizabeth Whipple 12 December 1661.[27]

Lt. John Whipple and Mary Stevens had the following children born in Ipswich:

+	64	v.	Matthew Whipple 29 May 1664.
+	65	vi.	Joseph Whipple 17 September 1665.
	66	vii.	Mary Whipple 11 May 1667.[28]
+	67	viii.	Cyprian Whipple 17 January 1671.
	68	ix.	Anna Whipple 29 October 1675.[29]

21. Matthew Whipple (Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[30] was born in Bocking, abt 1635 and died 20 October 1658 in Ipswich, Mass., at 23 years of age. He married Mary Bartholomew in Ipswich 24 December 1657. Mary, daughter of William Bartholomew, was born in Ipswich. She married (2) Jacob Green in Ipswich. Mary's father was among the earliest settlers in Ispwich and was made a freeman 4 March 1634. He was Town Clerk, a member of the General Court for five years, and County Treasurer (1654). He moved to Boston in 1660. His brother Henry lived in Salem and represented that town in the General Court for 19 years beginning in 1635.[31]

Matthew died intestate and Mary, pregnant with son Matthew born 20 December 1658, was appointed administrator 30 November 1658. The estate inventory was taken 4 February 1659 and presented to the Court 29 March 1659.

The estate included 30 acres of upland and meadow of which 12 acres were "tilt and within fence" and 56 acres "out of fence;" a barn under construction "with some timber drawn together and some of it hewn;" a horse, a yearling mare colt, 2 oxen, 1 cow, 2 heifers, 1 sow, and 4 small sholes; saddle, bridle, "pistolls & furniture;" a pillion and pillion cloth; Indian corn valued at 3li, 15s and 18.5 bushels of wheat; his wearing apparrel and linen; a bedstead cord, bedding, sheets, pillow, "beeres & tables linen;" 2 silver spoons and pewter values at 1li, 8s, a box iron and heaters, 1 trunk, 1 chest and boxes, "a little table and chairs," 1 iron pot, skillet and 2 sives; a cradle; 32li in debts owed to the estate for a total of 238li, 16s 1d from which was deducted 44li, 14s, 4d in debts owed by the estate leaving a "clear estate" value of 194li, 1s, 9d.

The Court ordered the land to be held for the son with the rest of the estate to go to the widow. However, upon the death of the son, the Court, on 30 June 1663, appointed John Whipple, Matthew's older brother, administrator of the child's estate and directed him to "bring in an inventory to the next Ipswich Court." His inventory, delivered to the Court 29 September 1663, valued the estate at 175li and the court ordered that two parts be awarded to John and one part to his younger brother Joseph Whipple. John took possession of the house and land.[32]

Matthew Whipple and Mary Bartholomew had the following child born in Ipswich:

69 i. Matthew[4] Whipple[33] 20 December 1658, about two months after the death of his father, died there 30 June 1663 at 4 years of age. Had he lived to adulthood, he would have been Matthew III after his grandfather, the original Matthew in Ipswich, and his father.

22. Joseph[3] Whipple (Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[34] was born in Ipswich, Mass. abt 1640 and died there abt 1709. The last record found for him in Ispwich records in dated 7 May 1709. He married twice. (1) Sara (__) in Ipswich abt 1665. (2) Sara (__) in Ipswich in 1676. She married (2) Walter Fairfield (abt 1632-1723) in Wenham, Mass. 14 April (date of intent to marry). She died 18 November 1713 in Wenham.[35]

Joseph's birth is not recorded in the Ipswich Vital Records but he is identified as Matthew's son in Ipswich Quarterly Court Records, 1:122 and Salem Quarterly Court Records, 4:117. The relationship of some of Joseph's children are confirmed by deeds in the Essex Co. Register of Deeds office. The volume and page precedes the date:

35:21–22 March 1707: "Matthew Whipple of Ipswich. . . my brother James Whipple." signed Matthew Whipple.

21:88–25 June 1709: ". . . land in Ipswich which was formerly my Honored fathers Thomas Stacy . . . now in the possession of Thomas Adams, Jr. (and) Matthew Whipple, Jonathan and James Whipple, sons of Joseph Whipple, late of Ipswich." Mary S. Comer, her seal and mark.[36]

22:109–7 May 1709: "I Joseph Whipple of Ipswich, etc. . . know ye for the natural love and affection I have for my son James Whipple. . ." Signed Joseph Whipple.

35:233–4 February 1717: "Know ye that we, Matthew Whipple, Jonathan Whipple, and James Whipple, sons of Joseph Whipple, deceased, all of Ipswich." Signed Matthew Whipple, Jonathan Whipple, James Whipple.

35:22–19 February 1717: "Jonathan Whipple of Ipswich, with his wife, deeds to his brother James Whipple land bounded south east on brother John Whipple's land." Signed Jonathan Whipple and Frances Whipple.

Eldest surviving son Joseph does not appear in any of these deeds. He married Sarah Hutchinson in 1690 and moved to Salem where they lived on part of the original Hutchinson grant.

Joseph had five surviving sons but not enough land for each to remain in Ipswich-Hamilton and make a living. Consequently, three moved west to Worcester county to begin lives there: James in Grafton, John in Sutton, and Jonathan in Westborough. These three towns bordered one another. All three arrived in these towns shortly after they were founded and became prominent in their communities.

Joseph Whipple and Sarah(__) had the following children born in Ipswich:

	70	i.	Joseph[4] Whipple 1 November 1665 and died 12 November 1665 in Ipswich, at less than 1 month of age.[37]
+	71	ii.	Joseph Whipple 31 October 1666.
	72	iii.	Margery Whipple 28 August 1668.[38]
+	73	iv.	Sarah Whipple 29 March 1670.
+	74	v.	Capt. Matthew Whipple 25 November 1672.
	75	vi.	Mary Whipple 25 December 1674.[39]

Joseph Whipple and Sarah(__) had the following children born in Ipswich:

+	76	vii.	Jonathan[4] Whipple 19 April 1679.
+	77	viii.	Deacon James Whipple in 1681.
+	78	ix.	John Whipple 27 March 1690.
+	79	x.	Ruth Whipple 27 October 1692.
	80	xi.	Anna Whipple 29 July 1695.[40]

20. The servant girl was Mehitable Brabrooke about 16 years old. She was examined 15 August 1668 and testified she was alone—her master Jacob Perkins and wife having left for Towne about 2 or 3 p.m.—and was "taking tobacco in a pipe and went out of the house and got up on the oven on the backside of the house to see if there were any hogs in the corn." She placed her right hand on the thatch "to stay herself" when her left hand knocked "over her right arm landing on the thatch on the eaves." She didn't think there was any fire in the pipe and climbed down and went into the corn field to drive out the pigs. As she walked to the field—toward Abraham Perkins' house—she looked back and saw "a smoke upon her master's house" where "she had knocked out her pipe." She eventually went to Abraham's house "to get Goodwife Perkins for help." When they got back to the house she ran for a pail of water but by then "the thatch flamed out and for want of ladders and help the house burned down."

    When asked why she didn't immediately get Goodwife Perkins she said "she was loathe to fright her." When asked why she didn't go right back to quench the fire, she said she was "so frightened she durst not." She further testified that "about an hour before the fire kindled on the house the chimney was on fire" but she quenched it by throwing lye "she had a kettle of clothes" on it.

    Abraham Perkins, about 29, and John Williston, about 20, deposed that they had heard Mehitabel acknowledge that "she had out her tobacco pipe into the fire and dipped up a coal in it to light it." Williston also deposed that he and Mehitabel were "going to the meadow to make hay before the fire when she told him her mistress was angry with her" and she "fitted her" by putting "a great toad into her kettle of milk." Goodwife Brag testified that Goodwife Brabrock said that Mehitabel "was a filthy, unchaste creature." Unable to post bail, Mehitable was committed to prison. Her father was bound to make sure she appeared at the next court session. Records and Files of the Quarterly Courts of Essex Country 1668—1671. Vol. 4.

56. Capt. Matthew[4] Perkins (Elizabeth[3] Whipple, Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[64] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 23 June 1665. Some sources give the birth month as July and the day as the 22nd. He died 15 April 1738 in Ipswich, at 72 years of age.[65] He is buried in section A, stone 16 in the Old North Churchyard. His surname is spelled Pirkins. He married Esther Burnham in Ipswich 23 March 1685/86. Esther,[66] daughter of Lt. Thomas Burnham and Mary Tuttle (some sources give Esther's mother's name as Mary Lawrence.), was born in Chebaco, Essex Co., Mass. 19 March 1666 and died 6 October 1749 in Ipswich, at 83 years of age. When they married, Matthew was given a gift of "a house and one quarter of an acre of land within [the] gate of the highway that leads to Jeffrey's neck." Esther was executrix of Matthew's will, proved 27 April 1738. Her will, dated 5 June 1743 and proved 16 October 1749, provides as follows: "I give to my daughter [Esther] Herbin my Great Bible and her father's Bible. I give to my grandson Matthew [Perkins] his grandfather's cane. I give unto my granddaughter Mary Smith [wife of Matthew], my Sabbath day Bible, and a book lately bought of Mr. Mitchell's works, and my cupboard standing in the shop, and my bread keeler and my bed I now lay upon and all the furniture belonging to it."[67]

Capt. Matthew Perkins and Esther Burnham had the following children born in Ipswich:

58. Joseph[4] Perkins (Elizabeth[3] Whipple, Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[69] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 21 June 1674 and died 6 September 1726 in Norwich, New London Co., Conn., at 52 years of age. He married Martha Morgan in Norwich 22 May 1700. Martha,[70] daughter of Joseph Morgan and Dorothy (__), was born in 1680 and died in October 1754 in Norwich, at 74 years of age. Along with brothers Matthew and Jabez, Joseph moved to Norwich. Matthew soon returned to Ipswich but the other two purchased 800 to 1,200 acres on the forks of the Quinebaug and Shetucket rivers. The area became the town of Lisbon and was known as "Perkins Crotch." Joseph was an influential man in town and was elected deacon. A Miss Caulkins (first name and address unknown) has written a history of Norwich which includes considerable information on the Perkins brothers.

Joseph Perkins and Martha Morgan had the following children born in Norwich:

	134	i.	Elizabeth[5] Perkins 5 November 1701.[71]
+	135	ii.	Mary Perkins in 1703.

Jabez Perkins and Charity Hodges had the following child born in Norwich:

+	153	viii.	Charity Perkins 6 December 1724.

60. Sarah[4] Whipple (Lt. John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[79] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. abt 1657 and died 28 December 1691 in Newbury, Essex Co., Mass., at 34 years of age. She married Henry Short in Newbury 30 March 1674. Henry,[80] son of Henry Short and Sarah Glover, was born in Newbury 11 March 1652 and died there 23 October 1706, at 54 years of age. He married (2) Mrs. Ann (Sewall) Longfellow in Newbury 11 May 1692. She was the widow of William Longfellow and brought five children ages 3 to 13 to the union with Henry.

Henry was Town Clerk and Keeper of Records and Register for 20 years and two months. He also taught school as his account book includes a list of the boys who attended. He and his second wife Anne Longfellow acquired a dressing case in 1694 which was owned by Miss Abby S. Short in 1872. Abby, a descendant of Henry and his first wife Sarah Whipple, described the case: It was made of oak and stood on turned feet about two inches from the floor. In 1872 it was 19" high, 20" broad, and 14" deep. The shallow box in the upper part had several partitions curiously arranged. Below were two drawers fastened by a slide passing down through a grove from the top into a mortise-hole in the top of the drawers. A long drawer fastened by a spring was at the bottom of the chest. The piece was handsomely carved.

Stalking is not a phenomenon peculiar to the twenty-first century. When Sarah was 15 and living in Newbury with her uncle Richard Kent, brother of her dead mother Sarah (Kent) Whipple, Sarah was stalked by John Hobbs of Newbury causing her uncle Richard to file a complaint against Hobbs with the Ipswich Court for "several abuses" against Sarah. The Court passed sentence on Hobbs but he appealed and posted bond. He was supposed to appear at Court 24 September 1672 but forfeited his bond and continued to "abuse her by many scandalous defamations, and threatening to have the blood of any person that shall come to her under any pretense of love." This caused Sarah's father, John Whipple, to petition the Court for authority to bring Hobbs before the Court. He said Hobbs' abuses "are not fit to be named, much less tolerated by any parent."

Sarah was deposed concerning Hobbs' abuses and stated that Hobbs had told her uncle that he would not let any man keep her company and that it "would be the death of him" that tried. Rebecca Long's deposition was similar. Beriah Browne deposed that Hobbs told him that "he would be the death of any man who sought Sary Whipple in marriage and 'God's b(l)ud I think you are the man'." Henry Akers deposed that Hobbs swore that "he would be the death of Richard Doell and Beriah Browne if he met with them."

On 25 March 1673 the Court convicted Hobbs of profane swearing and threatening to kill and for railing and shamefully abusing Sarah Whipple. He was "bound for good behavior, especially to Richard Kent and Sarah Whipple, and not to come into her company." Hobbs was slain at Muddy Brook 18 September 1675. He may have been one of the teamsters sent by the government to Deerfield to move its bountiful harvest to Hadley. When the column of heavily laden ox carts reached Muddy Creek it stopped to allow the carts in the rear to catch up. Then a band of Indians fighting in King Phillip's War ambushed the convoy and its escort, virtually destroying it in a matter of minutes. Colonial losses were appalingly high with over 60 bodies buried in a mass grave. The Brook was renamed Bloody Brook an 18 September 1675 was called "the Saddest that ever befel New England."

Seven and a half months after her marriage to Henry Short, Sarah's uncle Richard "in consideration of the entire affection that I bear to my well beloved kinsman Henry Short, who hath married my kinswoman, do fully & freely and absolutely give unto the said Henry Short his heirs and assigns forever, all my lands lying on the other side of the River . . . together with all the timber thereupon . . . & appurtenances thereunto belonging." Several other smaller parcels were included. The property was not to be conveyed "till immediately after my decease." The document was signed 19 November 1674. On 24 December a memorandum was attached clarifying the "true meaning & intention" of the grant. Uncle Richard said it was his intention that if Sarah outlived Henry, "and Henry shall die without issue. . .then the land herein demised shall be and continue to the said Sarah and her lawful heirs to be disposed of at her pleasure." Sarah is called eldest daughter in her father's will.

Sarah Whipple and Henry Short had the following children born in Newbury:

	154	i.	Henry[5] Short 22 August 1675.[81] He died unmarried.
	155	ii.	Sarah Short 5 August 1677. She died unmarried 24 August 1706 in Newbury, at 29 years of age.[82]
	156	iii.	John Short 14 December 1679. He died there 24 November 1684, at 4 years of age.[83]
+	157	iv.	Anna Short 28 March 1682.

+	158	v.	John Short 13 October 1685.
+	159	vi.	Rev. Matthew Short 14 March 1687/88.
	160	vii.	Lydia Short 7 May 1690 and died there 27 June 1691, at 1 year of age.[84]

62. John[4] Whipple (Lt. John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[85] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 30 March 1660 and died there 11 June 1722, at 62 years of age. He married twice. (1) Hannah Rolfe in Ipswich. Hannah,[86] daughter of Benjamin Rolfe and Apphia Hale, was born in Newbury, Essex Co., Mass. abt 1664 and died 20 October 1701 in Ipswich, at 37 years of age. Hannah's father Benjamin was the fourth and last child of Henry and Honour (__) Rolfe, early immigrants from England. Henry's name is on the list of proprietors of Newbury in 1642. He died in 1643. Honour died at the home of Thomas Blanchard in Charlestown in 1650.[87]

(2) Mrs. Joanna (Tuttle) Potter as her third husband in Ipswich 14 April 1703. Joanna[88] was the daughter of Symon Tuttle and Sarah Cogswell. She married (1) John Pickard 5 March 1690/91. (2) Edmund Potter 20 November 1701. (Date of intent to marry.)

Administration of John's estate was granted to his son John on 23 August 1722 and it was settled by agreement with his step-mother Joanna 3 April 1723.[89]

John Whipple and Hannah Rolfe had the following children born in Ipswich:

+	161	i.	Hannah[5] Whipple 30 June 1692.
+	162	ii.	Capt. John Whipple 6 December 1695.

64. Matthew[4] Whipple (Lt. John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[90] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 29 May 1664 and died there 28 May 1736, at 71 years of age. He married Dorcas Paine in Ipswich. Dorcas,[91] daughter of Robert Paine and Elizabeth Reiner, was born in Ipswich and died there 11 May 1735. Her father was graduated from Harvard College (class of 1656) and was Foreman of the Grand Jury that issued all the indictments for witchcraft at Salem in 1692.

Matthew lived in the Hamlet and followed the weaving trade. His will dated 23 March 1736 mentions children Robert, John, Joseph, Matthew, Jacob, Nathan, Dorcas, Dorothy, and Jemima.

I, Matthew Whipple, Junr. of Ipswich, Yeoman, at this time in very infirm Estate of Body, Imp. to my son Robert, I give two lots in that which was Common Land in Chebaco., Viz.—an old Right or Lot which I bought of Dea. Gilbert and a new Right or Lot which I bought of Thos. Andross, also to my said son Robert I give all my rights at Wenham Neck, so called, and 10li. or so much as is justly due him.

Item. To my son John, I give all my land on the upper or northwest side of the country road (except that more will hereafter to be taken out) with my dwelling house and all other commodities thereon, with three acres of land on the lower or southeast side of the road, beginning at Lt. Whipple's Land and running along the said (__), and to said son John all that piece of land on First Hill which I bought of Capt. John Knowlton, and half an old Right of Wood Land over the ponds, which I bought of John Adams, also the rest of the meadow over the River, when Joseph has had his four acres which I shall give him, all which he is to enjoy on condition of his performing the duties above mentioned.

Item. To my son Joseph, I give four acres of upland and meadow next Ebenezer Knowlton's meadow and the eastern half of Wood Lot over the Ponds, which I bought of Mr. John Denison, also half an acre of land with the appurtenances thereon in part of my land above mentioned and on the upper or northwest side of the Country Road, where I dwell in the northeast corner of said land with the provision that he shall occupy it himself and not sell to a stranger until he have offered it to his brother John also land adjoining the new dwelling house of my son John with a like privilege of living in my now dwelling house for the time of two years after my decease.

Item. I give to my son Matthew, all the remainder of the land on the southeast side of the Road, after John's three acres have been taken out of it, and a Bed out of the house.

Item. To my son Jacob, I give one half of [the] Old Right on First Hill and the westerly half of the Wood Lot I bought of John Dennis, and a bed also, only reserving the land which I have not given to my sons Matthew and Jacob as a security for support in shares of John and Joseph, under the direction of my overseers.

Item. I give to my son Nathan 15 li. in addition to what he has already had, one half at a year from my decease and one half at two years.

Item. I give to my daughter Dorcas 45 li in addition to what she already has.

Item. I give to my daughter Dorothy 52 li. in addition to what she already has and to her children after her decease.

Item. I give as my daughter Jemima's share 100 li.

Item. Dea. Matthew Whipple, Ens. John Whipple, and Mr. Nathaniel Dane to be overseers of what I have given to sons Matthew and Jacob and daughter Dorothy. 23 March 1735/36.[92]

Matthew Whipple and Dorcas Paine had the following children born in Ipswich:

+	163	i.	Dorcas[5] Whipple.
	164	ii.	Robert Whipple abt 1685 and died there 1 January 1759, at 74 years of age. He married Susanna (__) in Ipswich.[93] The Robert Whipple baptized in Ipswich in December 1724 may have been their son. Susanna married (2) Joseph Burnam in Ipswich 2 August 1760.[94]
+	165	iii.	John Whipple.
	166	iv.	Matthew Whipple.[95]
	167	v.	Jacob Whipple.[96]
+	168	vi.	Dorothy Whipple.
	169	vii.	Jemima Whipple died in Ipswich in October 1737, at 38 years of age.[97]
+	170	viii.	Nathan Whipple 7 February 1705.
	171	ix.	Joseph Whipple 2 August 1707.[98] He may have married Esther Batchelder of Wenham, Mass. on 5 January 1731.

65. Joseph[4] Whipple (Lt. John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[99] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 17 September 1665 and died there 14 December 1729, at 64 years of age. He was known as "joiner." He married Mary Adams in Ipswich abt 24 August 1688. Mary,[100] daughter of Lt. John Adams and Mrs. Sara (Woodman) Brocklebank, was born in Ipswich 26 December 1670 and died there 16 June 1734, at 63 years of age. Lt. John Adams was the son of William Adams who was living in Cambridge Middlesex Co., Mass. in 1635. He was made a freeman 22 May 1639 and moved to Ipswich before 1641. He resided in that part of town now known as Hamilton. John's wife was the widow of John Brocklebank of Rowley. Sara and John were married in Ipswich in 1667. Sara died 31 May 1676.

Joseph Whipple and Mary Adams had the following children born in Ipswich:

+	172	i.	Mary[5] Whipple 15 February 1688/89.
	173	ii.	Archelaus Whipple 26 March 1692.[101]
	174	iii.	Sarah Whipple 14 May 1693 and died there 14 May 1695, at 2 years of age.[102]
+	175	iv	Elizabeth Whipple 9 December 1696.
	176	v.	Susanna Whipple 22 February 1698/99 and died the day of birth.[103]
	177	vi.	Priscilla Whipple 6 March 1700.[104]

67. Cyprian[4] Whipple (Lt. John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[105] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 17 January 1671 and married Dorothy Symonds there 19 December 1695. Dorothy, daughter of William Symonds and Mary Wade, was born in Ipswich 21 October 1670.[106]

Dorothy was the granddaughter of Gov. Samuel Symonds of Massachusetts and traces her descent from the Emperor Charlemagne as follows: The Emperor Charlemagne had: Louis I, King of France, who had: Charles II, King of France, who had: Louis II, King of France, who had: Charles III, King of France, who had: Louis IV, King of France, who had: Charles, Duke of Lorraine, who had: Ermengard who married Albert de Namur, and had: Ida who married Godfrey, Duke of Brabant, and had: Joceline, fourth Baron Percy, who had: Henry de Percy, who had: William, sixth Baron Percy, who had: Henry, seventh Baron Percy, who had: Henry, tenth Baron Percy, who had: Henry, eleventh Baron Percy, who had: Maud who married Sir John de Neville, and had: Sir Ralph, Earl of Westmoreland, who had: Sir Richard, Earl of Salisbury, who had: Alice who married Henry, Baron Fitz-Hugh, and had: Alice who married Sir Thomas Fiences, and had: Thomas Fiences, Lord Dacre, who had: Catherine who married Richard Loudenoys, and had: Mary who married Thomas Harlakenden, and had: Roger Harlakenden, of Kenardiston, who had: Thomas Harlakenden, who had: Dorothy who married Gov. Samuel Symonds, and had: William Symonds, of Massachusetts, who had: Dorothy who married Cyrpian Whipple, and had: Cyprian and Samuel, born in Ipswich; Mary, Joseph, William and Symonds, born in Stonington, Conn. [107]

Dorothy Symonds also traces her descent from Alfred the Great, King of England as follows: Alfred the Great & Etheibith, daughter of Ethelan the Great. Edward the Elder, King of England, & Edgiva, daughter of Earl Sigelline. Edmund I, King of England, & Elgiva, gr. daughter of Alfred the Great. Cyprian and Samuel, born in Ipswich, and Mary, Joseph, William, and Symonds, born in Stonington, Conn.[108]

The author is unaware of the documentation author Charles Henry Browning has (see endnote 108) for the above two lineages. Paul C. Reed of Salt Lake City, a fellow of the American Society of Genealogists (FASG), points out that it is difficult to work in the medieval era and "many researchers are more trusting than the proffered 'proof' actually warrants." He notes that "fanciful claims to royal ancestry" pervade genealogical accounts in print and online.[109]

Cyprian was a blacksmith. The family moved to Stonington, New London Co., Conn. about 1708. He also apparently lived in Stow, Mass. where he sold property to Joseph Whipple in 1735.

Cyprian Whipple and Dorothy Symonds had the following children:

	178	i.	Mary[5] Whipple baptized in Stonington 1 July 1711 and married Nathaniel Newbury in Stonington 27 May 1753.[110]
	179	ii.	Cyprian Whipple born in Ipswich 10 June 1697 and died there 8 February 1698/99, at 8 months of age.[111]
+	180	iii.	Samuel Whipple born 13 September 1702.
	181	iv.	Joseph Whipple born in Stonington 26 November 1710.[112]
+	182	v.	William Whipple born 18 June 1713.
+	183	vi.	Symonds Whipple.

71. Joseph[4] Whipple (Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[113] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 31 October 1666 and died 19 September 1740 in Salem, Essex Co., Mass., at 73 years of age. He married Sarah Hutchinson in Ipswich in 1690. Sarah,[114] daughter of John Hutchinson and Sarah Putnam, was born in Salem Village, Essex Co., Mass. 1 November 1666. Sarah, supposedly, was descended from the Emperor Charlemagne through Louis I, King of France as follows:

Charles II, King of France, who had: Louis II, King of France, who had: Charles III, King of France: who had Louis IV, King of France, who had: Charles, Duke of Lorraine, who had: Gerberga, married Lambert, Count de Mous, and had: Mahaut, married Eustace, Count Boulogne, and had: Eustace II, Count de Boulogne, who had: Geoffrey de Boulogne, who had: William de Boulogne, who had: Pharamond de Boulogne de Tingrie, who had: Sybilla, married Enguerrand de Fynes, and had: William de Fienes, Lord of Martock, who had: Daughter, married Bartholomew de Hampden, and had: Sir Reginald de Hampden, Co. Bucks, who had Sir Alexander de Hampden, Sheriff, who had: Sir Reginald de Hampden, who had: Sir John de Hampden, Sheriff, who had: Sir Edmund de Hampden, Sheriff, who had: Sir John de Hampden, Sheriff, who had: Anne, married William de Puttenham, and had: Nicholas Putnam, of Penn. Bucks, who had: Henry Putnam, of Eddlesborough, who had: Richard Putnam, of Woughton, Bucks, who had: John Putnam, of Rowsham, Bucks, who had: Nicholas Putnam of Stewkeley, Bucks, who had: John Putnam, Salem, Mass, who had: Sarah, married John Hutchinson, Salem, and had Sarah, married Joseph Whipple, Ipswich.[115]

Joseph and his family lived on a part of the original Hutchinson grant in Salem near what became known as Whipple Hill. Joseph's name was on a list of 166 Salem proprietors of common and undivided land making an application to call a proprietor's meeting on 29 June 1713.

Joseph Whipple and Sarah Hutchinson had the following children born in Salem Village:

	184	i.	Ruth[5] Whipple and married Samuel Upton there 8 November 1726.[116]
	185	ii.	Susanna Whipple baptized, 6 March 1709 and married Paul Upton there 8 February 1731/32. (Date of intent to marry.)[117]
	186	iii.	Stephen Whipple baptized 2 September 1711.[118]
+	187	iv.	Jonathan Whipple.
	188	v.	Sarah Whipple 26 February 1691/92 and married Phineas Dodge in Wenham Mass. 21 September 1726.[119]
	189	vi.	Lydia Whipple[120] 2 February 1694 and married Nathaniel Z. Goodale in Salem, Mass. 27 June 1723.[121](See No. 197.)
	190	vii.	John Whipple[122] 23 October 1695 and died in 1740 in Sutton, Worcestor Co., Mass., at 44 years of age. He married Susanna Commings in Topsfield, Mass. 14 February 1721/22. Susanna, daughter of John Commings and Susanna Towne, was born 3 January 1702. John's will, dated 15 August 1740, is recorded at Worcester, Mass. It names brother Joseph of Salem and brother-in-law David Commings of Topsfield.

191 viii. Mary Whipple[123] 21 September 1699 and married Seth Hutchin there 23 December 1726. He was from Marlboro, Mass.

\+ 192 ix. Dea. Joseph Whipple 2 February 1702.

193 x. Matthew Whipple 25 August 1704.[124]

194 xi. Infant Whipple in April 1714.[125]

73. Sarah[4] Whipple (Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[126] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 29 March 1670 and married Zachariah Goodale in Essex Co., Mass. abt 1692. Zachariah,[127] son of Zachariah Goodale and Elizabeth Beauchamp, was born 9 February 1667 and died 26 February 1727 in Salem, Mass., at 60 years of age. His grandparents, Robert Goodell and Katherine Kilham, were early settlers of Salem and both of his parents were born in Salem. His father was a husbandman and weaver. Elizabeth was the only daughter of Edward and Elizabeth Beauchamp and her father's sole heir.

Sarah Whipple and Zachariah Goodale had the following children born in Salem:

195 i. Lydia[5] Goodale 29 August 1693. She married John Salter in Salem 16 December 1726. John was from Marblehead.[128]

\+ 196 ii. Hannah Goodale 18 October 1695.

197 iii. Nathaniel Z. Goodale 16 March 1697/98. He married Lydia Whipple Salem 27 June 1723. [129] (See No. 189.)

198 iv. Zachariah Goodale 24 March 1703 and died bef 1721 in Salem.[130]

199 v. Rebecca Goodale 9 August 1703.[131]

200 vi. Eunice Goodale 11 November 1709. She married Samuel Boyce in Salem 15 October 1740.[132]

74. Capt. Matthew[4] Whipple (Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[133] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 25 November 1672 and married Bethia (__) there.

Capt. Matthew Whipple and Bethia (__) had the following children:

201 i. Thomas[5] Whipple born in Ipswich 1 October 1701.[134]

202 ii. William Whipple born in Ipswich 23 July 1703.[135]

203 iii. Bethiah Whipple born in Hamilton, Essex Co., Mass. 29 April 1705 and married Oliver Appleton there 9 January 1728/29. They were married in Ipswich's third parish, known as the Hamlet parish, by Rev. Samuel Wigglesworth. Oliver,[136] son of Maj. Samuel Appleton and Mary Oliver, was born in Ipswich in 1677 and died abt 1759.[137] According to Dr. Victor A. McKusick, professor of medicine, The Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Oliver was a hemophiliac. This is an hereditary bleeding tendency which occurs only in males and is transmitted by females. Oliver is thought to have inherited his hemophiliac gene from his mother Mary Appleton who received her hemophiliac gene from her father John Oliver, who migrated to Newbury, Mass. from Bristol, England in 1639 and was probably the first hemophiliac in New England. The Appleton-Swain family hemophiliac gene has been traced to the 20th century, through almost 400 years and 13 generations.

76. Jonathan[4] Whipple (Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[138] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 19 April 1679 and died 2 April 1757 in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass., at 77 years of age. He married Frances Edwards in Ipswich 14 July 1702. Their intent to marry was also recorded. Frances,[139] daughter of John Edwards and Mary Sams, was born in Ipswich 30 September 1682 and died 26 June 1757 in Westborough at 74 years of age.

The progenitor of the Edwards line in New England was probably Rice Edwards who was in Salem by 1642. The names of his children suggest he was related to Thomas Edwards of Salem and to John Edwards, Frances' father. The first three generations of the Edwards family have been difficult to trace because of the many repetitions of Christian names and because two of the men in the second and one in the third generation married women of the same name.

Jonathan Whipple and Frances Edwards had the following children born in Ipswich:

\+ 204 i. Francis[5] Whipple in 1705.

\+ 205 ii. Edwards Whipple 13 March 1722.

206 iii. Jonathan Whipple Jr. abt 1725 and died 12 July 1762 in Westborough, at 37 years of age.[140] His birth is not recorded. His death is listed in Westborough Vital Records where he is identified as the "son of Jonathan and Frances." A reading of Jonathan's will dated 13 February 1755 suggests that Jonathan, Jr. had a handicap. The will provided for "one-half the charge of his comfortable and decent maintenance and support in sickness and health during his life and one-half of his funeral charge. The other half to be borne by my son Francis as appears by a bond from him dated 28 December 1737." On that same date in 1737, Jonathan Sr. gave Francis, by Deed of Gift, "one-half of what was my real estate."[141]

77. Deacon James[4] Whipple (Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[142] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. in 1681 and died 3 November 1766 in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass., at 85 years of age. He married Mary Bacon Fuller in Salem, Essex Co., Mass. 12 January 1703/04. Mary,[143] daughter of Jacob Fuller (1655-1731) and Mary Bacon (abt 1660-1741), was born in Salem 19 October 1685 and died after February 1759 in Grafton.

Mary's grandfather, Thomas, is the first known Fuller in New England. He came from England in 1638 and settled in Wobburn, Mass where on 13 June 1643 he married Elizabeth Tidd, mother of his eight children. He married (2) Sarah (__) and (3) Harriet Wilson. He was styled Sargeant in 1656 and Lieutenant in 1658. Children of Thomas and Elizabeth: Elizabeth, b. 1645; Ruth, 1647; Deborah, 1650; Thomas, 1653; John, 1654; Jacob, 1655; Joseph (?); and Benjamin, 1660. Jacob Fuller was born 14 May 1655 and married Mary Bacon 14 June 1683. He died 15 November 1731. Their children: Mary Bacon, Elizabeth, Edward, Sarah, and Jacob.

James is first mentioned in the Grafton Proprietor's record 23 June 1731 when he was named to the committee to confer with ministers from adjacent towns about holding a fast the first Tuesday of September with a goal to settle a minister. The church was formed 28 December and Solomon Prentice of Cambridge, Mass. was ordained 29 December. James and his son James, Jr. were among the original 20 members and the only members to transfer from Ipswich. James was elected deacon 21 January 1732 and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered for the first time 9 April. The communication table wasn't supplied with suitable fixtures until early in 1734 when James presented vessels to the church for use in the ordinances. The meeting house contained nine pews, the remaining space was filled with benches. The pews were large boxes of 4.5 x 5 feet. When seated, the congregants couldn't be seen. They looked up at the preacher who towered above them in his high pulpit "and poured the gospel down into these pits." James was active in other town activities serving as moderator of the Proprietor's meeting 23 March 1741, Selectman in 1735 and 1744, Constable in 1738, school committee in 1737, and was paid "for keeping school" in 1739.

Grafton was originally owned and occupied by the Nipmuck tribe and settled by the Hassanaamesits. Known as the Nipmuck county, its limits were not well defined but probably included all the southern part of what became Worcester county, a few of the adjoining towns in Connecticut, and westward to the Connecticut river. It is believed the first White man visited the area in the autumn of 1635. Rev. John Eliot established Hassanamesit as the third town for praying Indians in 1660. Its 12 families included 60 individuals. An Indian church, the second in New England, was established 23 September 1671.

The Indians remained the sole proprietors until 1718 when Elisha Johnson of Sutton was allowed to purchase a tract on condition he build and support a bridge over each branch of the Blackstone river. In March 1728, with nine English families already settled there, the General Court authorized the purchase of 7,500 acres on the following terms: payment of £2,500 to the Indians, build and furnish a meeting house for the benefit of both Indians and English, set aside 20 acres of land for a school, build a suitable school house for use by both Indians and English, maintain and support a minister and school master, all without charge to the Indians, give each Indian a division of land equal to that given to the English proprietors and deed 100 acres for general use by the Indians and their heirs forever. The Meeting House was erected in 1730, the school in 1731. The town was incorporated 18 April 1735. Governor J. Belcher named it Grafton after Charles Fitz Roy, Duke of Grafton and a grandson of Charles II and member of the Privy Council. It is 40 miles from Boston, 34 from Providence, R.I., and eight to Worcester, the county seat.[144]

James' will, dated 16 February 1759 provided:

". . . I give and demise and dispose, viz. Imp's. To Mary, my dearly beloved wife, all my household goods with my whole house and Garden Plot, and all other suitable conveniences and accommodations proper for her about the house, with fire wood sufficient for her use brought home to her and cut fit for the fire, and also six pounds wool and six pounds of good flax, with ten pounds in silver, lawful money of this province to be paid to her annually so long as she lives my widow, or to be paid to her order, or in case she should be incapable of taking care for herself, to be paid to him or them who shall have the care of her. But in case she marry again then to quit her interest in the house, fire, and wood and four of the said ten pounds. I also give twenty and five pounds lawful money to be paid by my executors to be at her disposal if she needs it, if not, to be disposed of among my children or their heirs, as she sees cause. My household goods she is to possess during her life, but after her decease they are to be disposed of as is hereinafter inserted.

Item. I give . . . to my beloved son Jacob of Grafton, 10 acres of interval lying in said Grafton at the southerly part of my Interval (boundaries described) . . . And if the heirs of my late son James Whipple deceased do not forever acquit and discharge to the said Jacob Whipple, the aforesaid 10 acres or any part thereof as claimed by deed, then . . . Jacob to have it made up to him to his full satisfaction out of my Real Estate together with one half of my stock of Creatures after my grandsons James and John (the sons of my late beloved son James Whipple) have chose out one cow for themselves, with half of my husbandry tools and half of my wearing apparel, enjoining my sd son Jacob to pay one-third part of his mother's annual dowry with one half of all my other just debts and to receive one half of the dues to my estate after my decease.

Item. Item. I give to my beloved grandson Daniel Whipple (son of my late son James Whipple) five pounds lawful money to be paid to him by the above grandson James if the said Daniel shall ever arrive to age and deserve it.

Item. I give . . . my beloved daughter Mary, now wife of Joseph Whipple of sd Grafton, after my wife and her mother's decease, all my household goods, and all her mother's wearing apparel to be delivered to her by my executors for her proper use and benefit forever. And I do hereby constitute and appoint my aforesaid son Jacob and Grandson James, executors to this my last Will and Testament or Legacies, bequests, or Executors by me in any wise before named, willed, or bequeathed ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my last Will and Testament. In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the year and day above named.

/S/ James Whipple. Signed, sealed, published and declared by the said James Whipple as his last Will and Testament in presence of Samuel Warren, Andrew Adams, and Rev. Aaron Hutchison.[145]

James is buried in the Old and Indian Burying Ground which was first laid out in 1737. It contains the graves of many of Grafton's first and foremost citizens. It is off Providence Road and borders Oak street.

Deacon James Whipple and Mary Bacon Fuller had the following children born in Hamilton, Mass.:

+	207	i.	Mary[5] Whipple.
+	208	ii.	Lt. James Whipple 12 April 1705.
+	209	iii.	Deacon Jacob Whipple 26 May 1707.
	210	iv.	Daniel Whipple in 1713 (baptized 2 August 1713).[146]

78. John[4] Whipple (Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[147] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 27 March 1690 and married Mary Faierfield there 29 March 1710/11. (Date of intent to marry.) Mary was from Wenham, Mass. Her surname may be spelled Fairfeild.[148]

On 20 November. 1708, John was deeded land by his father Joseph[149] and sold 130 acres to his older brother James for £100 on 21 May 1725. This acreage was "bounded on Hassanamisco" (Grafton). The deed was also signed by his wife Mary.[150] John was identified as "being of Sutton" in that transaction.

Sutton in Worcester county received its grant in 1704 on condition "they settle a town of 30 families and a minister within seven years after the end of the present war with the Indians." John was one of 10 men to sign the first church covenant in the fall of 1720. The church was organized upon the Congregational Platform and Rev. John McKinstry was ordained 9 November. The covenant was renewed 30 September 1728 when John and four other original signers were joined by 15 new members. They subscribed as follows:

"1. We, whose names are hereunto subscribed Promise this day to renew our Solemn Covenant engagements to serve the lord God Almighty with his grace assisting us; apprehending ourselves called of God into the church state of the gospel, for first of all confess ourselves to be unworthy to be so highly favored of the Lord, and admire that free and rich grace of his which triumphed over so great unworthiness, and with a Humble reliance on the aids of his grace therein promised for them, that, in a sense of their inability to do any good thing, do humbly wait on him for all—we now thankfully lay hold on his covenant and would chose the things that please him.

"2ndly. We declare our serious belief of the Christian Religion as contained in the sacred Scriptures, and with such a view thereof as the confession of faith in our churches has exhibited. Heartily resolving to conform our lives unto the Rules of that Holy Religion as long as we live in the world.

"3rdly. We give up ourselves unto the Lord Jehovah, who is the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, and avouch him this Day to be our God, our Father, our Savior, and our Leader, and receive him as our Portion forever.

"4thly. We give up ourselves unto the Blessed Jesus, who is the Lord Jehovah, and adhere to him as the Head of his People in the Covenant of Grace, and rely upon him as our Priest, and our Prophet, and our King to bring us unto Eternal Blessedness.

"5thly. We acknowledge our Everlasting and Indispensable obligations to glorify our God in all the Duties of a Godly, and a Sober, and a Righteous life; and very particularly in the duties of a church State and a body of people associated for an obedience to Him in all the ordinances of the Gospel; and we hereupon depend upon his gracious assistance for our faithful discharge of the duties thus incumbent on us.

"6thly. We desire and intend and (with Dependence on his promised and powerful grace), we engage to walk together as a Church of the Lord Jesus Christ in the faith and order of the Gospel as far as we shall have the same revealed unto us—conscientiously attending the Public worship of God, the Sacraments of his New Testament, the Discipline of his Kingdom, and all His Holy institutions in Communion with one another, and watchfully avoiding sinful stumbling blocks and contention as becomes a people whom the Lord has bound up together in a bundle of Life—at the same time we do also present our offspring with us unto the Lord, proposing with his Help to do our parts in the methods of a Religious Education that they may be the Lord's. And all this we do flying to the blood of the Everlasting Covenant, and praying that the glorious Lord, who is the Great shepherd, would prepare and strengthen us for every good work to do his will, working in us that which is well pleasing in his sight, to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen."

At the church meeting four days later, John was chosen to set the Psalm. He was named to a 5-man committee 30 December 1723 to distribute Meeting House pews. He was assigned a front pew 5' 3" with a depth of 5' 6" on the west side of the south door. He was appointed 29 March 1725 to go to the Proprietors' Meeting to negotiate payment of their arrearage of "the ministry money." On 29 August 1726 he was on the 9-man committee to determine whether to retain Rev. McKinstry and was the Moderator of the Town Meeting 2 September 1728 that voted to dismiss Mc Kinstry. On 26 November 1728 he was named to the committee to negotiate with David Hall to assume the minister's duties until 1 March 1729. On 8 September 1729, he was on the committee to arrange for Hall's ordination. John was one of five men given permission (6 March 1738/39) to build a pew "over the men's stairs . . . provided they did not hurt or discommode the going up the gallery stairs."

He also served the community as Selectman: 1721, '23, '24, and '27; as Moderator of Town Meetings every year from 1725 through 1730.[151]

John Whipple and Mary Faierfield had the following children:

+	211	i.	Joseph[5] Whipple born 22 December 1711.
+	212	ii.	Sgt. Ebenezer Whipple born 14 September 1713.
	213	iii.	Sarah Whipple born in Ipswich 22 March 1713/14.[152]
+	214	iv.	John Whipple born 22 August 1717.
+	215	v.	Lucy Whipple born 25 February 1723/4.
	216	vi.	Abigail Whipple born in Sutton 3 March 1726/27.[153]

79. Ruth[4] Whipple (Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[154] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 27 October 1692 and died 1 February 1785 in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H., at 92 years of age. She married Seth Putnam in Salem Village, Essex Co., Mass. 16 September 1718. Seth,[155] son of Thomas Putnam Jr. and Ann Carr, was born in Salem Village 19 May 1695 and died 30 November 1775 in Charlestown, at 80 years of age. Ruth and Seth are buried in Forest Hill Cemetery which is located behind the City Hall. Their likenesses were carved into the tombstone. Her inscription: "Sweet soul we leave thee to thy rest till we shall meet thee above with Christ." His inscription: "The memory of the just is blest."

Seth was about four when his parents died and his uncle and aunt Joseph and Elizabeth (Porter) Putnam became his guardians. They had 12 children of their own, including Israel who achieved Revolutionary War fame as a general. Joseph did not believe in witches and when he heard that Seth's sister Ann was beginning to prophesy and accuse, he went to her mother and reportedly said: "If you dare to touch with your foul lies anyone belonging to my household, you shall answer for it."

Seth is not mentioned in his uncle Joseph's will. However, his grandfather Thomas left land in Topsfield to Seth's father which may have passed to Seth. On 21 March 1719, a year after his marriage to Ruth, he bought a house lot and 60 acres in Billerica for £200 from Samuel Walker. The Billerica records identify him as being "of Topsfield." Ruth lived in the adjacent town of Ipswich. His farm began at Shawshin bridge and was bounded by the river on the west and by Hugh Ditson on the south and near the highway to Woburn.

All of their children were born in Billerica where he owned a pew in the meeting house (fourth row on the main floor). The family was among the first settlers of Fort No. 4 on the frontier in the early 1750s. There were 10 Indian attacks between 1753-55. By 1760, it was known as Charlestown, N.H. and a tide of emigration turned it into a flourshing town. Seth and sons Ebenezer and Thomas were among the organizers of the first church and Seth remained active in church affairs the rest of his life. He was addressed as "Mr. Seth Putnam," one of the few early residents so honored.

Seth's mother, older sister Ann, and to a lesser degree his father were principal players in the witchcraft epidemic that swept Essex County in 1692. His father, Sgt. Thomas Putnam, was Clerk of the parish church and from the beginning his household, including maid Mercy Lewis, was the center for witchcraft accusations. Seth's sister Ann Jr. and his mother Ann, Sr. made many of the accusations. By the time of Seth's birth in 1695 the epidemic had passed.

In 1692 people believed in both a material (visible) world and a spiritual (invisible) world. Heaven was a concrete reality, as were the angels who inhabited it. So was Hell and its devils. Many people firmly believed that inhabitants of the invisible world could intrude on the visible world. Few doubted the existence of witchcraft as a common practice. Every accident, sudden or unusual illness of man or beast, every inexplicable or menancing circumstance of any sort was apt to raise the cry of witchcraft among the common people.

The winter of 1691/92 was one of the most severe on record—to cold to play outdoors. So a small circle of girls in Salem Village (now Danvers)—Ann Putnam, 12, Elizabeth Parris, 9, and her cousin Abigail Williams, 11, Mercy Lewis, 19, Mary Warren, 20, Mary Walcott, 16, and Elizabeth Hubbard, 17, maid for Dr. William Griggs—met at the parsonage. When Rev. Samuel Parris and his wife were gone, they experimented with the "black arts" under the guidance of Tituba, a slave Parris had brought from Barbados where he was a merchant before joining the clergy. Fascination turned to enchantment and by February the girls were acting strange and bizarre. They had fits, uttered foolish and nonsensical speeches, made odd gestures, and contorted themselves into grotesque postures. Rev. Deodat Lawson (Salem's minister 1684–88) called the fits "preternatural," that a person in their right mind could not do. Rev. John Hale of Beverly said they were "beyond the power of any epileptic fits, or natural disease to effect."

Finding no physical cause for their afflictions, Dr. Griggs, who like the overwhelming majority of physicans and other learned men, believed in witchcraft and thought it the cause of some diseases, concluded the girls were victims of "malefic" witchcraft. "The evil hand is upon them," he said. The fits were thought to be caused by witches and demons wrenching the bodies of their victims. The loss of hearing, speech, sight, appetite, and memory were caused by Satan. The contraction of the throat were the demons trying to make the victims swallow occult poisons. When skin blisters appeared (many skin diseases are functional rather than organic) they were said to have been caused by brimstone from Hell. Many of the symptoms, including the skin lesions, would pass rapidly causing Boston's Rev. Cotton Mather, a former medical student, to reflect on how rapid the "witch-wounds" healed. But some symptoms persisted and a new fit would bring a repetition of the old afflictions or new ones equally alarming.

Apparently Rev. Parris didn't originally accept Dr. Griggs' diagnosis but neighbors began asking the girls who was "afflicting" them. They had no answer so Mary Sibley, aunt of Mary Warren, decided to use white magic to break the witches' spell. She had Tituba and John Indian, Tituba's husband, prepare a witch cake with rye meal mixed with the children's urine and fed to the Parris dog presuming the animal was a familiar—a messenger assigned to a witch by the devil. When the minister found out he was appalled, characterizing it as "going to the devil for help against the devil." Parris told the congregation about the witch cake, saying "the devil hath been raised among us, and his rage is vehement and terrible; and when he shall be silenced, the Lord only knows." Apparently the witch cake worked because the girls began naming their afflicters: Tituba and two old women, Sarah Good and Sarah Osburn. Thomas and Edward Putnam, Joseph Hutchinson, and Thomas Preston swore out warrants against them for suspicion of witchcraft.

The accused women were examined 1 March by two Salem magistrates, John Hathorne and Jonathan Corwin. They conducted the majority of preliminary hearings over the next several months. Hathorne dominated the hearings and assumed the role of prosecuting attorney rather than impartial investigator. When he asked the girls to look at Sarah Good and say whether she was the one to afflict them, they accused her to her face and then all were "dreadfully tortured and tormented for a short space of time." They said Sarah's specter had tormented them though her body remained "at a considerable distance from them." The authorities deemed irrelevant and frivolous any testimony based on the fact other people, including themselves, could not see what the girls saw. In 1692, the girls "spectral" power was the means God provided to detect witches.

Other evidence included a search of the body of the accused for the so-called "devil's mark." It was believed that the devil placed a piece of flesh on the witch's body to suck her blood and thereby feed on the witch's soul. Since the "witch's tit" was created by the devil rather than by God it lacked the warmth and sensation of normal flesh and could be tested by running a pin through it. Another test was a kind of laying-on-of-hands in which the suspected person was made to touch an afflicted person in the midst of a fit. If the touch seemed to cure, it was believed the spell went back into the body of the witch from whom it came.

Tituba's examination began 1 March and extended into the next day. She said the devil sometime came to her in the shape of a tall man in black with white hair and sometime in the shape of an animal. He said he was God and she must believe in him and serve him 6 years and would receive many fine things. She made a mark, "red like blood," in his book. The book had marks from her, Good, and Osburn and six others. She said the three of them rode a stick or pole through the air and that Good and Osburn had "familiars." Good's was a cat and a yellow bird who sucked her "between the fore-finger and long-finger on the right hand;" Osburn's had "wings and two legs and a head like a woman." Since she was unable to name the other witches in the devil's book, people became fearful about the undiscovered witches.

The afflicted girls continued to have hallucinations. Ann Putnam, Seth's older sister, "cried out on" Martha Corey, a member in good standing of the church. Her uncle Edward and Ezekiel Cheever heard the accusation and went to ask Martha about the complaint. First they asked Ann what Martha was wearing so they could determine whether she was mistaken in her identification. Ann said she had been blinded by Corey but Corey identified herself by name. During her examination 21 March, Martha bit her lip and several of the afflicted children complained they were bitten. Rev. Nicholas Noyes of Salem Town said it was apparent that Martha "practiseth witchcraft" by using her own body as an image; biting the children by biting her own lips, and later pinching them by clenching her fingers together. From that time forward, any motion on the part of any accused was apt to produce a corresponding effect in the afflicted, as though black magic was being worked before the eyes of the beholders.

By 19 March, four married women had joined the afflicted: Ann Putnam, Sr., Gertrude Pope, Sarah Bibber, and Goodwife Goodall. Rev. Deodat Lawson, returned as a visiting preacher. On Wednesday he went to the Putnam residence to see Ann, Sr. "I found her lying on the bed, having had a sore fit a little before. She spake to me and said she was glad to see me. Her husband and she desired me to pray with them while she was sensible, which I did, though the apparition said [to Ann] I should not go to prayer." She listened at first but soon was "taken with a fit, yet continued silent and seemed to be asleep." After the prayer her husband found her in a fit and took her off the bed to set her on his knees, but she was to stiff to bend. After awhile she sat down and thrashed "violently" and began to argue with an apparition. She believed telling it a passage from the Bible would make it vanish. "I am sure you cannot stand before that text," she said. Then she was sorely afflicted, her mouth drawn on one side and her body strained for about a minute, and then said, "I will tell, I will tell; it is, it is, it is!" three or four times, and then was afflicted to hinder her from telling. At last she broke forth and said, "It is the third chapter of the Revelations." Lawson began to read and during the first verse she opened her eyes and was well. Her husband said she was often relieved by reading Bible texts.

On 20 April, Ann Putnam, Jr. claimed the apparition of a minister appeared and grievously frightened her causing her to cry, "Oh dreadful, dreadful! Here is a minister come. What, are ministers witches too?" She said he tortured her by choking and tempted her to write in his book. She refused and told him he should teach children to fear God, not to give their souls to the devil. She asked who he was and not only did he tell her (Rev. George Burroughs minister at Salem Village from 1680-82 who was serving a parish at Wells, Maine), he said he had bewitched many people to death, including his first two wives. (Its interesting that a specter would incriminate the person he represented.) The apparition was back in two weeks telling Ann that the specters of his first two wives would shortly appear to her and that she shouldn't listen to their lies.

"Then immediately appeared to me the form of two women in winding-sheets, and napkins about their heads, at which I was greatly affrighted. And they turned their faces towards Mr. Burroughs and looked very red and angry and told him that he had been a cruel man to them, and that their blood did cry for vengeance against him, and also told him that they should be clothed with white robes in Heaven when he should be cast into Hell. And immediately he vanished. And as soon as he was gone the two women turned their faces towards me and looked as pale as a white wall, and told me that they were Mr. Burrough's two wives and that he had murdered them. And one told me that she was his first wife, and he stabbed her under the left arm and put a piece of sealing-wax on the wound. And she pulled aside the winding-sheet and showed me the place, and also told me that she was in the house [where] Mr. Parris now lived where it was done. And the other told me that Mr. Burroughs and that wife which he hath now killed her in the vessel as she was coming to see her friends, because they would have one another."

Long-time resident, 71-year-old almost deaf, infirm, and bedridden, Rebecca Nurse was charged and indicted for flying about the country abusing nearly every girl on the roster of affliction. She was so frail she could hardly stand when she appeared before the Grand Jury. Edward Putnam testified she had tortured Ann, Jr. in his presence and Ann, Sr. testified that "the apparition of Rebecca Nurse did fall upon me and almost choke me. And she told me . . . she had the power to afflict me, and that she would afflict me all this day long, and would kill me if she could." At her trial 30 June, 39 neighbors presented the Court a petition stating "her life and conversations were according to her profession [as a Christian], and we never had any cause or grounds to suspect her of any such thing as she is now accused of." One of the signers was Ann's uncle Jonathan Putnam who, with his brother Edward, swore out the original complaint but had changed his mind. The jury found her not guilty. When the verdict was announced the accusers in attendance "made a hideous outcry" causing Justice Stoughton to ask if the jury had considered the implications of a comment Rebecca had made. It hadn't so the verdict was reconsidered and changed to guilty.

By using the Salem girls as witch finders, the affliction spread geographically. They were asked by people who thought themselves or their relatives bewitched to use their "spectral sight" to see who was afflicting them. Andover was the classic example. Joseph Ballard asked the girls to examine his sick wife. Ann, Jr. and Mary Walcott responded and while in Andover went from house to house, focused on the sick and almost always saw a variant of the same vision: a witch at the patient's head and one at his feet. There were too many homes to visit so Thomas Bernard the junior Minister, most of the Deacons, and Justice of the Peace Dudley Bradstreet arranged for the girls to meet the townspeople at the Meeting-House. Senior Minister Francis Dane opposed the scheme. On 7 September the girls were brought into the House in the throes of full possession and one by one various men and women were led up blindfolded to touch them. If the girls drew a sobbing breath and relaxed her struggles, the entire assembly was witness to yet another witch being made to call off her devils. After signing 40 warrants, Justice Bradstreet refused to sign any more on such evidence. Shortly thereafter he was cried out. Afflicted girls produced spectral evidence that he and his wife had committed nine murders. Indicted and jailed were close relatives of Rev. Dane, his Faulkner granddaughters Dorothy, 10 and Abigail 8, (they spent 30 days in prison before being released on £500 bond) and his daughter-in-law Deliverance Dane.

Witchcraft was the most heinous crime known to man and on 11 August, Rev. Dane's daughter, Abigail Faulkner, was charged. She was 40, two months pregnant, had six children and a sick husband at home. Ann, Jr., Mary Warren, and Mary Walcott, all strangers to her, were part of the examination. When she looked around the court room the afflicted fell to the floor in fits. Ann, Jr. testified that "Faulkner pulled me off my horse last night but I saw her before." Mary Walcott said she was "first tormented last night but have seen Faulkner's specter for two months." Mary Warren claimed to have seen Faulkner with other witches "but was not hurt by her till lately." Abigail picked up a cloth from the table and idly squeezed it causing the girls to fall into grievous fits. She was convicted and sentenced to hang. Since she was pregnant the sentence wasn't to be carried out until she delivered. Fortunately officials put a stop to the trials and she was eventually released with her jail-born son in her arms.

Ruth (Whipple) Putnam's nephew, Francis Whipple of Ipswich and Westborough, married Abigail Lamson, daughter of Thomas Lamson and the younger Abigail Faulkner who was indicted at age 8 and jailed for 30 days.

How did the Putnams, mother and daughter, come to play such a prominent role in the witchcraft tragedy? Ann, Sr. was literate and well-read and exposed Ann, Jr. in a way that gave the sickly highly-strung 12-year-old knowledge of the world beyond her years. When just a girl two decades earlier, Ann Sr. arrived at the village with her sister Mary and her brother-in-law James Bayley, the parish's first minister. His calling was by a slim majority and his ministry was not successful. Mary endured one pregnancy after another, losing most of her children until she died herself. Ann believed Mary's death was caused by the spite of her husband's enemies. At 16, Ann married Thomas Putnam who was from one of the Village's largest and more prosperous families. And while her husband was affectionate she did not find peace because she also bore babies only to bury them. She suffered so much in body and spirit that even at the birth of Ann 18 October 1679 and the other children who followed, she remained inconsolable.

She began having vivid dreams where she saw her dead sister with her dead children and her own dead children in their winding-sheets piously stretching out their hands. It was if they, dead these many years, had some urgent request to make but she was never able to make out the words. She thought she was close to uncovering the mysterious causes of her wrongs and judged it no sin to try to contact her dead kin and sent Ann, Jr. to the local witch, Tituba.

The younger Ann became Tituba's most apt pupil and a leader of the older girls. Her intelligence was quicker and her imagination livelier based on her knowledge of the Book of Revelation studied with her mother. They had also studied Rev. Michael Wigglesworth's Day of Doom from which the younger Ann gained a fierce unyielding sense of Calvinist righteousness.[156] She knew all about life and death. Deaths she knew from her mother's tearful visits to the family graveyard. Life she knew from the hysterical suspicion with which her mother surveyed the conduct of many of their neighbors. Through her mother, Ann knew all the village scandal and rumor of scandal of the past 20 years.

In August 1706, Ann, clad in white cap, kerchief and long gown, rose at her place in church, her hands clenched until the knuckles showed white. She knew she could not die with a sin "still unrepented of." Only 26, she looked older, was frail, and an invalid at times. She dared not lift her eyes. All around were kinsmen of those she had helped send to the gallows. Rev. Joseph Green began reading her confession: "I desire to be humbled before God.' It was his voice but her words. "It was a great delusion of Satan that deceived me in that sad time . . . And particularly as I was a chief instrument of accusing Goodwife Nurse and her two sisters, I desire to lie in the dust and be humbled for it, in that I was a cause with others of so sad a calamity to them and their families . . . I desire to lie in the dust and earnestly beg forgiveness of all those unto whom I have given just cause of sorrow and offence, whose relations were taken away and accused." She wondered if God would forgive such a sin as hers. Rev. Green said God understood all sins, even delusions of Satan, and would forgive if repentance was true. The reading over, the minister looked up from the paper and into the eyes of his congregation. Was it their will that this sinner be forgiven, that this lost sheep be received into the fold? It was. Ann sank to her bench, tears raining down her cheeks. God had given a sign, for surely what His children had done, He would also.[157]

It should be apparent to the modern reader that the afflicted had, in one degree or another, hysteria complicated by the varying emotional patterns the different girls brought to it. Some of them may have verged on the psychotic. Certainly Ann, Sr. had paranoid tendencies. The nearly universal belief in devils and witches coupled with the many calamities that had been heaped on the Bay Colony—small pox, Indian raids, and the growing certainty that New England had lost forever the near-independence it had enjoyed under the Charter (revoked by England in 1684) led to the conclusion that God had decided they were unworthy to be chosen as He had once chosen them. The devout were searching their hearts—and the conduct of their neighbors—for cause of His withdrawal. Many seriously believed Doomsday was imminent—it was expected at the close of the century. Repent, they cried, for the Kingdom of God is at hand. Frustrated by the devils they could not reach, they demanded a scapegoat and a full-scale lynching. And they got it. More than 200 people were charged and jailed, 19 were hanged, several died in jail, and an aged man, Giles Cory, was pressed to death with rocks for refusing to plead to the charge of witchcraft. Various Putnams and their in-laws testified against at least 46 accused witches.

Ruth Whipple and Seth Putnam had the following children born in Billerica:

	217	i.	Ebenezer[5] Putnam[158] 8 August 1719 and died 2 February 1782 in Charlestown, at 62 years of age. He married Mary Ruth Parker. Ebenezer served under Col. Josiah Willard at Fort Dummer in 1746 and beginning in 1748 was a member of several militia companies commanded by Capt. Phineas Stevens. He served Charlestown as Selectman in 1755, '56, '61, and '65 and as Town Moderator in 1765, '66, and '69.
+	218	ii.	Ruth Putnam 11 October 1720.
	219	iii.	Sarah Putnam 16 March 1721/22.[159]
	220	iv.	Seth Putnam Jr.[160] 14 January or 14 March 1723/24. He was the first man to be killed by the Indians when stationed at Fort No. 4 (later Charlestown, N.H.) and died 2 May 1746 at 22 years of age.
	221	v.	Elizabeth Putnam 6 September 1725.[161]

222 vi. Thomas Putnam[162] 22 October 1728 and died 20 August 1814 in Lunenburg, Vt. at 85 years of age. He married Rachel Wetherbe there 24 January 1754. Rachel,[163] daughter of Capt. Ephraim Wetherbe and Joanna Bellows, was born 3 April 1733 and died 12 June 1812 in Charlestown, at 79 years of age. Thomas' military duty included service in Capt. Stevens Company in 1750 and as a member of Capt. Abel Walker's Company at the Battle of Bennington 16 August 1777 during the Revolutionary War. He was Deacon of the church at Charlestown and held a number of offices there before 1771 when he moved to Acworth, N.H. He built and operated the first grist mill at Acworth, served as Justice of the Peace, and as Selectman. He returned to Charlestown and was again elected Deacon.

223 vii. Susanna Putnam[164] 8 January 1730/31 and died 12 July 1756 in Charlestown, at 25 years of age.

\+ 224 viii. Timothy Putnam 25 December 1732.

	490	iii.	Eunice Ray[293] born in Marlborough 27 January 1728 and married Benjamin Hoyt.
	491	iv.	Abel Ray Jr. born in Wrentham, Mass. abt 1730.[294]

204. Francis[5] Whipple (Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[295] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. in 1705 (baptized, 4 November 1705) and died 2 July 1787 in New Braintree, Worcester Co., Mass., at 82 years of age. He married Abigail Lamson in Hamilton, Mass. 11 May 1726 in the third parish of Ipswich, known as the Hamlet parish. Rev. Samuel Wigglesworth performed the ceremony. Abigail,[296] daughter of Thomas Lamson and Abigail Faulkner, was born in Ipswich 15 February 1708 and died 22 December 1799 in New Braintree, at 91 years of age. She was probably buried in New Braintree's Evergreen Cemetery with Francis whose tombstone survives, but no stone marks her grave. Francis and Abigail joined the Evangelical Congregational Church in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. by letter on 6 January 1734. Rev. Ebenezer Parkman was minister. Abigail's mother, Abigail (Faulkner) Lamson (1683-1746), and grandmother, Abigail (Dane) Faulkner (1652-1730), of Andover, Mass. were charged with being witches and jailed in 1692. Abigail, Sr. was convicted and sentenced to hang. (See Appendix G-2, page 1538.)

Francis Whipple and Abigail Lamson had the following children:

+	492	i.	Benjamin[6] Whipple born 23 April 1727.
+	493	ii.	Lucy Whipple born 1 January 1729/30.
	494	iii.	(Baby) Whipple born in Ipswich in October 1730.[297] Apparently died the year of birth. The given name was blank in the vital records which identified Francis Whipple as the father. No further references found.
+	495	iv.	Capt. Thomas Whipple born 21 October 1731.
+	496	v.	Abigail Whipple born 6 July 1734.
+	497	vi.	Abner Whipple born 25 August 1737.
	498	vii.	Sarah Whipple born in Westborough 1 March 1741 and died there 28 March 1742 at 1 year of age.[298]
+	499	viii.	Francis Whipple Jr. born 26 February 1741/42.
	500	ix.	Nehemiah Whipple[299] born in Westborough 28 November 1745 and died there 18 November 1746 at almost 1 year of age. Nehemiah, Lucy, and Abigail got distemper in early November. The two girls survived. His burial was scheduled for the day after death but had to be postponed because of "a great storm of snow."[300]
+	501	x.	Elizabeth Whipple born 18 June 1748.
+	502	xi.	Mary Whipple born 11 January 1751/52.

205. Edwards[5] Whipple (Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[301] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 13 March 1722 (baptized at the Hamlet church 17 June 1722) and died 11 March 1777 in Westborough, Worchester Co., Mass., at 54 years of age. He married Sarah Green in Westborough 14 December 1743. Sarah,[302] daughter of Joseph Green, was born in Westborough abt 1725 and died there. She was examined for church membership on 22 April and Edwards on the 8th of May 1745. Rev. Ebenezer Parkman "propounded" them for membership on 12 May and they were admitted during services on the morning of the 26th. Parkman administered the Lord's Supper on that occasion. In the afternoon sermon he preached on the "great extravagancy of our young people" using Luke 6, 15 for his text. Edwards and Sarah became prominent in the work of the church and Edward was given the task of setting the psalms after learning how to sing following evening lessons at the parsonage. He was also helpful to Parkman when it came to harvesting, gathering wood, and butchering.

Since there were no hymnals in church, setting the tune involved singing a line at at a time from a psalm with the congregation singing each line in turn. On 16 November 1752 David Batherick was so "displeased" with Edwards' selection that he stood and set a tune that pleased himself. This caused a great disturbance among many in the congregation. On the 19th when Parkman named the psalm to be sung and expressly asked Edwards to set the tune, he said no one should "interrupt the sacred worship." On the 30th he asked members for an opinion on which tunes they preferred and who should set them. They preferred triple time tunes[303] and wanted Edwards to continue to set them.[304]

Edwards Whipple and Sarah Green had the following children born in Westborough:

	503	i.	Sarah[6] Whipple[305] 18 September 1744 and died there 11 October 1746, at 2 years of age. She died in the night of distemper and was the 24th Westborough child to die since 23 August. Her cousin Abigail Whipple (daughter of Francis, came down with distemper the day of Sarah's funeral, 13 October 1746.[306]
	504	ii.	Samuel Whipple[307] 25 November 1746. This may be the private Samuel Whipple who served in Capt. Daniel Gilbert's Co., Col. Josiah Whitney's regt.; service from 10 August to 13 September 1788; 1 mo. 8 days at R.I. on an alarm in December 1776. Roll sworn to in Worcester Co.[308]
+	505	iii.	Luci Whipple 28 May 1749.
+	506	iv.	Jonathan Whipple 28 March 1752.
+	507	v.	Hannah Whipple 4 July 1754.
+	508	vi.	John Whipple 6 March 1757.
	509	vii.	Sarah Whipple 13 September 1764.[309]
	510	viii.	(Stillborn) Whipple 17 September 1768.[310]

207. Mary[5] Whipple (Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[311] was baptized in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass., 20 January 1716/17 and died 16 December 1807 in Sutton, Worcestor Co., Mass. She married Joseph Whipple in Grafton, Worchester Co., Mass. 20 May 1736. Joseph,[312] son of John Whipple and Mary Faierfield, was born in Ipswich 22 December 1711 and died 3 June 1771 in Sutton, at 59 years of age. He was a member of the company of Alarm soldiers who remained in town on duty or who could be called in case of necessity during the French and Indian War in 1757.[313] Joseph and Mary were first cousins with Joseph (abt 1640-abt 1709) and Sarah (____) being their common ancestors. They had a Negro servant named Phillip who was baptized in Grafton on 9 September 1744.[314] (See No. 211.)

Joseph Whipple and Mary Whipple had the following children born in Sutton:

+	511	i.	Capt. Joseph[6] Whipple 19 October 1742.
+	512	ii.	Mary Whipple 23 February 1745.
	513	iii.	Simon Whipple[315] 9 April 1746. Grafton vital records spells his given name as Simons and as Simonds.
	514	iv.	Elizabeth Whipple[316] 9 March 1748.
+	515	v.	Samuel Whipple 28 August 1749.
	516	vi.	Solomon Whipple[317] 17 March 1752.
	517	vii.	William Whipple[318] 25 July 1755.
+	518	viii.	Jeremiah Whipple 20 December 1758.

208. Capt. James[5] Whipple (Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[319] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 12 April 1705 and died 8 February 1759 in Grafton, Worchester Co., at 53 years of age. He married Sarah Adams in Ipswich's Hamlet parish 9 January 1729, Rev. Samuel Wigglesworth officiating. Sarah was born in Ipswich in 1709 and died 22 November 1759 in Grafton, at 50 years of age.[320] James moved his family to Grafton along with his parents. Both families transferred their Hamilton church membership to the Grafton church. The family had a Negro servant named George who was baptized in Grafton on 9 September 1744.[321] During the French and Indian War, the war which prepared the colonists to fight the Revolutionary War, James held the rank of Captain and commanded a troop made up of men from Grafton and Upton that marched 16 August 1757 to support Fort William Henry but the fort surrendered before they arrived.[322] Between 1753-62, 80 Grafton men, out of a population of approximately 750, lost their lives in various skirmishes during the French and Indian War.[323]

The family may have had a tenth child. According to Grafton Vital Records, a Daniel, son of James and Sarah, was baptized 23 December 1744. The Vital Records also show a death for Daniel, son of James and Sarah, on 8 March 1744. If this is the same person, a date has been incorrectly entered in the records. If this Daniel does belong to this family, he would have been born between brothers John, born 21 May 1742 and Daniel, born 2 December 1750.[324]

Capt. James Whipple and Sarah Adams had the following children:

	519	i.	Sarah[6] Whipple[325] born in Hamilton 11 January 1729 and married Isaac Willard in Grafton 29 December 1746.
+	520	ii.	Mary Whipple born 21 September 1730.
	521	iii.	James Whipple[326] born in Grafton 25 October 1732 and died there 10 October 1736, at 3 years of age.

	522	iv.	William Whipple[327] born in Grafton 25 August 1736 and died the day of birth.
+	523	v.	Lt. James Whipple born 23 November 1737.
	524	vi.	Eunice Whipple[328] born in Grafton 10 March 1740 and married Jonathan Rice in Worcester, Worchester Co., Mass. 14 January 1761.
	525	vii.	Lydia Whipple[329] born in Grafton 10 August 1741 and married Samuel Hall there 18 December 1766.
+	526	viii.	John Whipple born 21 May 1742.
+	527	ix.	Daniel Whipple born 2 December 1750.

209. Dea. Jacob[5] Whipple (Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[330] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 26 May 1707 and married Jerusha Leland in Oxford, Worcester Co., Mass. 6 January 1729. Jerusha,[331] daughter of James Leland (1687-1768) and Hannah Learned, was born 13 February 1710/11 and died in 1789 in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass.

The American Leland family descends from Henry, born in England about 1625 and died in Sherbourne, Worcester Co., Mass. 4 April 1680. Henry married Margaret Badcock, probably in England, and they moved to Dorchester, Suffolk Co., in the Massachusetts Bay colony in 1652, joining the church there in 1653. After a short time in Dorchester, they moved to what became the town of Sherbourne where he lived until his death. His will is dated 22 March 1680. They had a daughter Experience (1654-1708), and sons Hopestill, born and died in 1653; Hopestill (1655-1729); Ebenezer (1657-1742); and Eleazer (1660-1703). The family name was spelled Layland until about 1720 when it evolved into Leland.

Ebenezer married (1) Eleanor (__) and (2) Mary Hunt. He fathered five daughters and five sons, the fourth child, James (1687-1768) married Hannah Learned in Sherbourne. He acquired a large tract on the Blackstone river in the southwest corner of Hassanamisco (later Grafton) in 1723 and built their home on the east bank. They had 11 children: five sons, six daughters. Six were born in Sherbourne, five in Grafton.[332]

Jacob was a member of the Sutton, Worcester Co., church until 5 March 1732/33 where his pew was in the front seat of the second gallery. On 5 March, he was one of 11 petitioners from the easterly half of Sutton asking to be relieved of paying a rate to support the minister. The request was granted.[333] He also served as a member of the company of alarm soldiers who remained in town on duty, or who could be called in case of necessity, during the French and Indian war in 1757.[334]

He became a Separatist during the Great Awakening and in February 1747 was one of five Separating Brethen asked to meet with church leaders. He and Thomas Axtell were the only ones who attended. According to Rev. Ebenezer Parkman of the Westborough church, they had "considerable discourse, but I suppose to be of little effect. They judged the very groundwork and gathering of the church in Grafton was not according to the Gospel. They vindicated the Doctrine of Knowledge of one another by the union of Love, etc. etc. etc."[335] He served as Selectman, Constable, member of the school committee, and Deacon of the first Baptist Church in Grafton in 1780.[336]

Dea. Jacob Whipple and Jerusha Leland had the following children born in Grafton:

	528	i.	Jacob[6] Whipple Jr.[337] baptized in Sutton 9 January 1731/32 and died 8 March 1732 in Grafton. He is in Grafton Vital Records as "belonging to Sutton."
+	529	ii.	James Whipple 29 November 1729.
+	530	iii.	Col. Moses Whipple 13 May 1733.
+	531	iv.	Jerusha Whipple 26 December 1735.
+	532	v.	Hannah Whipple 23 September 1738.
+	533	vi.	Prudence Whipple 5 September 1741.
+	534	vii.	Elizabeth Whipple 9 July 1744.
	535	viii.	Susannah Whipple[338] 20 September 1747 and died the day of birth.
+	536	ix.	Susannah Whipple 13 November 1749.
+	537	x.	Jemima Whipple 21 April 1753.

211. Joseph[5] Whipple (John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[339] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 22 December 1711 and died 3 June 1771 in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass., at 59 years of age. He married Mary Whipple in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 20 May 1736. Mary,[340] daughter of Dea. James Whipple and Mary Bacon Fuller, was baptized in Ipswich 20 January 1716/17 and died 16 December 1807 in Sutton. Joseph was a member of the company of Alarm soldiers who remained in town on duty or who could be called in case of necessity during the French and Indian War in 1757.[341] Joseph and Mary were first cousins, their common ancestors being Joseph (abt 1640-abt 1709) and Sarah (____) Whipple. They had a Negro servant named Phillip who was baptized in Grafton on 9 September 1744.[342] (See No. 207.)

Joseph Whipple and Mary Whipple had the following children born in Grafton:

+	511	i.	Capt. Joseph[6] Whipple 19 October 1742.
+	512	ii.	Mary Whipple 23 February 1745.

	513	iii.	Simon Whipple[343] 9 April 1745. Grafton vital records spells his given name as Simons and as Simonds.
	514	iv.	Elizabeth Whipple[344] 9 March 1748.
+	515	v.	Samuel Whipple 28 August 1749.
+	516	vi.	Solomon Whipple 17 March 1752.
	517	vii.	William Whipple[345] 25 July 1755.
+	518	viii.	Jeremiah Whipple 20 December 1758.

212. Sgt. Ebenezer[5] Whipple (John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[346] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 14 September 1713 and died 8 September 1755 at 41 years of age. He married Prudence Dudley in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. either 25 March 1736 or 1737.[347] Prudence[348] was the daughter of Samuel Dudley and Abigail King. Ebenezer moved his family from Sutton to Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. about 1751. His occupation was joiner. He was a sergeant in the Hardwick company during the French and Indian War and was killed in 1755 in battle near Lake George.[349]

Prudence was left with at least eight children (maybe nine depending on the unknown death date of their first born Samuel) at Ebenezer's death and was a widow for five years before marrying (2) Dea. James Fay in Hardwick 13 September 1760. (Date of intent to marry.) The ages of the children when Ebenezer died: Paul 17, Sarah 15, Joseph 12, Mary 10, Ebenezer 8, Samuel 4, John 1. Prudence was pregnant with their youngest, also named Prudence, who was born almost six months after her father's death.

Sgt. Ebenezer Whipple and Prudence Dudley had the following children born in Sutton:

	538	i.	Samuel[6] Whipple 28 November 1737[350] and died bef 7 December 1751 in Hardwick, at approximately 14 years of age.
	539	ii.	Paul Whipple[351] 20 December 1738 and died abt 1771 in Hardwick. Paul served in the French and Indian War under a captain not from Hardwick. The time and place of his service is unknown.[352]
+	540	iii.	Sarah Whipple 8 December 1740.
	541	iv.	Joseph Whipple[353] 5 February 1743 and died 5 June 1827 in Hardwick, at 84 years of age.
	542	v.	Mary Whipple[354] 23 February 1745 and married Joseph Warner in Hardwick 14 November 1764.
	543	vi.	Ebenezer Whipple[355] 19 March 1746/47. A Rutland, Mass. Town Meeting on 22 May 1775 voted "that the following persons be looked upon as unfriendly to the common cause of liberty, viz. Richard Ruggles, Jonathan Nye, Deacon James Fay, Gardner Chandler, and Ebenezer Whipple." He is probably the Ebenezer Whipple of Rutland who was proscribed and banished in 1778. The Banishment Act of the State of Massachusetts was passed "to prevent the return to this state of certain persons therein named and others who have left this state or either of the United States and joined the enemies thereof." Other Rutland residents banished were Israel Conkay, John Murray, Esq., and Timothy Ruggles, Esq. Ebenezer was 13 and a half when his mother married Deacon Fay and it is probable that his stepfather was a major influence on his political thinking. He was 28 at the time of the 1775 Town Meeting and 31 when he was proscribed and banished.

\+ 544 vii. Samuel Whipple 7 December 1751.

545 viii. John Whipple[356] 6 January 1754 and died, probably 5 July 1777 in Hardwick.

\+ 546 ix. Prudence Whipple 17 March 1756.

214. John[5] Whipple (John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[357] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 22 August 1717. He married Susannah Putnam in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. aft 20 May 1758. Susannah,[358] daughter of Dea. Elisha Putnam and Susanna Fuller, was baptized in Salem Village, Essex Co., Mass. 8 September 1723. It is believed her parents were in Sutton as early as 1725. Her father was admitted to the church in 1730, chosen Deacon in 1731; Town Clerk in 1738; and Town Treasurer 1729-41.[359] Susannah married (1) Timothy Holton in Sutton 24 February 1742.

John Whipple and Susannah Putnam had the following children born in Sutton:

547 i. John[6] Whipple[360] 15 March 1766 and died of consumption 3 July 1847 in Charlton, Worcester Co., Mass., at 81 years of age. He married Anna (__) who was born abt 1770 and died 9 January 1832 in Charlton, at 61 years of age.[361]

548 ii. Perley Whipple 6 June 1769.[362]

215. Lucy[5] Whipple (John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[363] was born in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. 25 February 1723/24 and married Josiah White Jr. in Worcester, Worcester Co., Mass. 28 November 1751. He married (1) Hannah Gardner 2 January 1746.[364]

Lucy Whipple and Josiah White Jr. had the following children born in Sutton:

549 i. Ebenezer[6] White 25 September 1752.[365]
550 ii. Abel White in April 1754.[366]
551 iii. Jephta White 26 December 1755.[367]
552 iv. Josiah White 9 March 1758.[368]
553 v. Elias White 13 December 1759.[369]
554 vi. Noah White 6 November 1761.[370]
555 vii. Lucy White 16 April 1764.[371]
556 viii. Job White 6 March 1766.[372]

218. Ruth[5] Putnam (Ruth[4] Whipple, Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[373] was born in Billerica, Middlesex Co., Mass. either 4 or 11 October 1720 and died 8 December 1810 in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H., at 90 years of age. She married Peter Labaree Jr. in Salem, Essex Co., Mass. 3 October 1746. Peter,[374] son of Peter Labaree and Elizabeth (__), was born in Salem Village 4 April 1724 and died 3 August 1803 in Charlestown, at 79 years of age. Peter was a carpenter and served in the Revolutionary War with New Hampshire troops. Ruth and Peter are buried in Charlestown's Forest Hill Cemetery.

Ruth Putnam and Peter Labaree Jr. had the following children:

\+ 557 i. Ruth[6] Labaree born 10 May 1747.
558 ii. Elizabeth Labaree[375] born 8 March 1749 and married John Powers.
559 iii. Peter Labaree III[376] born 25 October 1750 and married Sarah Kennedy. He served in the Revolutionary War.
560 iv. Mary Labaree[377] born 11 October 1752 and married Isaac Pratt.
561 v. Sarah Labaree[378] born 12 June 1754 and married Phineas Page.
562 vi. Susanna Labaree[379] born 20 April 1758 and married James Gould.
563 vii. Abigail Labaree[380] born 21 December 1760 and married David Hubbard. David[381] was the son of Jonathan Hubbard and Abigail Jenson.
564 viii. Benjamin Labaree[382] born 17 November 1762 and married Hannah Farwell 30 December 1783.
565 ix. Rufas Labaree.[383]

224. Timothy[5] Putnam (Ruth[4] Whipple, Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[384] was born in Billerica, Middlesex Co., Mass. 25 December 1732 and died in 1817 in Springfield, Windsor Co., Vt., at 84 years of age.

He married Susanna Badger in Tewksbury, Middlesex Co., Mass. 17 November 1759. Susanna,[385] daughter of Benjamin Badger and Susanna Putnam, was baptized in Newbury, Essex Co., Mass. 12 May 1731 and died 7 April 1816 in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H.

Unlike his brothers, Timothy was not involved in the civil or ecclesiastical affairs of the town. His Revolutionary War service was as a private in the militia under Capt. Abel Walker in Col. Benjamin Bellows regt. The company marched to the relief of Fort Ticonderoga in May 1777.[386] It is believed he and Susanna were the caregivers for his parents in their old age. His brothers received land grants and operated large farms in Charlestown. Timothy inherited his parent's homestead to which he added additional holdings over the years. His grandson, Joseph Putnam, described his farm as "200 acres on the Connecticut river, half a mile from the Cheshire bridge." The grandson said after his grandmother died, Timothy moved across the river to Springfield.

Timothy Putnam and Susanna Badger had the following children born in Charlestown:

566 i. Timothy[6] Putnam Jr.[387] 4 October 1760 and died there 18 May 1835, at 74 years of age. He married Sarah Hewitt in Charlestown 4 October 1778. (Date of intent to marry.) He served during the Revolutionary War.

\+ 567 ii. Samuel Putnam 14 June 1762.

568 iii. John Putnam[388] 4 June 1764 and died 9 June 1848 in Montpelier, Washington Co., Vt., at 84 years of age. He married twice. (1) Catherine Case (2) Mrs. Peggy Glidden the widow of Moses Glidden.

569 iv. Experience Putnam[389] 3 February 1766 and died there 27 May 1844, at 78 years of age.

570 v. Sarah Putnam.[390] 14 June 1768 and married Luther Spencer 5 March 1789. (Date of intent to marry.) Luther is the son of Joseph Spencer and Lucy (__).

\+ 571 vi. Bailey Putnam 13 May 1770.

572 vii. David Putnam[391] 7 June 1772 and married Hannah Bailey in February 1798. The wedding date might have been 8 March 1802. Hannah,[392] daughter of Luther Bailey and Experience Bayley, was born in Westmoreland, N.H. 13 April 1777 and died of consumption 1 November 1848 in Malden, Middlesex Co., Mass., at 71 years of age.

36. French and Indian War—the French, claimed the entire watersheds of the Mississippi and St. Lawrence Rivers—including the Great Lakes and the Ohio River Valley—and objected to British encroachments into the region. In 1755, Maj. Gen. Edward Braddock was named commander-in-chief of British forces in North America and was defeated by the French when he led troops to destroy Fort Duquesne located at the junction where the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers form the Ohio river. The British suffered heavy losses including Braddock who died four days after the battle. The British did, however, win a battle on Lake George and established Fort Edward on the Hudson river and Fort William at the southern end of Lake George. Finally in 1756, war was officially declared between the French and British. For the first two years the French generally got the better of the English but the tide began to turn in 1758 when the British captured Louisbourg, Nova Scotia, establishing control of the Bay of the St. Lawrence and control of Lake Ontario. In 1759 they captured the forts at Ticonderoga, Crown Point and Fort Niagra and Québec after a siege from 27 June until 18 Sept. when the French surrendered. This was the turning point of the war. In 1760 they captured Montreal and Detroit and thus gained all of North America from the French.

She was born about 1750 and died 24 April 1840 in Beverly, at 89 years of age.[80] His early years were spent on a farm and attending a small common school. He enjoyed reading in his leisure time and was passionate about mathematics. He entered Harvard College in 1774 and after graduating with honors in 1778, he read law in the office of Judge William West More of Salem while also teaching in Beverly. He began his law practice in Beverly in 1782. He served in the Massachusetts General Court (1782-85) and was elected to the Continental Congress in 1785 (re-elected in 1786 and 1787). He served on the Committee to draft the Ordinance to create the Northwest Territories and was successful in including language excluding slavery in the Territory north of the Ohio river. He opposed the new Federal Consitution and was unsuccessful in the election for the State Convention to consider its ratification.

He retired from Congress and resumed his law practive in Beverly in 1790. He was continuously elected to the Massaschusetts State Senate 1793-1798. He was appointed to the Commission to revise the laws of the Commonwealth and elected a Presidential Elector in 1812. He was elected a Delegate to the 1820 State Constitutional Convention but could not attend, having lost his hearing. He then began writing two books he had continuously been researching for over 30 years. A Moral and Political Survey of America was never published. His Abridgment and Digest of the American Law was published in eight volumes in 1823 with a supplemental volume published in 1829. It was the first book of law published in the United States and was used as a school text and as a general outline for laws in Massachusettes.

He was a member of the Massaschusettes Agricultural Society, the Massachusettes and Essex Historical Societies, the American Antiquarian Society, and an honorary member of the Indiana and Michigan Historical Societies of his work on the Northwest Ordinance which established the basic laws of those states. He was one of the founders and served as the President of the Massachusetts Temperance Society, the first Society of its kind in the country. Harvard College established the Dane Professorship of Law and Dane Hall in his honor and the Dane Law Library of Ohio is named after him.

The final 20 years if his life were spent in his library where he studied and read from 12 to 14 hours daily until the day before his death. The following, believed to have been written by Hon. Judge Joseph Story (served 1811–45) of the U. S. Supreme Court, is engraved on his monument in the Beverly Cemetery: "In memory of the Hon. Natl Dane, L.L.D., a revolutionary Statesman; an eminent of the Western Territories; the author of An Abridgement and Digest of the American Law; the Founder of the Dane Professorship of Law in Harvard University. His private life was distinguished for simplicity, integrity and dignity. His public life for wisdom, fidelity and patriotism. He lived and died a Christian. He was born Dec. 27, 1752. His fame belongs to the country. Let the gratitude of future ages cherish it."[81]

303. Abraham[6] Perkins (Matthew[5], Capt. Matthew[4], Elizabeth[3] Whipple, Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[117] was baptized in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 6 April 1735 and died 16 August 1804 in Sanbornton, Belknap Co., N.H. He married Mrs. Mary (Sanborn) Fogg. Mary,[118] daughter of Jeremiah Sanborn, was born in Sanbornton 6 January 1733 and died there 25 May 1823 at 90 years of age.

Abraham's mother moved with her third husband and her younger children (Abraham was 5 at the time) to Berwick, York Co., Maine. One of his schoolmasters was Master Sullivan, father of John Sullivan who represented New Hampshire in the Continental Congress and became a Major General in the Continental Army. The following incident made a lasting impression on Abraham. Upon leaving school one day on an errand, Master Sullivan directed the boys not to leave until he returned. Six disobeyed and went to a brook to play where they were surprised by Indians, killed, and scalped. Abraham obeyed and during his years as a teacher used the incident as a warning not to be disobedient. He moved from Berwick as an adult to Exeter, Rockingham Co., N.H. and later to Sanbornton where taught school for 30 years and was remembered as a strict disciplinarian. While in Berwick he learned the shoemaker's trade and employed this skill mornings and evenings and taught afternoons. He tanned sheepskins with salt and alum.[119]

325. Dr. Elisha[6] Perkins (Dr. Joseph[5], Joseph[4], Elizabeth[3] Whipple, Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[140] was born in Norwich, New Lisbon Co., Conn. 16 January 1741 and died of yellow fever 6 September 1799 in New York, N.Y., at 58 years of age. He married Sarah Douglass in Plainfield, Windham Co., Conn. 23 September 1762. She was born in Plainfield and died there 10 August 1795.[141] Brothers Elisha and Simon Perkins married sisters Sarah and Olive Douglass.

The family resided in Plainfield where he was a physician with an extensive practice. It is said he rode as many as 60 miles in a day to see patients. He developed a device called "metallic tractors," which he used to treat various painful diseases such as neuralgia, rheumatism, etc. The tractors were made of two pieces of metal about three inches in length, each pointed at one end. They were drawn from above down over the painful area. The treatment lasted about 20 minutes. While the treatment was widely copied both in the the U.S. and Europe with reportedly excellent results, Elisha was expelled from the Connecticut Medical Society in 1797 for promoting their use.

Perkins apparatus helped advance the "blind protocol test" used today to determine if the Food and Drug Administration will approve a drug being sold on the American Drug market. The blind protocol was originally conceived by Benjamin Franklin while living in Passy in Paris in 1784. Franklin's protocol compared treatment and no treatment under blind conditions. In 1799 the English physician John Haygarth refined the idea when he evaluated the manipulation of Perkins' metallic tractors which supposedly removed a harmful magnetic field from the body. To test them, Haygarth followed Franklin's lead. He created a second set of rods that looked exactly like the metal ones but were made of wood, and gave treatments to subjects who were blind to which rods were being used. Haygarth concluded that the effect depended on the patient's imagination. It would be a century before the statistical understanding had evolved enough to randomly assign subjects to a treatment group or control (placebo) group to permit valid statistical comparisons between the two groups to some definable level of confidence. Today what Franklin started is used by science to determine what medicines we take, what chemicals can be used in the environment, and whether we can trust an experiment's results.[142]

Perkins also developed an antiseptic remedy for use in the treatment of ulcerated sore throats and went to New York City to try it on yellow fever patients where he died after contracting the fever. His antiseptic was no longer used following his death.[142]

Dr. Elisha Perkins and Sarah Douglass had the following children born in Plainfield:

+	683	i.	Elisha[7] Perkins 18 July 1763.

John[5], Joseph[4], Elizabeth[3] Whipple, Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[184] was born in Norwich, New London Co., Conn. 25 August 1753 and died 29 April 1828 in Athens, Athens Co., Ohio, at 74 years of age. He married three times. (1) Lydia Fitch in Norwich in 1780. Lydia,[185] daughter of Dr. Jabez Fitch and Lydia Huntington, died 21 January 1800 in Marietta, Washington Co., Ohio. She descended (6th generation) from Thomas Fitch of Bantry, Essex Co., England, whose wife, after his death, emigrated with her five sons to New England and settled in Saybrook, Conn. Lydia's brother James became a minister at Saybrook and later was one of the original proprietors of Norwich where he was the pastor for 40 years. Lydia's brother, Rev. Ebenezer Fitch, was the first President of Williams College in Williamstwon, Mass. (2) Catherine Greene in Athens, Ohio in 1803. She was a cousin of Gen. Nathaniel Greene of the Revolutionary Army and died in 1821 in Athens.[186] (3) Mrs. Anna Catron in Athens. She died there in 1837.[187]

A graduate of Yale College, Eliphaz became a country merchant. When success eluded him, he studied medicine with his father-in-law Dr. Jabez Fitch and first practiced in Voluntown, New London Co., Conn. Intrigued by the glowing accounts of opportunities in the Northwest Territory, he crossed the mountains on horseback and began practicing at Marietta. An Indian war that began in 1790 prevented his return for his family for two years

On 8 June 1799, he again left Connecticut for Ohio, this time with his wife and seven children, traveling in a high wagon drawn by three yoke of oxen. In addition to their belongings, they took a saddle horse, cow, and dog. They were detained for quite some time at Reading, Berks Co., Penn. where their twin daughters Lucy and Laura were born 7 July. Upon reaching McKeesport on the Monongahela river, they continued the journey by flat boat. Sickness among the children and low water slowed their progress but they finally reached Marietta 17 October 1799. The journey sapped Lydia's strength and she died three months later.

Dr. Perkins moved his family to Athens in the spring of 1800 and started a practice there. He was among those to organize the first Presbyterian Society; was an early advocate of common schools; one of the first trustees of Ohio University and its Treasurer for many years; Athens' Postmaster for 17 years; and county recorder for 13 years.

He married Sarah Tuttle in Hamilton 14 December 1780. The marriage was performed by Rev. Dr. Manassas Cutler. Sarah was born abt 1756 and died 4 January 1844 in Dunbarton, at 87 years of age.[335] The family moved to Bow, Merrimack Co., N.H. abt 1801 and later to Dunbarton. The first library in Dunbarton, known as the Dunbarton Social Library, was at the Whipple home. Both Benjamin and Sarah were buried in the south central part of Dunbarton's Center Cemetery.

Benjamin served in the Revolution, enlisting in 1776 at Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. and served six months under Capt. Robert Dodge. There may have been other periods of service but this is the only period documented by affidavits filed with Sarah's application for a widow's pension 31 December 1838 when she was 82. The application confirms their marriage date and place and his date and place of death. One of the affidavits was signed by John Whipple of Concord, Merrimack Co., N.H., age 48, identified as Benjamin's fourth son. Sarah made a second claim 26 April 1843 when she was 87 and a pension was allowed based on six months service. Her certificate No. 1005 was issued 20 July 1843 under Act of 3 March 1843 for service in Massachusetts Militia, vols. 1-64, W26010. See Appendix 7, page 5, 13-14 for further information on Sarah's pension application.[336]

493. Lucy[6] Whipple (Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[435] was born in Ipswich, Mass. 1 January 1729/30 (baptized 5 January 1730) and died 18 May 1773 in Westborough, Mass., at 43 years of age. She married twice. (1) Moses Pratt in Westborough 16 November 1747. They were married at her parent's home.[436] Moses, [437] son of Isaac Pratt and Eunice Fay, was born in Westborough 7 October 1723 and died in December 1748 in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass., at 25 years of age.[438] (2) Nathan Maynard in Westborough 1 January 1751. Nathan, son of David Maynard, was born in Westborough 2 June 1722.[439] The spring following Moses' death Lucy had several meetings in March and April with Westborough's Rev. Ebenezer Parkman about her low spiritual estate. She married Nathan on her twenty-second birthday at the home of her parents.

Lucy Whipple and Nathan Maynard had the following children born in Westborough:

+	975	i.	Nathan[7] Maynard Jr. 2 October 1751.
+	976	ii.	Nehemiah Maynard 27 May 1754.
	977	iii.	Stephen Maynard 6 October 1756.[440]
+	978	iv.	Lucy Maynard 29 September 1759.
	979	v.	Harvey Maynard 17 December 1767.[441]

495. Capt. Thomas[6] Whipple (Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[442] was born in Hamilton, Essex Co., Mass. 21 October 1731 (baptized 24 October) and died 30 January 1811 in New Braintree, Worcester Co., Mass., at 79 years of age. (Buried in Evergreen Cemetery, New Braintree.) His stone states he died January 30, 1811 in the 80th year of his age. He married Martha Higgins in Westborough 17 June 1755. (Date of intent recorded 3 May 1755.) She died 9 February 1811 in New Braintree and was buried in Evergreen Cemetery. Most of her stone is missing. [443]

Thomas and Mary had moved to New Braintree as early as 1758 as their third child, Abigail, was born there on 9 August of that year. Thomas began a 12-year stint of serving the community in a variety of offices on 3 March 1760 when he was elected Tythingman. In subsequent years he was elected Leather and Hayrieve overseer (1761), Surveyor of Highways (1762-3-4-9-81), Selectman (5 terms between 1771-82), Town Moderator (1781), Town Agent (1773), Constable (1777), and to the Committee of Correspondence and Safety (1776-7-9).

He served on committees to provide and take care of schools (1772-3-4), to assign the seats in the Meeting House (1770, 79), to negotiate the salary of Rev. Mr. Ruggles (1776, 78), to settle with Rev. Mr. Foster about his salary (1780), to recruit soldiers to meet the Town's quota for Revolutionary War service (1777, 80), to enforce the Act of the General Court to "prevent monopoly and oppression," to draft a "remonstrance to the General Court relating to the state money being put on interest" (1777), to provide "necessaries for our Continental soldiers" (1778), the Committee for Inspection of Debts (1778), to make "estimation of the cost of the war" (1778), to put the "resolves of the Concord Convention" in execution (1779), to make a scale for the town use (1781).[444]

During his 1774 term as Selectman the Town unanimously passed the following resolves:

1. "That we will, in conjunction with our brethren in America, risk our fortunes and even our lives in defense of his Majesty King George, his person, crown, and dignity, and will also with the same resolution as his free-born subjects in this country, to the utmost of our power and ability, defend our Charter rights that they may be transmitted inviolate to the last posterity.

2. "Resolved that every British subject in America has by our happy constitution as well as by nature, the sole right to dispose of his own property either by himself or by his representative.

3. "Resolved that the Act of the British Parliament laying a duty on tea landed in America payable here is a tax whereby the property of Americans is taken from them without their consent.

"Therefore Resolved, that we will not, either by ourselves or any for or under us, buy or sell or use any of the East India Company tea imported from Great Britain, or any other tea with a duty for raising a revenue thereon in America, which is affixed by Acts of Parliament on the same. Neither will we suffer any such tea to be made up in our families.

"Resolved, that all such persons as shall purchase, sell, or use such tea shall be for the future deemed unfriendly and enemies to the happy constitution of this country."

During Thomas's first two terms on the Committee of Correspondence, the Town unanimously voted (22 May 1776) to "willingly support the General Congress if it shall declare independence," authorized a bounty of £20 for men who enlisted in the Continental Army for three years, and chose a Committee to collect evidence against all persons opposed to the country. In February 1777, the Committee established uniform prices on all produce, merchandise, and labor to "prevent monolopy and oppression."[445]

Thomas' Revolutionary War duty began 31 May 1776 when he was commissioned Captain of the 5th (New Braintree) Co. of Col. James Convers' (4th Worcester Co.) regt. of Massachusetts militia. His company was at Rutland for three months (April, May, June) in 1778 to guard the British prisoners captured at the Battle of Saratoga the previous October. There were at least 3,000 prisoners confined in barracks enclosed with strong pickets. His final tour of duty was for eight months from 20 April to 20 December 1780 when the company was stationed at Rutland.[446]

Capt. Thomas Whipple and Martha Higgins had the following children:

980 i. Martha[7] Whipple[447] born in Westborough 15 April 1756 and died there 25 May 1756, at one month of age.

981 ii. Abigail Whipple born in New Braintree 9 August 1758.[448]

982 iii. Nathum Whipple[449] born in New Braintree 18 November 1760 and died there 17 March 1829, at 68 years of age. He married Lucindy Ashley in New Braintree 11 April 1782. She was born abt 1763 and died 8 October 1825 in New Braintree, at 62 years of age. Both are buried in Evergreen Cemetery. Her stone lists her as Mrs. Lucindy Whipple. Wife of Mr. Nathan Whipple. Died Oct. 8, 1825. Age 62. His stone states he died March 17, 1829, Age 68 years. Nathum and his father Thomas jointly owned two parcels of land in New Braintree on 1 October 1798. One parcel had a house and out-house and was 90 perches in size.[450] It was valued at $650.00. The second parcel, 92 acres with no buildings, was valued at $1320.00. Nathum also owned individually 18 acres valued at $208.00 and Thomas owned 10 acres valued at $115.00.

983 iv. Elizabeth Whipple born in New Braintree 31 October 1762.[451]

\+ 984 v. Moses Whipple born 12 April 1766.

496. Abigail[6] Whipple (Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[452] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 6 July 1734 and died there 8 October 1762, at 28 years of age. She married Thaddeus Warrin in Westborough 18 August 1759. (Date of intent to marry.) Thaddeus,[453] son of Daniel Warrin and Martha (__), was born in Westborough 17 January 1735 and married (2) Hannah Gould there 5 May 1768. Abigail was one of the many who got the commom distemper in the fall of 1746. She became very ill but was one of the fortunate to survive. Twenty-four children died between 23 August and 12 October. The mortality rate was so great that Rev. Ebenezer Parkman held a day of solemn humiliation, fasting, and prayer on 4 September. Abigail died 12 days after the birth of her daughter Submit.

Abigail Whipple and Thaddeus Warrin had the following children born in Westborough:

985 i. Abigail[7] Warrin[454] 11 February 1760. She was 23 when her grandfather Francis Whipple wrote his will and left her a bequeath of personal property.

986 ii. Submit Warrin 26 September 1762.[455]

497. Abner[6] Whipple (Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[456] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 25 August 1737 and died bef 10 October 1775 in Rockingham, Windham Co., Vt., at approximately 38 years of age. He married Sybil Maynard in Marlborough, Middlesex Co., Mass. 5 March 1761. Sybil,[457] daughter of Daniel Maynard and Mary Oakes, was born in Marlborough 25 October 1739. She married (2) Nathaniel Bennett in Rockingham 10 October 1775. Most early settlers of Rockingham came from the frontier towns of Worcester Co., Mass. The township lies along the west bank of the Connecticut river. The early settlers built their homes near the center of the town above the valley of the Williams river. Abner was elected Tithyingman at the annual Town Meeting 30 March 1763. It is presumed he settled in Pittsford Township, Rutland Co., Vt. before moving to Rockingham.

Abner Whipple and Sybil Maynard had the following children:

	987	i.	Sibbel[7] Whipple[458]
	988	ii.	Mary Whipple[459]
+	989	iii.	Abner Whipple Jr. born abt 1763.
	990	iv.	Daniel Whipple[460] born abt 1765.

499. Francis[6] Whipple Jr. (Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[461] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 26 February 1741/42 and died aft 1789 in New Braintree, Worcester Co., Mass. He married Precilla Rice in Westborough 3 November 1763. (Date of intent to marry.) Precilla,[462] daughter of Zebulon Rice and Abigail Forbush, was born in Westborough 22 August 1744 and died 8 December 1833 in New Braintree, at 89 years of age. Precilla joined the Westborough church prior to her marriage as her statement of belief is signed with her maiden name. It is as follows:

"I believe there is one God in three persons, the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, and these three are one and the same in essence and that he created the world by his power and rules it by his providence. I believe that God created Adam our first parent in innocence and invested him with such power as that he was as capable of standing or falling, but being left to the freedom of his own will he fell from that estate wherein he was created by sinning against God and as he stood head and Representative, he acted for all his posterity and so all sinned in him and fell with him in his first transgression and so we forfeited all right to happiness and became miserable and exposed to the wrath of God and must have remained so for all eternity had not God out of the abundance of his free grace provided a mediator for us when we had broke the first covenant, the covenant of the works God was pleased to enter in to a new covenant, a covenant of grace and was pleased to send his own Son into the world to die for lost sinners of which I acknowledge I am chief. I acknowledge I have long lived in a state of enmity and distance from God and have stopped my ears against the calls and warnings which I have had from God by his words so that my sins have been greatly increased. I have had the Word of God for my guide and have had the knowledge of a Savior when thousands in the world that are as good by nature as I, have been denied so that I acknowledge I have sinned without excuse but I desire to bless God that I have any reason to hope that he has not left me to perish in my sins. I hope I have been brought to see what a poor sinful creature I am both by nature and practice and hope I have been humbled for it. I hope I have been brought to see that I can do nothing of myself that can be the procuring cause of my salvation and I depend entirely upon the merits of Christ's Blood to atone and make satisfaction for me. I hope I have been made willing to accept of Christ in all his offices as he is offered in the Gospel; as my prophet to teach me; as my King to rule in and to reign over me; as my priest to atone and make satisfaction for me. I believe that Christ has appointed certain ordinances; that is baptism and the Lord's Supper and as I look upon it not only my duty but my highest happiness and privilege. I desire humbly and sincerely to wait upon Christ in them and ask your acceptance of me; and likewise your prayers for me that God would give me grace and enable me to walk as becomes one of the Children of God. /s/ Priscilla Rice.[463]

When Francis joined the Westborough Congregational church on 19 October 1766, he explained his beliefs as follows: "I believe that there is one God in three persons, the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost and that these are one and the same in essence and I believe that God created the world by his power and rules it by his Providence. I believe that God created man in a state of innocence, upright, and happy, but man being left to his will he fell from that state wherein he was created and as, Adam, his Head and Representative, he plunged himself and all his posterity into a gulf of sin and misery and so might have remained to all eternity had not God out of the abundance of his goodness, provided a Savior for him. God was not pleased when man had broke the first Covenant which was of works to enter into a Covenant of grace and sent his one Son into the world to die for sinners of which I am among the chief. I acknowledge I have lived in a course of sin and rebellion against God. Ever since I came into the world I have abused God's laws and trampled upon his goodness but I hope I have been brought to a sense of my sins and of mine own insufficiency of doing any thing that can be the procuring cause of my salvation but must depend entirely upon the merits of Christ to make satisfaction for me. I hope I am willing to accept of Christ in all his offices as he is offered to me in the Gospel; for my prophet to teach me, for my priest to atone for me, for my King to rule in me and reign over me. I believe that Christ has instituted certain ordinances that is baptism and the Lord's Supper and as I look upon it not only my duty but my highest happiness and privilege and I who come to wait upon Christ in his ordinances and partake of the benefit of them. I therefore ask your acceptance of me and your prayers for me that God will assist me in whatsoever duty is incumbent on me." /s/ Francis Whipple Jur.

"I desire unfeigned to be truly humbled before God, and his people for all my sins but more especially for the sin of breaking the seventh commandment (Thou Shall Not Steal) which I acknowledge myself guilty of but I hope God has brought me true repentance of and to be sensible that it is my duty to come and make my peace with Him and his people. I hope I have been truly humbled for it and for all the gravation. I confess there has been somewhat special that has attended it. And I would in the first place beg pardon of God in and through the merits and blood of Christ and ask the forgiveness of both church and congregation and desire that you would receive me to your charity and likewise ask your prayers for me that God would give me grace and enable me now to walk as becomes the children of God." /s/ Francis Whipple Jur.

Confession of Francis Whipple Jur.: "If you do thus truly and sincerely repent of your sins and humble yourself before Him, God will absolve his penitent and have pity on all of broken heart, extend his compassion to you, accept of you, pardon you, and grant you His almight grace, that you may turn from all sin and may walk in Holiness persevering you in till you shall arrive at eternity Happiness through Jesus Christ whom be glory forever. Amen." /s/ Francis Whipple Jur. 19 October 1766.[465]

Francis and Precilla lost five of their 12 children at an early age. Three died between 11 January and 10 March 1770, probably all of throat distemper. In order of their death, they were Abner, 4, Joel, 2, and Francis, 3. Two more died between 24 August 1776 and 1 May 1777: Francis, 16 months, and Submitt, almost 6.

Francis moved his family from Westborough to New Braintree, probably in 1776. He owned 131 acres there on 1 October 1798 valued at $1,730.00. Submit is buried in New Braintree's Evergreen Cemetery and it is presumed that Francis and Precillia died in New Braintree.

Francis was alive in 1789 when he was paid 37 pounds 10 shillings for serving as guardian of Stephen Frost, youngest son and child of John and Susannah (Wilson) Frost.[466]

Francis Whipple Jr. and Precilla Rice had the following children:

991 i. Francis[7] Whipple born in Westborough 30 October 1764[467] and died 10 March 1770, at 5 years of age. "Squire Francis Whipple went to Rev. Parkman's home on 9 March to take him to his grandson," Francis. Parkman noted in his diary that the boy was "very ill of throat distemper. I went, spoke with the child [and] prayed." The boy died 10 March and the "Squire" went to Parkman's that afternoon to arrange for a time of burying. Parkman attended the funeral on the 12th and after the funeral "prayed at the home of several children sick with distemper."[468]

992 ii. Abner Whipple born in Westborough 11 April 1766 and died there 11 January 1770, at 3 years of age.[469] Rev. Parkman attended Abner's funeral 12 January and noted in his diary that the 4-year-old boy was "a child much loved by his parents and the grandparents had set much by him. He was taken ill but last Monday and died yesterday a.m."

993 iii. Joel Whipple born in Westborough 3 December 1767 and died there 7 February 1770, at 2 years of age.[470] He died less than a month after his brother Abner. Rev. Parkman attended his funeral on 9 February.

\+ 994 iv. Charles Whipple born 10 October 1769.

995 v. Submit Whipple born in Westborough 21 August 1771[471] and died there 1 May 1777, at 5 years of age. Rev. Parkman noted in his diary for 1 May 1777 that "Mr. Francis Whipple came and informed me that his poor little child (daughter Submit) had died this a.m. From its birth it was unlike other children: weak, pining, unable to speak; almost 6 years old." The child was buried on 2 May.

\+ 996 vi. Levi Whipple born 24 July 1773.

997 vii. Francis Whipple born in Westborough 7 April 1775 and died there 24 August 1776, at 1 year of age.[472] Rev. Parkman noted in his diary on 24 Aug. 1776 that "Mr. Francis Whipple's child (his little Francis of almost 16 months) fell into a tub of hot wort (a liquid prepared with malt which after fermenting becomes beer or ale) and died at evening." The child was buried on the 26th.[473]

\+ 998 viii. Lucy Whipple born 27 December 1776.

999 ix. Edwards Whipple[474] born in New Braintree, Worcester Co., Mass. 24 October 1778 and died 17 September 1822 in Shrewsbury, Worcester Co., Mass., at 43 years of age.[475] He married Mrs. Katharine (Hall) Warner in New Braintree 25 January 1802.[476] (Date of intent to marry.) (Marriage recorded between 1 April 1802 and 1 April 1803.) Katharine,[477]daughter of Capt. Elias Hall and Judith (__), was born in New Braintree 7 May 1772 and died 17 April 1842 in Shrewsbury at 69 years of age.[478] Her name was spelled Catherine in the death vital records. She married (1) Justus Warner in New Braintree 27 December 1791. Edwards, who attended Williams College in Williamstown, Mass. and became a Minister, was described by author Durfee Calvin as one of the three most distinguished scholars in the Williams class of 1801. He wrote that "Whipple studied theology, and was first installed at Charlton (Worcester Co., Mass.) 25 January 1804, and continued there seventeen years. He was an able and faithful pastor, a man of decided talents and undoubted piety. After his resignation he was installed Colleague Pastor at Shrewsbury, where he continued to preach a year wanting one Sabbath. He was seized with a malignant fever which terminated his earthly existence 17 September 1822, at the age of forty-four. His early death was deeply lamented by all his acquaintances." The Rev. John Nelson of Leicester, (Worcester Co.) Mass. preached his funeral sermon.[479] No mention is made of any children in his will dated 17 December 1816.

\+ 1000 x. Joel Whipple born in New Braintree 24 May 1780.

1001 xi. Sophia Whipple born in New Braintree 7 January 1782 and died there 21 February 1784, at 2 years of age.[480]

1002 xii. Sewell Whipple[481] born in New Braintree 31 March 1790 and died there 20 April 1795. His stone in the Evergreen Cemetery reads: In Memory of Sewell Whipple Son of Mr. Francis and Mrs. Precillia Whipple who died April 20th 1795 Aged 5 Yrs and 20 Days.

501. Elizabeth[6] Whipple (Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[482] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 18 June 1748 and died 8 May 1822 in Brookfield, Worcester Co., Mass., at 73 years of age. She married Nathan Carruth in Westborough 28 May 1774. (Date of intent to marry.) Nathan was born abt 1745 and died 22 May 1827 in Brookfield. Brookfield vital records state he was in his 83rd year at death.[483]

Elizabeth Whipple and Nathan Carruth had the following children born in Brookfield:

1003 i. Patty[7] Carruth 15 July 1776[484] and died 2 September 1778 in Brookfield, at 2 years of age.

1004 ii. Elizabeth Carruth 28 February 1778.[485]

\+ 1005 iii. Francis Carruth 23 February 1780.

1006 iv. Lucy Carruth 18 September 1782.[486]

1007 v. Nathan Carruth Jr. 12 October 1784[487] and died there 14 February 1808 at 23 years of age.

502. Mary[6] Whipple (Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[488] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 11 January 1751/52 and married Nathan Hill of Shrewsbury, Worcester Co., Mass. in Shrewsbury 11 July 1772. (Date of intent to marry.)

Mary Whipple and Nathan Hill had the following children born in Shrewsbury:

1008 i. Oliver[7] Hill 24 May 1780.[489]

1009 ii. Polly Hill 21 August 1781.[490]

1010 iii. Cloe Hill 13 January 1783.[491]

505. Luci[6] Whipple (Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[492] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 28 May 1749 and died there 21 August 1838, at 89 years of age. She married Joseph Green Jr. at the Edwards Whipple home in Westborough 30 January 1771. Rev. Ebenezer Parkman "solemnized" the wedding. Joseph,[493] son of Joseph Green, was born in Westborough 11 December 1743 and died there abt 1808. A copy of his 1808 will is in county records Series A, Case 25550 in the County Court House at Worcester, Mass.

Luci Whipple and Joseph Green Jr. had the following children born in Westborough:

1011 i. Converse[7] Green[494] 10 June 1771 and died there 14 June 1772, at 1 year of age.

1012 ii. Alden Green[495] 14 September 1772[496] and died there in 1792, at 19 years of age.

1013 iii. Joel Green[497] in 1773 and died there 3 March 1777, at 4 years of age.

1014 iv. Elijah Green[498] 1 September 1774 and died there 16 December 1843, at 69 years of age.

1015 v. Abigail Green[499] 30 August 1776 and died there 29 December 1845, at 69 years of age.

	1016	vi.	Joseph Green[500] 4 September 1778 and died there 23 October 1778, at less than 1 year of age.
	1017	vii.	Joel Green[501] 14 September 1779.
+	1018	viii.	Stephen Whipple Green in January 1782.
	1019	ix.	Joseph Green[502] 9 October 1784 and married Martha Richards 3 January 1808.
	1020	x.	Benjamin Green[503] 12 February 1787 and died there 24 July 1872, at 85 years of age.
	1021	xi.	Samuel Green[504] 22 January 1789 and died 9 September 1848, at 59 years of age. He married Deborah Axtel 2 April 1822.
	1022	xii.	Lucy Green 4 April 1795.[505]

506. Jonathan[6] Whipple (Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[506] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 28 March 1752 and died 29 March 1839 in Lyme, Grafton Co., N.H., at 87 years of age. He married Hannah Rice in Westborough 3 June 1777. Hannah,[507] daughter of Edmund Rice and Hannah Gasset, was born in Westborough 18 February 1759 and died 13 January 1830 in Lyme, at 70 years of age. Hannah was the fifth generation from Dea. Edmund Rice who was born in England abt 1594 and settled in Sudbury, Middlesex Co., Mass. in 1639. He died 3 May 1663.

Jonathan was a carpenter by trade and moved to Marlborough, Cheshire Co., N.H. abt 1777 where he operated a mill on the Marlborough Brook. It is believed he sold the mill to Joseph Wellington when he moved to Troy, Cheshire Co., N.H. He was described as an erect, portly man, prompt in business and a highly esteemed citizen.[508] He moved his family to Troy in 1790 where he built a home in the southeast district. A one-story structure, it is reputed to be the sixth house in the village and the backpart was used as a schoolroom. Son Edwards learned the carpenter trade and worked with his father until he moved to Concord, Essex Co., Vt. in 1804. His parents and younger siblings soon followed.[509]

A manuscript authored by Miss Lois Whipple, great granddaughter of Jonathan and daughter of John Morrison Whipple, describes Jonathan as "nearly 6' 4" with broad shoulders. He served in the Revolutionary War and was at the Battle of Saratoga in October 1777. He was a "well known maker of saw and grist mills in northern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire and Vermont, inventing a number of improvements for the mills."

Apparently son Joel moved to Lyme from Concord, Essex Co., Vt. as Lois Whipple writes Jonathan lived with Joel in Lyme the last years of his life in "a room on the gound floor of his son's house." In the summer of his 77th year, she writes he walked 40 miles to visit his daughter Sarah Walker. His death at 87 was accidential, caused when he fell off a log

"slippery with frost and ice . . . used to bridge a deep wide ditch." He struck his head on a bolt as he fell and was killed.[510]

Jonathan Whipple and Hannah Rice had the following children:

	1023	i.	Edwards[7] Whipple[511] born in Marlborough 16 November 1777. He may be the Edwards Whipple who died at Waterford, Caledonia Co., Vt. 30 December 1807. See reports in the Massachusetts Sentinel and Columbian Sentinel for that period.
+	1024	ii.	Edmund Rice Whipple born 19 March 1779.
+	1025	iii.	Hannah Whipple born 25 April 1780.
+	1026	iv.	Joel Green Whipple born 2 December 1781.
	1027	v.	Sarah Whipple born in Marlborough 27 July 1783[512] and married Benjamin Walker in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H.
	1028	vi.	Rizpah Whipple[513] born in Marlborough 13 March 1785 and married Elijah Ames.
	1029	vii.	Lucy Whipple born in Marlborough, 15 May 1787[514] and married Jonathan Wheeler.
	1030	viii.	Jonathan Whipple born in Marlborough 23 July 1789 and died 16 January 1807 at 17 years of age.[515]
	1031	ix.	Suky Whipple born in Troy, N.H. 12 June 1791.[516]
	1032	x.	Simeon Whipple[517] born in Troy 12 June 1793 and died 19 November 1823 at 30 years of age.
	1033	xi.	Samuel Whipple[518] born in Troy 24 March 1795 and died there in October 1796, at 1 year of age.
+	1034	xii.	Nancy Whipple born 12 November 1797.
	1035	xiii.	Olive Whipple born in Troy 16 July 1802.[519]

507. Hannah[6] Whipple (Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[520] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 4 July 1754 and married Simeon Rice there 19 February 1774. (Date of intent to marry.) Simeon,[521] son of Edmund Rice and Hannah Gasset, was born in Westborough 2 July 1752 and died 14 September 1790 in Warwick, Franklin Co., Mass., at 38 years of age.

Hannah Whipple and Simeon Rice had the following children:

1036	i.	Samuel[7] Rice born 28 February 1776.[522]
1037	ii.	Dorothy Rice born 18 April 1780.[523]

508. John[6] Whipple (Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[545] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 6 March 1757 and died 27 September 1846 in Lunenburg, Essex Co., Vt., at 89 years of age. He married Sarah Chamberlain in Hubbarston, Worcester Co., Mass. 22 April 1781. Sarah,[525] daughter of Edmund Chamberlain and Mary Carrel, was born in Hopkinton, Middlesex Co., Mass. 4 September 1758 and died 7 September 1857 in Lunenburg, at 99 years of age. John and Sarah were married 65-and-a-half years and were buried in the Chandler lot in the Lunenburg Cemetery.[526] John may be the private who served in Capt. Edmund Brigham's Co., Col. Job Cushing's regt.; service 7 days; company ordered to be mounted if possible and marched 21 August 1777 to reinforce the Northern Army at the request of Gens. John Stark and Benjamin Lincoln. When they arrived at Hadley, Hampshire Co., Mass. there was a counter-order and John returned unmounted.[527]

Identification of the children of John and Sarah (Chamberlain) Whipple is difficult because the attending physician for their first three children born at Hubbardston recorded dates without given names. Consequently, some speculation is included in the listing of their children. Henry Burdette Whipple, in volume I (1965) of his book on Matthew Whipple of Bocking, England, notes in his preface that information on this family is from records compiled by him and from descendants of Fanny (a daughter of John and Sarah) and her husband Reuben Chandler. He also consulted published genealogies on the Chaffee and Chandler families whose members intermarried with this Whipple family.

John Whipple and Sarah Chamberlain had the following children:

\+ 1038 i. John[7] Whipple born 23 May 1781.

\+ 1039 ii. Sarah Whipple born 19 April 1783.

\+ 1040 iii. Fanny Whipple born 22 June 1785.

\+ 1041 iv. Samuel Whipple born 10 September 1787.

1042 v. Joseph Whipple[528] born in Townshend, Windham Co., Vt. abt 1791 and died abt 1840 in Canaseraga, Burns Township, Allegany Co., N.Y. He married Mary Dorand in Townshend 6 June 1814. She was born in Vermont abt 1790. Joseph is listed on the "Grand List" of Townshend for 1810 and is on the roster of the Washington Light Infantry organized in Townshend shortly after the start of the War of 1812. He was living in Canaseraga by 1832 where he was a Trustee of the Methodist Church. There is no direct evidence of who his children were. However, various census included the following Whipple family all living in the same dwelling: the 1850 census of Canaseraga, Mary, age 60, born in Vermont. The 1855 state census states she moved to Burns Township in 1823. She is also in the June 1860 federal census. Lycurgus Whipple, farmer, age 33, born in Vermont, arrived in Burns Township in 1823, not listed in the 1860 census. Vespasian Whipple, farmer, age 23, born in New York. Vespasian was Town Clerk of Canaseraga in 1851 and one of the organizers of Trinity Episcopal Church in 1857. He died at Canaseraga 12 June 1872. John William Whipple, age 18, born in New York; listed in the 1860 census. Mary A. Whipple, age 15, born in New York, listed as a school teacher in the 1860 census.[529]

1043 vi. Otis Whipple[530] born in Townshend abt 1794. He is on the roster of the Washington Light Infantry organized in Townshend shortly after the start of the War of 1812.

\+ 1044 vii. Mary Whipple born 23 September 1795.

1045 viii. Son Whipple[531] born in Townshend abt 1796.

1046 ix. Daughter Whipple[532] born in Townshend abt 1798.

1047 x. Edwards Whipple[533] born in Townshend 9 December 1800 and died 9 July 1881 in Lyme, Grafton Co., N.H., at 80 years of age. He was buried in Lunenburg, Essex Co., Vt. where a stone has the inscription: Edwards Whipple, born December 9, 1800; died July 9, 1880. Vital records at Concord, Essex Co., N.H. identify him as the son of John and Sarah Whipple of Townshend and state he died at Concord. He was buried in the same plot with his parents. A stone carver at Lyme, he never married.

511. Capt. Joseph[6] Whipple (Joseph[5], John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[534] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 19 October 1742 and married twice. (1) Ellen Colman in Grafton. Ellen was born in Massachusetts abt 1741 and died of cancer after 1771 in Grafton. Her name is also given as Elenar in some vital records. (2) Katharine (Joslin) Hastings, a widow, in Shrewsbury, Worcester Co., Mass. 15 October 1797. She was born abt 1749 and died 29 December 1840 in Shrewsbury, at 91 years of age. She married (1) Joseph Hastings 15 November 1770. Joseph Whipple is on the muster roll of Minute Men commanded by Capt. Luke Drury in Gen. Artemas Ward's regiment who marched from Grafton to the battle of Lexington and Concord 19 April 1775. He served 33 days.

Capt. Joseph Whipple and Ellen Colman had the following children born in Grafton:

1048 i. Anna[7] Whipple 22 December 1762 and died the day of birth.[535]

1049 ii. Sarah Whipple 19 October 1764.[536]

1050 iii. Elijah Whipple 19 January 1765 and died there 7 November 1770 at 5 years of age.[537]

1051 iv. Joseph Whipple 1 July 1767 and died there 30 June 1768.[538]

1052 v. Mary Whipple 1 February 1769 and married Amaziah Haywood in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. 17 July 1791.[539] Frederick Clifton Pierce, author of History of Grafton, gives his surname as Howard.

1053 vi. Martha Whipple 16 May 1770 and married Jacob Whitney of Upton, Worcester Co.,Mass. in Grafton 27 September 1795.[540] She is listed as Patty Whipple in the Grafton Marriage Vital Records. (305).

1054 vii. Elizabeth Whipple 13 February 1771.[541] She died young.

512. Mary[6] Whipple (Joseph[5], John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[542] was born in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. 23 February 1745 and married Moses Holbrook in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 15 January 1767. Moses, son of John Holbrooke and Ruth Hill, died 26 March 1802.

Mary Whipple and Moses Holbrook had the following child:

\+ 1055 i. Moses[7] Holbrook born 28 October 1761.

515. Samuel[6] Whipple (Joseph[5], John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[543] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 28 August or 8 September 1749. He died 18 December 1782 in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H., at 33 years of age and was buried in Pinnace Cemetery. He married Lucy Brown in Grafton 24 August 1769. Lucy was born in Watertown, Middlesex Co., Mass. 8 October 1747. Frederick C. Pierce, author of History of Grafton, gives her place of birth as Watertown; author Henry Whipple says it is Leicester, Worcester Co., Mass. She[544] was the daughter of Capt. Abraham Brown and Mary Jones and married (2) Noah Sparhawk in Croydon, 14 December 1786. The wedding was performed by Moses Whipple, Lucy's former father-in-law. She married (3) Capt. Phineas Sanger after 1790.

Samuel was a private in the Grafton militia that fought in the Battle of Lexington and Concord 19 April 1775. He served from the 19th to the 27th of April. According to the National Archives, Samuel was a private in Col. Jonathan Chase's regt of Militia in the State of New Hampshire, which regiment went and reinforced the Northern Continental Army at Ticonderoga by Maj. Gen. Nathaniel Folsom's Orders of 7 May 1777. Samuel appears with the rank of corporal on the list of 60 officers and men belonging to Col. Chase's regt discharged 11 June 1777.[545]

Samuel Whipple and Lucy Brown had the following children born in Grafton:

	1056	i.	Aaron[7] Whipple[546] 26 March 1770 and died 9 February 1778 in Croydon, at 7 years of age. Buried in Pinnacle Cemetery.
	1057	ii.	Joseph Whipple[547] 4 February 1772 (baptized in Croydon, 9 September 1778).
+	1058	iii.	Capt. William Whipple 13 January 1774.
	1059	iv.	Benjamin Whipple[548] 3 January 1776 (baptized in Croydon, 9 September 1778).
+	1060	v.	Lucy Whipple 30 January 1777.

516. Solomon[6] Whipple (Joseph[5], John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[549] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 17 March 1752 and married Abigail Russell in Greenwich, Mass. 16 September 1777. She was born in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. 10 March 1755.

Solomon Whipple and Abigail Russell had the following children born in Sutton:

	1061	i.	David[7] Whipple[550] in 1781 and died there 30 May 1785, at 3 years of age.
	1062	ii.	Isaac Whipple[551] abt November 1784 and died there 7 April 1785, at abt 4 months of age.[552]
+	1063	iii.	Russell Whipple 14 May 1786.
	1064	iv.	Joseph Whipple[553] 31 July 1788 and married Azubah Smith 7 December 1807.
+	1065	v.	Polly B. Whipple in 1791.

518. Jeremiah[6] Whipple (Joseph[5], John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[554] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 20 December 1758 and died aft 1801 in St. Johnsbury, Caledonia Co., Vt. He married Rebeckah Brigham in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. 26 October 1775. Rebeckah,[555] daughter of Aaron Brigham and Elizabeth Brown, was born in Grafton 26 April 1759. Her date and place of death are unknown but it is believed she died in Vermont before the family moved to Ohio. This may be the Jeremiah Whipple who served as a private in Capt. Abraham Batcheller's Co., Col. Jonathan Holman's regt.; service 21 days; company marched to Providence, R.I. on an alarm in December 1776. Roll sworn to in Worcester Co.

Jeremiah Whipple and Rebeckah Brigham had the following children born in Alstead, Cheshire Co., N.H.:

+	1066	i.	Elijah[7] Whipple 2 March 1776.
	1067	ii.	Lydia Whipple[556] 14 July 1778.
	1068	iii.	Hannah Whipple[557] 25 August 1780.
	1069	iv.	Rebeckah Whipple[558] 17 October 1782.
+	1070	v.	Daniel Whipple 20 July 1784.
+	1071	vi.	Elisha Whipple 18 July 1786.
	1072	vii.	Jeremiah Whipple[559] 17 January 1789.
	1073	viii.	Sally Whipple[560] 31 March 1791.

520. Mary[6] Whipple (Lieut. James[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[561] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 21 September 1730 and married twice. (1) Joshua Winchester in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 6 December 1750. He was baptized in Brookline, Norfolk Co., Mass. 14 May 1727 and died 30 August 1757 in Grafton. Joshua is believed to descend from John Winchester, the immigrant, who embarked 6 April 1635 on the Elizabeth and landed at Boston, Mass. He settled in Hingham, Plymouth Co., Mass. and received a grant of five acres of land there 3 July 1636. He is listed as the son of Richard Wynchester and was baptized in the parish of Cranbrook, Co. Kent, England 19 May 1611.[562] (2) Ephraim Sherman Jr. in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 12 May 1760. Ephraim,[563] son of Ephraim Sherman and Thankful Temple, was born in Grafton 19 March 1734 and died in 1818 in Vermilion, Ashland Co., Ohio, at 84 years of age. His death record indicates he died in his 66th year which would mean a birth year of 1752. This birth year makes him 22 years younger than Mary, an unlikely circumstance.

Mary Whipple and Joshua Winchester had the following children:

	1074	i.	Mary[7] Winchester born in Grafton 9 June 1751 and married Phineas Newton in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. 26 January 1771.[564]
	1075	ii.	Sarah Winchester[565] born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 17 August 1753 and married Phineas Leland in 1774.
+	1076	iii.	Prudence Winchester born 29 March 1755.

Mary Whipple and Ephraim Sherman Jr. had the following children born in Grafton:

	1077	iv.	Elizabeth Sherman 27 December 1760 and died young.[566]
	1078	v.	Elizabeth Sherman 16 December 1761.[567]
+	1079	vi.	Lydia Sherman 17 February 1763.

1080 vii. Martha Sherman 17 March 1765 and married Hugh McNamara of Northbridge, Worcester Co., Mass. in Grafton 1 July 1784.[568]

1081 viii. Ephraim Sherman 9 July 1767 and married Remember Cook of Smithfield, Mass. in Grafton 11 October 1789.[569] (Date of intent to marry.)

\+ 1082 ix. Thankful Sherman 5 August 1769.

523. Lt. James[6] Whipple (Lieut. James[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1]) was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 23 November 1737 and died there 28 July 1808, at 70 years of age. He married Elizabeth Hall in Grafton 14 June 1763. She was born in Massachusetts in 1740 and died 27 October 1803 in Grafton, at 63 years of age.[570] About noon 19 April 1775, the people of Grafton received word the British were marching on Concord, Middlesex Co., Mass. to destroy the military stores kept there. The people gathered on the Common and before sundown, two companies consisting of nearly 100 men were on the march to Cambridge, Middlesex Co., Mass. where they arrived the following morning. Almost the entire male population of the town had joined. The battle had been won by the time they arrived and they remained for several weeks to perfect a military organization and erect fortifications. James Whipple was a Lieutenant under Capt. Aaron Kimball in Col. Artemas Ward's regiment on that fateful April day marching "for the defense of American rights." His brother John served as a corporal and brother Daniel as a private under him. Later that year James served as Lieutenant in the 10th company under Capt. Nathaniel Sherman in the 6th regiment commanded by Col. John Goulding.[571]

Lt. James Whipple and Elizabeth Hall had the following children born in Grafton:

\+ 1083 i. Jonathan[7] Whipple 3 December 1763.

\+ 1084 ii. Sarah Whipple 3 September 1765.

\+ 1085 iii. James Whipple 1 December 1767.

\+ 1086 iv. Oliver Whipple 24 November 1769.

\+ 1087 v. Thaddeus Whipple 12 February 1772.

\+ 1088 vi. Eunice Whipple 9 February 1774.

\+ 1089 vii. Perley Whipple 24 July 1776.

\+ 1090 viii. Nathaniel Whipple 8 September 1778.

1091 ix. Josiah Whipple 26 March 1781 and died unmarried 8 October 1803 in Grafton, at 22 years of age.[572]

1092 x. Betsey Whipple 21 January 1784 and died in 1846 probably at 62 years of age. She married James Wright Jenkins in Grafton, 4 April 1804. (Date of intent to marry January 1804.) He died 19 September 1866 in Worcester, Co., Mass., at 86 years of age. James kept a tavern in Furnace Village in 1707 and 1708; was master of the Mount Zion Lodge in 1811; then moved to Barre, Worcester Co., Mass. where he was Captain of militia.[573]

526. John[6] Whipple (Lieut. James[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[574] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 21 May 1742 and died there 18 August 1811, at 69 years of age. He married Ruth Adams in Grafton 20 June 1765. Ruth,[575] daughter of Andrew Adams and Elizabeth Hunt, was born in Grafton 25 April 1746 and died there 9 April 1823, 16 days shy of 77 years of age. John was a corporal in the company of militia, Artemas Ward's regt, which marched "for defense of American rights" 19 April 1775 at the Battle of Lexington and Concord, Mass. He served from 19 April to 18 May. His brother James was Lieutenant in the company.[576]

John Whipple and Ruth Adams had the following children born in Grafton:

1093 i. Elizabeth[7] Whipple[577] 4 April 1767 and died 1 February 1844 in Grafton, at 76 years of age. She married Moses Adams in Grafton 29 March 1786. Moses,[578] son of James Adams, was born in Massachusetts in 1760 and died 2 May 1839 in Grafton, at 78 years of age.

\+ 1094 ii. John Whipple Jr. 10 December 1769.

527. Daniel[6] Whipple (Lieut. James[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[579] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 2 December 1750 and died 30 December 1796 in Walpole, Cheshire Co., N.H., at 46 years of age. He married Martha Adams in Grafton 7 August 1776. Martha,[580] daughter of Andrew Adams and Elizabeth Hunt, was born in Grafton 23 December 1759 and died there 8 December 1844, at 84 years of age. Daniel was a private in the company of Milita that marched from Grafton to join in the battle of Lexington and Concord, Mass. 19 July 1775. His brother James was the Lieutenant in the company commanded by Capt. Aaron Kimball. He served from 19 April to 4 May.[581] The family moved from Grafton to Walpole, where some of their children were born.

Daniel Whipple and Martha Adams had the following children:

1095	i.	Daniel[7] Whipple[582] born in Grafton 17 April 1776.
1096	ii.	Adams Whipple[583] born in Grafton 13 September 1779 and died 8 January 1843 at 63 years of age.
1097	iii.	Andrew Whipple[584] born 29 September 1782 and died 19 March 1790 at 7 years of age.
1098	iv.	Patty Whipple[585] born 19 September 1785.[586]
1099	v.	Luther Whipple[587] born 24 November 1788 and died 25 March 1790 at 1 year of age.
1100	vi.	Betsey Whipple[588] born 24 July 1793 and died 29 September 1802 at 9 years of age.

529. James[6] Whipple (Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[589] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 29 November 1729 and died in 1767 in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass., at 37 years of age. He married Lydia Powers in Grafton 29 November 1750. She was born in Littleton, Middlesex Co., Mass.

James Whipple and Lydia Powers had the following children:

	1101	i.	Lydia[7] Whipple[590] born in Grafton 22 August 1753 and died there in 1757, at 3 years of age.
+	1102	ii.	Rev. Jacob Whipple born 4 November 1755.
+	1103	iii.	David Whipple born 12 September 1759.
+	1104	iv.	James Whipple born in 1765.
+	1105	v.	Moses Whipple born abt 1768.

530. Col. Moses[6] Whipple (Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[591] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 13 May 1733 and died 14 May 1814 in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H., at 81 years of age. He married Catharine Forbush in Grafton 20 May 1758. Catharine,[592] daughter of Aaron Forbush and Susanna Morse, was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 18 June 1739 and died in August 1829 in Charlestown, at 90 years of age.

The name Forbush has developed through several changes since it appeared in Scotland. It was written "Ffarabas," "Burbush," sometimes "Forbes" later "Forbush." Catherine's Forbush line begins with Daniel Ffarabas who was born about 1620 in Kensellar, Scotland. He came to New England and settled in Cambridge, Middlesex Co., Mass. where he married Rebecca Penniman on 26 March 1660. He died in October 1689 at Cambridge. Rebecca died there 3 May 1677. Their children were Daniel, b. 1664; Thomas, 1667; Elizabeth, 1669; Rebecca, 1672; and Samuel, 1675(?). Thomas, born 7 March 1667 in Cambridge married Dorcas Rice born in 1664 in Sudbury, Middlebury Co., Mass. and died in October 1774 at Westborough. He was one of the founders of the church at Westborough. Their children were Aaron, b. 1693; Thomas, 1695; Tabitha, 1699; Rebecca, 1701; and Eunice, 1705. Aaron was born 13 April 1693 at Marlborough, Middlesex Co., Mass. and married Susanna Morse, daughter of Daniel Morse.

In 1757 during the French and Indian War, Moses was a member of Grafton's company of training and alarm soldiers under command of Capt. Samuel Warrin and Lt. Wait.[593] He was a private under command of his cousin Capt. James Whipple during the alarm for the relief of Fort William Henry on the shores of Lake George, NY in August 1757. He was appointed an officer in Col. Artemas Ward's regiment by the Governor of Massachusetts in 1762.[594]

Moses is one of the original settlers of Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. The Town Charter signed 31 May 1763 by Gov. Benning Wentworth, divided the township into 71 shares: two reserved as a farm for the governor, one for the propagation of the gospel, one for the Church of England, one for the first minister to settle there, one for the education of youth, and 65 to various individuals. The Town, encompassing 26,000 acres, is situated on the highlands between the Connecticut and Merrimac rivers and is bounded on the north by Grantham, east by Springfield and Sunapee, south by Newport, and west by Cornish. Concord, which became the capital of New Hampshire, is 44 miles northwest. Croydon Mountain, the highest elevation in the county, extends across the western part of town. The north branch of the Sugar river crosses it in a south westerly direction, dividing it into two nearly equal parts. Land bordering the river was rich and productive. The hilly soil produced excellent grass, wheat, and potatoes while higher up the mountain side, only pasture and forest thrived. These were topped by lofty piles of granite.

The first Proprietor's Meeting was held in Grafton 17 June 1763.[595] Three years later, Moses, then 33, Seth Chase, David Warren, and Ezekiel Powers went to Croydon, made preliminary preparations for a settlement, and returned to Grafton for their families. Chase, with wife and child, was the first to return, arriving 10 June. Moses and his brother-in-law, David Warren, and their families arrived the 24th. Moses' family consisted of wife Catherine, sons Thomas, Aaron, and Moses, and daughter Jerusha. Moses built the family homestead on the swell of land between what became Four Corners and East Village. It was unpainted, small, rustic, with few conveniences. The gable end was to the street, the wood shed on one side which had a platform for spinning, quilling, warping, weaving, with all the implements of domestic manufacturing. On the other side, through the stoop was the well with its oaken bucket and crystal water of arctic coolness. A garden, with its fringe of currant bushes, herbs, and patches of vegetables, was enclosed by a stone wall. In the center was a large granite boulder smothered with roses. A row of Lombardy poplars was planted in front and an apple orchard in the rear. The barns to hold both farm products and house the stock were a short distance away.

Warren built on the north side of the Pinnacle, near the burial place, "God's Acre." In a few years the slopes were dotted with small rocky farms. A dark forest, the haunt of night-prowling animals, the terror of the cornfield, the henhouse, and the sheep field surrounded the area. The cemetery received minimal care and was soon overgrown with briers and ivy, more repulsive than attractive. It had grassy mounds and significant hollows and an occasional headstone of blue slate (not one of marble) with quaint inscriptions: "Death is a debt to nature due, which I have paid, and so must you." "As you are now, so once was I, As I am now, you soon must be; Remember, you are born to die; Therefore, prepare to follow me."

Moses, a mill-wright and land surveyor in Grafton, became a farmer and operated a potato whiskey distillery in Croydon. He was elected Selectman at the first Town Meeting 8 March 1768 and served in this office for an additional 13 terms, the last in 1786. He was elected Town Clerk in 1768 and re-elected to that post nine times ending in 1780. He served the town as Justice of the Peace and as Chairman of the Committee of Safety during the Revolutionary War. Croydon's militia was organized in 1774 and he was chosen Captain and commissioned by John Wentworth, the last colonial Governor of the Province. He was appointed to the same rank by Matthew Thornton, President of the New Hampshire Congress in 1775. In October 1777, he commanded a company of men from Croydon and Cornish during the Battle of Saratoga. When the militia was reorganized at the close of the Revolution, he was appointed Colonel of the 15th regiment. In 1786 he was appointed one of the "Conservators of the Peace" to quell the armed mob which had surrounded the State Legislature. He represented Croydon at one of the early Conventions at Exeter which led to the formation of state government and served in the State Legislature for several terms.

He and his wife Catherine were original members of Croydon's first church organized 9 September 1778 where he served as Deacon for 30 years. The original Meeting House was never finished and was too cold for services in winter. Its plates, beams, and king-posts were exposed. The pews, square with perpendicular partitions and un-cushioned turn-up seats, were let down with a clatter at the "Amen" of the long prayer. The pulpit was elevated and half-way up sat the Deacons—Moses, Stephen Powers, and Sherman Cooper. The choir was in the front gallery and performed without benefit of any instrument save getting the key-note with the pitch pipe. A tower with belfry was at one end but it never had a bell. Mayweed, milkweed, and huge thistles with fragrant blossoms and sharp thorns grew in profusion around the building. People arrived for service afoot or on horseback, the latter dismounting at the "horse-block."

The summer after their arrival in Croydon, Catherine established a school in their home for all the children in the community. She ran it for several years without charge and it was the foundation on which later schoolmasters, Stephen Powers, Martin Griswold, and Eleazer Jackson, built the education system in town. The first school house was built in 1772. It was 20-feet square and £8 was raised to operate it.

When a number of towns on the east side of the Connecticut river renounced their allegiance to New Hampshire and made plans to join Vermont, Moses represented Croydon in the controversy. He was elected to the Vermont Legislature in 1781 and produced his credentials and took the oath to qualify on 6 April. He was Chairman of a 3-man Committee appointed on 22 June to work with the Board of War. After Vermont agreed with a request by Gen. George Washington that the western bank of the Connecticut river be the dividing line between Vermont and New Hampshire, representatives from the disaffected towns on the river's east side were not seated and the towns returned their allegiance to New Hampshire.

He was elected to more offices than any other man in Croydon and came to be referred to as the "father of the town." Contemporaries said his word was law in all local matters, so great was their respect for him. He was known as a peace-maker and as a man with a large heart and upright character. Some called him the George Washington of Croydon. He moved to Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H. in 1809 to live his remaining days with his son Thomas. He died there at age 81.[596]

Col. Moses Whipple and Catharine Forbush had the following children:

	1106	i.	Katherine[7] Whipple[597] baptized in April 1767, the first child to be born in Croydon, and died there of consumption 25 December 1794 in her 27th year. She was buried in Pinnacle Cemetery.

540. Sarah[6] Whipple (Sgt. Ebenezer[5], John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[641] was born in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. 8 December 1740 and died 13 May 1796 in Heath, Franklin Co., Mass., at 55 years of age. She married Shearjashub Spooner of Petersham Worcester Co., Mass. in Petersham 21 May 1760. Shearjashub,[642] son of Daniel Spooner and Elizabeth Ruggles, was born in Dartmouth, Bristol Co., Mass. 14 August 1735 and died of smallpox 23 April 1785 in Hudson, Columbia Co., N.Y., at 49 years of age. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War and his name is found on several muster rolls including with Gen. John Stark at the August 1777 Battle of Bennington, Vt. His financial losses were so great he left his family at Heath in 1785, leaving this eldest son in charge, and along with son Paul went to Hudson to seek employment at his trade—house painter. He was a man of much culture and was highly respected by neighbors and friends for his intelligence.

The Spooner family goes back to William and Hannah (Pratt) Spooner (1) of Plymouth, Plymouth Co. and Dartmouth, Bristol Co., Mass. William was in Plymouth as early as 1637. His wife was the daughter of Joshua and Bathsheba Pratt. (2) Samuel and Experience (Wing) Spooner of Dartmouth. Experience was the daughter of Daniel and Hannah (Swift) Wing of Sandwich, Barnstable Co., Mass. (3) Daniel and Elizabeth (Ruggles) Spooner of Petersham, Mass. Daniel lived to age 104. Elizabeth was the daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth (__) Ruggles of Rochester, Plymouth Co., Mass. (4) Shearjashub and Sarah (Whipple) Spooner.

Sarah Whipple and Shearjashub Spooner had the following children born in Petersham:

571. Bailey[6] Putnam (Timothy[5], Ruth[4] Whipple, Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[677] was born in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H. 13 May 1770 and died 17 April 1827 in Washtenaw Co., Mich., at 56 years of age. He married Laura Anna Bailey in Charlestown 5 March 1795. Bailey and brother David married sisters Anna and Hannah. Laura,[678] daughter of Luther Bailey and Experience Bayley, was born in Westmoreland, Cheshire Co., N.H. 6 September 1775 and died in April 1850 in Washtenaw Co., at 74 years of age. Bailey owned and operated a farm at Charlestown and was also a shoemaker. He moved his family to Weathersfield, Windsor Co., Vt. in 1815 where he farmed for eight years before moving to New York state. Eldest son Hiram moved to Michigan and his letters about life in Michigan motivated Bailey to move the family there. Younger son Guy remained on the New Hampshire farm. The trip to Michigan was by wagon, Erie Canal boat, and schooner. They arrived in early 1827 and shortly thereafter Bailey fell ill and died of "quick consumption." Anna remained in Michigan with son Hiram despite an intense homesickness for New Hampshire.

Bailey Putnam and Laura Anna Bailey had the following children:

+	1201	i.	Roxelane[7] Putnam born 4 March 1797.
+	1202	ii.	Hiram Putnam born 27 March 1798.
	1203	iii.	Guy Putnam[679] born in Charlestown 11 June 1800. He married, probably in Orleans Co., N.Y., but his wife's name is unknown. He moved his family to Michigan before 1840.
	1204	iv.	Joseph Putnam born 19 August 1808 and married Sarah Lowe in Washtenaw Co. 12 February 1837. Sarah was the daughter of Herman Lowe.[680]

He married Hannah Greenleaf 11 November 1790. She was born 20 December 1770.[104]

At 13, Jacob was apprenticed to a Mr. Davis, goldsmith of Newburyport who taught him how to make gold beads, silver knee and shoe buckles, etc. He was a quick learner and developed improved methods to do the work. His apprenticeship ended after seven years and he became a skilled die maker for striking coin which led to a government contract to strike the copper coin issued at that time. At 21, he invented a machine that made nails with a single operation, thus doing away with the tedious labor of the human hand. In 1809 he patented a steel plate that prevented the counterfeiting of bank bills and other paper securities. This invention soon came into universal use by states and other entities issuing security instruments. He moved from Newburyport to Philadelphia in 1816 and a few years later to Liverpool, England. This ocean voyage resulted in his invention of an improved instrument — known as a bathometer — to determine water depth. After a period in Liverpool he moved to London where he invented a new steam engine, a new weapon called the steam gun, a steam rocket engine, and a propeller for steam vessels which replaced paddle wheels. The English knew him as the "American inventor."

John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[618] was born in Lancaster, Worcester Co., Mass. and died there of consumption 16 August 1832, at 52 years of age. He married Deborah Fairbanks in Lancaster 1 January 1804. She was born in Bolton, Worcester Co., Mass. abt 1781 and died of consumption 8 November 1827 in Shirley, Middlesex Co., Mass., at 46 years of age. She was buried in Middle Cemetery and her gravestone is the only remaining one in Lancaster with the name Solendine.[619] They moved to Shirley in 1823. On 11 February 1823, James Parker, Jr. of Shirley wrote in his diary: "Manassah Soulendine moved into the Frost Farm." This farm was on the banks of the Nashua river in "Pine Plain" lying north of the Catecoonemaug. Manassah wrote the Probate Judge that "it was inconvenient" for him to administer his wife's estate and requested Jacob Foster be appointed. He is called "of Lancaster" at the time so it is possible he moved back to his native town after the death of his wife.

Manassah Solendine and Deborah Fairbanks had the following children born in Lancaster:

1759 i. Celinda[8] Solendine[620] died there in 1829, at 23 years of age.

892. Jonathan[7] Whipple (Capt. Stephen[6], John[5], Matthew[4], Lt. John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[626] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. 12 November 1755 and died there 18 September 1816, at 60 years of age. He married Martha Whipple in Ipswich 15 November 1777. (Date of intent to to marry.) Martha,[623] daughter of Dea. Nathaniel Whipple and Mary Appleton, was born in Ipswich 12 November 1755 and died there 23 November 1849, at 94 years of age. Martha and Jonathan were fifth cousins. Martha's descent is from Elder John Whipple of Ipswich as follows: Elder John[1], Capt. John[2], Maj. Matthew[3], Capt. John[4], and Dea. Nathaniel[5]. Jonathan and Martha's children and succeeding generations claim double descent from Matthew Whipple (ca 1560-1619), Clothier, of Bocking, England.

Jonathan is not listed in the Ipswich birth records but is mentioned in his father's will dated 7 April 1759 and probated 16 March 1761. He was 16 when his uncle John Whipple was granted guardianship in 1772.[628] He served during the Revolutionary War in 1777. James M. Petty, accredited genealogist of Salt Lake City, Utah, determined Jonathan's Revolutionary War service from among several Jonathan Whipples in Massachusetts by studying the town records of Danvers. These records show that Jonathan moved from Danvers in the late 1760s and returned in 1784 after living in Stonington, New London Co., Conn. Petty also identified Jonathan as the son of Capt. Stephen Whipple of Ipswich who served in the French and Indian Wars.

Jonathan is on the list of Ipswich Hamlet persons who received pay of one pound, 13 shillings 4 pence for militia duty in May 1777; was a private in Capt. David Bent's company, Col. Job Cushing's regt. entering service 14 October and discharged 29 November 1777 serving in the Northern Department; a corporal in Capt. Thomas Cumming's company, Col. Jacob Gerrish's regt., entering service 14 October, discharged 22 November 1779. This regiment was detached from the militia of Essex and Suffolk counties and assigned to reinforce the Army under Gen. George Washington.

Jonathan was listed as the head of a family on the 1790 census for Ipswich. Also listed: two free white males under age 16 (supposedly sons Nathaniel and Stephen) and four free white females (supposedly wife Martha and daughters Martha, Elizabeth, and Hannah), p. 77. The family is also listed in the 1800 federal census in Essex county, p. 596.

Jonathan Whipple and Martha Whipple had the following children born in Ipswich:

John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[640] was born in Plainfield, Windsor Co., Conn. 26 April 1764 and died 5 September 1851 in Canton, Stark Co., Ohio, at 87 years of age. He was buried in Westlawn Cemetery near President William McKinley's tomb. He married Lydia Kingsbury Russell in Plainfield 2 November 1788. Lydia,[641] daughter of Capt. Josiah Russell and Lydia Kingsbury, was born in Plainfield 6 March 1770 and died 2 November 1863 in Denmark, Ashtabula Co., Ohio, at 93 years of age. She was buried in the Gageville Cemetery in Kingsville, Ashtabula Co., Ohio. She signed her will with an X, 19 July 1859 (she was living in Jefferson, Ashtabula Co., Ohio). It was witnessed by Cyrus Avery and Willibald Wagner, the latter being appointed executor. She instructed that her just debts be paid with the balance of her estate "real and personal of every description whatever" to go to son Zebulon Whipple. The will is in Book A, p. 382 in the Ashtabula Co., Ohio Court House.

Zebulon served in the Revolutionary War from Connecticut with rank of private (DAR Patriot Index, 374). His pension application file in the National Archives is volumnious. Zebulon moved his family from Connecticut to Stark Co., Ohio in 1822, traveling by ox cart. He was 58 and Lydia was 52. Zebulon is said to have worn his war uniform around the streets of Canton in his later years much to the embarrasment of his son John.

947. Matthew[7] Whipple (Matthew[6], Dea. Joseph[5], Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[694] was born 20 March 1754 and married Mercy Giddens in Danvers, Essex Co., Mass. 10 June 1775. (Date of intent to marry.) She was born in 1753 and died 21 March 1826 in Salem, Essex Co., Mass. The birth date is computed from the notation in the Salem Vital Death Records that she was 73 at the time of death.[695] The record identified her as a widow of Danvers. Her name is recorded as Marcy Giddings on p. 175 (Marriages) of the Wenham Essex Co., Mass. Vital Records.

Matthew Whipple and Mercy Giddens had the following child:

\+ 1822 i. Matthew[8] Whipple.

951. Matthew[7] Putnam (Mary[6] Whipple, Dea. Joseph[5], Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[696] was born in Danvers, Essex Co., Mass. 2 August 1756 and married Ruth Smith there 17 March 1788.

Matthew Putnam and Ruth Smith had the following child born in Danvers:

1823 i. Phineas[8] Putnam 10 September 1788.[697]

955. William[7] Whipple (Dr. Joseph[6], Dea. Joseph[5], Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[698] was born in Manchester, Essex Co., Mass. 1 April 1776 and married Margaret Byrn in Shelburne, Nova Scotia, Canada. She was born in Nova Scotia in 1773 and died in 1847, at 74 years age. William lived at Yarmouth, Nova Scotia for several years before moving to New York after 1800 for a few years and then moved to Digby, Nova Scotia.

1847 xiii. Olive Ray[726] in 1803 and married Levi Kemp in Henniker 28 November 1827. He was born in 1800 and died there 1 November 1841, at 41 years of age.[727]

1848 xiv. David M. Ray[728] 11 June 1806 and married Hannah B. Holt in Wilton, Hillsborough Co., N.H., 4 March 1829.

965. Nehemiah[7] Whipple (Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[729] was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 25 March 1750 and died 22 January 1809 in Whipple Hollow, Rutland Co., Vt., at 58 years of age. He married Sarah Robert bef 1777. Sarah,[730] daughter of John Robert, was born in Providence, Providence Co., R.I. in 1752 and died 22 September 1812 in Whipple Hollow, at 60 years of age. Sarah's birth date and the name of her father were found in a typewritten manuscript in the files at the Bennington Museum, Bennington, Bennington Co., Vt. The manuscript was primarily about Nehemiah's Revolutionary War record. It also included information on Nehemiah's father, Benjamin Whipple's, Revolutionary War service. The source of the manuscript dated in 1941 was Mrs. C. G. Green of Darby, Vt. who identified herself as a descendant of Nehemiah and Sarah. Nehemiah and Sarah are buried in Whipple Hollow Cemetery and Sarah's death date is on her tombstone.

Nehemiah Whipple and Sarah Robert had the following children:

\+ 1849 i. Wright[8] Whipple born 13 March 1777.

\+ 1850 ii. Betsey Whipple born 20 March 1779.

\+ 1851 iii. Anner Whipple born 26 June 1781.

1852 iv. Phoebe Whipple[731] born in Whipple Hollow 6 October 1783 and married John Page in Rutland Co. 4 May 1804. The wedding was conducted by Rev. Lemuel Hanes, a well-known mullato minister. John was from Parkerstown (now Mendon, Worcester Co., Mass.). His surname may have been spelled Paige. Phoebe received a legacy of $288.01 from her father's estate following the death of her mother. The estate was closed 31 December 1812.

1853 v. Abel Whipple[732] born in Whipple Hollow in 1785 and died there 1 August 1789, at 4 years of age. He is buried in Whipple Hollow Cemetery.

\+ 1854 vi. Enoch Whipple born 10 September 1788.

\+ 1855 vii. Abraham Whipple was born in 1790.

1856 viii. Ada Whipple[733] born in Whipple Hollow in 1791 and died there 20 January 1797, at 5 years of age. She is buried in Whipple Hollow Cemetery. Her tombstone was standing in 2001.

+	1857	ix.	Nathan Whipple born 21 April 1794.
	1858	x.	Zilpha Whipple[734] born in Whipple Hollow 22 October 1795 and died there 22 February 1803, at 7 years of age. She is buried in the Whipple Hollow Cemetery. Henry Whipple mistakenly named her Zepha in his Whipple Genealogy.

966. Hepzibah[7] Whipple (Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[735] was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 1 July 1751 and died 19 December 1837 in Rutland Co., Vt., at 86 years of age. She married twice. (1) Daniel Mills in Bennington, Bennington Co., Vt., 1 July 1767. Their marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Jedediah Dewey. Daniel died abt 1777.[736] (2) Solomon Purdy in Rutland Co. aft February 1777. Solomon,[737] son of Benjamin Purdy and Deborah Smith, was born in Dutchess Co., N.Y. in February 1749/50 and died 28 March 1819, at 70 years of age. He married (2) Sarah Mead in Rutland Co. abt March 1774. Sarah was the widow of Wright Roberts at the time of her marriage to Solomon. An agreement between William Roberts, administrator of Wright Roberts' estate, and Solomon provided that Solomon would support Wright's son James for a 3-year period which began 2 March 1774, hence the presumed marriage date. Solomon moved to Rutland county at an early date and probably occupied Sarah's log house after their marriage. [See Rutland Historical Society Quarterly, vol. XI, No. 3 for details of an archeological dig at the site of Wright Roberts' log home.] In February 1778, a year after Sarah's death, he bought 100 acres west of Boardman Hill on the Tinmouth river a little east of the Roberts' property. He resided there until his death. Solomon named Lois (Mills) Watkins, Hepzibah's daughter by her first husband, Daniel Mills, in his will. Hepzibah and Solomon are buried in Pleasant Street Cemetery, West Rutland, Rutland Co., Vt. He served in the Revolution and took flight with many early Rutland families after the fall of Fort Ticonderoga. His grandson Edward C. Purdy wrote an article in the Rutland Herald 1 February 1856 about the trying experience endured at that time. It's headline was The Battle of Hubbardton:

"The greater portion of the scattered inhabitants of Rutland County, after the Battle of Hubbardton, sought safety in flight to Manchester and Bennington. My paternal grandfather occupied one of the few log houses then existing in Rutland. It was situated on the intervale in West Rutland. As the retreating soldiers came past, nearly exhausted with running, and spread the alarm, the men, women, and children 'stood not upon the order of their going, but went.' They possessed but few valuables, and these they left or took with them, just as their alarm rose or fell for the moment. One family left the fat boiling over the fire, and took only a tin dipper! My grandfather hastily hid a few articles in the woods near-by, and left a family of pigs in the pen.

"On his return after the surrender of Burgoyne, he found most of the hidden articles (among them a salt mortar which I now hold as a family relic), but his pigs had disappeared. He knew where to look for them. A Tory family named Lee inhabited the neighboring town of Ira and he found the pigs in their possession in such good condition that, Tories as they were, he could not find it in his heart to deprive them of all pay for their trouble, and he gave them two of his pigs. A few days afterwards the whole family of Lees were 'taken with a leaving,' and sought safety in Canada."

Hepzibah Whipple and Daniel Mills had the following children born in Bennington:

	1859	i.	Hannah[8] Mills[738] baptized in 1770.
	1860	ii.	Hepzibah Mills[739] baptized in in 1772.
	1861	iii.	Daniel Mills[740] baptized in 1774 and died there bef 1777.
	1862	iv.	Daniel Mills[741] baptized in 1777.
+	1863	v.	Lois Mills 9 September 1768.

Hepzibah Whipple and Solomon Purdy had the following children born in Rutland Co.:

	1864	vi.	Solomon Purdy[742] 25 July 1779 and died 17 February 1861 in Franklin, Franklin Co., Vt., at 81 years of age. He married Nancy Backus in Rutland Co., 2 December 1804. She was born in Townsend, Mass. and died 25 January 1827 in Putnam, Muskingum Co., Ohio.[743] Solomon was Secretary of the Ohio Company in 1809. A group, mostly from the Rutland's West Parish, migrated to Ohio.
+	1865	vii.	John Purdy 10 January 1781.
	1866	viii.	Mills Purdy[744] 19 September 1781 and died 6 November 1813 in Plattsburgh, Clinton Co., N.Y., at 32 years of age. Mills was graduated from Vermont's Middlebury College in 1807. According to an article in the 8 December 1813 issue of the Rutland Herald, while living in Malone, Franklin Co., N.Y. in October he suffered a debilitating disease which affected his brain. When living in Plattsburgh, where depressed by his illness, he shot himself in the neck with a pistol.[745]
	1867	ix.	Arland Purdy[746] 30 April 1801 and died 31 July 1803 in Rutland Co., at 2 years of age.

967. Sarah[7] Whipple (Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[747] was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 1 July 1751 and died 21 May 1818 in Rutland, Rutland Co., Vt., at 66 years of age. She married twice. (1) Aaron Smith in Bennington, Bennington Co., Vt. He died abt 1778 in Rutland Co.[748] In December 1773, while residing at Bennington, Aaron purchased 100 acres in Rutland. The family moved to town when their first born, Moses, was about 4. After Fort Ticonderoga was captured in July 1777, the family fled to Bennington where Aaron fought in the Battle of Bennington the next month. (2) Nehemiah Gates in Rutland Co. 11 July 1779. Nehemiah,[749] son of Nehemiah Gates and Elizabeth Baker, was born in Preston, New London Co., Conn. 15 May 1748 and died 14 March 1835 in Clarendon, Rutland Co., Vt., at 86 years of age. He had moved to Rutland Co. by 1779 and to Clarendon before 1822. He married (2) Hannah Walker, widow of Lewis Walker, 26 November 1819 at Clarendon. She died there 18 November 1821, aged 76 years. He married (3) Desire Bass, widow of Obadiah Bass, 7 July or 18 August 1822. She was Mrs. Desire Hawley when she married Bass in 1820 and was residing in Kingsbury, Washington Co., N.Y. in 1839 when she sold her rights in the nine acres on Pleasant St. in West Rutland willed to her by Nehemiah.

Sarah Whipple and Nehemiah Gates had the following children:

1868 i. Cyrus[8] Gates.[750] He was residing in Miller, Lawrence Co., Ohio in 1838.

1869 ii. Sarah Gates[751] born in Rutland Co. 2 June 1780 and married Lewis Walker in Vermont 25 February 1802.

1870 iii. Mary Gates[752] born in Rutland Co., 4 February 1782. It is believed she married Luther Perkins 5 Deccember 1799.

1871 iv. Hepzibah Gates[753] born in Rutland Co. in January 1784 and married Putnam DeWolf. The family was residing at Virgil, Cortland Co., N.Y. in 1838.

1872 v. Daniel Gates[754] born in Rutland Co. 11 January 1786 and died 31 January 1858 in Carrollton, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., at 72 years of age. He married Anna Anderson 6 March 1808.

1873 vi. Elias Gates[755] born in Rutland Co. 31 January 1788 and died 18 March 1852 in Granville, Licking Co., Ohio, at 64 years, 1 month, 18 days of age. He married Sally Smith in Rutland 11 May 1809. Sally,[756] daughter of Joel Smith, was born abt 1791 and died 27 December 1831 at 40 years of age.

1874 vii. Sabra Gates[757] was born in Rutland Co. 22 August 1790 and died 23 June 1869 at 78 years of age. She married Deming Gorham 11 February 1808.

Sarah Whipple and Aaron Smith had the following children born in Bennington:

1875 viii. Moses Smith[758] 18 April 1771 and died 26 February 1861 in Rutland Co., at 89 years of age. He married Relief Rice in Rutland Co. She was born in Massachusetts abt 1772 and died 6 October 1864 in Rutland Co., at 92 years of age. Moses and Relief are buried in Whipple Hollow Cemetery.[759]

1876 ix. Relief Smith[760] 29 October 1772 and married Samuel Jackson in Rutland Co.

968. Abigail[7] Whipple (Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[761] was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 21 June 1753 and died between July 1776 and February 1779. She married Phineas Kingsley 26 March 1775. Phineas,[762] son of Isaiah Kingsley and Abigail Palmer, was born in Windham, Conn. 21 December 1750 and died 25 May 1825 in Rutland Co., at 74 years of age. Probably of Becket, Berkshire Co., Mass., Phineas was living in Bennington, Bennington Co., Vt. before buying land in Rutland, Rutland Co., Vt. in 1774. His home farm was located on Prospect Hill. He served in the Revolution from Rutland and it is believed he returned to Massachusetts for a time, probably after the capture of Fort Ticonderoga in July 1777. After his death his executor Gershom Cheny sold the home and part of the land to Luther Shaw and in 1851 a Shaw heir sold the property to Phineas' grandson, Phineas Osgood. Phineas married (2) Abigail Wood on 11 February 1779. She died 20 May 1793 after a year-long illness. He married (3) Anna Squire 9 February 1794. She was born, say, 8 June 1753, daughter of Daniel Squire and Sarah Tomlin, and died 4 February 1795. He married (4) Elizabeth Dewing 8 December 1795. She died 7 April 1825 in her 75th year.

Abigail Whipple and Phineas Kingsley had the following child born in Rutland Co.:

1877 i. Abigail[8] Kingsley. 3 July 1776.[763] Died young.

969. Rev. Benjamin[7] Whipple (Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[764] was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 16 September 1755 and died 8 March 1813 in Sennett, Cayuga Co., N.Y., at 57 years of age. He married twice. (1) Silence Bundy in Rutland, Co. Vt. 15 October 1779. She was born 25 January 1761 and died 8 March 1805 in Auburn, Cayuga Co., N.Y., at 44 years of age.[765] (2) Sarah (Sally) Luther in Locke, Cayuga Co., N.Y. 30 January 1806. Sarah,[766] daughter of Ezra Luther, was born in Tiverton, Tompkins Co., R.I. 29 October 1774. She married (2) Zacchaeus Morton in Groton, N.Y., 11 January 1821.

Sally is enumerated in the Bangall, Dutchess Co., N.Y. 1790 census as a member of her father's family. She joined the Bangall Baptist Church by baptism on 30 March 1797 and moved with her parents to Locke (now Groton) abt 1803. She must have been single at the time because the church letter of dismissal dated 5 October 1803 identifies her as Sally Luther. She is listed as one of the first members of the Groton Baptist Church.[767] Professional genealogist Frank Avery Skilton of Auburn was employed by Anne W. Foster, Benjamin's great great grand daughter, to research the family. The information is on file at the Library of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington, D.C. Skilton visited the graves of Benjamin's first wife Silence and son Benjamin who were buried on the edge of a gully back of the barns on the "old James Barber homestead" located south of Sennet Corners, Cayuga Co., N.Y.

Benjamin served in the Revolutionary War in the crucial Battle of Bennington, Vt. 16 August 1777. He was on the roster of Capt. Samuel Robinson's Co.[768] Skilton credits him with participating in six other engagements in 1777-78-80-81. However, the index, which lists both Benjamin and Benjamin, Jr. in The State of Vermont Rolls of the Soldiers in the Revolutionary War 1775 to 1783, states that Benjamin Whipple, Jr. only fought in the Battle of Benningon. The other citations are all for his father Benjamin Whipple.

Benjamin farmed in the area of Rutland County known as Whipple Hollow. His land was on the line between the villages of West Rutland and Pittsford. The area, later mined by the Vermont Marble Company, is still known as Whipple Hollow and is the site of Whipple Hollow Cemetery where many Whipples are buried, including the family of his older brother Nehemiah. He sold his farm to Nathaniel Gould of Rutland (the conveyance is dated 17 January 1784) and moved to New York where he farmed and eventually became active in church work. It is believed he settled in Saratoga County near Fort Ann before moving to Cayuga County. He also bought Rutland county land in 1790 from John Johnson and in 1791 from Simeon Wright. He sold Rutland county land in 1790 to Ephriam Morgan and John Oordman, in 1791 to Aaron Thrall, and to James Barnes in 1797. Records of the first organized church in Cayuga Co., N.Y. dated 23 August 1798, state that "he had a Public Gift which was profitable to Zion" and the Clerk was instructed to give him a "letter to improve his gift where God in his Providence should open the door." On 2 January 1779, the Church requested that he serve as Deacon for the ensuing year.

The Church meeting of 15 May 1800 voted to give him a letter addressed to Whom it may Concern certifying his membership in good and regular standing of the First Baptist Church of Stuarts in Scipio,

Cayuga Co., N.Y. and recommending him "to all people to preach and improve his gift to the comforting and edifying of Zion."

He was licenced to preach and was pastor of the Stuart Corners Church 1800-03. He later preached in school houses and private homes near Ledyard, Cayuga Co., N.Y. He helped organize the First Baptist Church of Locke in 1806 and married Sally Luther there 30 January. In 1818 a part of Locke became Groton. On 26 August 1807 an Ecclesiastical Council met "to examine Bro. Benjamin Whipple." It was satisfied with his "Christian experience, his call into the ministry, and to the internal call of God to the work" and "decided in the affirmative that they believed the Lord's time had come to set Bro. Whipple apart by solemn ordination." An ordination service followed these proceedings. On 10 October 1810 the Church voted to have "Bro. Whipple, Elder,

Debt

After 171 years, funeral debt paid

SENNETT — When the Rev. Benjamin Whipple passed from this world on March 8, 1813, his loyal congregation footed the bill for his burial.

In July 1984, Elder Whipple's great-great-great-grandchildren repaid the Sennett Federated Church for its kindness.

Pastor David Pieplow was a bit shocked when he received the check for $25 from Lorraine Whipple Butler and I. Robert Whipple of California. "Obviously, they felt it would be nice to clear up the old family debts," he said.

The Rev. Whipple served as pastor from 1812-'13 for the Baptist Calvary Church, now the Sennett Federated Church. Pieplow said the foundation of the original church still remains, not far from Elder Whipple's grave.

The long-overdue payment was discovered by Whipple's descendents while investigating their geneology. An inquiry into church records revealed the fate met by Elder Whipple.

Pieplow said Whipple succumbed while administering comfort to victims of an epidemic. An entry in church records, dated March 20, 1813, described the reaction of his congregation:

"Voted to make out 25 dollars for our late Elder Whipple's last services amongst us."

Not wanting to keep the church waiting any longer, Mrs. Butler quickly sent a check. "My brother, Robert, and I have voted to make out 25 dollars' to repay your church treasury," she wrote.

On Sunday, the church will conduct a memorial service in honor of the late Rev. Whipple. Afterward, descendents of Whipple's congregation will lay flowers on his final resting place.

continue with us another year and to have meetings one Sabbath in south settlement, one in Perrin's settlement, and every month that has five Sabbaths in the north part of town."[769] He served this Church and a number of surrounding churches until the spring of 1812 when he asked to be dismissed so he could preach at Sennet Corners. He fell ill during the winter epidemic of 1812-13 while ministering to the sick and died 8 March 1813. According to church records of 20 March, the congregation "Voted to make out 25 dollars for our late Elder Whipple's last services amongst us."

He is buried in the old part of the Baptist Cemetery south of Sennet Corners on the brow of the hill (Rt. 5, northeast of Auburn a couple of miles). His headstone, a tall rectangle, is inscribed as follows: "Rev. Benjamin Whipple. Born 1756. Died 3-8-1813. Aged 57 yrs. 5 m. & 22 ds. Text Psalm 37, v. 37. Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace." The author has a picture of his tombstone.

In July 1984, Benjamin's great (3 times) grandchildren, Lorraine Whipple Butler and I. Robert Whipple of California sent a check for $25.00 to the Church (now the Sennett Federated Church, "The Church With the Lighted Steeple") "to clear up the old family debt." This caused the then pastor, Rev. David Pieplow, to check into Rev. Whipple's service to the church and its service 29 July 1984 was "IN DEDICATION AND MEMORY OF THE CHRISTIAN SERVICE OF REV. (ELDER) BENJAMIN C. WHIPPLE, JR."[770]

970. Prudence[7] Whipple (Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[774] was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 27 July 1757 and died, probably in Granville, Licking Co., Ohio. She married Ebenezer Pratt, probably in Rutland, Co., Vt. Ebenezer,[775] son of Silas Pratt and Elizabeth Chamberlin, was born in Hardwick 1 November 1751 and died 13 September 1835 in Granville Township at 83 years of age. Ebenezer's farm was located on Pleasant Street in West Rutland. He sold the farm in May 1817 to Joseph Loveland and probably moved to Granville about that time.

Prudence Whipple and Ebenezer Pratt had the following child:

\+ 1890 i. Benjamin[8] Pratt born 30 August 1777.

971. David[7] Whipple (Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[776] was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 17 September 1759 and married twice. (1) Sarah Blanchard in Rutland Co., Vt. 24 January 1782. David's father, Benjamin, was a Justice of Peace and performed the marriage ceremony. Sarah,[777] daughter of Benjamin Blanchard and Ruth Wilcoxin, was born 6 June 1766. (2) Elizabeth Reed in either Vermont or New York bef February 1797. She was the widow of Aaron Reed. David and Elizabeth were residing in Malone, N.Y. in 1811. David's descendants are eligible for membership in the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution based on his service as follows:

He was one of 44 soldiers, including his father Benjamin and brother Nehemiah, in Capt. Simeon Wright's Co. of militia in Col. Gideon Warren's regt. for a scout to the Lake against Crown Point and then to Ticonderoga in March 1780. One of 40 soldiers in Capt. John Spafford's Co. in Col Ebenezer Allen's regt. of militia in August 1780. Father Benjamin was in the same company. One of 55 soldiers in Capt. Nathan Blanchard's Co. of militia in Col. Ebenezer Allen's regt. for an alarm commencing 12 October and ending 12 November 1780. His father and brothers Nehemiah and Jonathan were in the same company. One of 31 soldiers in Capt. S. Wright's Co. of Col. G. Warren's regt. guarding the frontiers in May 1779. With Capt. Thomas Lee's Co of militia in Col. G. Warren's regt. on alarm to Ticonderoga and Crown Point in June 1780. One of 71 soldiers (he was a corporal) along with his father and brother Nehemiah, in two companies (serving in Capt. Nath'l Blanchard's company) raised as a levy from Col. Thomas Lee's regt. of militia for the defense of the frontiers of Vermont in October 1781, stationed at Castleton, commanded by Capt. Israel Hurlbut in pursuance of orders from Brig. Gen. Enos David was one of six corporals transactions, buying five parcels and selling three. He purchased property from his father and brother Nehemiah in 1792; from his father in 1803; from Samuel Murdick and Asa West in 1706; and sold land to Daniel Jackson in 1796; to his father in 1797; and to Nathaniel Winchell in 1807.

Over the period of 1782-1807, David was involved in eight real estate

David Whipple and Sarah Blanchard had the following children born in Rutland Co.:

1891 i. Hepzibah[8] Whipple 14 or 15 April 1783.[778] She married John Barnes in Rutland Co. 25 January 1801. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Lemuel Hanes, a famous Mulatto minister.

1892 ii. Rachel Whipple in 1786.[779] She died 1 February 1801 in Rutland Co., at 15 years of age and is buried in Whipple Hollow Cemetery. Her tombstone identifies her as the daughter of David and Sarah Whipple, age 15 years at death.

972. Elizabeth[7] Whipple (Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[780] was born in Bennington, Bennington Co., Vt. 24 March 1763 and married Aaron Reed in Rutland Co., Vt. Aaron, son of Moses Reed and Phebe Tirrill, was born, probably, in Abington, Plymouth Co., Mass. 30 June 1754 and died bef October 1796 in Rutland, Vt.[781] His estate was probated in October 1786. He served in the Revolution from Massachusetts in 1777 and from Rutland in 1780. His farm was in Whipple Hollow, Rutland Co.

Elizabeth Whipple and Aaron Reed had the following children:

1893 i. Phebe[8] Reed[782] married Robert Anderson.

1894 ii. Polly Reed[783] born in Rutland Co. and died 18 May 1863 in Rumsey Hill, Penn., at 78 years of age. She married Eli Gitchell 5 December 1805. Eli was the son of David Gitchell and Margaret (__). The family moved two miles above Mansfield, Tioga Co., Penn. in 1809 and to Rumsey Hill in 1815.

973. Jonathan[7] Whipple (Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[786] was born in Bennington, Bennington Co., Vt. abt 1764 and married Sarah (__) in Rutland Co., Vt. According to historian Henry Hall's "Historical Incident No. 18," Jonathan, age 19 and son of Benjamin, was supposedly kidnapped by lurking Tories on 26 June 1783.[787] This is the only reference the author has found stating Jonathan is a son of Benjamin. Jonathan's given name is the same as Benjamin's grandfather. Jonathan served in the Revolutionary War as a private in Capt. Nathaniel Blanchard's company of militia in Col. Ebenezer Allen's regiment in the state of Vermont for an alarm commencing 12 October and ending 12 November 1780. His father and brothers David and Nehemiah served with him. He was a resident of Rutland in 1790 according to the federal census of Vermont and was leasing land in the county from Benj. Blanchard in 1801 and leasing land to Garrit Lawrence in 1803.

Jonathan Whipple and Sarah (__) had the following child born in Whipple Hollow:

1897 i. Edey[8] Whipple 31 October 1796 and died there 21 January 1797, at less than 3 months of age. She is buried in Whipple Hollow Cemetery and her grave stone still stands and identifies her as daughter of Jonathan and Sarah Whipple; age at death 2 mo. 21 days.

He married twice. (1) (?Diad?)-ama (__) abt 1789. (2) Mary (__) in Malone, Franklin Co., N.Y., 23 August 1820. Abner's will was probated 9 August 1830 at Malone. Listed as heirs were Mary, Sophia, William, and Abner Whipple and Chester Russell, son of Abigail, and Luther Chipman, and Euseba Chipman.

County of Franklin, Surrogate Court #829: "To Enb Brownson, Esq. Surrogate, I hereby certify that it is my wish that a Letter of Administration on the Estate of Abner Whipple, late of Malone, Deceased, be granted to Asa Wheeler and Joseph Sherman. I hereby renounce my own right___. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this Ninth day of December in the year of our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty Four." /s/ Mary Whipple In presence of John F. Dimick. We the undersigned being heirs of Abner Whipple deceased, join in the above request. /s/ Euseba Chipman /s/ Abigail Russel

Abner purchased land in the town of Ezraville (Malone) from Richard Hanson of New York, N.Y. on 4 March 1809 for $150.00. The parcel was part of lot number 20 in Malone and contained 60 acres. He sold land in Rutland, Rutland Co., Vt. for £400 to Abithar Waldo of Shaftsbury, Bennington Co., Vt. 26 November 1778 and purchased land from him in the Township of Pittsford, Rutland Co., Vt. 19 June 1790 for £86. At the time of the sale to Waldo, Abner was living New Braintree, Worcester Co., Mass. The money was to be lawful money of the state of Vermont. The land Abner acquired from Waldo was one third part of the original right of Samuel Jenson in the Township of Pittsford.

Abner Whipple Jr and (?Diad?)ama (__) had the following children:

1915 i. Abigail[8] Whipple born 17 April 1790 and died aft 1860. Abigail was living at Pierrepont, Saint Lawrence Co., N.Y. in 1860. She married Chester Russell in Malone 5 March 1812. He was the son of Benjamin Russell and Barsheba (Betsy) Eaton.[810] Abigail was living at Pierrepont in 1860.

1918 iv. Sophia Whipple[813] born abt 1800. Sophia was living in Malone in 1825.

1919 v. William Whipple[814] born abt 1805.

1920 vi. Abner Whipple[815] born in Malone 24 September 1807 and died 5 February 1879 in Newport, Sullivan Co., N.H., at 71 years of age. He married Deborah B. Kelsey, daughter of Joel Kelsey.

994. Charles[7] Whipple (Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[816] was born in New Braintree, Worcester Co., Mass. 10 October 1769 and died 8 April 1809 at 39 years of age. He married Patty Thurston in New Braintree 5 April 1796. (Date of intent to marry.) Patty,[817] daughter of Lt. Joseph Thurston and Lucy Howe Gilbert, was born 22 January 1775 and died 25 September 1837 at 62 years of age. Patty, a widow, and her four children moved to Newark Valley, Conn where she joined the church 6 January 1821. Charles was an innkeeper in Oldham, Mass.

Charles Whipple and Patty Thurston had the following children:

\+ 1921 i. Duick[8] Whipple born 8 March 1797.

1922 ii. Austin Whipple[818] born in Williamsville, Berkshire Co., Mass. 23 June 1799 and married twice. (1) Mary Cox 10 February 1824. (2) Lucy Smith in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass., 27 September 1832. Austin moved to Pennsylvania.

996. Levi[7] Whipple (Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[819] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 24 July 1773 and died 24 April 1845 in Marietta, Washington Co., Ohio, at 71 years of age. He married Eliza Warner in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass., 21 August 1803. Eliza,[820] daughter of Capt. Daniel Warner and Mary (__), was born in Massachusetts 16 March 1780 and died 14 April 1859 in Muskingum Co., Ohio, at 79 years of age.

As a lad of 16, Levi left Massachusetts for the Northwest Territory and settled in Marietta abt 1789 where he was employed by his uncle, the famous Massachusetts Revolutionary War officer, Rufus Putnam. Putnam's wife, Persis Rice, was an older sister of Levi's mother, Precilla (Rice) Whipple.[821] During the Revolutionary War, Lt. Col. Putnam was responsible for securing Dorchester Heights which led to the British evacuation of Boston. He was Colonel of a Massachusetts regiment in the Battle of Saratoga in October 1777. This battle is credited as being the turning point of the war. He played a critical role in the passage of the Northwest Ordinance of 1787 and the Ohio company named him Superintendent to oversee its grant of 1,500,000 acres northwest of the Ohio river. He founded Marietta, Ohio on 7 April 1788, about a year before Levi arrived. One of Putnam's surveyors was Col. Ebenezer Sproat, son-in-law of Commodore Abraham Whipple, a member of the Ohio Company and an early settler of Marietta. In May of 1792 Putnam was appointed Brig. General with orders to sign a treaty with the Wabash Indians. He was one of the founders of Muskingum Academy in 1798 and a member of the 1802 Convention to draft the Ohio State Constitution. He led the fight to ban slavery in the Constitution.[822]

While no record of Levi's trip to Ohio survives, if he traveled overland by horse, he would have covered approximately 560 miles in 20 days, averaging about 28 miles a day. From New Braintree he would have traveled west to New York State, continuing across the state to New Jersey to the Delaware river which he would have crossed by ferry into Pennsylvania. He would have travelled through Pennsylvania to the Ohio river and caught a post boat there for for the final leg of the journey to Marietta.[823] By the time Ohio was admitted to the Union as the 17th state (1 March 1803), Levi had helped found the town of Springfield on the Muskingum river across from Zanesville, Muskingum Co. He spent the rest of his life in that area, and became a leader in public service, commerce, education, church activities, and the abolitionist movement.

Levi returned to Massachusetts occasionally where he met his future bride Eliza Warner. A letter dated 26 November 1801 (he was then 28) at Marietta addressed to her at Hardwick inquired if she had received his letter written in October when he was enroute to the Ohio. He arrived in Marietta 6 November. In the November letter he wrote, "My dearest Eliza, grant me the indulgence, and think me not impudent to frankly confess and own, that you do possess my most sincere love and attachment, and have merited my respect and esteem. It is my most ardent wish to gain your esteem, and be admitted to a place in your tender affections." He reminded her she had promised to write, that he "anxiously awaited the arrival of every mail," and when her letter finally arrived he would "break the seal with trembling hands" hoping the message was not one that would require him to "relinquish the fond hope I've nourished in my bosom." He closed asking for her "candid consideration" of marriage.

He apparently asked her parents for permission to marry Eliza (by letter to them in March 1803). A letter signed by her father Daniel Warner was received by Levi at Marietta 10 April. Daniel wrote they had been considering his proposal, that Eliza was agreeable to his "honorable profers for permanent matrimonial connection," and that it was not easy to give up "a beloved, dutiful, and obedient child whose welfare will always lay near our heart. We truly feel the circumstance which you name, the great distance you reside from us, where she must in any event of adverse fortune be so far from the succors and attention of her parents and natural connections ever desirous of her happiness. Yet, with high assurance and expectation that our daughter shall find in you the kind husband and man of propriety which supercedes in nature parental or fraternal attention, we consent and gratify your mutual wishes." Levi's future father-in-law closed "I am yours in view of permanent connection." Levi returned to Hartwick for their wedding.[824]

The cabin he built at the mouth of the Licking river in a heavily timbered area in October 1801 became the first home he and Eliza had after their 1803 marriage. The original inhabitants of the area were the Wyandots, Delaware, and a few Senecas and Shawnee Indians. As he prospered, he built a brick home (date unknown) at 221 Muskingum Aveue which was one of the important pioneer homes in Putnam, Muskingum Co.

Levi, Dr. Increase Matthews of New Braintree, Worcester Co., Mass., and Gen. Putnam bought, at auction, a full section of land plus parts of two other sections across the Muskingum river from Zanesville. Putnam was an uncle to both Matthews and Levi. This was the first public auction of U.S. lands in what became Muskingum county. It was a spirited auction, the other main bidder being John McIntire of Zanesville. Their winning bid of $4.25 an acre was the highest ever for that general area.

Levi's first known acquisition of land was in March 1796 when he acquired three 100 acre parcels. He was a 22-year-old laborer living in Marietta at the time. He acquired the land under terms of an Act of Congress passed in April 1792 giving the Ohio Company 100,000 acres to promote "the better protection of the people already settled." The land was to go to males 18 and older already living in the terrritory. The grants were to be surveyed with all corners marked, to cost no more than $5 per 100 acre parcels plus the survey cost, and 20 cents to issue the deed. He acquired another 100 acres in December 1800, buying land reclaimed from the county. He also owned land in adjacent Licking county, selling 577 acres there in 1812.[825]

Whipple, Putnam, and Matthews formed the Spring Hill Co., 27 July 1801, surveyed their land, and laid out Springfield (renamed Putnam in January 1814) into 147 half-acre building lots and 45 out-lots of two to four acres each. They allocated 11.5 acres to be used by the town for public and religious societies and by the state or county for public needs. Land allocated to but not used by these public and religious entities was "to remain a perpetual commonage."

Anticipating the town would grow and prosper, they reserved and assigned themselves exclusive right to occupy "every part of the tract whenever they think proper for the purpose of erecting mills and other water works, for the establishing of manufactories, digging stone, iron ore, coal, or for any other purpose whatever, provided they shall never interrupt the communication from Spring Hill to that part of town below the [river] road... the exclusive right to establish a ferry or ferries, and to erect wharfs and stores on the bank of the Muskingum, leaving front Street full 60 feet wide."

They converted the bridle path around Putnam Hill to a wagon road and built a wing dam on the second falls, "leaving the shore next to Zanesville free for boats to go up and down." Under terms of their permit, they were not to hold water back from other mills. They built a sawmill whose planks were sawn from timber cut on site by a whipsaw. The mill was powered by an undershot water wheel rather than the more common overshot wheel. Their contractor, John Sharp, began construction 9 December 1801 and was paid $200 cash and three gill of whiskey a day — morning, noon, and night — until the mill was completed.

Houses were first built in Springfield in 1802. The partners built their first grist mill in 1803 or 1804 which was warmly welcomed by the locals who had to take their grain to the mill at Wolf Creek, 40 miles down river. Levi made his living as a Surveyor and gave up this business in 1804 to run the mill until selling it about 1820.

The Spring Hill Co. was dissolved 14 May 1805 with each partner receiving an equal division of 226 acres. Levi received the land west of Putnam Hill, portions of which were later known as Millwood. Putnam got land adjacent to the river. Matthew's land included what later became the stone quarry, Woodlawn Cemetery, and the fair grounds. Each also received an equal number of lots and a third of the company's cash. Levi traded his acreage to Matthews for his one-third interest in the saw and grist mills. Putnam gave his interest in the mills to his son Edwin (Levi's cousin who was 3 1/2 years younger) and from then on the firm was known as Whipple & Putnam. They also built a cotton factory and a woolen mill, the latter in 1815. Joseph R. Thomas eventually purchased the grist and woolen mills and the cotton factory from Whipple and Putnam.

In 1825 Levi was paying state and road taxes on 136.5 acres in Springfield township[826] and he gave the town of Putnam part of the land that became Moxahala Cemtery. Levi is among the many prominent citizens buried there (Row 12).[827]

Levi was Springfield's first Justice of the Peace, the county's first Surveyor (1804-14), first Coroner (1804-11), and first joint Coroner-Sheriff. In August 1806 Whipple, Putnam, and Matthews were licensed to operate a ferry from Zanesville to Springfield. Cost of the ferry license in 1808 was $12. Fares: foot passengers,.03; a man and horse, 1 shilling; a loaded wagon and team, $1; an empty wagon and team,.75; a 4-wheeled carriage and team,.75; a loaded cart and team,.50; an empty cart, sled, or sleigh and team, 3 shillings; horses, mares, mules, and neat cattle,.10 each; hogs and sheep,.03 each. Levi was granted a Charter by the General Assembly in 1812 to build a toll bridge over the Muskingum. His partners were Col. Benjamin Tupper, Dr. Matthews, and Ebenezer Buckingham. It was uncovered and built on piers about eight feet above the water. It fell down in a couple of years and was rebuilt in 1818-19.[828]

Levi was one of the founders of the first Masonic Lodge (1806) and a founder (1807) with Increase and Betsey Matthews and Benjamin and Martha Tupper of the Congregational Church. They had no settled pastor but Rev. Robbins of Marietta and others occasionally preached for them. The Methodist Episcopal church built a 24 x 30 frame Meeting House on a lot given it by Levi in 1809 and in 1815 he gave a quarter-acre lot on the east side of Moxahala Avenue to the Methodist Church on which it built a 40-foot-square one-story frame church. When the Ohio Bible Society held its sixth annual meeting in Zanesville in September 1818, Levi was elected one of its eight Trustees.

Levi made a trip to Vermont and Massachusetts in early summer of 1822 arriving at his father's home in Hardwick, Mass. 15 June. In a letter to Eliza dated 21 June he said the long absence had made many changes and were he to meet his old friends elsewhere, he would not know them nor they him. He thanked her for her letter which was awaiting him and for the news that the children were doing well in school. "Tell Warner and Augustus to persevere and all difficulties will vanish; and their studies will become interesting and profitable. Tell Eliza I am happy that she does not fall behind in her class and that her enjoyedness (sic) has not abated, and hope it will continue. Please to tell Francis that paw had not forgotten him, tho perhaps did not mention his name in particular in his letters; still he thinks of him every hour in the day. Tell him he must be a good boy and help his mother, and read as much as he can. Tell little Lucy & Wm. Wells paw comes by & by, then he will squeeze and kiss them." He closed by asking Eliza "to remember me in your prayers and console yourself with the reflection that you are hourly remembered most affectionally, and carried to a throne of grace in the arms of your affectionate husband."[829]

By 1835 Putnam had an independent Presbyterian Church whose members included Levi, his wife Eliza, and daughters Lucy and Eliza (Mrs. Augustus) Tucker. Levi, A.A. Guthrie, and Edwin Putnam were the first Elders with Levi serving until his death. His wife Eliza was one of the first teachers in the Union School where students and teachers were drawn from different denominations. The curriculum included "Bible lessons and recitation singing from Watt's Hymns For Children. A short talk on good manners, manly deportment, or moral conduct was given every Sunday."

In June 1838 Levi began to campaign against slavery. He was probably inspired by Harriet Beecher Stowe when she visited her brother, pastor of the Putnam Presbyterian Church, in 1837. She wrote her husband that "the good people [of Putnam] are about half Abolitionists." On the 29th, a group of interested citizens met at Levi's office and formed "A Society for the Promotion of Freedom and Universal Rights." Its goal was "total emancipation as soon as possible." Levi was elected President. The name was changed on 4 July to "The Muskingum County Emancipation Society to Promote the Abolition of Slavery and Oppressive Laws." People from all sections of the county joined and its membership totaled 220. Monthly meetings were held in the basement of the Putnam Presbyterian Church. A state Abolition Convention was held at Putnam's Stone Academy in May 1839 and a pro-slavery group known as the Zanesville Tuckahoes attacked the Academy and burned the barns of Levi and Abraham France.

The Putnam Classical Institute, an Academy "to educate young women," was opened in 1835 and the Ohio General Assembly appointed Levi a Trustee on 29 Feruary 1837. By Charter, it was to provide educational opportunities "for females desirous of obtaining an education as they may deem worthy and proper objects." The Institute built a 110-foot-long-45-feet wide 3-story brick edifice on a lot sold to it by Levi. The building had double parlors, office, dining room, kitchen, school hall, library, recitation and music rooms and was lighted with gas.

Levi died after a long illness. Two weeks before his death, he and Eliza moved to a rental house in Marietta. After Levi's death, Eliza wrote their son Warner that he appeared "cheerful and happy" after the move. But 10 days before his death, he woke her to talk about shortcomings in his will. The next morning after breakfast (15 April 1845) he had a new one written. He was worried that the Putnam-Zanesville bridge, whose income was to maintain Eliza, might burn so he made additional arrangements for her support. After the re-write was completed, he told her "he was ready to depart, waiting the Lord's time." On the day he died, he had an hour-long coughing spell that exhausted him and he laid down and died. "I was so unprepared, the shock was awful, Eliza wrote. "I had expected days and nights to watch around his dying pillow, so you see how kind the Lord was to him."[830] It cost $12.50 to bury him—$2 for the grave digger, $9.50 for the coffin, and $1 for the use of the hearse.

The will gave his 10 shares of bridge stock, valued at $500 each, to Eliza "and should the said bridge be destroyed by fire or other casualty so that the provision of income hereby intended for her use should be cut off, I authorize my executors to appropriate and pay over to my said wife, should she desire it, the sum of $300 annually during her lifetime from any other property or estate of which I may die possessed of." His estate was large enough that Eliza, executrix, and Douglas Putnam, his son-in-law, executor, had to post a $14,000 bond. The bridge, cotton factory, and saw and flour mills were destroyed by fire 27 May, a month and two days after his death.

The estate incuded a family library, 11 pictures, large family Bible, extensive furnishings, 146 yards of carpeting, buggies, wagons, a horse and saddle, other farm equipment, grain, hay, cash, stock, notes, lease on a house in Putnam, a large map of the U.S., one of Ohio, and a case of mathematical instruments (probably used in his surveying business).[831]

Levi's will was probated during the April 1846 term of the Court of Common Pleas of Washington Co., Ohio. Under terms of the will, Eliza received, in addition to the bridge stock, all the household goods, furniture, provisions, and other goods and chattels. The will recited his "desire and intention" to give each child "in money or otherwise, $500 during his lifetime." Because he had given some more and other less, he recited previous gifts and made appropriate adjustments.

Son Warner W. had previously received $700 so $200 was to be deducted from "what would be his share or proportion in the final settlement." Noting that he had made "considerable advances and incurred large responsibilities on account of son Edward Augustus," he gave his executors $600 in trust to be invested for the "use and benefit of Ann, Ann Eliza, Sarah, and Levi," wife and children of Edward. Daughter Eliza W. Putnam was given $300. Noting that he had "made sundry advances" to son Francis R., $250 was to be deducted from what would be his share or proportion. Daughter Lucy R. Allen was given $500.

Youngest son William Wells and nephew Rev. George Warner were given $300 each. Niece Lucy Maria Whipple was was to get $300 contingent on the estate being large enough. He directed that his bridge stock be sold after Eliza's death and the expiration of his legacies to three religious organizations with the proceeds to be divided equally among his children or their heirs, "other than son Edward and his heirs."

The American Sunday School Union of Philadelphia was given the net proceeds of his bridge stock for one year beginning the first quarter after Eliza's death. The funds were to be used to establish a Sunday School Depositary in Peoria, Peoria Co., Ill. "to encourage and increase the circulation of valuable religious publications." The American Tract Society of New York, N.Y. was given the net proceeds for one year following the last payment to the Sunday School Union of Philadelphia. The director of the Tract Society could use the money "most conducive to the benefit of Tract cause." The American Home Missionary Society formed in New York, N.Y. in 1826 was given the net proceeds for a term of four years beginning after the two preceding bequests were paid. These funds were to be used to sustain missions in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin.

Levi Whipple and Eliza Warner had the following children born in Putnam:

+	1923	i.	Warner Wright[8] Whipple 2 July 1804.
+	1924	ii.	Edward Augustus Whipple 11 January 1807.
+	1925	iii.	Eliza Whipple 14 March 1809.
+	1926	iv.	Francis Rice Whipple 26 January 1812.
	1927	v.	Charles Whipple[832] 19 August 1815 and died 28 December 1815 in Putnam, at 4 months of age. He is buried in River City Cemetery.
	1928	vi.	Lucy Reed Whipple[833] 21 March 1817 and died abt 1913. She married Albert Gould Allen in Muskingum Co. 19 July 1836.
	1929	vii.	William Wells Whipple[834] 31 July 1821. He never married.

998. Lucy[7] Whipple (Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[835] was born in New Braintree, Worcester Co., Mass. 27 December 1776 and died 11 April 1845, at 68 years of age. She married Paul Knowlton Jr. in New Braintree 1 April 1800. Paul,[836] son of Paul Knowlton and Lucy Forbush, was born 23 October 1770.

Lucy Whipple and Paul Knowlton Jr. had the following child:

+	1930	i.	Levi Whipple[8] Knowlton born in 1802.

1000. Joel[7] Whipple (Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[837] was born in New Braintree, Worcester Co., Mass. 24 May 1780 and died in 1827 at 47 years of age. He married Patty Putman of Rutland, Worcester Co., Mass. in New Braintree 18 January 1803. (Date of intent to marry.) Patty,[838] daughter of Gen. Rufus Putnam and Persis Rice, was born in Brookfield, Mass. 25 November 1777 (baptized in Brookfield 2 August 1778). Joel and Patty were first cousins sharing grandparents Zebulon and Abigail (Forbush) Rice.

Joel Whipple and Patty Putman had the following child:

\+ 1931 i. Rufus[8] Whipple born in 1807.

1005. Francis[7] Carruth (Elizabeth[6] Whipple, Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1]) was born in Brookfield, Worcester Co., Mass. 23 February 1780[839] and married Mary (__).

Francis Carruth and Mary (__) had the following child born in Brookfield:

1932 i. C.[8] Carruth in 1812 and died 25 September 1814 in Brookfield, at 2 years of age.[840] The vital records just give the first initial and identify the child as son of Francis and Mary Carruth.

1018. Stephen Whipple[7] Green (Luci[6] Whipple, Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[841] was born in Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. in January 1782 and died 5 March 1858 in Shrewsbury, Worcester Co., Mass., at 76 years of age. He married twice. (1) Sophia Parker in Westborough 9 October 1803. Sophia,[842] daughter of Isaac Parker and Marjorie (__), was born in Westborough 30 December 1782 and died 9 October 1835 in Shrewsbury, at 52 years of age. (2) Sally Newton in Westborough 26 October 1839. Sally,[843] daughter of Asa Newton and Catherine Jenison, was born in Westborough 17 August 1794 and died 25 December 1858 in Shrewsbury, at 64 years of age. Stephen is not listed in Westboro vital records but is identified in both his father's and his mother's wills.

Stephen Whipple Green and Sophia Parker had the following children born in Westborough:

1933 i. Benjamin F.[8] Green[844] died of consumption 8 November 1846 in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. He married Hannah Brigham.

1934 ii. Charles P. Green.[845]

\+ 1935 iii. Edwards Whipple Green 18 February 1808.

1024. Edmund Rice[7] Whipple (Jonathan[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[846] was born in Marlborough, Cheshire Co., N.H. 19 March 1779 and died 4 January 1808 in Concord, Essex Co., Vt., at 28 years of age. He married Margaret Fitz Woodbury 4 July 1802. Margaret,[847] daughter of Jonathan Woodbury and Hannah Woodbury, was born in Royalston, Windsor Co., Vt. 2 August 1784.

Edmund Rice Whipple and Margaret Fitz Woodbury had the following children born in Concord:

1936 i. Jonathan Woodbury[8] Whipple[848] 22 December 1802 and died there 12 June 1878, at 75 years of age. He married Lydia (__).

1937 ii. Ethan Allen Whipple[849] 1 March 1804, died there 16 April 1885, at 81 years of age and was buried in Graves Cemetery. He married Sara (__).

\+ 1938 iii. Joel Whipple 21 September 1805.

1025. Hannah[7] Whipple (Jonathan[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[850] was born in Marlborough, N.H. 25 April 1780.[851] She married Josiah Rogers there 17 July 1803. He was born in Troy, Rensselaur Co., N.H. in 1778 and died in 1864 in Willing Township, Allegany Co., N.Y., at 86 years of age.[852] Hannah and Josiah lived in New Lisbon, Otsego Co., N.Y. before moving to Willing Township.

Hannah Whipple and Josiah Rogers had the following children:

1939 i. Charles[8] Rogers.[853]

1940 ii. Stillman Rogers.[854]

1026. Joel Green[7] Whipple (Jonathan[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[855] was born in Marlborough, Middlesex Co., Mass. 2 December 1781 and died 6 June 1858 at 76 years of age in Vermont. He married three times. (1) Phebe Snow who died 24 April 1813.[856] (2) Lois Goodell 2 January 1814. She died 22 April 1832.[857] (3) Roxanna Morrison 24 October 1832. He moved from Marlborough to Vermont.

Joel Green Whipple and Phebe Snow had the following children:

1941 i. Mary[8] Whipple born 28 June 1806.[858]

1942 ii. Betsey Whipple born in March 1808.[859]

1943 iii. Jonathan Whipple was born in 1809 and died in 1810 at 1 year of age.[860]

Joel Green Whipple and Lois Goodell had the following children:

+	1944	iv.	Jonathan Whipple born 10 September 1814.
+	1945	v.	Phebe Whipple born 9 May 1816.
	1946	vi.	Joel G. Whipple[861] born 18 July 1818 and married Lavina (Breck) Franklin.
+	1947	vii.	Simeon R. Whipple born 24 July 1820.
+	1948	viii.	Betsey Whipple born 11 June 1822.
	1949	ix.	Asenath D. Whipple[862] born 25 July 1824 and married John D. Folsom in Wenham, Essex Co., Mass., 14 April 1842.

Joel Green Whipple and Roxanna Morrison had the following children:

+	1950	x.	John Morrison Whipple born 16 September 1834.
	1951	xi.	Lois Whipple[863] born 25 April 1837 and married Alonzo Winn.

1034. Nancy[7] Whipple (Jonathan[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[863] was born in Troy, N.H. 12 November 1797 and died 13 February 1853, at 55 years of age. She married John Chandler abt 1823. He was born 22 April 1783 and died 16 June 1871 in Lunenburg, Essex Co., Vt, at 88 years of age. He married (1) Sarah Whipple in Townshend, Windham Co., Vt., 28 January 1810. He married (3) Mrs. Betsey (Porter) Stevenson and died 16 June 1871 in Lunenburg, at 88 years of age. John was a farmer on the Connecticut river, a Deacon of the Congregational Church of Lunenburg, and a Justice of the Peace for more than 30 years.[864] Nancy and Sarah Whipple were first cousins. Their common ancestors were Edwards and Sarah (Green) Whipple. (See No. 1039.)

	1952	i.	Nancy[8] Chandler.[866]
+	1953	ii.	Sarah Chandler 1 December 1826.
	1954	iii.	Charles Rice Chandler[867] 11 June 1831.
	1955	iv.	George Edmonds Chandler[868] 28 May 1835.
	1956	v.	Lucy Jane Chandler[869] 15 May 1837.
	1957	vi.	Ellen Marie Chandler[870] 16 February 1839.
	1958	vii.	Henry Bradford Chandler[871] 12 March 1840.

1038. John[7] Whipple (John[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[872] was born in Hubbarston, Worcester Co., Mass. 23 May 1781 and married Clarissa (__). The record shows a son, no name provided, born to John and Mary. Later records confirm they named a son John and the presumption here is that the first born son was named after his father.

Vital records at Montpelier, Washington Co., Vt. show two children born to John and Clarissa Whipple of Athens, Windham Co., Vt. Athens is in close proximity to Townshend and this John may be the son of John and Sarah. However, readers are cautioned no evidence confirms this presumption and they must conduct original research to substantiate the presumed relationship.

John Whipple and Clarissa (__) had the following children born in Athens:

1959 i. Alexander S.[8] Whipple 2 July 1816.[873]
1960 ii. Edward O. Whipple 20 June 1820.[874]

1039. Sarah[7] Whipple (John[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[875] was born in Hubbarston, Worcester Co., Mass. 19 April 1783 and died 23 November 1822 at 39 years of age. She married John Chandler in Townshend, Windham Co., Vt., 28 January 1810. He was born 22 April 1783 and died 16 June 1871 in Lunenburg, Essex Co., Vt., at 88 years of age. He married (2) Nancy Whipple abt 1823 and (3) Mrs. Betsey (Porter) Stevenson[876] John was a farmer on the Connecticut river, a Deacon of the Congregational Church of Lunenburg, and a Justice of the Peace for more than 30 years. The John Chandler family Bible, in possession of his granddaughter, Mrs. W.G. King of Wolfeboro, Carroll Co., N.H. in 1965, included these entries: John Chandler, born April 22, 1783; died June 16, 1871. His first wife, Sarah Whipple, born April 19, 1783; died November 23, 1822. Sarah and Nancy Whipple were first cousins. Their common ancestors were Edwards and Sarah (Green) Whipple. (See No, 1034.)

Sarah Whipple and John Chandler had the following children born in Lunenburg:

1961 i. Norris[8] Chandler[877] 3 December 1810 and married Harriet Barnes 13 October 1843.
1962 ii. Elizabeth Ester Chandler[878] 3 March 1812 and married Abiel S. Wood 19 December 1859. They were childless.
1963 iii. Clarissa Hicks Chandler[879] 26 April 1815.
1964 iv. Juliett Chandler[880] 1 November 1819.

1040. Fanny[7] Whipple (John[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[881] was born in Hubbarston, Worcester Co., Mass. 22 June 1785 and died 19 April 1866 in Lunenburg, Essex Co., Vt., at 80 years of age. She married Reuben Chandler in Townshend, Vt. in January 1814. He was born abt 1790 and died 9 April 1875 in Lunenburg, at 84 years of age.[882] Brothers Reuben and John Chandler, sons of John Chandler, married sisters Fanny and Sarah Whipple. Reuben was a farmer who also worked as a blacksmith and was a Justice of the Peace. He was elected Sealer of Weights and Measures in 1823, town Treasurer in 1824, and Selectman in 1841. Fanny's birth is recorded in the Reuben Chandler Family Bible as June 22, 1785. Her headstone in the Lunenburg Cemetery gives her date of birth as 1785.

Fanny Whipple and Reuben Chandler had the following children born in Lunenburg:

+	1965	i.	William[8] Chandler 12 March 1815.
	1966	ii.	John Whipple Chandler[883] 18 February 1819 and married Adah W. Adams in Lunenburg 8 November 1848.
	1967	iii.	Sarah Chamberlain Chandler[884] 22 April 1821 and died 18 August 1836 in Lunenburg, at 15 years of age.
+	1968	iv.	Dr. Joel Chandler 13 October 1823.
	1969	v.	Mary Martha Chandler[885] 8 October 1825 and died 15 August 1847 at 21 years of age.
+	1970	vi.	Norman Edwards Chandler 27 February 1828.
+	1971	vii.	Jane Elizabeth Chandler 31 December 1830.

1041. Samuel[7] Whipple (John[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[886] was born in Townshend, Windham Co., Vt. 10 September 1787. A Bible of the Samuel Whipple family in possession of his grandson Burdett Chandler Whipple is the source of this birth date. He died 2 June 1847 in Leoni Township, Jackson Co., Mich., at 59 years of age. He married Elizabeth (Betsey) Chaffee in Athens, Windham Co., Vt. 13 February 1814. Elizabeth,[887] daughter of Otis Chaffee and Abigail

Abby, was born in Westminster, Windham Co., Vt. 30 June 1792 and died 29 November 1870 in Leoni Township, at 78 years of age. At the time of their marriage, both listed Rockingham, Windham Co., Vt. as their addresses. Their wedding was performed by Thod Alexander, Justice of the Peace. Samuel owned real estate near the village of Saxons River (near Rockingham) in 1816 and 1817. Three of their children were born there. Samuel was appointed guardian of Betsey's minor brother, Warren Fay Chaffee (born 17 July 1799), and he lived with them until his marriage.

The family moved to Burns Township, Allegany Co., N.Y. in 1818 where Samuel farmed until 1836 when he sold the farm and moved the family to Michigan. The family is listed in the 1830 New York census but virtually nothing is known of their life during this period in New York. He was paid in gold when he sold the farm. The family traveled overland the summer of 1836 to Leoni Township. Son Chandler, then 12, recalled later in life, that the parents and younger children rode in the wagon while the older boys walked behind the wagon the entire trip. Samuel purchased his first land, 80 acres, 29 October, paying Charles Rice $300 for the parcel. He added to his holdings 25 August 1838 when he purchased 40 acres from James and Phebe Slayton for $160, and 40 acres purchased from John S. and Elizabeth Young 15 May 1847 for $100. All his land was in Sec. 23, Township 2S, Range 1E.

Food was scarce the first winter because they arrived to late to harvest a crop. Fortunately, there was ample wild game. Shoes were a luxury and annually in the summer an itinerant cobbler stayed with them long enough to make everyone a pair. The boys went barefoot from early spring until late fall to insure they had good footware during the severe winter months.

The family was Baptist and joined the Grass Lake, Mich. Baptist Church when they first arrived. Samuel and his second son John were on the letter of dismissal (dated 21 November 1839) from that church so they could organize a church at Leoni. Samuel served as deacon for many years and he and Betsey are buried in the Leoni Cemetery where his stone reads: "Dea. Samuel Whipple, died June 2, 1847; age 59 years. 8 mos." Elizabeth, 58, was the head of the household in the 1850 census of Leoni. Living at home with her were Chandler, 26, and Ora, 24, both with the occupation of farmer, Annette, 32, and Warren, 12. Betsey's brother Lyman married Mary Whipple in 1818 and her brother Otis married Grace Whipple. Parents of these Whipple girls are unknown.

Samuel Whipple and Elizabeth (Betsey) Chaffee had the following children:

\+ 1972 i. Otis[8] Whipple born 7 July 1814.

\+ 1973 ii. John Whipple born 28 October 1815.

1974 iii. Annette Whipple[888] born in Saxons River, Vt. 29 April 1817 and died childless in August 1905 at 88 years of age. She married twice. (1) Dr. Isaiah Smith. (2) Chester Clark. He was born in Carlton, N.Y. 9 April 1830 and died in 1913 in Leoni Township, at 83 years of age.[889] Her name is listed as Antoinette Whipple in the 1850 Leoni, Jackson Co., Michigan Census.[890]

1975 iv. Edwin Bennett Whipple[891] born in Burns Township 28 June 1819 and died a bachelor 26 July 1849 in San Francisco, San Francisco Co., Calif., at 30 years of age. He left Michigan for California in 1849 via Panama where he caught "the fever" which caused his death.

1976 v. Samuel Whipple[892] born in Burns Township 13 January 1822 and died in 1886 in California, at 64 years of age. He married Mary Lawrence. He went to California during the gold rush of 1849, became prosperous, and was elected Judge. He returned to Michigan in 1870 but returned to California after a few years.

\+ 1977 vi. Chandler Whipple born 25 September 1823.

\+ 1978 vii. Ora Chaffee Whipple born 29 September 1825.

\+ 1979 viii. Desdemona Whipple born 11 August 1827.

1980 ix. Joseph Lyman Whipple born in Burns Township 25 May 1829 and died a bachelor in October 1881 in California, at 52 years of age.

1981 x. Mary A. Whipple[893] born in Burns Township 28 April 1831 and died there in 1834, at 3 years of age.

\+ 1982 xi. Allen Benedict Chaffee Whipple born 21 October 1833.

1983 xii. Warren Washington Whipple[894] was born in Leoni Township 24 October 1837, died in 1912 at 74 years of age, and was buried in the Leoni Cemetery. He married Mary Ford who was born in Michigan in 1840, died in 1913 at 73 years of age, and was buried in the Leoni Cemetery.[895] Genealogist

Henry Burdette Whipple gives his name as Washington Warren Whipple. However, in deeds dated 25 November 1869 and 5 April 1871 in Leoni, his name is given as Warren W. Whipple. In the first deed, Warren and his brother Allen B.C. are buying 92.5 acres of land from Ory C. and Elizabeth M. Whipple for $10,000. Warren and Allen were identified as residents of Leoni at the time of purchase. In the second transaction, Allen and his wife Lucy sold their half interest in the acreage to Warren for $200.00. Warren, 33, and Mary, 29, were enumerated in the 1870 U.S. Census in Leoni Township. Their farm was valued at $4,000, personal property at $1,200. They were both listed as having been born in Michigan.

1044. Mary[7] Whipple (John[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[896] was born in Townshend, Windham Co., Vt. 23 September 1795 and died 30 October 1872 in Allen, Allegany Co., N.Y., at 77 years of age. She married Dea. Lyman Chaffee in Vermont, 1 November 1818. Lyman,[897] son of Otis Chaffee and Abigail Abby, was born in Westminster, Windham Co., Vt. 1 March 1790 and died 26 January 1880 in Allen, at 89 years of age. Lyman, joined by Ezra Oakes and a Mr. Webster, walked from Westminster to Angelica, Allegany Co., N.Y. in 1822 and acquired farms. They returned to Westminster and went back to Angelica in 1823 with their wives. Lyman was a private in the War of 1812 and both he and his wife were members of the Baptist church. A farmer, Lyman was also an Assessor in Angelica and served as Deacon for 30 years. An undated clipping from an unknown newspaper in the Chaffee Family Bible carried this notice of Mary's death: "In Allen, October 30, 1872, Mrs. Mary Chaffee, wife of Lyman Chaffee, aged 77 years. The deceased has been a worthy and exemplary member of the Baptist Church about 40 years. She married 54 years ago today—the day of her burial." The identity of Mary as a daughter of John Whipple of Townshend, was made by Dorothy Chaffee (Mrs. Harold B.) from Bible records of the Chaffee family of Angelica.

Mary Whipple and Dea. Lyman Chaffee had the following children:

1984 i. Almon Ruggles[8] Chaffee[898] born in Vermont 27 December 1819 and died unmarried 23 March 1841 in Angelica, at 21 years of age.

\+ 1985 ii. Ambrose Whipple Chaffee born 31 January 1822.

1986 iii. Sarah Ann Chaffee[899] born in Angelica 16 May 1824, died 15 August 1886 in North Shade, Mich., at 62 years of age, and was buried in Hubbardston, Ionia Co., Mich. She married Andrew P. Smith 18 December 1844. They moved to North Shade where they had six children, including Mrs. Charles Proctor who was living in North Shade in 1968.

+	1987	iv.	Mandana Post Chaffee born 11 April 1828.
+	1988	v.	Mary Lorette Chaffee born 2 April 1832.
+	1989	vi.	Lyman Edward Chaffee born 12 December 1834.

1055. Moses[7] Holbrook (Mary[6] Whipple, Joseph[5], John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[900] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 28 October 1761 and died there 1 January 1808, at 46 years of age. He married Sally Mellen in Grafton 24 January 1792. The family descended from John Holbrooke who came from England and settled in Weymouth, Norfolk Co., Mass.

Moses Holbrook and Sally Mellen had the following children born in Grafton:

+	1990	i.	Austin[8] Holbrook 27 September 1792.
	1991	ii.	Robert M. Holbrook[901] 10 May 1794 and married Clarissa J. Pierce 17 December 1816.
	1992	iii.	Puah Holbrook[902] 2 October 1796.
	1993	iv.	Sally Holbrook[903] 6 May 1798.
	1994	v.	Mary W. Holbrook[904] 6 May 1800 and died 7 October 1815 in Grafton, at 15 years of age.
	1995	vi.	Martha Holbrook[905] 14 March 1802.
	1996	vii.	Candace Holbrook[906] 4 April 1804.

1058. Capt. William[7] Whipple (Samuel[6], Joseph[5], John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[907] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 13 January 1774 (baptized in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. 9 September 1778) and died 5 December 1852 in Croydon, at 78 years of age. His death is given as 5 December 1851 in Croyden Vital Records Deaths on p. 150 and as 5 December 1852 on his tombstone, p. 467. He married Judith Putnam in Croydon 18 January 1801. Judith,[908] daughter of Caleb Putnam, was born in Sutton, Worcester Co., Mass. 22 December 1780 and died of heart disease and fever 28 September 1863 in Croydon, at 82 years of age. William and Judith are buried in East Village Cemetery. He was the largest wool grower in the area and ran as many as 1,000 sheep at a time.

Capt. William Whipple and Judith Putnam had the following children born in Croydon:

+	1997	i.	Harriet[8] Whipple 6 November 1801.
	1998	ii.	Lyman Whipple[909] 2 November 1803 and died 18 March 1885 in Sunapee, Sullivan Co., N.H., at 81 years of age. He married Mary Story. Mary,[910] daughter of John Story and Pricilla Choate, was born in Enfield, Grafton Co., N.H. 13 December 1803 and died 28 March 1896 in Sunapee, at 92 years of age.[911] Mary was one of 12 children—four daughters, eight sons—of John and Pricilla, both of whom were born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass., died in Enfield, and are buried in the Montcalm Cemetery there. John is a direct descendant of William Story who settled in Ipswich in 1637. Pricilla was the daughter of Jeremiah and Eunice (Giddings) Choate and a great grandaughter of John and grand daughter of Thomas Choate. Readers interested in the William Story genealogy are referred to The Descendants of William Story Who Came to Ipswich, Massachusetts in 1637, The First Eight Generations by Robert L. Pratt, M.D., Gateway Press, Inc., Baltimore, MD, 2000. Mary's husband is listed as George Lyman Whipple in this genealogy. The vital records of Croydon gives his name as Lyman Whipple.

1999 iii. Sophia Whipple[912] 7 January 1806 and died 1 March 1875 in Croydon, at 69 years of age. She married twice. (1) Rufus Sturtivant in Croydon 11 March 1827. (2) Col. Jonathan Conant of Lyme, Grafton Co., N.H. in Croydon 2 August 1843. (Intention of marriage published in Croydon 30 July 1843.)

2000 iv. Mahala Whipple[913] 15 February 1808 and died 30 April 1808 in Croydon, at less than 1 year of age. She is buried in Pinnacle Cemetery.

\+ 2001 v. Lyndia Whipple 24 February 1809.

2002 vi. Laura Whipple[914] 24 February 1809 and died in Croydon. She married an unnamed man in Croydon in 1831.

2003 vii. Lucy Brown Whipple[915] 4 November 1811 and died of pneumonia 21 April 1889 in Croydon, at 77 years of age. She married William W. George in Croydon 22 March 1829. He was a prominent businessman and was elected Sheriff and represented Canaan, Grafton Co., N.H. in the state Legislature for several years. The family was living in Canaan in 1867.

2004 viii. Samuel Whipple[916] 4 April 1814 and died 11 April 1814 in Croydon, at 1 week of age.

\+ 2005 ix. William M. Whipple 9 August 1817.

1060. Lucy[7] Whipple (Samuel[6], Joseph[5], John[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[917] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 30 January 1777 (baptized in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H., 9 September 1778) and died aft 1837. She married Barnum Clark in Croydon 1 September 1796. Barnam, son of John Clark and Relief Barnum, was born in Franklin, Norfolk Co., Mass. 23 June 1774 and died aft 1837 in Indiana. Information on Barnum and Lucy (Whipple) Clark was provided to Henry Whipple by Mrs. Madge Hubbard of Seattle, King Co., Wash., a direct descendant. According to Mrs. Hubbard, the family was in Montague Township, Hampshire Co., Mass. at the time of its 1800 census. They were in Middlefield, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1810; in Penfield, Monroe Co., N.Y. in 1812; and in Athens Co., Ohio in February 1819. They can be found on the Athens Co. federal census of 1820 and 1830. A move to Indiana apparently occurred in mid-1830s. Stephen Reed conveyed land in Fountain Co., which later became Veedersburg, Ind., to Barnum 2 December 1834. By deed dated 23 February 1737, Barnum, who was identified as being of Fountain Co., Ind., conveyed land in Dover Township, Athens Co., to Benjamin Clark. Sons Justin S. and Benjamin Whipple Clark moved to Cincinnati, Hamilton Co., Ohio about 1844. One source, without documentation, stated Lucy died at Walnut Hills (Cincinnati) in 1863. Barnum's father, John, served in the Revolution. The Clark family descends from Joseph Clark who left England and settled in Dedham, Essex Co., Mass. Barnum's mother, Relief, descends from Thomas Barnum who left England and settled in Massachusetts.

Lucy Whipple and Barnam Clark had the following children:

2006 i. Angeline[8] Clark[918] married twice. (1) Rev. G. R. Ball. (2) (__) Marsh.

1090. Nathaniel[7] Whipple (Lt. James[6], Lieut. James[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[980] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 8 September 1778 and died 8 August 1821 in Southborough, Worcester Co., Mass., at 42 years of age. He married twice. (1) Phila Warren in Grafton 12 March 1801. Phila,[981] daughter of Capt. Joseph Warren and Lois Lyon, was born in Grafton 21 February 1783 and died 10 October 1804 in Grafton, at 21 years of age. (2) Sarah Batcheller in Grafton 7 December 1806. She was born in 1778 and died in September 1845, at 67 years of age.

Nathaniel Whipple and Phila Warren had the following children born in Grafton:

+	2078	i.	Charles[8] Whipple 18 August 1801.
	2079	ii.	Simon Whipple[982] 11 July 1803 and died 4 October 1803 in Grafton, at less than 4 months of age. His given name may have been Simeon.

Nathaniel Whipple and Sarah Batcheller had the following children:

2080 iii. Josiah Whipple[983] born in November 1807 and married Almira Packard. The family settled in Chesterfield, Macoupin Co., Ill.

2081 iv. Perley B. Whipple[984] born in Alton, Madison Co., Ill. 15 April 1810.

2082 v. Clarissa Whipple[985] born in 1811 and married John Dye. The family moved to Illinois.

2083 vi. Mary Whipple[986] born in 1813. She married twice. (1) Charles Munroe. (2)Z. B. Lawson in Illinois.

1094. John[7] Whipple Jr. (John[6], Lieut. James[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[987] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 10 December 1769 and died 29 September 1803 in Acworth, Sullivan Co., N.H., at 33 years of age. He married Lucy Stow in Shrewsbury, Worcester Co., Mass. 23 May 1793. She was born in Massachusetts in 1771 and died 20 November 1831 in Grafton, at 60 years of age.[988]

John Whipple Jr. and Lucy Stow had the following children born in Grafton:

2084 i. John[8] Whipple[989] 7 September 1793[990] and died 1 April 1818 in Grafton, at 24 years of age.[991]

\+ 2085 ii. Jonathan Whipple 7 July 1795.

1102. Rev. Jacob[7] Whipple (James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[992] was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 4 November 1755 and died 8 October 1818 in Dana, Worcester Co., Mass., at 62 years of age. He married Edna Forbush in Hardwick 30 December 1777. She was born abt 1756 and died 10 November 1848 in Dana, at 92 years of age.[993] He was a Baptist preacher and may be the Jacob Whipple who was a private in Capt. Samuel Dexter's co., Col. Learnard's regt.; pay abstract for mileage from home and return, dated Roxbury Camp, Jan._, 1776; mileage for 150 miles allowed said Whipple; company raised in Hardwick, New Braintree, and Oakham.

Rev. Jacob Whipple and Edna Forbush had the following children born in Massachusetts:

\+ 2086 i. Lydia[8] Whipple in 1779.

\+ 2087 ii. Ephraim Whipple in 1781.

2089 iv. Mercy Whipple[995] in 1784. Died young.

1103. David[7] Whipple (James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[996] was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 12 September 1759 and died in 1842 in Greenwich, Mass., at 82 years of age. He married four times. (1) Elizabeth (Betsey) Davis in Greenwich 7 April 1785. She was born abt 1766[997] and died 16 September 1826 in Hardwick, at 60 years of age.[998] (2) Rebecca Adams. (3) Martha Thayer in Hardwick 26 or 27 January 1827. Martha was born abt 1765[999] and died 27 May 1836 in Hardwick, at 71 years of age.[1000] (4) Arethusia Brooks in Dana, Worcester Co., Mass. 15 November 1836. The Revolutionary Rolls in the Massachusetts Achives at Boston show that David's service in the Revolutionary War was as follows: Private in Capt. Thomas Whipple's Co., Col. Putnam's regt.;[1001] on a payroll of Capt. Edmund Hodges Co. in Col. Job Cushing's regt. to the Northern Amy; engaged 27 July 1779, discharged 29 Aug. 1779. Vol. 25:143.

David Whipple and Rebecca Adams had the following children:

2090 i. Martha[8] Whipple.[1002]
2091 ii. William Whipple.[1003]
2092 iii. Rufus Whipple.[1004]
2093 iv. Mary Whipple.[1005]
2094 v. Benjamin Whipple.[1006]
2095 vi. Joseph Whipple.[1007]
\+ 2096 vii. Mathew A. Whipple born 23 November 1816.

David Whipple and Arethusia Brooks had the following child:

2097 viii. David Whipple.[1008]

David Whipple and Elizabeth (Betsey) Davis had the following children born in Hardwick:

\+ 2098 ix. David Whipple 8 June 1783.
2099 x. Lyndell Whipple[1009] 14 December 1795 and died unmarried 21 November 1817 in Hardwick, at 21 years of age. His given name may have been spelled Lindal.
\+ 2100 xi. Joel Whipple 19 July 1797.
\+ 2101 xii. Cyrene Whipple 28 May 1799.
2102 xiii. Eliza Whipple[1010] 11 March 1804 and married William Johnson in Hardwick 15 August 1822. They had eight children (names not provided) and lived in Hardwick.

1104. James[7] Whipple (James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1011] was born in Massachusetts in 1765 and died in 1843 in Springfield, Otsego Co., N.Y., at 78 years of age. He married Electa Johnson 21 April 1785. Electa, daughter of Seth Johnson and Kezia Cooley, was born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. 31 January 1767 and died in 1839 in Springfield Center, Otsego Co., N.Y., at 72 years of age. James resided in Hardwick until 1817, then moved to Otsego, Otsego Co., N.Y. thence to Springfield where he died.

James Whipple and Electa Johnson had the following children:

\+ 2103 i. James[8] Whipple born in 1785.

\+ 2104 ii. Cynthia Whipple born in 1788.

\+ 2105 iii. Bathsheba Whipple born in 1791.

\+ 2106 iv. Seth Whipple born 20 February 1793.

2107 v. Catharine Whipple[1012] born in Hardwick in 1796 and died in 1841 in Otsego, at 45 years of age. She married Thomas Jennings. The family lived in Otsego in 1850.

2108 vi. Almira Whipple[1013] born in Hardwick in 1798 and died in 1844 in Greenwich, Mass., at 46 years of age. She married Ira Haskell.

\+ 2109 vii. Almond Whipple born in 1800.

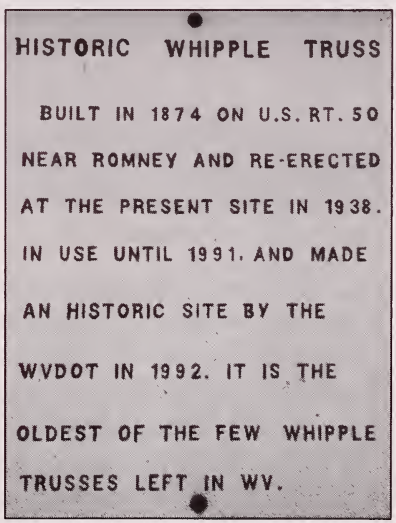
2110 viii. Sophronia Whipple[1014] born in Hardwick in 1802 and married Oliver N. Shipman. The family lived in Springfield where Oliver was a merchant.

2111 ix. Squire Whipple[1015] born in Hardwick 16 September 1804 and died of old age 15 March 1888 in Albany, Albany Co., N.Y., at 83 years 5 months, 29 days of age. He married W. Anna Case of Utica, Oneida Co., N.Y. in Utica in 1837. No children born to this union. Anna was born in New Hampshire 11 August 1821 and died of Bright's disease 25 January 1891 in Albany, at 69 years of age.[1016] Squire and Anna are buried in Lot 19, Section 41 in the Rural Cemetery, Albany.



From the age of 8 to 13, Squire attended the common district school in Hardwick for six months each year and labored the other six, part of the time in a cotton factory and part on his father's farm. When the family moved to Otsego, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1817, he continued to live at home for another five years and attended school about three months annually. He attended other schools of higher learning and in 1829 entered the senior class of Union College (Schenectady, Schenectady Co., N.Y.) and was graduated in 1830. He then did survey work for several railroads and canal projects and made surveying instruments. In 1840 he invented a lock that could weigh canal boats of three to four hundred tons, an accomplishment that drew considerable attention. The couple lived in Utica where he was a well known civil engineer, inventor, and theoretician.

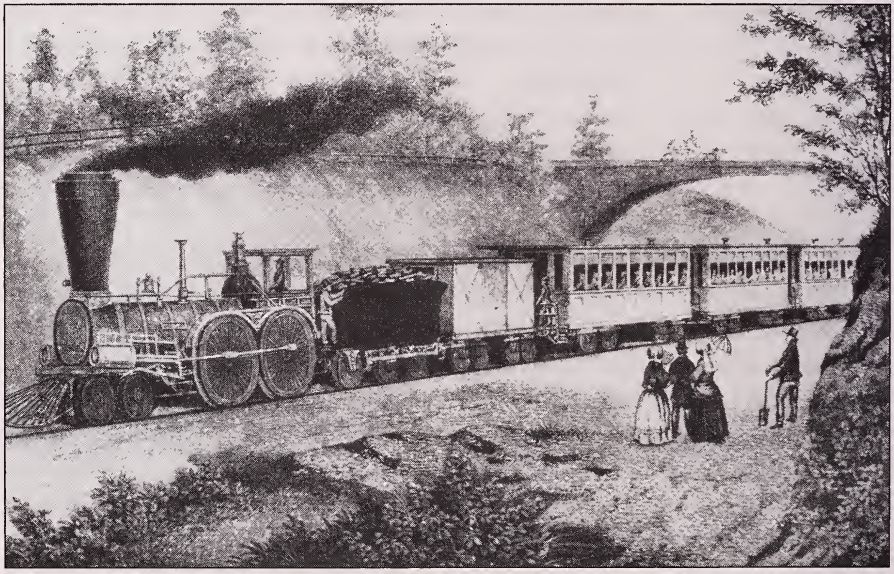
The invention of the steam engine required bridges which could support heavy live loads and this motivated Squire to turn his attention to bridges and he developed the first scientifically based rules for bridge construction. At the start of the 18th century, iron as a structural material was unknown, but as the century evolved, cast iron came into general use and wrought iron was in commercial use by the end of the century. He invented two new truss designs and in 1853 completed a 146-foot span iron railroad bridge near West Troy (now Watervliet), Albany Co., N.Y.



An express train of the 1850s

Wooden trusses had been built according to "rule-of-thumb" methods without scientific or mathematical means to obtain accurate quantitative information on stresses. Rule-of-thumb wouldn't work with iron. It had to be analyzed scientifically and in 1847, Squire published a collection of essays entitled A Work on Bridge-Building, the first significant theoretical formula to calculate stresses in the articulated truss. So significant is his contribution that it is the beginning of the era of scientific bridge design. He published a more thorough and exhaustive textbook in 1869: An Elementary and Practical Treatise on Bridge-Building. As a result, after 1850, most bridges were made of wrought iron until near the end of the century when replaced by steel.

Squire designed a bowspring overhead truss with a curved upper chord made of cast-iron and the lower and intermediate members of wrought iron. His truss bridges were built throughout the United States for spans of less than 200 feet and lasted for decades. His bridge at Union College in Schenectady is a National Historic Civil Engineering Landmark.

His formula to calculate the stress in iron was also important to American architecture. If a single building type can be identified with American architecture, it is the skyscraper. Tall buildings were the stuff of the stories told by the legions of European immigrants whose first glimpse of America was the southern tip of Manhattan Island, bristling with its towers.

Thanks to the pursuit of metal technology—especially by bridge builders—the impulse to go ever higher could be indulged almost without limit, at least in theory. Metal beams could span great distances and could support increased loads with a minimum of bulk. Metal members could free the building's skin from its support role, permitting much larger windows as well as much greater and more flexible interior spaces to meet the growing demand in the late 19th century for offices and factories.

A triple Whipple is a rare kind of metal tress bridge. Whipples lent themselves to covering longer distances. Indiana boasts the only example of a triple Whipple in the United States. The Laughery Creek Bridge connects Dearborn County and Ohio County.

From the side a metal bridge looks like a giant trapezoid. In the trapezoid, many vertical and diagonal supports form a series of triangles. Those triangles help make the truss strong—push one side of a triangle and the other two resist, meaning your bridge won't easily bend. In Whipple's design, diagonal supports cross two panels. Others modified his design so three were crossed and the name "triple Whipple" was born. Bridge enthusiasts can find the country's only triple Whipple crossing Laughery Creek between Dearborn and Ohio counties, Indiana. The bridge has been listed in the National Register since 1976 and today accommodates only occasional foot traffic. Squire and his wife lived at 227 State Street, Albany at time of his death.

2112 x. Samson Whipple[1017] born in Hardwick in 1810 and died in 1846 in Springfield, at 36 years of age.

1105. Moses[7] Whipple (James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1018] was born in Massachusetts abt 1768 and died 19 March 1842 in Dana, Worcester Co., Mass., at 73 years of age. He married Sarah Thayer.

Moses Whipple and Sarah Thayer had the following children born in Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass.:

2113 i. Rebecah[8] Whipple[1019] 9 October 1790 and married Daniel Stephens in Dana 14 April 1811. (Date of intent to marry.) The family lived in Hardwick.

2114 ii. Sarah Whipple[1020] 16 April 1792. She married twice. (1) Joel Gleason in Dana 2 July 1811. (Date of intent to marry, 24 June 1811.) Joel was born in Hardwick 15 July 1785 and died there 26 September 1823, at 38 years of age.[1021] (2) Lt. Jacob Gibbs aft September 1823.

2115 iii. Lydia Whipple[1022] 17 February 1794 and married Holland Randall of Barre, Worcester Co., Mass. in Hardwick 11 May 1817. (Date of intent to marry, 7 April 1817.) They resided in Hardwick. Holland,[1023] son of Josiah Randall and Thankful Holland, was born in Boylston, Worcester Co., Mass. 2 January 1790 and died 19 July 1826 in Dana, at 36 years of age.

\+ 2116 iv. Moses Whipple 22 September 1796.

2117 v. Polly Whipple[1024] in 1799 and died, probably in Hardwick, in 1802, at 3 years of age.

\+ 2118 vi. Col. Joseph Whipple 30 April 1801.

2119 vii. Hannah Whipple[1025] 11 June 1803. She lived in Dana and was deaf and dumb.

\+ 2121 ix. Selinda Whipple 1 May 1809.

\+ 2122 x. Ruby Whipple 10 November 1811.

1107. Thomas[7] Whipple (Col. Moses[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1028] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 16 June 1759 and died in 1838 in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H., at 79 years of age. He married Thankful Powers in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. 22 March 1781. Thomas' father, Moses, a Justice of the Peace, performed the marriage ceremony. Thankful,[1029] daughter of Lemuel Powers and Thankful Leland, was born in Northbridge, Mass. in 1761 and died 14 March 1821 in Charlestown, at 59 years of age. Thomas lived in Croydon until 1809 when he moved to Charlestown. His Revolutionary War service began in June 1776 as a Ranger under Capt. Benjamin Wait. Their commanding officer was Maj. Hoisington. They were stationed at Newbury, Orange Co., Vt. and he was sent on various scouting expeditions between Newbury and Canada and over the mountains to Onion river.[1030] He remained in service until October when he hired Henry Lovell as a substitute and went home.

He voluntered in early May 1777 and served as a private in the Ticonderoga campaign under Capt. Solomon Chase, Col. Chase's regt. He got the measles after two months service and was dismissed and went home sick. Beginning in July 1870 he served two months at Haverhill, Grafton Co., N.H. as a substitute for James Hall. In October 1780, when news of the burning of Royalton, Windsor Co., Vt.[1031] reached Croydon, he voluntered to serve under his father, Capt. Moses Whipple, Col. Chase's regt. They marched as far as Sharon (adjoins Royalton) where they were informed the enemy had left and were ordered to Newbury, Vt. where they remained three months before returning home. His pension claim was allowed and Certificate No. 3326 was issued 18 December 1832 under the Act of 7 June 1832. The pension was to be effective 4 March 1831 and he was awarded a prorated share of $44.65 from that date to 4 September 1832. Thereafter he was to receive $22.33 per annum. His application raises questions about the mother of his children, all born after 1777. His pension application states "that while in service at Ticonderoga (summer of 1777), he lost his wife." Was Thankful Powers his first or second wife?[1032]

Thomas Whipple and Thankful Powers had the following children:

+	2123	i.	Polly[8] Whipple born in 1781.
	2124	ii.	Jonathan Whipple[1033] born in Croydon abt 1783 and died there of canker rash 25 February 1793, at 9 years of age.[1034]
+	2125	iii.	Daniel Whipple born in 1785.
	2126	iv.	Aseph Whipple[1035] born in Croydon in 1787 (baptized 10 August 1788) and drowned 3 July 1796 in Charlestown, at 9 years of age. He is buried in Pinnacle Cemetery.[1036]
+	2127	v.	Hannah Whipple born in 1789.

2128 vi. Chloe Whipple[1037] born in Charlestown in 1791 (baptized 22 September 1793) and died abt 1866 in Canada. She married Joseph Hall Hasseltine in Croydon abt September 1814. (Intention to marry published in Croydon 14 August 1814. Both were identified as being of Croydon.) The family was living in Bradford, Essex Co., Mass. in 1850.

2129 vii. Artemas Whipple[1038] born in Charlestown in 1793 (baptized in Croydon 27 March 1796) and married Abigail Ballou there. She may have been known as Nabby.

\+ 2130 viii. Obed Whipple born in 1795.

\+ 2131 ix. Annis Whipple born in 1797.

2132 x. Alvira Whipple[1039] born in Charlestown in 1801 (baptized in Croydon 19 May 1805) and died of dysentery 28 July 1806 in Croydon, at 5 years of age.

1108. Aaron[7] Whipple (Col. Moses[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1040] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 23 March 1761, died 18 May 1838 in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. at 77 years of age, and is buried in Croydon's Four Corners Cemetery. He married Matilda Cooper in Croydon 4 November 1784. His father, Moses, performed the ceremony. Matilda,[1041] daughter of Dea. John Cooper and Mary Sherman, was born in 1762 and died in January 1840 in Croydon at 77 years of age. Aaron and Matilda settled in the south part of Croydon near Coit Mountain. They apparently had another child based on fragments of a tombstone in Pinnacle Cemetery "In Memory of K.C. Whipple child of Mr. Aaron..." This stone is adjacent to the grave of their son Solomon. Aaron enlisted in the Revolutionary War in August 1777 and served under his father at the Battle of Saratoga. He was among the volunteers who captured Gen. John Burgoyne's Picket Guard—100 men and 37 horses. About 10 days after Burgoyne's surrender Aaron was dismissed and went home. He again enlisted in May or June 1781 for six months and served under Capt. Charles Nelson, Col. Benjamin Wait's regt. He was stationed at Corinth, Orange Co., Vt. Aaron's claim for a pension was issued 7 December 1832 under the Congressional Act of 7 June 1832. His Certificate No. is 2889. He is the only Revolutionary Pensioner named Aaron Whipple from any state. Widower Aaron was living in retirement on his farm in 1837. His son Moses was the farm operator.

Aaron Whipple and Matilda Cooper had the following children born in Croydon:

\+ 2133 i. David[8] Whipple 25 October 1786.

2134 ii. Solomon Whipple[1042] in 1788 and died that year, at 6 months of age.

\+ 2135 iii. Huldah Whipple in 1790.

\+ 2136 iv. Harvey Whipple in 1791.

\+ 2137 v. Moses Whipple 19 February 1795.

2138 vi. Solomon Whipple[1043] abt 1798 and died 24 August 1801 in Croydon, at 3 years of age. Buried in Pinnacle Cemetery.

2139 vii. Ruby Whipple[1044] in 1798 and died 12 August 1800 in Croydon, at 2 years of age.

2140 viii. Martin Griswold Whipple[1045] in 1800 and died due to fracture of the skull by an axe 7 January 1805 in Croydon, at 4 years of age.

2141 ix. Experience Whipple[1046] in 1803 and died of dysentery 12 August 1806 in Croydon, at 3 years of age

1110. Moses[7] Whipple (Col. Moses[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1047] was born in Grafton, Worcester Co., Mass. 31 March 1765 (baptized 28 April 1765) and died 19 April 1841 in Granville, Windsor Co., Vt., at 76 years of age. He married Molly Elliot in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. 28 November 1787. His father, Moses, Sr., performed the ceremony. Molly was born abt 1765 and died 24 February 1847 in Irasburg, Orleans Co., Vt., at 81 years of age. Her given name may have been Polly instead of Molly.[1048]

Moses Whipple and Molly Elliot had the following children born in Rochester Township, Windsor Co. Vt.:

2334 ii. Almira Hurd[I281] 5 August 1799.

2335 iii. Sarah Hurd[I282] 5 January 1804 and married Elisha Sturtevant.

2336 iv. Ruth Hurd[I283] 25 August 1805 and married George Metcalf.

2337 v. Mariah Hurd[I284] 20 July 1807 and married Elbridge Reed.

\+ 2338 vi. Lucretia Lavinia Hurd 22 January 1809.

\+ 2339 vii. Lydia Hurd 4 February 1811.

2340 viii. Sophronia Hurd[I285] 29 November 1812 and married Elias Stephens.

2341 ix. Mary A. Hurd[I286] 1 August 1814 and married William H. Dunbar.

1200. Asabel[7] Putnam (Samuel[6], Timothy[5], Ruth[4] Whipple, Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1287] was born in Acworth, Sullivan Co., N.H. 24 August 1814 and married three times. (1) Rhody Jefts in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H. 12 May 1837. (2) Valena C. Holmes in Charlestown in May 1843. (3) Thankful Frances in Newport, Sullivan Co., N.H. 31 August 1859. She was born 13 August 1835 and died 18 January 1900 in Melrose, Middlesex Co., Mass., at 64 years of age.[1288]

Asabel Putnam and Thankful Frances had the following child:

\+ 2342 i. Fred Ashabel[8] Putnam born 14 March 1861.

1201. Roxelane[7] Putnam (Bailey[6], Timothy[5], Ruth[4] Whipple, Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1289] was born in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H. 4 March 1797 and died 16 July 1867 in Green Bay, Brown Co., Wisc., at 70 years of age. She is buried in Ft. Howard Cemetery. She married Levi Whitcomb in Washtenaw Co., Mich. 6 May 1827 Levi,[1290] son of Joseph Whitcomb and Eunice Whitcomb, was born 26 February 1794 and died 4 October 1869 in Brown Co., Wisc., at 75 years of age. Roxelane grew up in Charlestown, N.H. and Weathersfield, Vt. and moved with her parents and brother Joseph to Washtenaw Co. when she was 29. They were met upon their arrival in Detroit by her brother Hiram who had previously settled in Dexter Township near present day Ann Arbor, Mich. Sickness and hardship plagued the family and her father died shortly after their arrival. She met Levi in Dexter who had moved to Washtenaw Co. from Orleans Co. N.Y. in 1824. Levi and Roxelane farmed in Dexter until about 1845 when they moved to the adjoining township of Lyndon where they were enumerated in the 1850 federal census. All their children were born on the Dexter farm. Sometime after 1850, Levi and Roxelane purchased a farm in Susmico, Wisc. near Green Bay. Two of their sons had previously moved there. During or shortly after the Civil War, they sold the farm and lived with their son Walter and his family on his farm in Howard Township (now part of Green Bay). Both died there.

Levi's death was accidential according to The Green Bay Advocate of 7 October 1869: "FATAL ACCIDENT. One of the old settlers of the county, Mr. Whitcomb, father of Walter Whitcomb, in the town of Howard, was instantly killed on Monday last by a falling limb of a tree he was chopping, striking him on the head, crushing the skull. He was dead when found in the field by his little grandson George. He was about 70 years old and highly esteemed by all who knew him."

Roxelane Putnam and Levi Whitcomb had the following children born in Dexter:

2343 i. Sarah Ann[8] Whitcomb[1291] 5 February 1828 and died 29 March 1828 in Dexter, at less than 2 months of age.

2344 ii. Joseph Bailey Whitcomb[1292] 25 May 1829 and died 16 October 1860 in Green Bay, at 31 years of age. He married Julia Ann Babcock, probably in Suamico 5 December 1855. Julia,[1293] daughter of Stephen Babcock and Elizabeth Floyd, was born in Callais, Washington Co., Maine abt 1837.

2345 iii. Lucius F. Whitcomb[1294] 20 October 1830 and died 19 January 1841 in Michigan, at 10 years of age.

\+ 2346 iv. Walter Scott Whitcomb 31 August 1832.

2347 v. Lucretia Whitcomb 12 April 1834 and married Stephen Babcock Jr., probably in Suamico, 10 June 1856. Lucretia and her brother Joseph married Stephen and Julia Ann Babcock, also brother and sister. Stephen[1295] was the son of Stephen Babcock and Elizabeth Floyd. Lucretia and Stephen were living in Suamico in 1860 and probably moved to Roxbury, McPherson Co., Kans.

2348 vi. Levi Prentice Whitcomb[1296] 17 May 1838. He was living in Free Soil, Mich. in 1860.

1202. Hiram[7] Putnam (Bailey[6], Timothy[5], Ruth[4] Whipple, Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1297] born in Charlestown, Sullivan Co., N.H. 27 March 1798, died 7 December 1874 in Jackson Co., Mich., at 76 years of age, and was buried at Kalamazoo, Kalamazoo Co., Mich. He married Laura Emelline Rice probably in Washtenaw or Ingham Co., Michigan 9 October 1836. Laura died 28 April 1883.[1298]

Hiram Putnam and Laura Emelline Rice had the following children:

\+ 2349 i. Laura Emeline[8] Putnam born 11 January 1838.

2350 ii. Marvina Vinnie Putnam[1299] born 25 October 1839 and died 2 March 1906 in Kalamazoo, at 66 years of age.

2351 iii. Hiram Lycurgas Putnam[1300] born 7 October 1842 and died 18 November 1869, at 27 years of age 2352 iv. Amy Ann Putnam[1301] born 20 September 1844 and died 18 February 1876, at 31 years of age. She married Benjamin Lowe 27 September 1870.

2353 v. Mary Elizabeth Putnam[1302] born 1 January 1847 and died 21 January 1920, at 73 years of age. She married Joseph Edward Brown 25 December 1872.

278. John Trumbull (1750-1831) was a lawyer, judge, satirist and poet. At age 5 he began the study of Latin and passed his examination for admission to Yale at age 7 but did not enter until 1763, graduating in 1767. He became a tutor at Yale in 1771 and studied law and was licensed to practice in 1773 and entered the law office of the future President, John Adams in Boston. There he wrote his impressions of the spirit of freedom and resistance in an "Elegy on the Times," a poem of 63 stanzas on the port bill and other colonial themes (Boston, 1774). He returned to New Haven, Conn. in 1774 where he wrote, while practicing law, the first two contos of McFingal, an epic poem in Hudibrastic verse,* in which he described the American contest and the character and customs of the times, and satirized the manner and extravagances of both his countrymen and the British. (Philadelphia, 1774). He completed McFingal in Hartford, Conn in 1782. Its popularity was great, and there were more than 30 pirated impressions distributed in pamphlet and other forms. An excerpt from McFingal:

And there are in this freeborn land Turn his inspired and sacred writers; And Judges, who would list his pages, Among ourselves a venal band, Lawyers, who should he wish to prove For proper liveries and wages; A dastard race, who long have sold His title t' his old seat above, And who as humbly cringe and bow Their souls and consciences for gold; Would, if his cause he'd give 'em fees in, To all his mortal servants now? Who wish to stab their country's vitals, Bring writs of Entry sur disseisn, here are; and shame with pointing gestures, If they might heir surviving titles; Plead for him boldly at the session, Marks out th' Addressers and Protesters; With joy behold our mischiefs brewing And hope to put him in possession; Whom, following down the stream of fate, Insult and triumph in our ruin? Merchants, who for his kindly aid, Contempts ineffable await, Priests, who, if Satan should sit down, Would make him partners in their trade, And public infamy forlorn, To make a Bible of his own, Hang out their signs in good show, Dread hate and everlasting scorn. Would gladly for the sake of mitres, Inscrib'd with "Beelzebub and Co."

*Hudibrastic verse – A satirical writing that is jarring to read because of the galloping and potentially monotonous tetrameter lines that end in odd-sounding rhymes. The incongruity created by sing-song lines that might be monotonous except for the unexpected rhymes and odd syntax that fosters much of the hurmor of Hudibrastic verse. The name comes from Samuel Butler's satire of Puritans, Hudibras (1653-1680). McFingal is considered the most entertaining satire in American literature.

Disseisn—A piece of paper allowing outright theft.

Edward Everett Hale 13 October 1852. Edward,[581] son of Nathan Hale and Sarah Preston Everette, was born in Boston, Suffolk Co., Mass. 3 April 1822 and died there 10 June 1909 at 87 years of age. He was graduated (1835) from the Boston Latin School and entered Harvard at age 13, graduating in 1839, second in his class. His father published the Boston Daily Advertiser and he did some reporting for the paper during his school years and eventually became assistant editor. After graduation from Harvard, he became an usher in the Boston Latin School and studied divinity and in the spring of 1846 was ordained minister of the Church of the Unity in Worcester, Mass where he served for 10 years. He became pastor of Boston's South Congregational Church in 1856, serving until 1899.

His deep interest in the anti-slavery movement, especially Kansas, and in popular education, especially Chatauqua, resulted in voluminous contributions to newspapers and magazines. He helped found and edited the Christian Examiner, Old and New in 1869 which was merged into Scrib- ners Magazine in 1875. He was author or editor of more than 60 books of fiction, travel, sermons, biography, and history.

He came into notice as a writer in 1859 when the Atlantic Monthly published his short story "My Double and How He Undid Me." His best known story, "The Man Without a Country," (1863), did much to strengthen the Union cause in the North. In it he crafted a realism which led many readers to believe the narrative to be a record of fact. "The Man Without a Country," "The Rag Man," "The Rag Woman," and "The Skeleton in the Closet" assured him a prominent position among American short-story writers. His story, "Ten Times One is Ten" with its hero Harry Wadsworth and its motto: "Look up and not down, look forward and not back, look out and not in, and lend a hand " led to the formation among young people of "Lend a Hand Clubs," "Look Up Legions," and "Harry Wadsworth Clubs." His 1873 story, "In His Name" resulted in other organizations for religious work such as "King Daughters" and "Kings Sons." A revised edition of his principal work was published in 10 volumes in 1899. He served as chaplain of the U.S. Senate (1903-09) and was a nephew of Edward Everett, the orator and statesman, and grandnephew of Nathan Hale, the martyred American Revolution soldier.

Zebulon served in the War of 1812 and was present at the attack at Stonington Point, Conn.

The British commander Commodore Thomas Hardy, with four vessels entered the harbor 9 August 1814 and threatened to destroy the town. The town decided to fight and set up its defenses near the end of the peninsula. When the British bombardment began at 8:00 p.m. the American cannoneers returned fire and sank one of the barges and forced the bombship to retreat. The bombing stopped at midnight and began again at sunrise and continued until noon of 12 August before the British finally gave up and sailed away. Despite being bombarded with more than 60 tons of metal and 170 bombs, the town did not lose a single life or house. This was the only British action in Connecticut in the war.

Zebulon traveled from Connecticut to Ohio by foot in 1818 and arrived at Kingsville 30 days later where he purchased some wild land and converted it to a farm. He became a prominent member of the Masonic order in Kingsville. His will, dated 27 January 1877 at Sheffield, was probated in 1879. Joseph[5], Joseph[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[901] birth date unknown, died in September 1820 in Gloucester, Mass. of cholera and was buried 26 September. He married Lydia Gardner of Marblehead, Mass. in Marblehead 19 July 1807. (Date of intent recorded 13 June 1807.) Her family, from Gardiner, Maine, was noted for its mental gifts. Upon the death of her husband she was left with three sons—9, 5, and 1—to raise. Matthew was said to have "strong sense and fine social powers."

Matthew Whipple and Lydia Gardner had the following children born in Gloucester:

3099 i. George Washington[9] Whipple 27 April 1811.[902]

3100 ii. Matthew James Whipple 7 May 1815 and died in 1880 in Boston, Mass., at 65 years of age. [903]

3101 iii. Edwin Percy Whipple 8 March 1819 and died 16 June 1886 at 67 years of age. He married Charlotte B. Hastings 21 June 1847. Charlotte, daughter of Cyrus Hastings and Eliza Bullard, was born 28 February 1821. The Whipples had a son and a daughter but the author has no information on them.[904] Edwin was an author and lecturer in Boston in the mid-nineteenth century whose work in the field of literary criticism was notable. His brilliant article on Thomas B. Macaulay (1800-60) written when he was 24 and employed in the brokerage business (1843) made him known to the literary world of Boston. Writer Robert L. Gale said Whipple was surpassed only by Edgar Allen Poe and James Russell Lowell as an informed, judicious, and comprehensive critic. (Whipple and Lowell were distant cousins. Matthew Whipple, Clothier of Bocking, Essex Co., England, was their 6th great grandfather. Edwin descended through Matthew, Jr. and James through Elder John.) His father died when he was 18 months old and his mother moved the family to Salem where he took commercial courses and was graduated from high school at age 15. He clerked in Salem's Bank of General Interest and voraciously read literature and history in his spare time and began writing for newspapers as age 14. He moved to Boston in 1837 and joined the banking and brokerage firm of Dana, Fenno, and Henshaw, eventually becoming chief clerk. He continued to read widely, began collecting books, and joined the Mercantile Library Assn. and the Attic Nights Club, occasionally presenting his writings before both groups. He began writing essays of literary criticism, many of which were published anonymously in the Boston Times and have never been completely identified and listed. He also became a popular lecturer speaking on the lyceum circuit from Maine to Ohio an estimated thousand times from the early 1840s to the mid-1850s. The 12 Lowell Institute lectures he gave in 1859 were published in the Atlantic Monthly (Feb. 1867-Dec. 1868). He left the brokerage office about 1845 to supervise the news office of Merchant's Exchange Building until 1860. He was an original member of the Saturday Club, the famous literary dinner club established in Boston in 1855. Authors sought invitations to the informal salon he and his wife established in their home. He became the literary editor of the Boston Daily Globe in 1872. Included among his volumes of scholarly essays were Literature and Life (1849), Literature of the Age of Elizabeth (1869), and American Literature, and Other Papers (published posthumously in 1887). In it is "American Literature 1776-1876," a lengthy pioneering survey including critical comments on Benjamin Franklin and Jonathan Edwards and predictions that Mark Twain and Henry James would achieve literary fame. He was a regular contributor to the Atlantic Monthly from 1850 to 1881 and The North American Review, 1850-85. He also wrote for Harper's New Monthly Magazine, Scribner's Magazine, The American Whig Review, and The Living Age. In his review of Vanity Fair by William Makepeace Thackeray in the May 1865 Atlantic Monthly, Whipple wrote that Thackeray's style "is as clear, pure, and flexible as if its sentences had been subjected to repeated revision, and every pebble which obstructed its lucid and limpid flow had been laboriously removed. The characterization is almost perfect of its kind." He found the book fascinating due to a variety of causes besides its mere exhibition of the worldly side of life. "It is not so much what is done, as the way in which it is done, that surprises and delights; and the manner is always inimitable, even when the matter is common," he wrote. In a speech on "Washington and the Principles of the Revolution" delivered before the municipal authorities of Boston on the 4th of July 1850, Whipple reminded Americans of the greatness of principle and character behind the Revolution and the necessity of staying watchful and alert in order to maintain such qualities. He cited George Washington's genius of character, moderation of passions, and tenacious resolve as the embodiments of the American Revolution. "In him," Whipple said, "America has produced at least one man whose free soul was fit to be Liberty's chosen home. As was his individual freedom, so should be our national freedom." He was in ill health the last 10 years of life but continued writing to the end. Many of his papers are at Harvard College, the U. of Illinois, the U. of Virginia, Yale University, and the Boston Public Library, the Buffalo, N.Y. and Erie County Public Library, and the Historical Society of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. Obituaries are in the Boston Transcript and the New York Times of 18 June 1886.[905]

	3109	viii.	Charles C. Harriman[913] born in Warner 2 March 1825 and died 4 June 1899 in Manchester, N.H., at 74 years of age. He married Eliza P. Noyes. She was born in New Hampshire abt 1825.[914]

1849. Wright[8] Whipple (Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[915] was born in Whipple Hollow near West Rutland, Vt. 13 March 1777 and died there of apoplexy 15 March 1841, at 64 years of age. He married Rachel Stephen in Rutland Co. 12 November 1799. Rachel,[916] daughter of Asa Stephen and Sally (__), was born 12 May 1783 (date is on her tombstone) and died 10 February 1854 in Whipple Hollow at 70 years of age. Son Asa was administrator of Wright's estate and posted a $1,500.00 bond on 2 April 1841. David Hall and Samuel H. Kellogg of Pittsford, Vt. were named to inventory the estate and appointed as commissioners to receive and examine claims against the estate. Both appointments were made on 2 April. One-half of the 252-acre farm (126 acres) with buildings was valued at $2,399.16. Three-hundred-dollars of this value was in the form of a life estate for Rachel executed by Asa and Wright before his death. The personal property was valued at $1,176.00. Rachel received 80 acres, including the home and barn, as her dower for the remainder of her natural life and $363.89 of personal property. The estate owed $283.83 to 26 individuals in the form of accounts and notes ranging from a low of $.55 to $100.00, the latter amount owed to his daughter Caroline Whipple. Among the expenses was $30.50 for Wright's last sickness, funeral charges, and grave stone. The estate was settled in October 1841. Wright and Rachel are buried in the Whipple Hollow Cemetery.

Wright Whipple and Rachel Stephen had the following children born in Whipple Hollow:

	3110	i.	Sally S.[9] Whipple[917] 19 June 1800.
	3111	ii.	Lydia Whipple[918] 18 July 1802.
+	3112	iii.	Lucinda Whipple 20 January 1805.
	3113	iv.	Larinda Whipple[919] 20 January 1805.
	3114	v.	Rosalee Whipple[920] 15 June 1807.
	3115	vi.	Caroline Whipple[921] 24 November 1811.
+	3116	vii.	Lilenda K. Whipple 7 April 1812.
+	3117	viii.	Asa Whipple 20 June 1817.

1850. Betsey[8] Whipple (Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[922] was born in Whipple Hollow near West Rutland, Vt. 20 March 1779 and died there 9 March 1841 at 61 years of age. She married Samuel Morgan abt 1796. Samuel,[923] son of Israel Morgan, was born abt 1770 and died 11 March 1830 in Rutland, at 59 years of age. He bought 100 acres in Pittsford, Vt. 9 December 1793 from Ithiel Field and cleared a home site and built a house before marrying Betsey. They resided there until moving to Rutland in 1812. About 1813 he bought 191 acres from his Whipple brothers-in-law Enoch, 63.5 acres; Abraham, 64.5 acres; and Nathan, 63 acres. These three, along with older brother Wright, inherited the land following settlement of their father's estate in May 1809 and their mother's estate on 31 December 1812. The three younger brothers moved to Licking County, Ohio after the sale. Betsey received a legacy of $288.01 from her father's estate. The probate was closed 31 December 1812. Betsey and Samuel are buried in Whipple Hollow Cemetery.

Betsey Whipple and Samuel Morgan had the following children born in Whipple Hollow:

3118 i. Erizpah[9] (maybe Rizpah) Morgan[924] abt 1800 and married James D. Butler in Rutland Co. abt 1820. James and Erizpah were abolitionists and joined the Underground Railway opening a station circa 1845 at their home in Whipple Hollow.

\+ 3119 ii. Samuel Morgan in March 1802.

1851. Anner[8] Whipple (Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[925] was born in Whipple Hollow near West Rutland, Vt. 26 June 1781 and died in November 1824 in Athens, Ohio, at 43 years of age. She was sometimes identified as Amy and Annie. She received a legacy of $288.01 from her father's estate. The probate closed 31 December 1812. She married Ira Carpenter in Rutland Co. Vt. 15 November 1800. Ira,[926] son of Cephas Carpenter and Phoebe Collins, was born in Ira, Rutland Co. 3 November 1779 and died in September 1823 in Athens at 44 years of age. Ira's father Cephas represented the town of Ira in the Vermont general assembly in the 1787 session. The family moved from Vermont to Ohio in 1818.

Anner Whipple and Ira Carpenter had the following children:

3120 i. Warren[9] Carpenter[927] born in Ira and died in Newcastle, Penn.

3121 ii. Cephas Carpenter[928] born in Ira and died in Athens. He married Theresa Rice in Athens 7 May 1845. The record also shows a marriage date of 27 June 1849 for this couple; no explanation provided.

3122 iii. Orinda Carpenter[929] born in Rutland Co. and died in Athens. She married Foster Hull there 26 April 1821. He was born 23 January 1796 and died 3 May 1890 in Athens Co., at 94 years of age.[930]

3123 iv. Eliza Carpenter[931] born in Ira and married Joseph Shoemaker of Tarlton, Ohio in Athens Co. 22 May 1832.

3124 v. Sarah Ann Carpenter[932] married Rufus W. Sterns in Athens Co. 3 November 1835. The family lived in St. Mary's, Mo.

\+ 3125 vi. Harriet Whipple Carpenter born in 1805.

3126 vii. Whipple Carpenter[933] born in Rutland Co. in 1816 and died in 1822 in Athens, at 6 years of age. His tombstone states he died at age 8.

1854. Enoch[8] Whipple (Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[934] was born in Whipple Hollow, near West Rutland, Vt. 10 September 1788 and died 10 October 1857 in Taylor Township, Benton Co., Iowa, at 69 years of age. He married Catharine Shaw in Hartford Township, Licking Co., Ohio 2 February 1815. She was born 15 March 1798 and died 3 November 1865, probably in Vinton, Iowa, at 67 years of age. Her parents are yet to be identified. Census records variously report her state of birth as Massachusetts, New York, and Rhode Island. A careful reading of the weekly Vinton, Iowa Eagle failed to find obituaries for either. Both were buried on the home farm. Catharine's marble grave marker was found in the fall of 1973 when a creek bed on the farm was being straightened. The marker was placed at the base of the Whipple Memorial in Vinton's Maplewood Cemetery and was still there in August 2000, the last time the author visited the cemetery. The farm was probably left to Catherine. The Vinton Eagle of 29 August 1861 showed her paying taxes on 40 acres in Township. 27 and 29 acres in Township 14. Enoch and Catherine are listed on the large Whipple memorial erected at the death of their oldest son, Cyrenius, in Section 18 of Maplewood Cemetery. The cemetery was originally named the Whipple Cemetery and was donated to the town by Cyrenius.

Enoch Whipple and Catharine Shaw had the following children:

+	3127	i.	Angeline[9] Whipple born 28 November 1817.
+	3128	ii.	Lavina Whipple born 5 January 1820.
+	3129	iii.	Eliza Roxana Whipple born 18 March 1822.
+	3130	iv.	Cyrenius Thomas Whipple born 11 October 1827.
+	3131	v.	Luana Whipple born 29 June 1829.
+	3132	vi.	Henry G. Whipple born August 1831.
+	3133	vii.	Lucien Ransom Whipple born 6 February 1834.

1855. Abraham[8] Whipple (Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[935] was born in Whipple Hollow, West Rutland, Vt. in 1790 and died aft 1850 in Pike Co., Mo. He married twice. (1) Parthina Dimmock in Vermont in 1813. She was born in Vermont 12 October 1790, died 1 March 1844 in Rossville, West Hamilton, Butler Co., Ohio, at 53 years of age, and was buried in the Old Presbyterian Cemetery in Twin Township., New Lexington, Preble Co., Ohio.[936] Her children Borlace, Ransom, and Louisa all lived in Preble Co. at the time of her death. (2) An unnamed person 6 August 1848. Abraham owned land in Licking Co., Ohio as early as 1816. He was a stone cutter and it is believed he carved his son John's gravestone. A Preble Co., Ohio probate record for Samuel Paxton filed 9 September 1835 included information on a debt to Abraham for three grave-stones. The family was living on lot 128 in Rossville in August 1836.[937]

Abraham Whipple and Parthina Dimmock had the following children:

+ 3134 i. Manley Nehemiah[9] Whipple born 17 April 1814.

3135 ii. John Page Whipple[938] born in Granville Township, Licking Co., Ohio 6 May 1817 and died there 21 June 1824 at 7 years of age. He is buried in the Old Colony Burying Ground in Granville, Ohio. His tombstone is the most readable of the older stones. Its inscription: "In memory of John Page, son of Abram and Parthena Whipple who was killed by the fall of a tree June 21st 1824, aged 7 years, 1 month and 15 days." This cemetery was established in the original town plat of 1805 by the Company from Granville, Mass. and Granby, Conn. which founded Granville, Ohio.

+ 3136 iii. Louisa M. Whipple born in 1819.

3137 iv. Ransom Whipple[939] born in Granville Township 29 December 1821 and died unmarried 7 October 1854 in Ohio, at 32 years of age. He is buried in the Old Presbyterian Cemetery. He was a stonecutter.

3138 v. Borlace W. Whipple[940] born in Granville Township 15 August 1824, died at home of consumption 23 October 1878 in Preble Co., at 54 years of age, and is buried in the Old Presbyterian Cemetery. He married Hannah McNutt. He was a stone cutter. An 1871 atlas of Twin Township shows he lived in Section 8 near Brennersville along Price's creek in the northwest corner of the township. He was also a miller and his mill, called Whipple's Mill in a history of Preble Co., is in about the center of Section 8. His wife's daughter Sarah was raised as a Whipple. He was indicted for riot on two occasions: 17 March 1846 and 7 March 1848. He was bailed out on the first charge by his son-in-law Robert P. Nisbit. What caused the riots is unknown. They had five children; no details provided.

3139 vi. Eunice C. Whipple[941] born in Granville Township abt 1828 and married William G. Wheeler as his second wife. They were living in Union Township., Butler Co., Ohio in 1850. They had no children at that time.

1857. Nathan[8] Whipple (Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[942] was born in Whipple Hollow, near West Rutland, Vt. 21 April 1794 and died 3 December 1863 in Saybrook, Ohio, at 69 years of age. He married Laura Mixer in Ohio, abt 1817. Laura,[943] daughter of Phineas Mixer and Abigail Forbes, was born in Connecticut 10 May 1796 and died 10 January 1874 in Saybrook, at 77 years of age. Laura's family moved to Madison, Ohio when she was a young girl. One federal census states she was born in Vermont.

Nathan moved from Rutland Co. to Licking Co., Ohio and is on the tax rolls there in 1816 owning land in Granville Township adjacent to his older brother Enoch. His younger brother Abraham also lived there according to the 1820 federal census. The Licking County Land Company advertised its offering in the Rutland area and apparently the brothers were enticed to leave. All three, along with older brother Wright, inherited portions of their father's Rutland County farm when the estate was settled 31 December 1812. Abraham, Enoch, and Nathan sold their land to their brother-in-law Samuel Morgan before moving to Licking County.

Nathan and Laura sold their 100 acres of land, which was free and clear, known as Lot 19 in the first section of the fourth township and fifteenth range of United States Military Land in Licking Co. on 12 August 1817 to Rufus Beach. Nathan, Laura, and Beach were identified as being of Madison, Geauga Co., Ohio at the time of sale. The land sold for $266.00. The deed wasn't recorded until 4 December 1821. Laura was identified as Nathan's wife in the deed of sale, meaning they were married prior to that date.

Nathan's last will and testament, signed in June 1863, directed all his just debts be paid and bequeathed all his property, real and personal, to his wife Laura and named her Executrix. He signed a codicil 26 November 1863 appointing son Horatio as sole executor. His estate was appraised 30 December and valued at $149.00 including $75.00 owed by Horatio in the form of a note. No land or animals were listed in the inventory. Costs associated with his death were $19.00 for a coffin, $5.00 for the grave lot, $2.00 in doctor bills, and $50 for the probate judge, $5.00 appraisal fee, and $6.00 in probate fees.

Nathan Whipple and Laura Mixer had the following children:

+	3140	i.	Horatio[9] Whipple born 8 April 1818.
+	3141	ii.	Miranda Whipple born in 1820.
+	3142	iii.	Sarah Whipple born 24 April 1824.
	3143	iv.	Edward Whipple[944] born in Ohio.

1863. Lois[8] Mills (Hepzibah[7] Whipple, Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[945] was born in Bennington, Vt. 9 September 1768 and died 8 July 1840 in Rutland Co., Vt., at 71 years of age. She was buried in West Rutland's Pleasant Street Cemetery. She married Moses Watkins in Rutland Co. 1 May 1788. Moses,[946] son of Moses Watkins and Hannah Butler, was born in Winchester, Cheshire Co., N.H. 16 September 1764 and died 21 September 1812 in Harmony, Clark Co., Ohio, at 48 years of age. He was promoted to major in the Rutland militia in 1800 and afterwards achieved the rank of colonel. Although he died in Ohio, he retained land in Rutland county which was probated after his death. His brothers George and Jared also lived in Rutland county.

Lois Mills and Moses Watkins had the following children born in Rutland Co.:

\+ 3144 i. Moses[9] Watkins Jr. 16 June 1790.

3145 ii. Submit Alvord Watkins[947] 20 August 1792 and died 6 April 1845 at 52 years of age. She married Charles G. Boardman 8 May 1815.

3146 iii. Electa P. Watkins[948] 28 May 1795 and married David Hurlburt Jr. in Rutland Co. 6 December 1813.

3147 iv. Hiram Watkins[949] 8 July 1798 and died 20 December 1881 at 83 years of age. He married Eliza Morgan in Rutland Co. 8 December 1825. Eliza,[950] daughter of David Morgan and Lois Crippin, and was born 12 March 1801 and died in August 1856 at 55 years of age. They lived at Pike, N.Y.

3148 v. Louisa Mills Watkins[951] 28 July 1800 and died 5 April 1871 at 70 years of age. She married Abner Mead II in Rutland Co. 8 December 1841. Abner,[952] son of Abner Mead and Amelia Roots, was born 9 September 1785 and died 25 September 1859 at 74 years of age.

3149 vi. Daniel Mills Watkins[953] 10 January 1803 and died 15 September 1805 in Rutland Co., at 2 years of age. He was buried in West Rutland's Pleasant Street Cemetery.

3150 vii. Milton Curtis Watkins[954] 30 March 1806 and died 16 March 1886 at 79 years of age. He married Susan Ivy in Rutland Co. 3 November 1829. Milton lived at Covington, N.Y. at the time of his marriage.

1865. John[8] Purdy (Hepzibah[7] Whipple, Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[955] was born in Rutland Co., Vt. 10 January 1781 and died 14 December 1851 in Medford, Mass., at 70 years of age. He married Charlotte Dennison 3 November 1803. Charlotte,[956] daughter of Samuel Dennison, was born 5 January 1779 and died 18 November 1852 in Medford at 73 years of age.

John Purdy and Charlotte Dennison had the following children:

3151 i. Rev. Lucius[9] Purdy[957] born 28 May 1805 and died 27 April 1853 in Locust Valley, Long Island, N. Y., at 47 years of age. He married Laura Ward.

3152 ii. Edward Champlin Purdy[958] born 9 December 1806 and married Louisa Gage 20 June 1831. He was editor of the Rutland Herald and the Lowell Journal of Lowell, Mass. They had no children.

1878. Ithamar[8] Whipple (Rev. Benjamin[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[959] was born in Rutland Co., Vt. 8 September 1780 and died 6 July 1868 in Mosiertown, Crawford Co., Penn., at 87 years of age. He married Lydia Bills 25 March 1802. Lydia,[960] daughter of Elijah Bills and Lydia (__), was born in Washington Co., N.Y. 7 May 1783 and died 18 March 1867 in Cussewago, Crawford Co., Penn., at 83 years of age. A newspaper clipping, in the Bible owned by Lydia's son Daniel F. Whipple, contained the following obituary.

> Whipple—March 18th, at Cussewago, Crawford County, Penn., Mrs. Lydia Whipple, wife of Ithamar Whipple, recently of Venice (probably N.Y.), aged 83 years, 10 months, and 11 days. Thus another of the early pioneers of this county has fallen. Her parent, Mr. Elijah Bills, having settled here in the year 1797, in the town of Aurelius (maybe Auriesville). She became a member of the Baptist Church at the age of 14, and has always been one of the first to labor in that sphere, and she died in the full triumph of faith and confidence in her Redeemer.

The newspaper's name is unknown but was published in Cayuga Co. New York on 20 March 1867. The Bible is in possession of Glenn Whipple of Waynoka, Okla. Lydia was also identified as a daughter of Elijah Bills by Marvin Trall, Wyoming Co. N.Y. judge, presiding at a Surrogate Court (Probate) 9 June 1852. According to Judge Trall, Elijah was survived by six children including "Lydia Whipple."

Ithamar was listed as a member of a church in Cayuga Co., N.Y. 10 March 1798. He settled in Dryden, N.Y. in 1806 and served in the War of 1812 as an ensign of a company of light infantry in the regt. of infantry in the County of Cayuga, N.Y. commanded by Lt. Col. Henry Bloom. His commission was signed by New York governor Daniel D. Tompkins on 4 February 1812 and was recorded in the clerk's office of Cayuga County 26 June 1812. His sister Elizabeth married Daniel Bills, brother of Lydia.

Ithamar Whipple and Lydia Bills had the following children born in New York state:

+	3153	i.	Cyrus Avery[9] Whipple 20 October 1803.

+	3158	vi.	Edmund Clark Whipple 4 October 1812.
	3159	vii.	Polly L. Whipple[961] 10 or 11 November 1814 and died 1 November 1842 in Groton, Tompkins Co., N.Y., at 27 years of age. She was buried in McLean New Cemetery.
	3160	viii.	Ithamar Bills Whipple[962] 29 July 1817 and died 2 January 1859 at 41 years of age. He married Jane Weeks 28 August 1842.
+	3161	ix.	Francis Jackson Whipple 25 February 1819.
	3162	x.	Josephus Whipple[963] 18 February or 18 March 1821 and died 7 April 1823 in Groton, at 2 years of age. He was buried in Groton's McLean New Cemetery.
+	3163	xi.	Samuel Elijah Whipple 21 February 1824.
	3164	xii.	Cephas Galusha Whipple[964] 21 February 1827 and died 23 April 1847 at 20 years of age.
	3165	xiii.	Alfred B. Whipple[965] 25 June, maybe July, 1829. He married Waty M. Rodgers 31 December 1848, maybe 1849. They may have been living in Allegany Co., N.Y. in 1882.

1879. Joel[8] Whipple (Rev. Benjamin[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[966] was born in Rutland Co., Vt. 1 June 1782 and died 5 July 1828 at 46 years of age. He, along with his brother Ithamar, settled in Dryden, N.Y. in 1806.

Joel Whipple had the following children:

3166	i.	Betsey[9] Whipple.[967]
3167	ii.	Anne Whipple[968] born 28 February 1811.

1881. Elizabeth[8] Whipple (Rev. Benjamin[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[969] was born in Rutland Co., Vt. 1 March 1786 and died 26 January 1829 in Groton, N.Y., at 42 years of age. She married Daniel Bills. Daniel,[970] son of Elijah Bills and Lydia (__), was born in Washington, Otsego Co., N.Y. 6 July 1782 and died 19 May 1843 in Groton, at 60 years of age. He was buried in Groton's McLean Cemetery. Daniel was identified as a son of Elijah by Marvin Trall, Wyoming Co. judge, presiding at a surrogate court (Probate) 9 June 1852. According to Judge Trall, Elijah was survived by six children including

"Daniel." Elizabeth was listed as a member of a church in Cayuga Co., N.Y. 26 May 1798 and joined the first church (Baptist) organized in Groton.

Elizabeth Whipple and Daniel Bills had the following children:

3168 i. Benjamin W.[9] Bills[971] born in 1808 and married Almira Arnold.

1923. Warner Wright[8] Whipple (Levi[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1052] was born in Putnam, Ohio 2 July 1804 and died 22 January 1875 in LaSalle, Ill., at 70 years of age. He married Phebe Brown in Muskingum Co., Ohio 5 June 1832. Phebe,[1053] daughter of Micah Brown and Phebe Merriam, was born in Ohio 8 July 1809 and died 31 May 1880 in LaSalle, at 70 years of age. Warner gave Phebe a Bible as a wedding present. They moved to Wilmington, Ohio abt 1840 with other members of Phebe's family. In 1851 when they moved to LaSalle Co., along with a group of 20 to 30 others, the family consisted of Warner, Phebe, Frank, 15, Eugene, 12, Albert, 9, and Josephine, 6. Before leaving Ohio Warner had become widely known for his participation in the anti-slavery cause and for providing run away slaves a place of safety when pursued by slave-hunters. They lived their first winter in Illinois in town and Warner hired out as a dray man, hauling materials for the I.C. bridge. He bought 80 acres in Section 29 in 1853, paying $7 an acre, built a house, and began farming. He built the barn in 1855 and when an adjacent 160 acres came on the market at $10 an acre, he went to Ohio to raise the money but was unsuccessful. He eventually raised some money and when an 80 acre tract in Section 20 came on the market the following year, he bought it. However, by then the price was almost double.

Warner hired out throughout the immediate area to break prairie sod with a 22" breaking plow and a team of oxen. After it was turned, it had to rot before a crop could be planted. They cut the prairie hay by hand and hauled it in wagons to the barn where, using a cradle, they cut it for food for the livestock. Corn was shelled with hand shellers.

His 19 June 1874 will was written on a lined sheet about 2 feet by 2 feet. It named Phebe, Frank, Eugene, Albert, and Josephine as heirs. Frank and Phebe were named administrators. He died during a severe blizzard and his coffin was carried to Oakwood Cemetery by wagon or sled. Mr. Wells, a neighbor who lived on the next farm to the West, preached his funeral service. Sometime after 1875, Phoebe moved to LaSalle to live with Josephine and when she died in 1880 the farm, then valued at $10,000, was divided among the four children. Frank paid Albert, Eugene, and Josephine $2,500 each on time payments and took over the farm.

Warner and Phebe are buried at Oakwood Cemetery. His obituary appears in The Republican, Ottawa, Ill., 4 February 1875.

He married Mary C. Van Deren in Muskingum Co., Ohio 4 June 1840. She was born in Basking Ridge, N.J. 11 November 1818, died 4 December 1894 in Rockville, at 76 years of age, and is buried in the Town Cemetery.[1063] Her surname is given as Van Deren, Van Deeren, and Vandeeren on various occasions. Her obituary, published in the Rockville Tribune of 13 December 1894 and her husband's obituary, published while she was still alive, stated it was Van Deren. The obituary stated her first born was a daughter who died in early childhood. She was ill about three months before her death. She was described as "a woman of stately presence. . .a strict church woman. . .devoted to the cause of foreign missions. . ."

Francis moved to Rockville in 1861 after living in Terre Haute the previous 15 years. He ran a dry good store until it was consumed by fire in 1871. He then retired. He was one of the organizers of Robinson Lodge, No. 124, International Organization of Good Templars (I.O.G.T.) in June 1875. The I.O.G.T. was founded in 1851 to "promote the ideals of temperance, peace, and brotherhood."

His death was caused by injuries received in a fall in his stable where he was working. He was a lifelong Presbysterian. His obituary (Rockville Tribune, 29 October 1885) noted his boyhood home was a "station" on the Underground Railway and this was "one of his proudest recollections when he afterwards saw the great idea, which in his youth looked ages away, consummated."

Francis Rice Whipple and Mary C. Van Deren had the following children:

He married twice. (1) Mary A. Hopkins in Paw Paw 3 July 1850. She died there 2 June 1856.[1127] (2) Almira Schofield in Paw Paw 5 April 1857. Almira,[1128] daughter of John Schofield and Mary Johnson, was born in Lodi Township, Jackson Co., Mich. 10 November 1834 and died 6 November 1913 in Grass Lake, Mich., at 78 years of age. Chandler and Almira's son Allen Lavier Whipple married his cousin Marion, daughter of his mother's brother, Henry Schofield. Chandler farmed and operated a sawmill and brickyard. He became active politically, was an ardent Unionist, and took part in the founding of the Republican Party "under the Oaks" at Jackson, Mich. in 1854. He represented Van Buren Co. as a delegate at the 1884 Republican Convention in Chicago which nominated James G. Blaine for President. There he met his cousins, William E. Chandler, former U.S. senator from N.H. and then Secretary of the Navy, and Jerome B. Chaffee, Chairman of the Republican National Committee and one of the first U.S. senators from Colorado. Chandler was promised the postmastership of Paw Paw if the Republicans won the fall election. They lost to Democrat Grover Cleveland who won 48.5% of the vote to 48.2% for Blaine. The family was enumerated in the 1870 (on 2 September) Michigan census, living in Waverly, Van Buren Co. (p. 26. line 39, 40 and p. 27, lines 1-5, dwelling No. 220). Chandler was identified as a lumberman with real estate valued at $3,400 and personal property at $1,305. The family consisted of Chandler, 47, Almira, 34, Allen, 12, Mary, 11, Burdette, 4, and Ella M., 16. Chandler's brother Joseph, 41, was living with the family. He was identified as a common laborer with personal property valued at $500.[1129] The family is also in the 1880 (enumerated on 11 June, p. 529) U.S. Michigan census in Paw Paw. Chandler and Almira were listed as parents with children Allen, Mary, Burdette and Minnie. Chandler and Allen were identified as farmers.

Chandler Whipple and Mary A. Hopkins had the following children born in Paw Paw:

+	3309	i.	Ella Melissa[9] Whipple 3 October 1854.
	3310	ii.	Frank Whipple[1130] 1 June 1856 and died 1 September 1856 in Paw Paw, at less than three months of age.

1978. Ora Chaffee[8] Whipple (Samuel[7], John[6], Edwards[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1131] was born in Burns Township, Allegany Co., N.Y. 29 September 1825 and died 17 October 1870 in Leoni Township, Jackson Co., Mich., at 45 years of age. He married Elizabeth Coolbaugh 14 December 1853. Elizabeth,[1132] daughter of Garrett Coolbaugh and Mary Hannah Home, was born in Pennsylvania 20 January 1824 and died 1 December 1915 in Leoni Township, at 91 years of age. She was enumerated as head of household on 20 April in the 1910 Michigan census. Living with her were sons Edwin who was identified as married and Lewis, unmarried. They were living in the village of Leoni. Mary E. Saunders, 51, identified as a servant, was living with the family.[1133] Ora and his family are found in the Leoni 1860 Michigan census in dwelling No. 2078. The family consisted of Ora, 34, Elizabeth, 35, Edwin, 4, and John, 4 months. Lewis was not included in the count. Benjamin (?), 32, a farm laborer was living in their household. The family farm was valued at $4,000 and his personal property at $689. Living in dwelling No. 2077 were the John and Mary Scofield family. The Schofields were parents of Almira, wife of Ora's brother Chandler Whipple. The family consisted of John, 58, Mary, 48, Margaret, 19, a teacher, Henry, 22, a farm laborer,

Adelia, 22, Franklin, 13, Emily, 10, and Herbert, 6. John was born in New York and all the children were born in Michigan.[1134]

She was born in Ashby, Mass. 27 December 1815 and died 11 August 1843 in Lowell, at 27 years of age.[1271] (3) Sarah Kinsman in Lowell 15 May 1844. Sarah,[1272] daughter of William Kinsman, was born in Ipswich, Mass. 5 July 1815. Oliver left the Vermont farm at age 21 with $15.00 and a bundle of clothes and walked to Boston to seek his fortune. When fortune failed to smile on him he went to Southwick, Mass. where he learned the business of powder making and by 1818 was in Chelmsford where he became a partner with Moses Hale, a prosperous entrepreneur, who, beginning in 1790, built textile, saw, and grist mills and in 1817 added gunpowder mills to his growing factory empire. William Tileston became a partner at the same time. Oliver proved an adept businessman.

He began buying land along the banks of the Concord river from the mouth of Hale's brook (originally River Meadow Brook) to Moore street at the stone-arched bridge. He also owned land bordering on Wamesit street and further to a point touching Gorham street. He married Hale's daughter Sophronia in 1821 and constructed the half-mile Wamesit canal, taking advantage of a 25-foot drop in the river. He built his canal long before the proprietors of the Locks and Canals built their amazing system to harness the Merrimack river. He built the family house on the corner of Moore and Whipple streets, including five smaller worker housing units attached to the rear of his residence. This provided housing for some of his employees.

The gun powder business grew at a fast pace in the 1820s and Oliver eventually acquired his partners' interests. In the first year the Whipple mills produced 80,000 pounds, much of it sold in the domestic market. However, soon he was exporting powder to Europe, South America, and the Far East as well as supplying local and national needs. His powder was used by the Concord militia, for blasting in the Northern Canals, for blasting mine sites in the west, and to clear rock to accommodate railway lines. By 1846, he was the major supplier in the U.S., selling nearly one million pounds of gunpowder to the army that year, much of it used during the Mexican War.

Even though he implemented procedures to prevent explosions, he lost several mills and several of his workmen were killed, but he always made generous provision for their families. Workmen were required to wind several layers of smooth cloth around their rough brogans to prevent sparks from shoenails touching off a pile of volatile material. Small boys "carrying dinner" to mill employees were required to remove their shoes at the door.

As demand for power increased, Whipple leased Spectale Island in Boston harbor where powder-filled kegs bearing the Whipple logo were stored before being shipped to all parts of the world. For safety reasons, Whipple built a private road from the Lowell mill to the old Boston Pike road and transferred the kegs at night when there was little traffic. Wagon loads of glazed power were carted to the harbor by teams of draft horses whose hoofs were muffled in bagging and cotton wrappings to prevent their iron shoes from striking sparks on stones in the road.

He extended and widened the canal in 1824 and 1832 to a length of 2000 feet. By 1832, 11 sizeable mills were drawing power from the canal and Oliver rented space and water rights to small manufacturing concerns. He rebuilt and lengthened it again in 1846 and by the late 1850s, he was selling some of his land and mills. He formed the Wamesit Power Company with Benjamin Butler in 1865 and helped stimulate a wave of new construction in the area. New business that took advantage of the power included United States Bunting, the Wamesit Worsted Co., the United States Cartridge Co., a carpet company, Sterling Mills, Faulkner Mills, the American Bolt Co., and a depot for the Boston and Lowell Railroad. Residential construction in the immediate area was stimulated by the new manufacturing facilities.

He was elected to a variety of municipal offices in Lowell and represented the city in the state legislature for four terms. Today, a thoroughfare, branching out from Back Central street, bears his name.

Oliver contracted with John H. Boutelle of Woburn, Mass. to compile A Brief Genealogy of the Whipple Family which was published by Oliver in 1857. It was reviewed in "Book Notices" in the October 1857 issue of the NEHGS Register (p. 360) with the reviewer acknowledging the "care and research displayed throughout. The earlier generations especially have been traced through and several important points, hitherto (sic) wrongly printed, are now satisfactorily investigated." The reviewer pointed to errors in J. B. Felt's History of Ipswich, Essex, and Hamilton, Mass. and said they should be corrected "by calling John on p. 167, son of John and husband of Martha Reyner and Elizabeth Paine, and calling John on p. 170, husband of Elizabeth Woodman, the children being rightly assigned as they stand."

R. Gove and Hannah Woodbury, was born in Montpelier, Vt. in 1807 and died in 1856 in Whippleville, at 49 years of age. (3) Sarah (Blanchard) Haskell, in Whippleville in 1857. Sarah, widow of a Mr. Haskel, was born in 1818 and died 8 March 1894 in Malone at 75 years of age.[1532] Harvey moved with his family to Norwich, N.H. where he attended the common schools. In 1814 at age 16, he was employed by Mr. Lyman in the mercantile business in White Junction, Vt. He moved to Whippleville in 1819 which was then a wilderness with scarcely a pathway leading from Malone village. He farmed and ran a milling business until 1868 when he moved to Malone. He was a deacon in the Baptist church from 1845 until his death. The following article appeared in a Malone newspaper (name unknown and date not provided):

> Whippleville—Old mills stand as the tombstones of many a pioneer community and this is especially true of the historic gristmill in Whippleville. More than a century old and famed throughout the North Country for the excellence of its buckwheat flour, the old mill on the banks of the Salmon river has had the entire history of the community woven about it. Whippleville takes it name from the pioneer Harvey Whipple who operated both the gristmill and the lumber mill farther up the river which burned long ago. In those days when the grist and lumber mills were running, Whippleville was an enterprising community with a tannery and several other industries. Now all are gone and only a beautiful little nest of homesteads remain.

Harvey Whipple, who at one time owned most of Whippleville, was born in 1798 in Cornish, N.H. He came to Malone about 1819 when he was 21 and located at Whippleville. Scarcely a pathway led from Malone to the site he had chosen for a home. He remained there until 1868, engaged in farming, milling, and developing what is now Whippleville.

In 1868, he traded his property in Whippleville to the late J. A. Hogle, father of Julian Hogle, proprietor of Hogle hotel, taking in payment the residence on Duane street known as the Whipple home. His son, the late George J. Whipple, was for years clerk of the board of education and truant officer. Harvey Whipple resided in Malone until his death in 1872. Mr. Hogle followed in Mr. Whipple's footsteps and at one time owned almost all of Whippleville.

The present generation associates the name of Fred Lyman with the old grist mill and the memory of buckwheat cakes and maple syrup. Mr.

Lyman purchased the grist mill from W. W. Foote and the sawmill from H. M. Tobey, his father-in-law. The sawmill burned long after it had consumed most of the neighboring forests and the grist mill ceased grinding about five years ago. It was the only mill in the county.

724. In June 1775, the Continental Congress, influenced by reports that the British commander in Canada was recruiting a force in preparation for an invasion of New York and with hope that Canada, largely inhabited bv French, might become a 14th colony in support of the Revolution, authorized seizure of any vital points in Canada needed to guarantee the security of the colonies. A two-pronged invasion of Canada was launched in the early fall of 1775. A force of about 1,100 men led by Col. Benedict Arnold went by water and land through the Maine wilderness and arrived at Québec on 8 Nov. A force of about 2,000 men, led by Brig. Gen. Richard Montgomery advanced up the historic Lake Champlain-St. Lawrence river route and captured the British fort at St. Johns on 2 Nov. and occupied Montreal on 13 November. Montgomery joined Benedict near Québec on 3 Dec. With enlistments of most of the volunteer American troops expiring at the end of the year, the two commanders launched a night attack on 30-31 Dec. and were repelled with losses of 100 dead and 400 captured. The Americans continued their siege of Québec until the spring of 1776 when a reinforced British garrison drove them back to the head of Lake Champlain. In June 1776 Brig. Gen. William Whipple, a New Hampshire delegate to the Continental Congress, was named Chairman of the Committee "to inquire into the cause of the miscarriages in Canada." Based on the Committee's Report Congress ordered Court Martials for several officers.

John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[519] was born in New York State 26 April 1819 and died 16 July 1891 in Mormon Cooley, LaCrosse Co., Wisc., at 72 years of age. He married Susanna Bell in LaCrosse Co. abt 1864. Susanna,[520] daughter of John Bell, was born in New Castle, Lawrence Co., Penn. 19 November 1845 and died 7 July 1889 in Shelby, LaCrosse Co., Wisc., at 43 years of age. She moved with her parents to Shelby in 1860 and lived the rest of her life there. She suffered from consumption and spent the final four years of life confined to her home.

Tallman was one of the earliest settlers in and one of the best known settlers of Mormon Cooley, settling there in 1856. In the spring of 1890 he had an attack of the grip which seriously affected his health and mental condition. A widower, he was under the care of George Bell, a relative, the final three months of his life. The morning of his death he got hold of a shot gun and was going to shoot himself but was disarmed. Later he went into the barn with an ax, cut off a piece of rope from a wagon load of hay, and hung himself from a rafter in the hayloft. Six grown children, four sons and two daughters, survived. He had a reputation for being honest and industrious and left an estate of $6,000. He was buried next to his wife in the Pruett Family Cemetery in Mormon Couley. The cemetery is 1 mile from the intersection of highways 14, 61, and 35 going toward Coon Valley.[521]

John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[542] was born in either Silver Lake or Brackney, Susquehanna Co., Penn. 20 October 1819 and died 9 July 1864 in the Confederate prison in Andersonville, Ga. at 44 years of age. He married Martha Alvira Hatch in Napoli, Cattaraugus Co., N.Y. 19 March 1844. Martha,[543] daughter of Stephen Hatch and Mary Holdridge, was born in Eaton, Madison Co., N.Y. 19 March 1826 and died 13 February 1895 in Salamanca, Cattaraugus Co., N.Y, at 68 years of age. She was of Mohawk Valley Dutch descent, well educated, and displayed the same bravery in keeping her family together during the Civil War as her husband did on the field of battle. In addition to caring for her large family, she kept from 10 to 16 boarders.[544]

Henry engaged in farming and lumbering when he moved to Cattaraugus Co. from Susquehanna Co. He cleared farms in Steamburg and Salamanaca. After enlisting in the Civil War, it was a struggle but his wife and six children (Alfred, 16, was the oldest) were able to work the farm. He saw hard service with the Army of the Potomac, was in the battle of Chancellorsville, Va. 30 April to 6 May 1863 won by the Confederacy and at Gettysburg, Penn. (July 1-3 1863 won by the Union) where almost the entire regiment was taken prisoner. He was in the notorious prison camp on Belle Isle, a 60-acre island in the James river at Richmond, Richmond Co., Va. where, without proper food and shelter, as many as 30 prisoners died daily in harsh weather. He was eventually transferred to the prison at Andersonville where he died of starvation and was buried in what was then an abandoned cotton field with 14,000 other Union prisoners. That burial place is now the Andersonville National Cemetery.

Henry's service in the Civil War began with his 3-year enlistment 31 August 1862 at Salamanaca. He was mustered in 25 September as private in Co. H, 154th regt. New York Volunteers and was promoted to sergeant prior to 10 April 1863. He was captured in action 1 July 1863 at Gettysburg and promoted to first sergeant on 4 July 1863 and died 9 July 1864. He is buried in Grave #3084. Grand Army of the Republic (GAR) Post No. 651 in Onoville, Cattaraugus Co., N.Y. was named the H. F. Whipple post.

Lilenda K. Whipple and Thomas Mills had the following children:

4255 i. Malcolm W.[10] Mills.[650]
4256 ii. Henry Mills.[651]
4257 iii. Maryann Mills[652] born 22 February 1834 and died 12 September 1838 at 4 years of age.
4258 iv. Maryett Mills[653] born 6 August 1839.

3117. Asa[9] Whipple (Wright[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[654] was born in Whipple Hollow near West Rutland, Rutland Co., Vt. 20 June 1817 and died 1 May 1896 in Rutland, at 78 years of age. He married twice. (1) Elizabeth Berry in Rutland Co. in 1840. She was born in Vermont abt 1819[655] and died there in 1871 at 52 years of age.[656] Asa and Elizabeth were buried in Evergreen Cemetery. (2) A. Louise (__) in Rutland Co. aft 1871. She was born abt 1821 and died 2 February 1897 at 76 years of age.

The 1850 federal census for Rutland county listed Asa, 33, a farmer, at Pittsford, Vermont; value of real estate $2,500; family consisted of wife Elizabeth, 31, Caroline E., 7, and Rachel, 67, his mother. He was living on the paternal homestead in 1872. His will dated 10 February 1888 with a codicil dated 12 August 1892 at Pittsford refers to Clara Mills, wife of Whipple Mills; Lizzie Mills, daughter of Clara; Maryett Mills, Malcolm Mills, and Henry Mills, children of my sister Lilenda Mills; Walter Mills; Lucy (Treon) Smart; and his wife A. Louise Whipple. Appraisers were appointed for his estate by the Probate Court on 14 July 1896. Legatees: Stella L. Mills, Whipple Mills, Clara I. Mills, H. Clayton Mills, Lizzie Mills, Maryett Mills, Robert M. Mills, Walter B. Mills, and Nina Mills. The Pittsford Cemetery Association is also remembered in the will so Asa is probably buried there.

The inventory of his estate dated 14 July 1896 shows he owned 11 acres as follows: home place of about 1.5 acres, 4 acres of meadow, and 5.5 acres of pasture on Furnace Road. His personal property was valued at $150 and included sitting room furniture and stove; upper and lower hall carpet, 2 bureaus and wardrobe; parlor furniture, stove, and carpet; dining room including ice chest; kitchen and cook stove; pantry and crockery; bedroom below unoccupied; chamber store room; parlor chamber, matting and furniture; kitchen chamber, matting, and bedding; one roan or grey horse; one old buggy wagon; one old lumber wagon; one old sleigh; one old hay rack, one old grind stone; shingles. D. Chescott owed him $350 in the form of seven notes of $50 each plus interest dated 5 December 1895; George and Clarissa Leonard owed him $600 in the form of a note; and he had $305 deposited in the Rutland Savings Bank, Book No. 250.89. E.B. Rand, Administrator, had not settled the estate by 7 September 1897 causing Whipple Mills, Clara I. Mills, H. Clayton Mills, and Lizzie Mills to petition the Probate Court to cite Rand "before the Court to settle his Administration account and that an order be made distributing the estate to the parties entitled thereto." Rand was "commanded" by the Court to appear on 21 September to answer the petition. The estate was settled 14 October 1897 but Rand "failed to discharge a fully paid mortgage against William P. Ward." In a petition dated 15 January 1906, Whipple Mills noted that Rand was dead and asked the Court to discharge the mortgage.

Asa Whipple and Elizabeth Berry had the following child:

4259 i. Caroline E.[10] Whipple born in Whipple Hollow abt 1843.[657]

3119. Samuel[9] Morgan II (Betsey[8] Whipple, Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[658] was born in Whipple Hollow near West Rutland, Rutland Co., Vt. in March 1802 and died 8 February 1867 in Wevertown, Warren Co., N.Y., at 64 years of age. He married Eunice Stevens in Rutland Co. 30 January 1822. She was born abt 1802 and died 11 November 1874 in Wevertown, at 72 years of age.[659] When first married, Samuel and Eunice lived on the Morgan home farm with his parents. He moved to Rutland abt 1835 and from there to Wevertown abt 1836. They are buried in the Wevertown Cemetery.

Samuel Morgan II and Eunice Stevens had the following children:

\+ 4260 i. Nehemiah[10] Morgan born abt 1823.

\+ 4261 ii. Jerusha Morgan born 5 May 1828.

4262 iii. Enoch Morgan[660] born 5 December 1829 and died 20 March 1903 in Sweden, Maine, at 73 years of age. He married Susan Potter. Enoch and Susan are buried in the Bates Cemetery, Johnsburg, Warren Co., N.Y.

4263 iv. Eunice Caroline Morgan[661] born abt 1832.

4264 v. Samuel Morgan III[662] born abt 1835 and married Susan Jane Waddell.

4265 vi. Vilus Morgan[663] born in Wevertown abt 1841 and died 9 June 1847 in Waterford, Oxford Co., Maine, at 5 years of age.

4266 vii. Vernon Morgan[664] born in Wevertown abt April 1846 and died 23 January 1848, at approximately 10 months of age.

3125. Harriet Whipple[9] Carpenter (Anner[8] Whipple, Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[665] was born in Ira, Rutland Co., Vt. in 1805 and died 9 February 1853 in Tarlton, Pickaway Co., Ohio, at 47 years of age. She married Isaac Newton Nor- ton in Athens, Athens Co., Ohio 21 February 1822. Isaac,[666] son of Dea. James Norton and Mary (__), was born abt 1805 and died 9 December 1836 in Mississippi, at 31 years of age. His older brother Joseph H. Norton was born in Homer, Cortland Co., N.Y. where his father was active in the church. It is likely that Homer was also Isaac's birth place. Isaac moved to Athens as a young man with a family named Carpenter from Norfolk, Lichfield Co., Conn. Betty Ann Prescott of Camp Connell, Calaveras Co., Calif. researched the Congregational Church records and deed records of Durham and Saybrook, Middlesex Co. and Guilford, New Haven Co., Conn. and believes Isaac descends from Thomas Norton, one of the first 25 planters in Guilford in 1639. Isaac's father was appointed by the Congregational Church in Homer, N.Y. as a catechist on 13 April 1813 to visit from house to house. He was also a Deacon of the church. Isaac was elected to the Athens City Council 14 March 1836 and then elected Mayor. He and his brother Joseph ran a mercantile business in Athens. He went to Mississippi in the hope of improving his health.

After her husband died, Harriet moved her family to Tarlton where she is shown on p. 240, dwelling no. 1023, family no. 1046 in the 1850 U.S. census. The 1860 census shows her living in the home of Joseph Shoemaker, widower of her sister Eliza, and owning personal property valued at $2,500. Her sons Joseph and Cephas (both saddlers had personal property valued at $600 each), Shoemaker's two daughters (Harriet's nieces) age 16 and 18, Isaac F. King, and a Methodist clergyman also lived there. Shoemaker was well off with real estate valued at $20,000 and personal property at $3,500.

Harriet Whipple Carpenter and Isaac Newton Norton had the following children:

	4267	i.	Edwin[10] Norton.[667]
	4268	ii.	Saphronia Norton.[668]
+	4269	iii.	Judge James Carmont Norton born 27 February 1828.
	4270	iv.	Joseph Norton[669] born abt 1833.
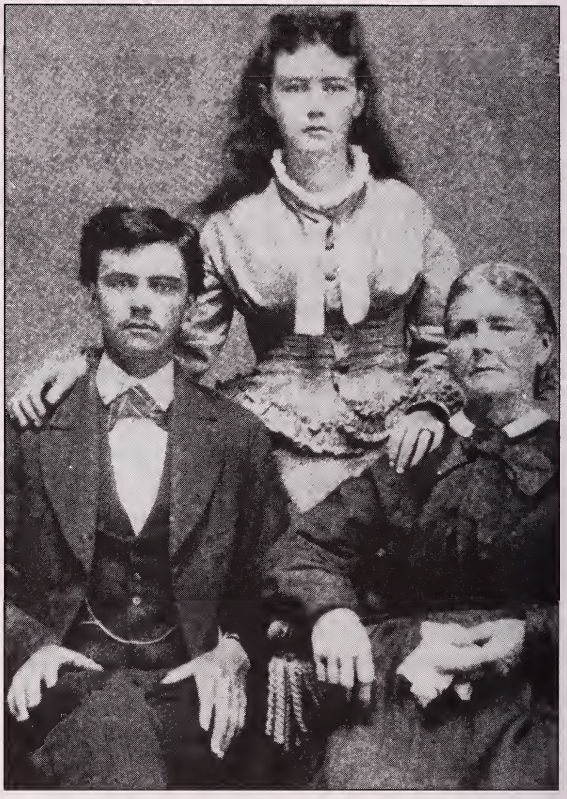
	4271	v.	Cephas C. Norton[670] born in Tarlton 19 June 1835 and died 24 May 1906 in Greenfield, Greene Co., Ohio, at 70 years of age.

3127. Angeline[9] Whipple (Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[671] was born in Licking Co., Ohio 28 November 1817, died 7 April 1889 in Vinton, Benton Co., Iowa, at 71 years of age, and was buried in Section 18 of Vinton's Maplewood Cemetery. She married twice. (1) James McKinley in Vermillion Co., Ind. 31 March 1842. They were married by James Armour, Justice of Peace.

James was born in Ohio 19 December 1811 and died 10 March 1863 in Warren Township, Warren Co., Ind., at 51 years of age.[672] According to the Indiana federal census, James and Angeline were living in Warren Township by 1850. His occupation was listed as carder and clothier and as sawyer in 1860. They were counted 25 September 1850 and lived in dwelling No. 42. Daughter Eliza J. was listed as age 4, William H. as 1. They lived in dwelling No. 581 when enumerated 13 July 1860. Eliza was not listed and no further record of her has been found. William, 10, Susan, 7, and Joseph, 2 were listed in the 1860 count. An extended search for James' parents has been fruitless. His birth date was computed from the death record which included date of death and age in years, months, and days. That he was born in Ohio is listed in both the 1850 and 1860 census. He was buried in Davis Cemetery which is just south of Greenhill in Warren County.



Angeline (Whipple) McKinley with son William Henry and daughter Ella.

(2) Abraham S. Worley in Warren Co. 4 October 1863. He was born in 1820 and died 28 July 1874 in Tippecanoe Co., Ind., at 54 years of age.[673] He married (1) Frances (__). Angeline's second marriage occurred seven months after the death of James. Her new spouse was a widower with sons LeRoy, 15, and Nathaniel, 12. Angeline and her children, William, Susan, and Joseph, moved to Worley's farm in neighboring Shelby Township in Tippecanoe Co. When Abraham died Angeline buried him next to his first wife Frances (she died in March 1856) at Armstrong Chapel Cemetery, Warren County. Sometime after Abraham's death, Angeline moved to Benton County, Iowa to be near other members of her Whipple family. Her son William was married in Benton County in 1875 but lived in Warren County until 1878. Worley's sons also eventually moved to Benton County and some Worley's are buried in Vinton's Maplewood Cemetery (originally known as Whipple Cemetery). Angeline's grave stone in Maplewood Cemetery identifies her as Angeline McKinley, not Angeline Worley.

Angeline Whipple and James McKinley had the following children:

4272 i. Eliza J.[10] McKinley born in Indiana abt 1846. No further record found for Eliza after the 1850 U.S. census for Warren Co., Ind.

\+ 4273 ii. William Henry McKinley born 21 December 1849.

4274 iii. Susan E. McKinley[674] born in Warren Co. 8 December 1852 and died there 17 December 1875, at 23 years of age. She was buried in Davis Cemetery, located south of Greenhill, Warren Co.

4275 iv. Joseph McKinley[675] born in Warren Co. 2 December 1858 and died there 20 September 1865, at 6 years of age. He was buried in Davis Cemetery.

3128. Lavina[9] Whipple (Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[676] was born in Hartford Township, Licking Co., Ohio 5 January 1820 and died 21 July 1899 in Bement, Platt Co., Ill., at 79 years of age. She married John Holtz in Vermillion Co., Ind. 10 December 1840. He was born in Ohio in 1822. According to the 1850 federal census of Eugene Township, Vermillion Co., Indiana, he was born in Virginia in 1820. The 1860 census has him born in Ohio in 1824. The 1870 census gives his year of birth as 1822 and the place as Ohio. He is not found in the 1880 census.[677] John, son of Lewis Holtz and Maria Ann (__), died abt 1877 in Indiana, probably in Eugene. He was living in Eugene by 1834.[678] He, his father Lewis, and brother, Joseph, were listed as "Hatters" in the 1850 census. They owned at least eight lots in town and sold out-lot 36 to James Edmonds, who married Lavina's sister Lauana.[679] During her childhood, Lavina moved with her parents from Licking Co. to Vermillion Co. where they settled in the village of Eugene where she grew to womanhood and married. She owned a lot in Block 34 in Eugene in 1871 and lived with her daughter Evaline, son-in-law John W. Craig, and grandchildren John, Alice, and Claude in 1880.[680] Most of her life was spent in Indiana except for approximately two years in Vinton, Iowa (probably 1892-94 as she was living there in October 1893, the month she and her brother Cyrenius returned to Eugene, for his first visit since leaving).[681] Her last 15 years were spent in Bement where she lived with her daughter Mary Coffin.

According to her obituary, all of her children except Mary and some grandchildren died during her last decade of life. Her obituary opined that, "She seemed to be near that blessed country many days before God took her. She said recently, 'I've felt all day that my mother was near me,' and every rustle or sound seemed to her 'the rustle of a wing.' " Her funeral was conducted at the family residence by Rev. J.O. Kirkpatrick who preached from 2 Corinthians 4:17. The Methodist choir sang "beautiful and appropriate" music. She was buried at the Bement Cemetery.[682]

Lavina Whipple and John Holtz had the following children:

	4276	i.	Perry[10] Holtz.[683]
+	4277	ii.	Evaline Holtz born abt 1842.
+	4278	iii.	Mary Holtz born abt 1844.
	4279	iv.	Viola Holtz born in Eugene abt 1853.[684]

3129. Eliza Roxana[9] Whipple (Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[685] was born in Hartford Township, Licking Co., Ohio 18 March 1822 and died 20 September 1889 in Vinton, Benton Co., Iowa. The 1850 Vermilion Co., Indiana federal census lists her age as 26 indicating a birth year of 1824. She is listed as 38, 48, and 58 in the Benton Co., Iowa federal censuses for 1860, 1870, and 1880 which would make her birth year 1822. Her Italian Marble tombstone in Vinton's Evergreen Cemetery confirms the 1822 birth year listing her as aged 67 years, 6 months, 2 days. It also includes the following inscription: "A Loving Wife, a Mother Dear, A Faithful Friend Lies Buried Here At Rest In The Wreath.

She married twice. (1) William Gardner in Vermillion Co. 18 September 1845. He died bef January 1851 in Indiana. (2) Archibald Kearns in Warren Co., Ind. 8 January 1851. Archibald,[686] son of Thomas Kearns and Sarah Jackson, was born in Pennsylvania[687] 27 June 1809 and died 13 April 1865 in Benton Co., at 55 years of age. Archibald and Eliza are buried in Vinton's Maplewood Cemetery. He married (1) Elizabeth Farmer in Warren Co. 21 April 1836. He had at least one sister, Isabel, born 28 April 1814 in Alleghany Co., Penn. She married John Tanner 30 April 1835 in Mohican Township, Ashland Co., Ohio. They moved to Benton County in 1857 and she died 27 January 1892 after a long period of poor health. Funeral services at the family home were conducted by Rev. N.A. Mershon of Center Point, Linn Co., and Rev. Smith of Norway, Benton Co., on 29 January.

Arch and Eliza moved to Benton Co. in 1854 with the Enoch Whipple family. He died intestate and Eliza relinquished her rights as widow to Administer the estate, requesting the Court to appoint her stepson John V. as Administrator. The inventory of his estate disclosed the following personal property:

One brown mare 7 years old with sucking colt; one dun mare 5 years old; one black horse 3 years old; one dun mare one year old, seven milk cows, one hiefer 2 years old; one bull 3 years old; four calves one year old; four spring calves; seven hogs, eight sheep; one wagon; one set double harness; one breaking plow; two s (?) plows; one double shovel plow; one single shovel plow; one harrow; one cooking stove and furniture; one box stove; beds and bedding; one cupboard and cupboard ware; one lot of wheat about 97 bushels and one lot of oats about 60 bushels. Most of the property was set off by the Court to support Eliza and her four children under age 15, Hiram, Philena, Archibald, and Perry, for 12 months after Arch's death:

Following his death, Eliza was named guardian of their minor children: Hiram W. 14, Archibald J. 9, and Perry N. 7, in February 1868. Her sister Luana's husband, James Edmonds, was one of the Sureties for the $300 bond that had to be given by the guardian. Twenty years later, Eliza, her son-in-law Samuel Aungst, and S.B. Crane, were sureties on the bond put up by her sister, Luana, who was guardian of her children Olive, Ida M., and Cyrenius Edmonds. Luana filed her final report in 1886 stating she had had about $3,600 in her hands belonging to the children. George Knox replaced her as guardian and when he discovered she was insolvent, he filed suit against the Sureties to recover the $3,600 (73,890 in 2005 dollars) which he claimed was due the children. The case was heard in District Court in March 1886. The defendant's testified that all the money had been used to support the children and they should not be compelled to pay it a second time. Luana testified that this was so but the Court ruled against the Sureties who appealed the decision to the Supreme Court.[688]

Eliza died at the residence of her son-in-law Harper Scott after living in Vinton and vicinity for 34 years. Her funeral was held at the Presbyterian Church with services conducted by Revs. A.W. Fuller and E.H. Avery.[689] She died intestate owning the NW 1/4 of the NW1/4 of section 13, Township 85 in Benton Co., a cook stove, six comforts, one bedstead, one bedroom bureau, 32 yards of carpet, one table, two tons of Hay, one cow, 1/3rd of 27 acres of corn, one lounge, a note from her son Perry for $50.00 and cash of $17.58 with a total personal property value of $164.33 (3,373 in 2005 dollars). Son Hiram was named Administrator and the estate was settled 5 November 1890. After paying all debts, including $14.50 for medical attendance, $2.50 for digging her grave, $56.00 for the casket, $15.00 to Whipple & Sells attorneys, $6.00 court costs, $43.49 remained for distribution to heirs. Her sons Hiram, A. J., and Perry and daughter Frances each received $8.70 (179 in 2005 dollars). The six Aungst grandchildren each received $1.45.[690]

Eliza Roxana Whipple had the following child:

\+ 4280 i. Angeline[10] Whipple born in 1842.

Eliza Roxana Whipple and William Gardner had the following child:

\+ 4281 ii. Frances A. Gardner born in 1850.

Eliza Roxana Whipple and Archibald Kearns had the following children:

4282 iii. Lucien Kearns[691] born in Warren Co. 25 December 1851 and died in August 1852 at approximately 7 months of age.

\+ 4283 iv. Hiram Whipple Kearns born 14 August 1853.

4284 v. Philena E. Kearns[692] born in Benton Co. 6 June 1856 and died there 11 August 1867, at 11 years of age.

\+ 4285 vi. Dr. Archibald Jackson Kearns born 11 October 1858.

\+ 4286 vii. Perry Nathan Kearns born 9 July 1861.

3130. Cyrenius Thomas[9] Whipple (Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[693] was born in Hartford Township, Licking Co., Ohio 11 October 1827 and died 7 December 1900 in Benton Co., Iowa, at 73 years of age. He married Nancy Jane Cline in Benton Co. 6 March 1856. Nancy,[694] daughter of William Cline and Elizabeth A. Young, was born in Johnson Co., Ind. 2 January 1838 and died 1 January 1922 in Vinton, Benton Co., Iowa, at 83 years of age. They were married at the home of her father, Rev. N.C. Robinson officiating. In reporting the event, the newspaper editor commented on the "superb wedding cake" and noted that his printer's devil suggested that if the cold weather continued "it is likely to cause a few more such weddings." Cyrenius and Nancy Jane are buried in Section 18 Maplewood Cemetery and her name is on the large memorial erected at the time of Cyrenius' death.

After their mother died in 1848, Nancy and her three sisters lived with their grandmother (___)Young. The year of her mother's death her father went to Benton County and purchased land near Shellsburg and then returned to Indiana. In October 1850 he moved his four daughters (Nancy Jane, 12, was the oldest) to Benton County where they settled about six miles southeast of Vinton. The trip was made in a prairie schooner, driven part of the time by Nancy Jane, and they were enroute for about two weeks. There was only one house in Vinton when they arrived, serving as both residence and Post Office. Nancy Jane endured all the hardships of pioneer life and grew into a woman of sterling qualities and retained a keen interest in the affairs of life until the day of her death at age 84.

Her father, William Cline, was a soldier in the Black Hawk War as was Abraham Lincoln. Both were born in Kentucky with Lincoln 3 years, 7 months, and 16 days older than William. This conflict between the USA and Sauk and Fox Indians was in support of the policy of removing Indians from the old Northwest to beyond the Mississippi river. General Henry Atkinson was in general command. The war began in May 1832 and was a three-month campaign confined mostly to Wisconsin and Iowa pursuing the war chief, Black Hawk and his 500 warriors who came into the area in search of food. In so doing Black Hawk violated the Treaty of the previous year. Cline and Lincoln were among a thousand volunteers who joined with regular troops. It was mostly a war of march and bivouac without sighting the enemy. Poet and editor William Cullen Bryant, seeking a glimpse of action, reported how settlers complained that the soldiers "made war upon pigs and chickens." Black Hawk suffered a crushing defeat 28 July and surrendered to Gen. James D. Henry 1 August on the Mississippi river near the mouth of the Bad Axe Rivers in Wisconsin.

William married Elizabeth Young after the war. They had four daughters, Nancy Jane, Callie, Mrs. W. H. Williams of Red Oak, Iowa, and Mrs. Soden of Shellsburg who died abt 1897. Their given names were not provided. After 1860 William lived in Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, and other western states. He lived his last 10 years in Vinton under the care of Nancy Jane. He was buried in Maplewood Cemetery.

In 1850 at age 23 and with $200 (4,436 in 2005 dollars), the savings from a job on a Mississippi river flatboat hauling meat to New Orleans (the pay was $8 per month), Cyrenius left Eugene, Ind. for Iowa with a team and wagon. One of the horses died enroute so he sold the wagon and continued the trip through trackless forests and unbroken prairies riding the other horse. When he reached Benton County, he selected a quarter section of choice land a quarter mile west of the city limits of Vinton. He registered his land at Dubuque, Iowa on the way home and had 50 cents when he arrived back in Eugene. Title to the land was by original Patent from the United States of America dated 1 July 1851 and signed by President Millard Fillmore. He made a return trip to Benton county in 1851 to select land for his father Enoch and the families moved to Iowa arriving in August 1854 with two wagons holding all their belongings. After helping his father build a two-room hewn log house, which burned down after Enoch's death, he began improving his own land and cut enough black walnut timber to construct a two-story five-room house with an ell.

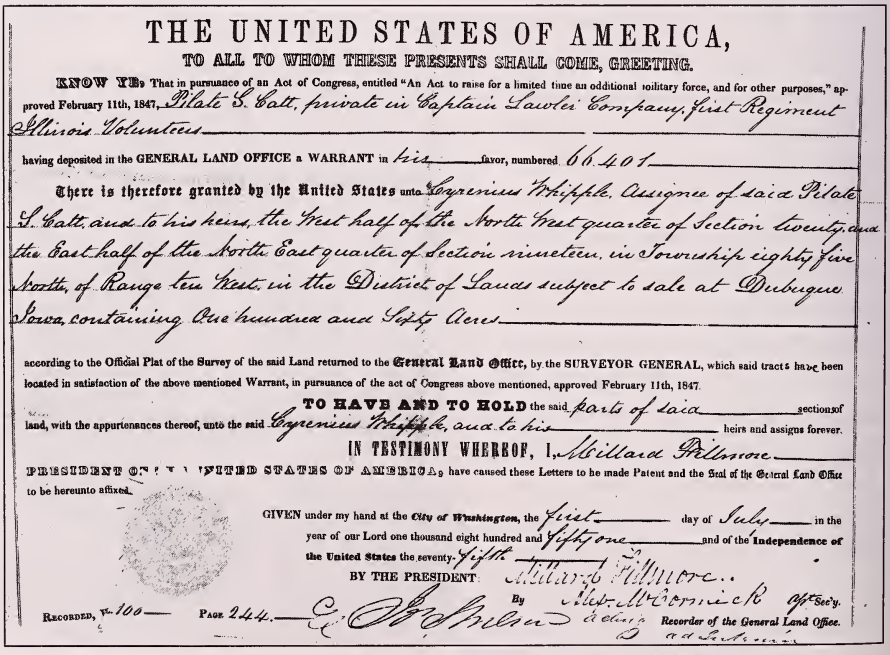
Cyrenius began adding to his holdings and eventually owned and farmed 900 acres in Taylor Township. In 1871 he built a two-story nine-room home and other out buildings and lived there until his death. His farm home was adjacent to the Vinton city limits. By 1865 his tax bill ranked among the highest — $11.90 ($141 in 2005 dollars) to $10.00 for W.W. Hanford, publisher and editor of Vinton's weekly newspaper The Eagle. He became one of the largest stock raisers in the area and annually shipped large numbers of cattle, hogs, and corn to the Chicago market. In May of 1894 he was feeding 237 head of hogs, 201 head of cattle in the yard, and 100 head of steers in the pastures. He was expected to gross $20,000 ($410,502 in 2005 dollars) in stock sales that fall. When he renewed his subscription to the Vinton Eagle for the 32nd time in 1886, the editor acknowledged the renewal with a brief article calling his farm "one of the finest in Benton County."

In December 1893 he purchased a small acreage containing an artesian well and had the water piped over a quarter mile under Henkle creek and up a grade to his house, cattle barn, horse barn, and hog barn at a cost of



THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME, GREETING.

KNOW YE, That in pursuance of an Act of Congress, entitled "An Act to raise for a limited time an additional military force, and for other purposes," approved February 11th, 1847, Pilate S. Catt, private in Captain Lawler's Company, First Regiment Illinois Volunteers having deposited in the GENERAL LAND OFFICE a WARRANT in his favor, numbered 66401

There is therefore granted by the United States unto Cyrenius Whipple, Assignee of said Pilate S. Catt, and to his heirs, the West half of the North West quarter of Section twenty, and the East half of the North East quarter of Section nineteen, in Township eighty five North, of Range ten West, in the District of Lands subject to sale at Dubuque Iowa, containing One hundred and Sixty Acres according to the Official Plat of the Survey of the said Land returned to the General Land Office, by the SURVEYOR GENERAL, which said tracts have been located in satisfaction of the above mentioned Warrant, in pursuance of the act of Congress above mentioned, approved February 11th, 1847.

TO HAVE AND TO HOLD the said parts of said sections of land, with the appurtenances thereof, unto the said Cyrenius Whipple, and to his heirs and assigns forever.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I, Millard Fillmore, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, have caused these Letters to be made Patent and the Seal of the General Land Office to be hereunto affixed.

GIVEN under my hand at the City of Washington, the first day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty one and of the Independence of the United States the seventy fifth

BY THE PRESIDENT: Millard Fillmore

$900 ($18,473 in 2005 dollars). The well, over 1,900 feet deep, was sunk in 1887 at a cost of over $4,000 ($82,100 in 2005 dollars). It stopped flowing in October 1903 after running continuously since 1887. A thresher force pump was applied to the well which forced out water full of oil and other mineral substances. Removing the well cap showed a strong flow leading his son W. P. and daughter Cora, who inherited the farm, to believe that either mineral particles had clogged the pipes or that there was a break in the pipe.

In the fall of 1865 Cyrenius set aside 20 acres of his land on a view site about 1/4 mile west of Vinton with a full view of the town to be developed as an 823-lot cemetery. It was originally known as Whipple Cemetery but later became the Maplewood Cemetery. The Vinton Eagle reported on 15 November that the new cemetery was divided into blocks of four lots, each 20 feet square, separated from each other by four foot wide walks. Sixteen foot streets and 33 foot avenues separated the blocks "affording ample room for the passage of teams through the grounds." P.B. Smith was engaged to handle the sale of the lots which sold for $10 ($118 in 2005 dollars). Proceeds from the first 100 lots were to be used to improve the grounds. The owners of the first 100 lots formed a corporation to operate the cemetery. Whipple agreed to donate 20% of the proceeds of all lots sold after the first 100 to the corporation to be used as a sinking fund. He later served as President of the Vinton Cemetery Assn.

In 1895, Cyrenius and his son W. P. induced the Hanson Brick Siding Manufactory of Fulton, Ill. to open a plant in Vinton. It manufactured articles usually made of sheet metal for building purposes. The plant was capitalized at $15,700 including a gift of $3,700 ($78,861 in 2005 dollars) from the Whipples. Cyrenius had 15 acres in west Vinton plotted into a 52-lot subdivision he named the W. P. Whipple Addition to Vinton. The lots sold for $100 and it was these funds that the Whipples contributed to the Hanson Co.

Cyrenius' funeral services were conducted at his home by Rev. S.S. Hilscher assisted by Rev. F.L. Loveland. Out-of-town attendees included his brothers Lucien of Eugene, Ind. and Henry of Urbana, Iowa. He was buried in the Whipple block at Maplewood Cemetery and a large monument was erected to commemorate his family and his parents. The monument was purchased from W.B. Sprague Tombstones, Muscatine, Iowa.

His will dated 8 November 1892 was amended by codicils 22 February 1894, 22 October 1897, and 15 May 1900. Hiram W. Kearns, executor, filed his final report at the 1902 April term in the Benton Co. District Court at Vinton. Hiram, also a prominent and well-known farmer, was a nephew of Cyrenius' sister Eliza, Mrs. Archibald Kearns. Cyrenius had disposed of some of his holdings prior to his death and at the time of death owned 700 acres m/o/l valued between $65 to $70 ($1,440 to $1,551 in 2005 dollars) an acre. Nancy Jane was given a life estate in 150 acres described as the homestead premises and an allowance of $800 ($17,724 in 2005 dollars) for her first year's expenses. She received $1,291.41 ($28,612 in 2005 dollars) in cash at the final disposition. Upon Nancy's death, the homestead property was to be equally divided between W. P. and Cora. Each also recieved $395.71 ($4,096 in 2005 dollars). Since he had previously built a home for Cora in town valued at $3,000, she was not the beneficiary of any of his remaining acreage.

Son Milo owed his father money and the debt was forgiven and he received $1,395.71 ($30,923 in 2005 dollars) in cash and land in Sections 7 and 18 in Township 85. Other acreage in the same location was given in trust to Hiram W. Kearns for the benefit of Milo's children. Son Sell was given two separate parcels of land and $395.71 in cash. A 40-acre parcel was given to W.P. to be held in Trust for Sell's children. This property was conveyed in Trust because "Sell has some bad habits which tend to make him squander what he gets and I was fearful that if I gave the said property to him he would waste it and not be able to make any provisions for his descendants." He also provided that if Sell "reforms" the Trustee had authority to convey the land to him. He also provided that if Sell showed any anger or ill-will toward W. P. because of the Trustee arrangement then the Trustee would lose his power to convey the property to Sell. Income generated by the property was for benefit of Sell's issue and not Sell.

The unsold portion of the cemetery was given to W. P. in Trust for a 20-year period during which time he was to sell, only for burial purposes, and in January of each succeeding year split the proceed evenly, after expenses, among his (W. P.s) brothers and sister. No bond was required of W. P. in his capacity as Trustee. W.P. was also given land in section 7 and 8 in Township 85 with instructions to use any proceeds generated by the parcel first to pay whatever Sell owed him (W. P.) and to use what remained to pay Sell's debt of $250 to Mary Joyce and any debt he owed to F.G. Ray and James M. Hawkins. Any surplus was to be "held, managed, and controlled by W. P. in Trust for Sell and his issue." W. P. was also given 145 acres in his own right.

All claims against the estate, except one by Milo E. for $1,099.95, were allowed and paid. The Trustee determined that Milo's claim "so far as it ever had any existence has been cut off, determined, and satisfied." The inventory of personal property amounted to $18,596 ($412,006 in 2005 dollars).

Cyrenius Thomas Whipple and Nancy Jane Cline had the following children born in Benton Co.:

\+ 4287 i. William Perry[10] Whipple 26 December 1856.

\+ 4288 ii. Milo Enoch Whipple 16 September 1858.

\+ 4289 iii. Selmon Thomas Whipple 20 August 1861.

4290 iv. Callie Catherine Whipple[695] 4 September 1868 and died there 28 August 1871, at almost 3 years of age. She is Buried in Section 18 Maplewood Cemetery.

4291 v. Cora Jane Whipple[696] 27 March 1874 and died in 1949 in Vinton, at 75 years of age. She married Lt. Guy Kellogg in Vinton 16 December 1896. Guy,[697] son of George Kellogg and Helen Baird, was born in Benton Co. 7 May 1875 and died 21 August 1898 in Jacksonville, Duval Co., Fla., at 23 years of age. Cora Jane and Guy are buried in Section 18, Maplewood Cemetery. Guy began the study of law with W.P. Whipple in 1892 after graduating from Vinton's Tilford Academy. He passed the Iowa bar exam in May 1896, five days after his 21st birthday. While studying, he also assisted James E. Whipple, W.P.s cousin and Vinton City Clerk. Guy was Vinton's first casualty of the Spanish-American War. He was in Jacksonville serving as Judge Advocate as a Lieutenant of Co. G., 49th Iowa Volunteer Infantry, Second Division, Seventh Army Corps under command of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee when he contracted typhoid fever and died in a little over a week. He joined Co. G. 26 October 1891, was promoted to corporal 9 August 1892, to sergeant 19 September 1892, first sergeant in May 1897, Second Lieutenant 14 March 1898 and First Lieutenant 12 May 1898. He was mustered into the U.S. service 2 June 1898. His body, accompanied by quartermaster sergeant James E. Whipple, was returned to Vinton for burial. Services were conducted by Rev. E. H. Avery at the Presbyterian Church with over 1,000 in attendance. All business houses were closed during the funeral hour. Former members of Co. G. and veterans of the Civil War gathered at the deceased home and escorted the funeral to the church for the 3 p.m. services. The funeral cortege covered several blocks. Cora studied business and art at Tilford Academy in Vinton following her graduation from the Vinton High School. After a year at Tilford she was employed in her brother's law office as a stenographer and bookkeeper. She and Guy were married at her parent's home in an evening ceremony conducted by Rev. Ellis M. Jones, Pastor of the Baptist Church. A meal was catered after the ceremony attended by relatives and near friends. The wedding gift from her parents was a new home to be built. She was a member of Vinton's New Century Club, the Methodist Episcopal Church, and cared for her mother from the time of her father's death in 1900 to her mother's death in 1922. She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution through her great grandfather Nehemiah Whipple of Vermont. Her DAR ID No. is 86632. She was a charter member of the Vinton chapter.

3131. Luana[9] Whipple (Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[698] was born in Hartford Township, Licking Co., Ohio 29 June 1829 and died 4 January 1914 in Vinton, Benton Co., Iowa, at 84 years of age. She married James Edmonds in Vermillion Co., Ind. 31 January 1851. He was born in 1825 and died in 1872 in Benton Co. at 47 years of age.[699] The Edmonds were one of Eugene, Indiana's earliest settlers. In 1848, James, at 23, was one of a crew of seven on a flat boat trip to New Orleans. The boat belonged to his older brother Lloyd and the cargo was flour. When they arrived the city was in the throes of Asiatic cholera. All but two of the crew got the cholera, three survived and Lloyd died of it. It is not clear whether James was one of the two to escape the epidemic. He was identified as a carpenter in the 1850 Eugene federal census.

According to the 1856 state census for Benton Co., the Edmonds were living in Taylor Township with son John G., 2. Alonzo Edmonds, 22, born in Ohio and a blacksmith, and David Crow, 19, born in Indiana and a laborer were living with the family. David had also lived with the Edmonds in Indiana in 1850. James had 80 acres of improved and 220 acres of unimproved land; raised five ton of hay, planted eight acres of spring wheat, two acres of oats, 50 acres of corn on which he harvested 1800 bushel; and produced 50 lbs. of butter. Six years later they owned a town lot in Tilford Addition to S. Vinton, 200 acres in Township 22, and 120 acres in Township 23.

In addition to the five children listed here, they had two others who died early in life. According to the Iowa state census of 1885 Luana was a house keeper. Living with her on Clay St. in Vinton were Olive, 16, Ida Mae, 14, and Cyrenius J., 24, a grocery clerk;. In the 1895 state census Luana and Ida Mae were living in Vinton's third ward. Ida Mae was identified as a stenographer.

Obituary: Mrs. Luana Edmonds passes away on Sunday after several years of failing health. About a month ago she had the misfortune to fall which resulted in injuries which no doubt hastened her death. Luana M. Whipple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Whipple, was born 29 June 1839 in Licking Co., Ohio. She was married to James Edmonds in Indiana, where the family had moved when she was 6 years old. They moved to Benton Co., Iowa in 1856, arriving here in their own conveyance 15 June. There were seven children born to them of which now there are four living: Mrs. Jacob T. (Anna C.) Coutts, Waterloo, Black Hawk Co., Ida Mae Edmonds, Vinton, Cyrenius Edmonds, Ft. Dodge, Webster Co., Iowa and Mrs. Olive E. Miller, Nome, Alaska. She is also survived by seven grand children and seven great grandchildren. The funeral was at home and she was buried in the Evergreen Cemetery; Rev. P. Marion Simms presiding.

Luana Whipple and James Edmonds had the following children:

4292 i. Anna C.[10] Edmonds born in Benton Co., Iowa.[700]

\+ 4293 ii. John G. Edmonds born abt 1854.

\+ 4294 iii. Cyrenius R. Edmonds born in 1863.

4295 iv. Olive E. Edmonds[701] born in Benton Co. and married (__) Miller. She was graduated from Vinton High School in 1887 and delivered an essay at the graduation exercises on the subject "Appearances are Deceiving." She spoke of the deception which comes to vision through the phenomena of light; the false idea gained of people when they are judged by appearances only; the necessity of making character correspond with our idea of what we like to see. In 1889 Ollie and her sister Ida were members of a 40-person singing group known as the Dairy Maids who also did marching drills. After her marriage, Olive lived in Minneapolis, Hennepin Co., Minn. Information on her husband is unknown.

4296 v. Ida May Edmonds[702] born in Benton Co. and was graduated from Vinton High School with the eleventh graduating class in 1888. Graduation was held at the Opera House. She read a recitation at the Thanksgiving program 23 November 1887 and presented an essay, "Keys" at the graduation exercises. The essay was about the various keys which unlocked useful things. Ida visited the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution through her great grandfather Nehemiah Whipple of Vermont. Her DAR ID No. is 86628.

3132. Henry G.[9] Whipple (Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[703] was born in Hartford Township, Licking Co., Ohio in August 1831 and died 7 April 1905 in Independence, Buchanan Co., Iowa, at 73 years of age. He married twice. (1) Lucinda Boyd in Benton Co. 8 October 1856. She was born abt 1838 and died in Benton Co. 6 July 1879, at 41 years of age.[704] Sometime after marriage and before her death, Lucinda inherited 80 acres of land known as the West one-half of the Northwest Quarter of Section 36, Township 86 North, Range 10 West of the 5th Prime Meridian. The family lived in a home on this acreage. She owned personal property as follows: 2 horses and a set of harness, 1 cow, 1 wagon, 6 ton of hay, 3 bedsteads with bedding, cook stove and furniture, heating stove, 1 sewing machine, a 2-horse cultivator, and a turning plow, total value $245 ($4,686 in 2005 dollars).

She died intestate, leaving eight children ranging in age from 2 to 22. The Benton County Circuit Court appointed her brother-in-law Cyrenius T. Whipple to administer the estate and appraisers to value the real and personal property. W. P. Whipple, Cyrenius' son, was the attorney representing the estate. The Court ruled that the personal property was exempt from execution and was to revert to the widower. Twenty-four acres of growing corn and 190 bushels of oats were set off for the support of the widower and minor children 15 years and under for a period of one year from her death. The 80 acres was valued at $1,200 ($22,954 in 2005 dollars).

The estate owed debts in excess of $700 ($13,390 in 2005 dollars). On 28 April 1880 Henry informed the Court he was unable to pay the debts and the cost of administration and asked the Court for an order allowing the land to be sold. At the May term, he asked the Court for an order for the admeasurement (to apportion) his dower in the land. When Ray Billingsley, guardian ad litum for minors Catherine, Lution, Julia, Samuel, and Martha, was asked for his consent to sell the land, he said he was not knowledgeable enough to form an opinion and asked the Court to protect the children's "rights and interests." The Court authorized the sale and appointed three referees to determine Henry's dower rights. He was awarded one-third of the value of the real property — a 20 acre site which included the homestead. Cyrenius sold the 60 acre site for $15 ($287 in 2005 dollars) an acre at a private sale with the buyers acquiring it subject to an existing mortgage of $540 in favor of the Aetna Life Insurance Co.

After costs of sale Cyrenius had $440 to pay obligations of the estate which included past due interest on the mortgage, land taxes, appraisal fees, guardian ad litum fees, notices published in the newspaper, medical expenses for Lucinda's last illness, dry goods and groceries, notes in favor of two individuals, his administration fee of $22, etc. After paying these claims, $360.07 ($6,888 in 2005 dollars) in other claims were still owed with only $106.46 ($2,036 in 2005 dollars) available to pay them. The claims were settled for 29.44 cents on the dollar.

He married Sarah Sheward in Vermillion Co. 26 October 1856. Sarah,[722] daughter of Ezekiel Sheward and Martha Cahoon, was born in Eugene Township, Vermillion Co. 5 October 1835 and died 30 June 1898 in Eugene, at 62 years of age. Her death occurred shortly after being stricken with paralysis. She was a faithful member of the Methodist Church and was survived by her husband Lucien, children James E. of Vinton, Iowa, Frank, and Anna (Mrs. William) Fultz, of Eugene.

Lucien Ransom Whipple and Sarah Sheward had the following children:

\+ 4307 i. James Ezekiel[10] Whipple born 3 September 1857.

4308 ii. Edmond G. Whipple[723] born on a farm southeast of Vinton, Benton Co., Iowa in 1858 and died of typhoid fever 8 March 1898 at his farm home near Cayuga, Vermillion Co., Ind., at 40 years of age. His death certificate was signed by Alex Kinderman, MD. He married Clara B. Fultz in Cayuga Township in May 1885. Clara, daughter of Isaac Fultz and Anna Keller, was born in Eugene aft 1860. She purchased Lot 49 located on the corner of Clay and Water streets with frontage on Water in Eugene from her brother William abt 1885 and sold the lot in 1891 to Margaret Hepburn. Edmond (his name is frequently given as Edward) farmed 90 acres on the Flat Iron or Range Line road north and west of Eugene. The school house at the T intersection nearby was named the Whipple School with the land given to the School District by his father Lucien. The following notice about Ed's death appeared in the Vinton Eagle, Vinton, Iowa 15 March 1898. The article was a partial reprint from the Cayuga, Ind. Herald. "Edward G. Whipple died at his home three miles northwest of Cayuga late afternoon March 8 after 12 weeks of suffering, He was 40. Brother of Benton County Recorder J.E. Whipple, he operated a 90 acre farm and was a butcher. He was born in Benton County, Iowa in 1858 and moved to Vermillion County, Indiana about a year later with his parents. The family moved to Kansas in 1868, returning to this county two years later where he lived the balance of his life. He was married to Miss Clara B. Fultz of Cayuga Township in May 1885. No children were born to this union. She survives." Clara Fultz was the sister of William W. Fultz who married Anna Whipple, Edmond's sister.

Manley Nehemiah Whipple and Laura Adeline Woodworth had the following child:

\+ 4312 i. Ellen[10] Whipple born 27 January 1842.

3136. Louisa M.[9] Whipple (Abraham[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[726] was born in Granville Township, Licking Co., Ohio in 1819, died in 1886 at 67 years of age, and was buried in the Old Prebysterian Cemetery in Lexington, Preble Co., Ohio. She married Edmund B. Hattaway in 1838. He was a stone cutter and the family was living in Eaton, Preble Co., Ohio in 1850.[727] Her name may have been spelled Lovisa.

Louisa M. Whipple and Edmund B. Hattaway had the following child:

\+ 4313 i. Mary[10] Hattaway born in 1857.

3140. Horatio[9] Whipple (Nathan[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[728] was born in Madison, Lake Co., Ohio 8 April 1818 and died 9 June 1892 in Ohio, at 74 years of age. He married Caroline Ford in Ohio 1 June 1842. Caroline, daughter of Ebenezer Ford and Roxana Olds (1790-1827), was born in Plainfield, Hampshire Co., Mass. 18 May 1822 and died 4 March 1903 in Madison, at 80 years of age. Horatio and Caroline are buried in Genung Corners Cemetery. Caroline's family moved to Madison when she was a year old. During her adult years she was a Sunday School Teacher and President of the Ladies Aid Society. Horatio was a farmer and mason and built a large brick home on 30 acres of land on South Ridge Road in Madison shortly after he and Caroline were married. The home has 10 rooms and the bricks were made in a kiln on the property. The walls are a foot thick and the foundations is made of large stones and rests on a shale base. A huge cooking fireplace was built in the kitchen and a second (summer) kitchen was built in the basement. The Whipples went to church in Unionville and according to family history, if Caroline wasn't ready to leave when Horatio was, he hitched the horse and buggy to the hitching post and walked to church. Caroline came in the buggy when she was ready. He was a Deacon and Mason and served as Constable.

Horatio Whipple and Caroline Ford had the following children born in Madison:

\+ 4314 i. Alphonso[10] Whipple 7 February 1845.

4315 ii. Josephine Whipple[729] 15 July 1847 and died there unmarried 12 March 1937, at 89 years of age. She began teaching school at age 16 and later took special training in penmanship at Oberlin College. After receiving her Oberlin diploma, she taught writing at the Madison Seminary and at Lake Erie College for Women, then known as the Female Seminary at Painesville. Years later she returned home to care for her mother who suffered a long illness.

3141. Miranda[9] Whipple (Nathan[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[730] was born in Ohio in 1820 and died 8 February 1900 in Rockford, Winnebago Co., Ill., at 79 years of age. She married Henry Orrin Brown in Geauga, Co., Ohio 19 September 1838. Henry,[731] son of John Brown and Clarissa Fulsom, was born in Madison, Madison Co., N.Y. 18 August 1812 and died 28 February 1875 in Rockford, at 62 years of age. He settled in Rockton, Winnegabo Co., Ill. in 1842 and operated a general store on the Newell corner for a number of years. He was both a Clerk and Trustee of the Congregational Church and a Director of the School District for a number of years. His father, a pensioner of the War of 1812, settled in Rockton at the same time and died there 29 September 1861. Henry moved to Rockford about 1866 and his picture appears as an early settler in Historical Encyclopedia of Illinois and History of Winnebago County.

Miranda Whipple and Henry Orrin Brown had the following children:

\+ 4316 i. Henry Whipple[10] Brown born 4 December 1841.

\+ 4317 ii. Mary M. Brown born in 1848.

3142. Sarah[9] Whipple (Nathan[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[732] was born in Ohio 24 April 1824 and died 7 August 1910 in Lansing, Ingham Co., Mich., at 86 years of age. She married Pliny Fisk Olds in Ohio 22 May 1848. Pliny,[733] son of Jason Olds and Matilda Ford, was born in Hamilton, Hamilton Co., N.Y. 28 September 1828 and died 1 July 1908 in Lansing, at 79 years of age. He was a fifth generation American descending through Robert Olds, a native of Sherborne, County Dorset, England, who was living in Windsor, Hartford Co., Conn. as early as 1667 where he married Hannah Hanford (1680-1749) 31 December 1669 and later moved to Suffield, Hartford Co., Conn. Hannah died 6 January 1688 and he married (2) Dorothy Granger 1 April 1689. Robert and Hannah's son William[1] born in Suffield, died in Brookfield, Worcester Co., Mass., and married Elizabeth Walker (1691-1782). He was a Captain in the siege of Louisburg in Queen Anne's War. Their son Comfort[2] (1724-1779), born in Brookfield, married Abigail Barnes (1723-1779), and was a soldier in the French and Indian and the Revolutionary Wars. Their son Samuel[3] (1748-1813) married Persis Rice (17 Feb. 1777). He was a soldier in the Revolution and they lived in Goshen, Hampshire Co., Mass. Their son Jason[4] (1793-1852), Pliny's father, was born in Goshen, Orange Co., N.Y. and married Matilda Ford 1792-1841). He was a farmer and a minister and moved from Goshen to Hamilton and thence to Ohio.

Through his mother Matilda, Pliny is a sixth generation American descending through Andrew Ford (1620-93) who settled in Weymouth, Norfolk Co., Mass. and Ellinor Lovell (1628-), both presumed to have been born in England. Their son Andrew[1] (1650-1725) married Abiah [?Pierce] (1654-). Their son Andrew[2] (1682-1750) married Mercy Whitemarsh (1682-1737). Their son Andrew[3] (1721-1790) married Sarah Shaw (1724-1791). Their son Andrew[4] (1752-1837) married Sarah Beal (1756-1837). Their daughter Matilda[5] (1792-1841) married Jason Olds (1793-1852).

According to the June 1860 U.S. census, Pliny's family resided in Saybrook, Ashtabula County, Ohio where he farmed. They had sons 9, 7, 4, and a daughter 1. The family's worth was listed at $4,000, equally divided between real and personal property. According to deed records, Sarah purchased the 33-acre farm 23 July 1855 from Sarah Fisk for $1,800.00 ($36,964 in 2005 dollars). They sold the farm 9 April 1863 to George W. Cooper for the same price and the family moved four miles east to Geneva where on 13 June 1863 Sarah purchased from James and Desdemona Heath the house and lot (3/4th of an acre) at 217 W. Main street for $750.00. The granting clause states "Do give, grant, bargain, sell, and confirm unto the said Sarah Olds and to her heirs and assigns forever." The home, one block from the village center, is where their youngest child, Ransom Eli was born.

Pliny, in partnership with O. W. Price, operated a machine shop at the corner of Eagle and Main streets, just 200 feet east of the home. Display advertisements in the Geneva Times identified Olds & Price as proprietors of the Engine & Machine Shop and as manufacturers of Price's Improved Oscillating Engine, with rotary valve. They were agents for Buffalo Steam Gage Company's Gages and Novelty Boiler Works of Cleveland and did repair work to order. This initial work with steam engines led Pliny to much greater success in Lansing, Mich. in later years.

The family sold their home 7 June 1869 to G. B. Stowe for $2,000.00 ($27,729 in 2005 dollars) $849.00 down and a mortgage of $1,151.00 which was paid in full 10 January 1879. At the same time they sold their home, they sold their half of the business to Price for a $500.00 ($6,931 in 2005 dollars) profit. They moved to Cleveland, Ohio where Pliny was Superintendent of Variety Iron Works for four years. When Ransom was six and visiting his father at the Iron Works may have stimulated his interest in engines. About 1874 the family bought a small farm at Parma, Ohio and resumed farming. Pliny built a blacksmith shop on the farm and Ransom's first exposure to tools and machinery was there helping his father. After four years of farming, Pliny returned to Cleveland, taking a job as a pattern maker at the Garden Price Printing Press Co. It was not a good time for farming and he was unable to sell the farm until September 1880 when he traded it for a house and two lots in Lansing, Mich.

The family moved to Lansing and established P. F. Olds & Son, a machine shop Pliny operated in partnership with his oldest son Wallace. It was housed in an 18 x 26 foot shop at 218 River street. The business prospered and by 1890 occupied a 55 x 135 foot brick two-story building across the street from the original location. In 1885, Ransom, then 21, bought Wallace's interest and became his father's partner. The firm then employed seven making vertical, balanced steam engines from three to 60 horsepower, pulleys, shafting, hinges, and other iron work. Its annual gross income was about $7,000.00.

It incorporated 31 July 1890, capitalized at $30,000.00 ($615,753 in 2005 dollars), and issued 3,000 shares of stock. It became known for the Olds Gasoline Engine which it advertised nationally in Scientific American. Pliny and Ransom each owned 1,450 shares, Wallace 100. Pliny was company President, Ransom, Secretary-treasurer. Pliny withdrew from an active role in the company by 1894 and began disposing of his stock. By January 1897, he only held 50 shares, Ransom 2,600, Wallace 200, and an outside investor 150. As Ransom was working on his first steam carriage in 1887, Pliny remarked to a customer that "Ranse thinks he can put an engine in a buggy and make the contraption carry him over the roads. If he doesn't get killed at his fool undertaking, I will be satisfied." The parents lived to see their youngest become a recognized leader in the automobile industry, an industry unknown when they settled in Lansing.

Pliny and Sarah believed in Spiritualism, the belief that human personality survives death and that the living can communicate with the dead. Son Ransom did not share this belief. The family had a cottage on Pine Lake (now Lake Lansing) and in the 1880s, Pliny was President of the Namoka Spiritual Camp Meeting Association which held summer meetings there. Modern Spiritualism was born in 1848 in Hydesville, a small town near Rochester, Monroe Co., N.Y., where the Fox family supposedly was plagued by mysterious rapping sounds in their rented house. The Foxes determined the rapper was the spirit of a murdered peddler who had been buried in the basement. This spurred a huge interest in things psychic and seances and table turning became all the rage. Spiritualistic circles sprang up, often centered around a charismatic medium. The famed mystery writer, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and his second wife Jean, toured America to promote Spiritualism. Doyle's message was the promise of life after death that was much like life before death—only better. Death freed the "etheric body," which looked like the living one, minus all imperfections. The dead continued to pursue their interests or hobbies. Mismatched couples would not meet in the afterlife: marriages after death were reserved for ideal mates, though there was no sex. There were, however, pets, alchohol, tobacco, and books. Children who died young continued to grow to adulthood and as souls developed spiritually, they could move on to higher planes.[734]

In 1898 Pliny and Sarah began living much of the year in San Diego, Calif. and moved to what became Daytona Beach, Volusia Co., Fla. in 1905. They returned to Lansing a few weeks every summer until Pliny's death in 1908. Sarah died in 1910. Their ashes are in the family mausoleum in Lansing.

Sarah Whipple and Pliny Fisk Olds had the following children born in Ohio:

	4318	i.	Wilbur Jason[10] Olds[735] in 1850 and died in 1913 in Michigan, at 63 years of age.
	4319	ii.	Emory Whipple Olds[736] in 1853 and died in 1914 in Michigan, at 61 years of age. He married an unnamed person in 1875.
	4320	iii.	Wallace Samuel Olds[737] in 1856 and married Hattie Hoage in 1883.
	4321	iv.	Sarah Eliza Olds[738] in 1859 and married an unnamed person in Michigan in 1887.
+	4322	v.	Ransom Eli Olds 3 June 1864.

3144. Moses[9] Watkins Jr. (Lois[8] Mills, Hepzibah[7] Whipple, Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[739] was born in Rutland Co., Vt. 16 June 1790 and died there 30 January 1844, at 53 years of age. He married Lucinda Rowley in Rutland Co. 1 November 1818. Lucinda,[740] daughter of Roswell Rowley and Lucinda Tinker, was born in Granville, Hampden Co., Mass. 7 May 1798 and died 23 January 1870 in Rutland Co., at 71 years of age. According to the July 1845 Rutland Co. probate records Lucinda and their son Henry were executors of Moses' estate. Daughters Helen and Louisa are shown as additional heirs.

Moses Watkins Jr. and Lucinda Rowley had the following children born in Rutland Co.:

+	4323	i.	Henry[10] Watkins 10 October 1819.
	4324	ii.	Helen Watkins[741] 20 June 1822 and married Daniel Douglas of Fredonia, Chatauqua Co., N.Y. there 23 October 1846.
	4325	iii.	Louisa Watkins[742] 20 November 1824 and died in November 1891 at 66 years of age. She married William H. Liscomb in Rutland Co. 18 September 1848.
	4326	iv.	Delia Watkins[743] 5 June 1831 and died there of inflammation of the lungs 8 April 1832, at 10 months of age.

3153. Cyrus Avery[9] Whipple (Ithamar[8], Rev. Benjamin[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[744] was born in Scipio, Cayuga Co., N.Y. 20 October 1803 and died 27 April 1887 in Marion, Linn Co., Iowa, at 83 years of age. He married four times. (1) Nancy F. Tompkins in Scipio 30 March 1826. She died in 1830 in Scipio.[745] (2) Mary Ann Freeman in Scipio 4 December 1831. She died 9 March 1856 in Linn Co.[746] (3) Abby Luther in Marion 24 January 1859. She died there 21 May 1877.[747] (4) Hepsey Whipple in Marion 10 November 1878. Hepsey,[748] daughter of David Whipple and Polly Benedict (1790-1864), was born 1 October 1826. Her given name may have been spelled Hepsy.

Cyrus lived in the Scipio area for about 33 years before moving (probably in 1836) his family to the western part of New York state settling at Gary, Chautauqua Co. where they lived for nine years. The family moved to Franklin, Johnson Co. Ind. in 1845 before settling on a farm near Marion in 1853. He moved into the town of Marion in May 1865. Nancy F. Tompkins died after four years of marriage leaving him with two young daughters to raise. Mary Ann Freeman bore him seven children before she died. He had no children during the 16 plus years of marriage to Abby Luther. Hepsey, was his first cousin (common ancestors Rev. Benjamin Whipple 1755-1813 and Silence Bundy 1761-1805).

Cyrus was baptized in Venice, Cayuga Co., N.Y. following the death of Nancy and in 1831 joined the Baptist church and became a Sunday School Superintendent. After moving to Iowa he joined the Marion Baptist Church which he attended faithfully for over 25 years — even after his hearing became so imparied he could not hear the preacher. The text at his funeral conducted by Rev. D.N. Mason was Job 5:26.

Cyrus Avery Whipple and Nancy F. Tompkins had the following children:

\+ 4448 iv. George Ensign Bisbee 3 May 1857.

3235. Martha Putnam[9] Whipple (Duick[8], Charles[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[883] was born in Berkshire, Tioga Co., N.Y. 7 August 1820 and died 26 December 1899 in Alden, Antrium Co., Mich., at 79 years of age. She married Martin Luther Dean. Martin,[884] son of Alanson Dean and Laura Dewey, was born in Berkshire 2 August 1820 and died in 1885 at 64 years of age.

Martha Putnam Whipple and Martin Luther Dean had the following children:

4449 i. Frances[10] Dean[885] married Daniel B. Oviatt. He was a newspaper editor-publisher in Alden who later moved to Wyoming and became Governor.

4450 ii. Fidelia Dean.[886]

4451 iii. Willard Dean.[887]

\+ 4452 iv. Marissa Parmelia Dean born in 1837.

3236. Charles Jay[9] Whipple (Duick[8], Charles[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[888] was born in Berkshire, N.Y. 15 November 1823 and died 22 February 1903 in Westfield, Tioga Co., Penn., at 79 years of age. He married Betsy Pierce 17 October 1844.

Charles Jay Whipple and Betsy Pierce had the following children:

4453 i. Jonathan[10] Whipple[889] born in Ulysses, Potter Co., Penn. 9 August 1845 and died there 26 February 1846, at 6 months of age.

\+ 4454 ii. Martin Duick Whipple born 17 May 1847.

\+ 4455 iii. Addison Willard Whipple born 27 October 1850.

3239. Duick[9] Whipple Jr. (Duick[8], Charles[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[890] was born in Newark, Wayne Co., N.Y. 28 September 1825 and died 5 June 1865 in Washington, D.C., at 39 years of age. He married Augusta Samantha Scott. Augusta,[891] daughter of Rev. Tracy Scott and Samantha Noble, was born in Pike, Allegany Co., N.Y. 11 October 1832 and died 27 October 1874 in Ulysses, Potter Co., Penn., at 42 years of age.

Duick Whipple Jr. and Augusta Samantha Scott had the following child:

4456 i. Duick[10] Whipple[892] born in Allegany, Potter Co., Penn. 20 July 1865.

3243. Frances Sophia[9] Whipple (Duick[8], Charles[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[893] was born in Berkshire, Tioga Co., N.Y. 22 January 1834 and died 12 November 1893 in Lewisboro, Westchester Co., N.Y., at 59 years of age. She married twice. (1) Gustavus Scott, son of Rev. Tracy Scott and Samantha Noble. He died in 1861.[894] (2) Daniel Fuller 29 November 1863. Daniel, a Civil War veteran, lost both arms at the Battle of Antietam.[895]

Frances Sophia Whipple and Gustavus Scott had the following child:

4457 i. Nellie[10] Scott.[896]

Frances Sophia Whipple and Daniel Fuller had the following children:

4458 ii. Charles Augustus Fuller[897] born in August 1866.

4459 iii. Flossie Fuller[898] born in September 1875 and died in 1877 at 1 year of age.

3248. Frank H.[9] Whipple (Warner Wright[8], Levi[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[899] was born in Putnam, Muskingum Co., Ohio 7 July 1836 and died 10 November 1919 in La Salle, La Salle Co., Ill., at 83 years of age. He married Charlotte J. Fairfield in La Salle 29 June 1893. Charlotte,[900] daughter of Samuel Fairfield and Josephine McVean, was born in O'Dell, Livingston Co., Ill. 6 June 1867 and died 10 May 1936 in La Salle, at 68 years of age. Frank moved to La Salle County with his parents in 1851 and worked on his father's farm until enlisting in the 11th Illinois Volunteer Infantry 5 December 1861 (after the corn had been harvested). He was assigned to Co. H. and advanced in rank from private to sergeant major. He saw action in the Battles of Fort Henry and Donelson, Shiloh, and the siege at Vicksburg.[901] He was wounded at Liverpool Heights (just south of Yazoo City, Yazoo Co., Miss., 5 February 1864 when a bullet entered his forehead crushing the outer wall of his skull and glancing upward. He was honorably discharged at New Orleans, New Orleans Parish Co.,

La., in September 1865.

Upon his return from the war he bought a 104 acre farm (the Bernum place) which he farmed as well as helping his father until his death in 1875 when he took over the home farm. He became one of the county's most prominent farmers and raised cattle, horses, hogs, and corn. Some of his horses were trained for the track and his race track is still visible in front of the farm home. He was 57 when he married Charlotte; she was 26. It was a year of severe depression with corn selling for 10 cents a bushel. It was also the year of the Chicago World's Columbian Exposition which was to have been in 1892 to celebrate the 400th year of Columbus' arrival in the New World. The newlyweds honeymooned at the Fair. Shortly thereafter they paid $3000 ($61,575 in 2005 dollars) for another 80 acres in Section 29 on which they raised grain. By 1901 he was free of debt. An addition was built to the main house in 1900 and included such modern features as an indoor toilet and bathroom, furnace, and acetylene gas lighting system. Telephone service was added in 1910 at a cost of $1 ($20.53 in 2005 dollars) per month. Electric power arrived in 1919.

He died at home after a short illness. His last will and testament is not available but the appraisal of his estate included farm lands valued at $58,500 ($626,203 in 2005 dollars) and personal property of livestock, grain, hay, farming implements, and an old car valued at $4,840 ($51,809 in 2005 dollars). The livestock included 8 work horses, 5 colts, 3 foals, 1 stallion, 9 cows, 5 calves, 9 steers, and 44 hogs. The will was probated in La Salle 6 February 1920. His obituary is in the La Salle Tribune 10 November 1919. Both Frank and Charlotte are buried in Oakwood Cemetery, La Salle.

Frank H. Whipple and Charlotte J. Fairfield had the following children:

\+ 4460 i. Warner F.[10] Whipple born 15 July 1894.

4461 ii. Josephine Whipple[902] born in Utica, La Salle Co., Ill. 30 December 1895 and died unmarried 17 October 1961 in Grand Rapids, Mich., at 65 years of age. She was buried at Oakwood Cemetery.

3249. Eugene Warner[9] Whipple (Warner Wright[8], Levi[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[903] was born in Putnam, Muskingum Co., Ohio 13 June 1840 and died in 1901 in Milford, Iriquois Co., Ill., at 61 years of age. He married Elizabeth Strain 24 November 1873. She was born 18 October 1847 and died 6 November 1892 in Milford, at 45 years of age.[904] With brothers Frank and Albert in the Army, it was believed Eugene could stay home and help run the farm. However, he was drafted in 1864 and assigned to the 11th Illinois but saw no active duty. He suffered from an unknown illness and spent most of his time in Army hospitals at New Orleans, Orleans Parish, La. He returned to farming but left the farm about 1865 and operated a farm store and owned land at Milford.

Eugene Warner Whipple and Elizabeth Strain had the following children:

\+ 4462 i. Warner Ernest[10] Whipple born 6 September 1874.

\+ 4463 ii. Laura Edna Whipple born 28 August 1876.

3250. Albert Allen[9] Whipple (Warner Wright[8], Levi[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[905] was born in Putnam, Muskingum Co., Ohio in 1842 and died 22 March 1885 in Denver, Denver Co., Colo., at 42 years of age. He married Catherine Laing in La Salle, La Salle Co., Ill. in 1866. Catherine,[906] daughter of Abram Laing and Marie Mosher, was born in Adrian, Erie Co., Mich. 16 November 1847 and died 6 July 1909 in Aurora, Erie Co., N.Y., at 61 years of age.

Albert was elected 1st Lieut. in "G" company, 55th Illinois Infantry Volunteers in 1861. His uncle Cyrus Brown was elected Captain. Albert was the youngest and Cyrus the oldest officer in the regiment. Albert was wounded in the Battle of Atlanta[907] and the surgeons were unable to remove a bullet from his body. It is believed the bullet caused his early death. He was discharged at East Point, Fulton Co., Ga. 16 September 1864. He farmed 80 acres when he returned home and sometime after 1865 sold and moved to the Creston, Union Co., Iowa area and later to Denver.

He made a will in Denver 2 September 1881 and attached a codicil to it 26 April 1884. Named in the will were Catherine, her sister, Edna Taylor, his daughter Ethel L., and his brothers Frank H. (named Administrator) and Eugene, and his sister Josephine (Whipple) Clendenen. He left 1,280 acres of Nebraska farm land, a building lot in Denver, mining stock, county orders, mortgages, etc. to Catherine and Ethel. His land was valued at $10,060 ($217,566 in 2005 dollars) and the personal property at $5,000 ($102,625 in 2005 dollars). He was buried at La Salle.

Albert Allen Whipple and Catherine Laing had the following child:

4464 i. Ethel L.[10] Whipple[908] born in LaSalle in 1870 and died in 1964 in Aurora, Cayuga Co., N.Y., at 94 years of age. She married Allen M. Culver who died in 1951.[909]

3251. Josephine[9] Whipple (Warner Wright[8], Levi[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[910] was born in Ohio in 1845 and died in 1919 in Illinois, at 74 years of age. She married Dr. Floyd Clendenen in Illinois. He was born in 1837 and died in 1907 at 70 years of age.[911]

Josephine taught in rural schools (1915-21) and was active in the La Salle, La Salle Co., Ill. Congregational church. She became a secretary in Chicago about 1921 until 1930 when she lost her job due to the depression. She then raised capon chickens and taught summer school in Kentucky before becoming a secretary at the U. S. Agriculture Adjustment Administration. The final 20 years of her working life were with the La Salle News Tribune.

Josephine Whipple and Dr. Floyd Clendenen had the following child:

\+ 4465 i. Edith[10] Clendenen born in 1879.

3256. Rev. William Levi[9] Whipple (Francis Rice[8], Levi[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[9][12] was born in Mt. Vernon, Knox Co., Ohio 13 July 1844 and died 1 May 1901 in Hamadan, Persia, at 56 years of age. He married Mary Allen in Rockville, Parke Co., Ind., 17 July 1872. Mary,[9][13] daughter of Rev. William Youel Allen and Margaret A. Maxwell, was born in Rockville 17 July 1850 and died 4 July 1937 in Sturgeon Bay, Door Co., Wisc., at 86 years of age. She was buried in the Rockville Town Cemetery. She had an older brother Willie who died in infancy.

Mary's father was educated at Princeton and was licensed as a Minister in 1836 and in November of that year went to Alabama and worked in domestic missions. He then traveled to the Republic of Texas on the same duty and on 20 March was appointed Chaplain of the House of Representatives in the New Republic of Texas. Sam Houston was its President. He founded a church in Texas and preached throughout the country. Illness forced him to return to Kentucky in 1841 where he married Sarah Stonestreet 14 July. She died four years later. When he visited relatives in Parke Co., Ind. in the summer of 1846 he was invited to preach at Rockville and was installed as its regular Pastor in December 1847. He was also installed as Pastor at Bethany, Park Co. He retired from preaching in 1862.

William was graduated from Marietta (Ohio) College (26 June 1867) and from Cincinnati's Lane Theological Seminary (27 May 1872). Mary was graduated from Western Seminary at Oxford, Butler Co., Ohio 14 June 1872. A month and three days after her graduation, they were married in a joint ceremony with Jerry Oldfather (also a Lane graduate) and Felicia Rice of Rockville and Mary's fourth cousin. Both couples had decided to become missionaries and were assigned to a mission in Oroomiah, Persia by the American Congregational Board of Foreign Missions. They sailed from New York City 1 August 1872 for Liverpool.

After visiting London, Paris, and Geneva, they embarked from Marsielles for Constantinople (now Instanbul) and from there sailed the Black Sea to Trebizond, a seaport in northeast Turkey. They then took a 1,000 mile land trek by caravan through parts of Russia and past Mt. Ararat — the highest point in Turkey (16,804 feet) near Iran and Armenia and, according to tradition, the place where Noah's ark landed — before reaching Oroomiah. Will became Overseer of Churches on the Nazloo Chai (Chai means river) the Mission's Treasurer, and was in charge of the printing office which printed school books and a monthly newspaper Zaree ra d'Bara (Rays of Light). Jerry was responsible for the churches on the Barandoos Plain and each, with an interpreter, would visit a church on their Plains weekly. Mary taught mathematics to the girls.

The intense heat that began in April caused them to move to Mt. Seir from May to September. It was about six miles distant and its higher elevation made the summer tolerable. Their view from Mt. Seir was the Kurdish mountains and the border of Kurdistan — a providence in western Iran inhabited mostly by Kurds. They looked down on Lake Oroomiah which was more salty than the Dead Sea.

By the winter of 1877, Will was beginning to feel the strain of the job and the Mission recommended the family take a year off. They left in September, traveling through Russia where they visited the Kremlin in Moscow and the Hermitage in St. Petersburg, before entraining to Berlin. They spent a month in London before sailing (a 15-day storm tossed trip) for New York City from Edinborough, Scotland. The train carried them from New York to Terre Haute, Vigo Co., Ind. and then home to Rockville.

Will got malaria in Persia and his chills and fever continued at home. He went to Cedar Rapids, Linn Co., Iowa for treatments and was advised not to return to Persia. However, when in April 1879, the American Bible Society asked him to be its Agent for a new agency, he accepted and the family left for Oroomiah 15 May. In the fall of 1883 they moved to Tabriz. They were furloughed in 1889 and visited Athens, Venice, Vienna, Paris (where they saw the Paris Exposition) and London before landing in New York City. Son Allen, then 8, started school in Rockville in September.

They returned to Tabriz, Persia in 1890 accompanied by four new missionaries: Dr. and Mrs. Vanneman (she was a registered nurse) and Rev. and Mrs. Breshear. They bought a large house next to the Boys' School. It had a Moslem garden, apricot orchard, English walnuts and other trees, large yard, vineyard, stables, and gate rooms. A stone paved courtyard with fountain was inside the gate. There were two front entrances to the house: one led to a winter dining room, the other to stairs leading to the second level. Beyond the winter dining room was a summer dining room which overlooked the garden. The kitchen was behind the summer dining room. The stairs to the first landing led to a long front living room with three windows looking out at the garden, the city, an old fortress, a ruined blue Mosque, and the mountains. They had four bedrooms, a study over the kitchen, a large cellar, and a covered portico which ran all the way across the front and shaded the windows.

Son Lucius entered the Boys' School in the winter of 1895 and began studying the Armenian language. Their concern with Lucius' limited educational opportunities and the fact that Allen was ready to begin high school caused them to return to America in 1896. Their return home took them through Persia, Russia, Turkey, Romania, Austria, France, and England. Allen's command of French was very helpful on this journey. They settled in Duluth, St. Louis Co., Minn. because of its excellent school system and because Will's brother Lucius and his family lived there. They rented half of a duplex until September 1897 when they bought a house at 1215 East 3rd St. which they decorated with carpets and curios brought from Persia.

By the end of the winter of 1898-99, Will was receiving pleas to return to Persia. The decision was for him to go to a new assignment at Hamadan with Mary remaining in Duluth for a year or two until the Missionary Home for Children was opened at Wooster College in Ohio. At that time, Lucius and daughter Margaret would enroll there and Mary would return to Persia with Mary and Eunice. Will left 27 September 1899. On 30 April 1901 Mary received a cable that Will was very ill with typhoid fever. A cable the next day announced his death. Mary then received the following resolution from Hamadan:

"A man loyal and true, gentle and generous, forgiving and faithful, and who waits on the otherside until all his dear ones, as well as those he left in Hamadan, shall be called to the King's immediate presence.

"Stricken, bereaved, and sorrowing, the hearts of the missionaries in Hamadan Station have cried out and they have wondered what could be the meaning of the Master, in the removal of such a man from the work of the Lord in Hamadan and Persia when all, and he himself specially had been making such fervent prayer that more laborers might be fitted, and sent by the Lord of the Harvest. The answer comes with the authority of divine loving kindness. 'What is that to Thee, follow thou me.' 'What thou knowest not now, thou shalt know hereafter.' We do pray that many may be stirred up by his beautiful life of love and devotion to consecrate themselves to the same blessed service, make their own the language of one of his favorite Hymns:

'Take me, Oh my Father, take me.
'Take me, save me through Thy Son,
'That which thou wouldst have me, make me.
'May Thy Will be done.'"

Will's body was placed in a vault near the front of the Armenian Church in Hamadan. An Alabaster Tablet inscribed with "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a Crown of Life" (Rev. 2-10) was placed over the vault. The tablet was paid for by his Lane Theological Seminary classmates. When a chapel with adjoining cemetery was later built nearby, the vault was buried in a shady spot under a tree.

Rev. William Levi Whipple and Mary Allen had the following children:

4466 i. William Francis[10] Whipple[914] born in Oroomiah 19 January 1874 and died of diphtheria aft September 1875 in Mt. Seir. He was named for his two grandfathers and was buried in a grave next to his younger brother Max in the Mt. Seir Cemetery.

4467 ii. Maxwell VanDeren Whipple[915] born in Mt. Seir 4 May 1875 and died there of diphtheria in September 1875 at about 5 months of age. He was named after his mother's uncle Frank Maxwell.

4468 iii. Mildred Cochran Whipple[916] born in Oroomiah 22 March 1877 and died of scarlet fever in August 1881 in Mt. Seir, at 4 years of age. She was buried adjacent to Willie and Max.

\+ 4469 iv. Dr. Allen Oldfather Whipple born 2 September 1881.

4470 v. Clarence Whipple[917] born in Tabriz 20 March 1883 and died there of spinal meningitis 1 October 1883, at 6 months of age.

4471 vi. Lucius Roy Whipple[918] born in Tabriz 20 April 1885.

\+ 4472 vii. Margaret Holmes Whipple born 8 October 1887.

\+ 4473 viii. Mary Putnam Whipple born 27 February 1893.

\+ 4474 ix. Eunice Fulton Whipple born 22 September 1895.

3257. Francis Rice[9] Whipple Jr. (Francis Rice[8], Levi[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[919] was born in Sullivan Co., Ind. 19 June 1848 and died 15 September 1906 in Rockville, Parke Co., Ind., at 58 years of age. He married May Adams in Indianapolis, Marion Co., Ind. 2 May 1882. She was born in 1861 and died in 1941 in Rockville, at 80 years of age.[920] Francis and May are buried in the Town Cemetery. Frank attended school at the old Rockville seminary and clerked at his father's dry goods store. In May 1864 at 16, he enlisted in the 137th Indiana regiment serving about four months before being honorably discharged at Bridgeport, Ala. He returned home and again clerked at his father's store until about 1870 when he moved to Evansville, Vanderburgh Co., Ind. to clerk in a large store. He returned to Rockville in 1874 where he managed Dr. A.E. Bates' drug store until 1880 when he and Z. T. Overman became partners in a dry goods business named Whipple & Overman. Upon Overman's death in 1898, Frank became sole proprietor and built the business into one of the largest retail stores in Parke Co., Ind.

Francis Rice Whipple Jr. and May Adams had the following child born in Rockville:

4475 i. Elsie Helen[10] Whipple[921] in either 1887 or 1889 and died in 1973.

She was daughter of Joseph Fairbanks and Betsey A. Thompson born 20 Feb 1854 in Southborough and died 7 Oct 1929 in Westborough. She was bured in Southborough Rural Cemetery. Leander was a "metaphysician" which today corresponds to a psychlogist/psychiatrist. He practiced in New York City and authored several books and edited a journal called Man.[1107] He was one of the owners with E. F. and George A. M. Stephenson of The Metaphysical Publishing Company of New York City which published his book The Philosophy of Mental Healing in June 1894. The company declared bankruptcy in July 1902.[1108] He was editor of Intelligence, a continuation of the Metaphysical Magazine, published at 503 5th Ave. New York City in 1897. Articles in the issue of June of that year included: "Man and Nature," "Modern Astrology," "Philosophy of the Divine Man," "Mazdalism and Being," "Bhagavad Gita," and other kindred topics.[1109] Under the terms of Leander's hand-written Last Will and Testament dated 6 March 1912 and written in "the Borough of Manhattan in the City of New York," he named "good friends Elisha Flagg and Mrs. Elizabeth F. Stephenson" of New York City as Executor and Executrix. He directed that they sell all his property and after paying all his bills to fund a Trust with one-half of the residue "for the benefit, use, and maintenance" of his wife Hattie F. Whipple. Her brother-in-law Charles L. Fairbanks of Southborough was named Trustee. If Hattie preceded him in death, the monies were to be paid to "good friends and faithful helpers Mrs. Stephenson and Miss Mary I. Nichols of Dalton, Berkshire Co., Mass. share and share alike in appreciation of their devotion, care, and help in times of trouble and affliction." These ladies worked for him in his psychiatric practice. His sister Alice Phipps of Escalon, San Joaquin Co., Calif. was bequeathed four-tenths and his brother Charles of Washington, D.C. one-tenth of the residue. In the final two item of his will he "expressly request[ed] and demand[ed]" to be cremated with his ashes to be "spread upon the waters of rivers or ocean" and if any of his legatees objected to the the cremation they would be disinherited and their portion would "be paid to the American School of Metaphysics, a corporation of the State of New York." Fresh Pond Crematory, Middle Village, Queens, N.Y. disposed of the remains.[1110]

He was buried in Natick, Middlesex Co., Mass. Services were at the home of his nephew, Lewis E. Whipple. He was an artist, linguist and lover of music. He married twice. (1) Elizabeth N. Worth of Edgartown, Dukes Co., Mass. in Manhattan, N.Y. 3 February 1891. Elizabeth, daughter of Benjamin Worth and Louisa P. Coffin, was born 23 February 1843 and died 7 August 1905 at Upton, Worcester Co., Mass. and is buried in New York City.[III3] (2) Mathilde (Bartels) Wilhelm 21 November 1924 in Washington, D.C. She married (1) Prof. Edwin Bartels, a faculty member of the University of Strasbourg. She was born abt 1893 in Strasbourg, Alsace Lorraine, a region in France where German was the official language, and studied painting in Italy and Belgium. The Bartels had a son who was about 10 at the time of her marriage to Charles. The boy remained in Strasbourg to be brought up as a French subject,[III4] Charles' art education was gained at the Normal Art School of Boston, the Museum of Fine Arts, and the Julien Academy in Paris where he studied under such masters as William Adolphe Bouguereau, Gabriel Ferrier, and Tony Robert Fleury. He began his professional career in New York City and had a studio at the Sherwood Studio Building on West 57th Street. Beginning in 1904, he also ran a School of Art in New York, offering courses in drawing and painting from still life as well as illustrations and composition. His talents were such that he was commissioned to paint portraits of many prominent society, political, and military persons. Included were portraits of presidents William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt while they were in office. His McKinley painting was the only full length portrait of the President and was completed just before his assassination. It hangs in the National Portrait Gallery, Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D.C. (Accession No. NPG.66.11.) Six of his other portraits can be accessed at <<http://portraits.npg.si.edu/cgi-pl/snpg2a.pl.>> He moved to Washington in 1917. The vaulted ornately decorated corridors on the first floor of the Senate Wing in the U.S. Capitol are called the Brumidi Corridors named for Constantino Brumidi, a native of Rome who painted in the Vatican and in the palace and villa of a Roman Prince before emigrating to the U.S. in 1852. He created the overall design for the corridors and directed its execution by artists of many nationalities from 1856 until his death in 1880. Brumidi's decorative scheme was based on frescoes by Raphael in the Loggie of the Vatican and they celebrated American butterflies, birds and flowers. He and some of his aides also painted medallion portraits of Revolutionary heroes and important inventions, including Cyrus McCormick's reaper. As a high traffic area, the Brumidi Corridors are vulnerable to damage and thus in need of constant repainting. Charles was a part of a major campaign from 1919 to 1927 to retouch and repaint oil frescoes that were damaged or dark with grime. Further details at: <<http://www.aoc.gov/art/brumcorr.htm.>> Additional information on Charles is in Who's Who in American Art, Peter Hasting Falk, (ed), Soundview Press, 1985. According to his obituary in The New York Times (4 May 1928, p. 25), he spent seven years working on the Burmidi paintings where thousands of visitors watched him retouch the art works. He was best known for his panel, "The Spirit of 1917" which was inspired by President Woodrow Wilson's call for a Declaration of War against Germany. It represents an American soldier drawing a sword to protect the home, flag, and family He also painted several figures in the historical frieze around the Rotunda, left unfinished in 1889, and had cherished the ambition to complete the work before his death. His will, dated 28 January 1928, was signed with his mark suggesting he may have had a stroke and was no longer able to write. The will made bequeaths to "my wife Matilda, "now in Strasbourg, France, the sum of $500.00 in lieu of her dower interest in my estate, but if she shall elect to receive her dower interest, then this bequest shall become void, and said $500.00 dollars shall fall in the residue of my estate." Other bequests: Lewis Whipple, nephew, ". . . the cabinet in the parlor of my home at 1512 R. St., with all the ornaments on said cabinet, also the French clock in my bedroom and all of my pictures except the picture above the mantle in said parlor and the picture over the piano in my bedroom." Elizabeth Phipps, niece, ". . . $100.00." The "piano in the parlor to my great niece the daughter of Elbridge Phipps." H. Stanley Heinrichs, friend, ". . . the picture over the piano in my bedroom." "All my paints and brushes to my friends Albert Small and Jon McClellan; my artist's studies to Jon McClellan; the piano in the bedroom to Albert Small." Miss Jane Daniels, friend, ". . . my violin, pictures to be selected by my nephew Lewis Whipple, the rest of my household furniture subject to the payments due on said furniture." All the rest and residue of the estate, real and personal, was left to Lewis and Elbridge Whipple, nephews, and May Langell, niece, and their children to be divided in three equal parts. Lewis was named executor. The will was witnessed by Mrs. Cecelia McClennan, Mrs. Emma Wallace, and H. Stanley Heinrichs. He acquired the violin, left to his friend Miss Jane Daniels, in 1883. "Nicholaus Amatus, fecit in Cremona, 1675," is the signature inside the quality-toned instrument. Amatus was the teacher of Stradivarius and Guarnerius and maker of violins that have never been equaled since. There were only a few of them in the U. S.[1115]

3476. Lysander Greenlief[9] Whipple (Edmund[8], Perley[7], Lt. James[6], Lieut. James[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1116] was born in Southborough, Worcester Co., Mass. 23 May 1832 and died of cardiac failure 5 June 1896 in Orange, NSW, Australia, at 64 years of age. He married Mary Looby in Bathurst, Australia 1 February 1864. Mary,[1117] daughter of Edmund Looby and Honora (Nora) Hayden, was born in Boherlahane-Cashel, Tipperary, Ireland in 1836 and died 12 March 1896 in Orange, at 59 years of age. Mary and her sister Catherine arrived in Botany Bay 20 May 1854 on the Caroline as assisted immigrants. According to the shipping list, she was 22 implying a birth year of 1832. Catherine was 20. He migrated to Australia in 1853 and arrived in Melbourne 24 October on the barque Maria. Upon becoming an Australian citizen 13 December. 1860 he changed his name to William Francis Whipple. He was naturalized in New South Wales (Record No. 965?—the last number is indistinct and may be a 4—Certificate No. 72/128). He was a produce merchant. He corresponded with nephews Leander and Charles and niece Alice in the U.S. and some of those letters are owned by "Tom" Whipple of Shelley, Australia in 2005. He is buried in Orange.

Lysander Greenlief Whipple and Mary Looby had the following children born in Australia:

+	4615	i.	Mary Pauline[10] Whipple 16 January 1865.
	4616	ii.	Alice Sophia Whipple[1118] in Orange 24 September 1873 and married Jack Vogt in Australia in 1919.

He was buried at Westborough, Worcester Co., Mass. Obituaries can be found on page 9, Boston Transcript, 11 April 1891 and on pages 182-83 in the Photographic Times 21, No. 500 dated 17 April 1891. He married Elizabeth Mann in Boston, Suffolk Co., Mass. 12 May 1847. She was born in West-borough 1 November 1819[1123] and died in 1891 in Boston at 71 years of age.[1124]

John Adams Whipple (1822-1891).

John Adams Whipple, among the first generation of Americans to practice photography, was a pioneer and innovator, and became a leader in the field. His interest in chemistry began in High School and he conducted experiments at home. Joseph Niepce, a French researcher working in England, created the first true photograph in the summer of 1827. After reading accounts of the newly discovered daguerreotype process (announced in Paris in 1839 and named after Louis Jacques Mande Daguerre), the teen-aged John attempted to replicate it and made his first photographic image "with a sun-glass for a lens, a candle box for a camera, and the handle of a silver spoon as a substitute for a plate."

In 1840, at 18, he left Grafton for Boston and while visiting a shop that sold "philosophical instruments" (instruments that regulated and transmitted information about measurements, e.g. quadrants, compasses, sundials, protractors, globes, maps, etc.), he overheard a customer asking for chloride of iodine. The store didn't have it and Whipple offered to make him some, thereby earning his first fee for preparing chemicals. This led him to his first business venture — making chemicals for daguerrean artists at a shop he rented at 20 Washington St. He was listed as a chemist in the Boston Directory.

While the business was profitable, the fumes caused his health to suffer so in 1841 he turned to taking pictures for a living. (Matthew Brady opened his first daguerreotype studio in New York three years later). His new profession was not much safer because he used toxic ingredients, including mercury vapor, to bring out the image on the exposed daguerreotype plate. A year after arriving in Boston (September 1841), he exhibited daguerreotype portraits at the Third Exhibition of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association (hereafter Mechanic Association). This was the first exhibition after news of the discovery of photography reached Boston.[1125]

He formed a partnership with Albert Litch in 1845 and they opened a studio at 96 Washington St., specializing in group portraits of from two to 50 persons. At this time, arranging and photographing groups was a special challenge — "the true test of the artist's skill" — but Whipple mastered the skill, taking pictures of relaxed, intimate interaction of small groups and of great crowds on a single plate. He bought Litch out after two years.

Publishers who illustrated their articles soon replaced lithographs and engravings with the daguerreotype because their readers, aware of potential distortions in the former, accepted photographic images as factual. Boston publisher Charles H. Brainard used many of Whipple's photographs in his Portrait Gallery of Distinguished Americans, published in 1855. Theatrical personalities were featured on sheet music title pages and Whipple's portrait of the Swedish singer Jenny Lind with her pianist Benedict and the baritone Giovanni Belletti taken in 1850 was on the cover of Miss Lind's most admired songs book. The Boston Daily Evening Transcript of 5 October 1850 reported that "Miss Lind visited Whipple's daguerrian gallery yesterday and sat for her picture, which is a capital one. A group of three, with Jenny, Belletti, and Benedict was also taken. Their appearance is exceedingly life-like, and will add greatly to Mr. Whipple's already high reputation as an artist."

Portraiture was the main source of income for commercial photographers and Whipple's advertising was directed toward that business. Beginning in the 1850s, his clientele was from the highest levels of Boston society. His portraits express the physical relationship between figures, especially between children and parents. There was also a strong market for photographs of residences, especially homes of persons of national prominence. Among others, he was commissioned to photograph the home of John Hancock, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Abraham Lincoln's home in Sprinfield, Ill., with the future President standing in front of it. This picture was either used in the 1860 presidential campaign or distributed after Lincoln became President-elect.

His portrait of Daniel Webster was widely reproduced and was the model for an engraving by W.G. Jackman, published by D. Appleton & Company in A Life of Webster by George T. Curtis (New York, 1870) and was on the title page of the sheet music Funeral March: To the Memory of the Illustrious Patriot and Statesman, Daniel Webster, published in Boston in 1852.

Throughout his career, Whipple photographed disasters; the first in 1852, were the ruins of the Tremont Temple in Boston. His photograph of the collapsed Pemberton Mill in Lawrence, Essex Co., Mass. was on the front page of Harper's Weekly 21 January 1860 showing bodies being removed as firemen fought the smoldering wreckage. A large section of Portland, Maine was destroyed by fire 4 and 5 July 1866 and he issued a series of at least 11 stereoscopic views of the ruins. He photographed the Great Boston Fire of November 9 and 10, 1872. By 25 November, Aaron K. Loring, a Boston bookseller and stationer, was selling pictures of the fire. He advertised large photographs saying Whipple's enormous Panorama "commands the admiration of everyone" and is "in great demand to send to Europe and to our Western cities. It sells for $25.00." Two of Whipple's panoramas are in the collection of the Boston Public Library Print Department, one shows the center of the burnt district, a desolate area extending from Washington St. all the way to the water's edge.

Gleason' s Pictorial Drawing-Room Companion, published in Boston (1851-59) was the first illustrated magazine in the United States. The magazine was encyclopedic in scope and the publisher used pictures as "the labor saving machines of mental culture." Whipple's daguerreotype of the ruins of Tremont Temple was the first photograph used by the magazine. Nine more of his portraits were published. Between 1860 through 1875, 30 of his photographs were published by Harper's Weekly. His photographs of the ruins of the Great Boston fire of 1872 were published in Harpers, Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, and in the Illustrated London News. The book, The Landing of the French Atlantic Cable at Duxbury, Massachusetts, July, 1869 [Boston, 1869] is recognized as one of the notable American books with original photographs. Its six albumen photographs on mounts with letterpress titles were by Whipple. The August 14, 1869 Harper's Weekly published four of them.

The daguerreotype rooms in his Washington Street studio were on the top floor, lit by four large windows in front and by a large skylight. Natural light was essential to successful photography and his advertisements in the 1848-49 Boston Directory guaranteed satisfaction only if customers called "between 11 and 2, when the sky is clear." The panes of the skylights were of ground or frosted glass to diffuse the light; and shutters, curtains, or blinds were used to modify or direct the light.

One of the attractions at his studio was a miniature steam engine used to power the buffing wheels and reduce the manual labor required to prepare the surface of daguerreotype plates. The machine made it possible for one person to prepare many plates on short notice, freeing Whipple to concentrate on aesthetic concerns. It was also used to heat mercury, distill water, heat the rooms, and cool them with a large fan. His studio featured a gallery open to the public without charge where he displayed his work. In 1849-50, Massachusetts Gov. George Nixon Briggs and his Council, Boston Mayor Josiah Quincy, Jr. and the Board of Aldermen, and Powers'

Greek Slave were featured. The latter was a marble statue of a female nude which received rave reviews from both critics and the public. In 1851 he featured the portrait of P.T. Barnum, views of the moon taken through the telescope at the Harvard Observatory, and a variety of microscopic subjects. His first attempt at micro-photography was in 1846.[1126]

In September 1847, judges at the fifth exhibition of the Mechanic Association awarded him a silver metal for his daguerreotype portraits. After describing the difference between a poor daguerreotype portrait, in which appearances are rigid, dry, and without texture or gradation of tone, and a first rate daguerreotype in which softness, naturalness, delicacy of lights, and nuances of form and texture are preserved, the judges declared Whipple's work (and his major competitor, Southworth & Hawes) to be the finest in the exhibition. His entries in the 1850 exhibition also won a silver medal and his groups were especially praised while Southworth & Hawes failed to win an award. Both won the silver in 1853 but Whipple's entries were praised as superior to all others.

He was the impresario at a program at Boston's Tremont Temple in 1851 which featured lantern slides of foreign lands, a demonstration of the Drummond Light[1127] which he used to take night time daguerreotypes on Boston Common, slides of microscopic creatures gamboling across the screen (he began experimenting taking daguerreotypes through a microscope in 1846), a life-size projection portrait of Jenny Lind, and a display of "pyromic fires." Musical accompaniment and vocalizing rounded out the evening.

In 1849 he patented a new method of taking portraits named the "crayon daguerreotype" because it imitated the effect of hand drawn portrait heads (U.S. Patent #6056 23 Jan. 1848). Examples can be viewed at the Boston Athenaeum. He began working with William B. Jones on a process to make paper photographs from glass plate negatives which they patented 25 June 1850 (U.S. Patent #7458).[1128] Whipple called the process crystalotypy because of the crystal clear transparency of the glass negatives. He became the main American promoter of the glass negative paper positive process.[1129]

He began marketing the new process to the general public in 1852 and examples of his crystalotypes were on display in Marcus Root's Gallery of Daguerrean Art on Broadway in New York that year. He exhibited crystalotypes at the 1853 Mechanic Exhibition and again won a silver medal. The judges praised him for "his perseverance in perfecting this admirable process amongst obstacles of all kinds." Early examples of his crystalotypes are preserved in an album of portraits of the Harvard Class of 1852, the first class to be photographed. (Whipple continued as class photographer until 1860). From 1853-58, the Photographic Art Journal used his crystalotypes as frontispieces mounted into each issue. Subjects included the moon, views of gardens and buildings, and photographs of engravings and sculpture. His photo of the John Hancock House was the frontispiece to Homes of American Statesmen (Boston, 1854), the first American book to be illustrated with an original photograph. He photographed members (individual bust-length portraits) of the Massachusetts General Court in 1855. The Rare Book Room of the Boston Public Library has a partial set of four bound albums. During this period he continued to test and improve the process and by 1854 was using both the albumen coated glass negative and the collodion coated negative (known as the wet plate)[1130] which was to supersede it. He eventually replaced salted paper with albumen coated paper for his prints.

James Wallace Black, who became one of America's finest photographers from this period, began working with Whipple in 1850 and they formed a partnership, Whipple and Black, in 1856 which continued to the autumn of 1859. (Both lived in Cambridge on Norton St. — Whipple at No. 13, Black at No. 17). Their studio became a center for photographers wishing to learn new techniques

In the late 1840s, Whipple attempted a daguerreotype of the moon using a small telescope. The results were unsatisfactory. He began a collaboration with the Harvard Observatory in December 1849 and was given access to its refracting telescope equipped with a regulator and 15-inch lens. The first efforts were unsuccessful because the motion of the telegraph was jerky. The problem was solved by synchronizing the exposure with the pauses between the advances of the clockwork mechanism. His photographs of the star Alpha Lyra taken 17 July 1850 are the first successful experiments in stellar photography. His first successful moon photograph, showing details of the lunar surface, was taken 14 March 1851. He continued photographing at the observatory until April 1852, making about 70 daguerreotypes of diverse subjects including the star Vega,, the planet Jupiter, and a partial solar eclipse. His moon picture won a Prize Medal for excellence of production at the Crystal Palace exhibition in London in 1851. He made crystalotypes of his moon daguerreotypes which were exhibited at the New York World's Fair in 1853 where they won a medal. A paper print of his moon was in the July 1853 number of the Photographic Art Journal. The Harvard Observatory installed a new clock drive for the telescope in 1857 and Whipple, with his new partner Black, began a new series of astronomical photography. They used the collodion wet plate process which gave them 15 to 20 minutes of working time per negative and took over 200 photographs.

Whipple's Civil War photographs are mainly portraits and views of military encampments in Massachusetts. There is no indication he traveled to the combat zone. His photograph of the Minnesota, flagship of the Northern blockading squadron, appeared in Harper's Weekly 24 August 1861. His group portrait of Lt. Gen. U. S. Grant and staff was exhibited at the Mechanic exhibition in 1865. His photograph of Robert Gould Shaw, Colonel of the 54th Regiment of Massachusetts Volunteers, the first regiment of black troops raised in Massachusetts, accompanied Shaw's obituary in Harper's Weekly 15 August 1863. Shaw died leading a near suicidal charge against the defenses at Fort Wagner in S.C.

Whipple moved his studio to 297 Washington St., corner of Temple Place 1 July 1865, remaining there until his retirement. He occupied the upper floors of three buildings and employed approximately 40. He had a one-word sign at the second level on both streets — WHIPPLE'S. The studio was reported to have the largest skylight in the country and to be equipped with "every modern convenience, even a dumb-waiter to carry him from floor to floor." His 15 by 19 inch contact print of the members of the National Congregational Church Council gathered at Plymouth Rock with over 1,000 people displayed at the 1865 Mechanic Exhibition was described by a reporter for the Philadelphia Photographer as a photographic wonder. His five foot high and three foot long contact print of Boston's Jeffries Building was "by far the largest contact print" the reporter had ever seen. He also singled out Whipple group portrait of Gen. Grant and his staff and oil-colored photographs of children for special notice.

The 1869 Mechanic Exhibition awarded Whipple a gold medal for his photographs of the solar eclipse, calling his views of the Corona and the Protuberances finer than any others taken. They also praised his unique talent for photographing large groups such as the National Peace Jubilee, a musical extravaganza held in Boston to celebrate the end of the Civil War.

Whipple retired from the photography business 1 June 1874 after devoting 34 years working in it from its inception, developing innovations that helped improve it, and making photography available to the common person. His pioneering efforts in photography helped bring the remote world close, making it possible for people to see individuals, and views from throughout the world. Still photography was a technological innovation of startling power. It was to the 19th century what the printing press was to an earlier age and the computer is to our time. For a technology that originated in the mid 19th century, photography has made a smooth transition into the 21st. As of 2002 about 25 billion images have been taken with digital cameras and the joining of computers and electronics to photographic technologies lets us exercise our creativity, chronicle our world, and share our lives. If alive today, John Adams Whipple and the other early pioneers would be amazed at how photography has advanced. While retiring from photography, John continued to work, becoming a bookseller and publisher of religious works until his death.[1131]

John Adams Whipple and Elizabeth Mann had the following children born in Boston:

3504. Edna[9] Towne (Lydia[8] Whipple, Rev. Jacob[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1183] was born in Massachusetts in 1818 and died in Amherst, Hampshire Co., Mass. She married Horace Cutler in Massachusetts.

Edna Towne and Horace Cutler had the following children born in Amherst:

4662 i. Horace E.[10] Cutler[1184] in 1842.
4663 ii. Edmund P. Cutler[1185] in 1844.

3505. Elsina[9] Towne (Lydia[8] Whipple, Rev. Jacob[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1186] was born in Massachusetts in 1821 and married S.S. Dickinson there.

Elsina Towne and S.S. Dickinson had the following children born in Amherst, Hampshire Co., Mass.:

4664 i. Abby J.[10] Dickinson[1187] in 1841.
4665 ii. Mary W. Dickinson[1188] in 1845.
4666 iii. S. Stoors Dickinson[1189] in 1847.

3515. Maj. Gen. Amiel Weeks[9] Whipple (David[8], David[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1190] was born in Greenwich Hampshire Co., Mass. 21 October 1817. Greenwich is near Hardwick, Worcester Co., Mass. and was later inundated by the Quablin Reservoir. He died 7 May 1863 in Washington, D.C., at 45 years of age and was buried at South Cemetery, Portsmouth, Rockingham Co., N.H. He married Eleanor Mary Sherburne in Portsmouth 12 September 1843. Eleanor,[1191] daughter of Col. John Nathaniel Sherburne and Eveline Blunt, was born in Portsmouth 31 January 1824 and died 29 April 1874 in Ft. Monroe, Va., at 50 years of age.

Eleanor came from distinguished ancestry. She descended from Thomas Dudley, cousin of the Earl of Lincoln, was Governor of Massachussetts Bay Colony, Major General of the Colony's forces, and a founder of Harvard College; from Theophilus Eaton, Ambassador from Great Britain to Denmark and later first Governor of New Haven Colony; from John Wentworth, Governor of New Hampshire Colony, whose son Benning Wentworth and grandson, Sir John Wentworth, Bart., succeeded him in turn as governors; from Col. William Pepperrell, father of Maj. Gen. Sir William Pepperrell, Bart., conqueror of Louisburg from the French. Her father, John N. Sherburne, was Colonel of a New Hampshire regiment in the War of 1812, a member of the New Hampshire Legislature, U.S. Navy Agent at Portsmouth and a descendant of Sir Richard Sherburne, Bart., of Stonyhurst, Lancashire, England. Her great grandfather Capt. John Blunt guided Gen. George Washington across the ice-clogged Delaware river from Pennsylvania Christmas night 1776 where early the next morning the Americans won the Battle of Trenton, Mercer Co., N.J.

Little is known of Amiel's early life. He was raised in Concord, Middlesex Co., Mass., taught school there in 1834, and attended Amherst College 1836-37. He applied for admission to West Point at least twice before being admitted 1 July 1837, graduating 22 June 1841 fifth in his class. When Amiel enrolled, West Point was beginning its 36th year, having been formally opened 4 July 1802 during Thomas Jefferson's administration. The curiculum was established by Bvt. Maj. Sylvanus Thayer when he became Superintendent in 1817. The foundation for everything was mathematics. A math problem had one correct answer and it was the cadet's duty to find it Thayer believed that math sharpened analytical powers and taught a manner of thinking transferable to other areas of life. Engineering was the other key to Thayer's program. No deviation was permitted from these two fields of study. Gen. Winfield Scott said the Mexican War was won because of the leadership of Academy men. West Pointers were in command of 55 of the 60 major battles of the Civil War and included such Academy graduates as Robert E. Lee, Ulysses S. Grant, William Tecumseh Sherman, James Edwell Brown (Jeb) Stuart, Thomas Jonathan (Stonewall) Jackson, and Philip Henry Sheridan. West Point's Honor Code: "A cadet will not lie, cheat, or steal or tolerate those who do," built the character of most of its graduates.

Amiel was originally commissioned in the Artillery Corps but was transferred to the Topographical Engineers 28 September 1841 where until 1844, he worked on harbor projects improving navigation for New Orleans and the approaches to Baltimore, Md. and Portsmouth, N.H. Mrs. Whipple and the children lived in the Warner House which has become a Portsmouth landmark while Amiel was in the field during the Civil War. The house is among the first buildings in America to be designated a National Historic Landmark and is the first of Portsmouth's historic houses to have guidebooks in French, German, Spanish, and Japanese. Its dramatic wall murals are thought to be the oldest colonial wall paintings still in place in the U.S. Much of the original Georgian style native white pine paneling graces many of its rooms. Benjamin Franklin supervised the installation of the lighting rod on the outside of the west wall in 1763. The Sherbourne family owned the home when the Whipples lived there.

In 1844 Amiel was Assistant to Col. James Duncan Graham, the Commissioner representing the U.S. in establishing the north-eastern boundaries with Canada. From 1849 to 1853, he was in charge of the Topographical Engineers establishing the boundary between Mexico and the U.S. negotiated by the treaty which ended the war between the two countries.

The 32nd Congress authorized the Army to survey three possible routes for a transcontinental railroad and in 1853 Secretary of War, Jefferson Davis, later President of the Confederacy, assigned Whipple, then 35, to lead the south-central survey along the 35th parallel from Ft. Smith, Ark. to Los Angeles, an area mostly controlled by powerful Indian tribes. Unlike most of his military contemporaries, Whipple had a genuine interest in Indians and took great pains to establish good relationships with them. He wrote extensively on their languages and culture. The relationships he established helped explorers who came later, as Indians who remembered Whipple were willing to assist until they were mistreated.

Whipple was a competent astronomer and amateur ethnologist and his survey party was joined by a group of scientists closely associated with the Smithsonian Institution. Their route took them across Indian Territory (now Oklahoma), the Panhandle of Texas, New Mexico Territory, and present day Arizona. They forded the Colorado River 27 February 1854 and reached Los Angeles 21 March. Though no transcontinental railroad would follow the 35th parallel in its entirety, the Whipple expedition laid the foundation for change in the southwest region. A federal Wagon Road program established in 1856 led to improvement of the Whipple Trail and eventually short railroad lines moved along the route and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway followed Whipple's Trail for much of the way from Albuquerque to California.

Equally as important, the Whipple expedition expanded scientific knowledge about the heretofore mysterious country. Its reports (the Pacific Railroad Reports were published in 12 massive volumes and its maps were the first to show the contours of the trans-Mississippi West. The expedition was a "graduate school" for those scientists accompanying it and their specimens swelled the collections of the Smithsonian Institution and their reports represent a major chapter in the history of American science.

He was promoted to Captain 1 July 1855 and in 1856 was stationed at Detroit, Mich. where he was in charge of the 10th Lighthouse District and navigation on the southern Great Lakes. He improved navigation by removing obstructions between Lakes Erie, Huron, and Superior making it possible for larger craft to use these shipping routes.

At the outbreak of the Civil War, he was assigned to Washington, D.C. to develop topographical maps of the area around the nation's capital. Shortly thereafter he became Chief Topographical Engineer on the staff of Gen. Irvin McDowell, Commander of the Army of the Potomac. President Lincoln, who considered Whipple a personal friend, signed his commission as Major 26 December 1861.

Amiel was assigned to work on the defense of Washington and worked tirelessly building the fortifications from Chain Bridge down the Potomac to Alexandria, employing one Massachusetts and two New York regiments. He was McDowell's Chief Topographical Engineer at the Battle of the First Manassas[1192] and was in charge of making the maps of Northern Virginia which were used by both sides.

Charles William "Willie" Whipple wrote a short biography of his father in which he said President Lincoln was keenly interested in Amiel's work to improve the defenses of Washington. "I remember," Willie wrote, "that the President frequently came to Dad's headquarters and after a simple lunch and a glass of lemonade he rode with father to review one of his regiments or to visit one of the forts."

He was appointed Brigadier General in the Volunteers 14 April 1862 and given command of a brigade (Whipple's Brigade) later a division (Whipple's Division) and from April to October commanded forts constructed to protect Washington. His headquarters were at Arlington House (former home of Robert E. Lee). He simultaneously commanded the Army's Balloon Observation Corps and personally launched balloons from Arlington Heights. When one of the Corp Commanders gave a dinner in honor of the President, Lincoln asked that his friend, Gen. Whipple be seated beside him.

General Whipple was ordered to field duty in October 1862 and commanded the Third Division of of Maj. Gen. George Stoneman's Third Corps. In the December battle of Fredericksburg, Va. his Division supported Maj. Gen. Edwin Vose (Bull Head) Sumner's "grand division" in the attack on the Confederate left. The Army was reorganized in early 1863 and under the overall command of Maj. Gen. Joseph (Fighting Joe) Hooker marched to Chancellorsville, Va. to engage Robert E. Lee's Army of Northern Virginia. Whipple's Third Division engaged in some of the heaviest fighting and suffered some of the worst casualties in the battle fought from the first to the 4th of May. Lee was victorious and while Whipple's Division was overseeing withdrawal of Union forces towards Fredericksburg on 4 May, a Rebel sharpshooter shot him, the ball passing through his belt and exiting near his spine. He was on his horse writing an order to dislodge a rebel sharpshooter when a ball from that marksman's rifle struck.

He knew the wound was mortal and told those gathered around him that they would not meet again and that he wished them to take care of his men. He received the last rites of Catholic Church on the battlefield before being taken to Pitts Sherburne's (his brother-in-law) house in Washington where his wife and children were staying and where he died the afternoon of 7 May. President Lincoln had promoted him to Major General for Volunteers but the promotion arrived about an hour before his death and he died unaware of the honor given by a grateful country and President. He also received posthumously additional brevets for gallantry in action at Chancellorsville and for gallantry and meritorious services during the whole war.

His funeral procession on 10 May, led by his riderless horse, and President Lincoln in an open carriage began its solemn march to the Capitol from Sherburne's house. Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton and Major Generals Montgomery Cunningham Meigs and Samuel Peter Heintzelman were among those who attended his funeral. He was buried in the Sherburne family plot in the South Cemetery in Portsmouth.

The President said he attended the funeral as a friend of the family and gave the widow his autographed photograph and a presidential appointment to their oldest son, Charles William, to attend West Point. After his assassination, a note was found on his desk asking that if anything happened to him, that his successor appoint David Whipple to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. President Andrew Johnson honored the request. Grand Army of the Republic (GAR) Post No. 354 in Hall Co., Nebr. was named the A.W. Whipple Post. Amiel's death, illustrating the heavy use of sharpshooters by both sides, is depicted in an exhibit at the Chancellorsville Battlefield National Park museum.

At the time of his death another fort was being constructed to defend Washington and its earthworks were named Fort Whipple in his honor. In 1864, a fort near Prescott, Arizona was named Whipple Barracks.

Fort Whipple, Prescott, Arizona.

Unfortunately, mail was wrongly routed for the two and the Army solved the problem by renaming the first one Fort Myer in 1880 after Gen. Myer. Whipple Barracks at Prescott is a veterans domiciliary today, a parade field at Ft. Myer is named Whipple Field, and his name is inscribed on a War Memorial at West Point. Other things named for him are: A mountain range in California, the Whipple Yucca (Yucca whipplei ssp.parishii), a member of the lily family that flowers from April through July. It is a native shrub with sharp, spiked leaves radiating from a central point and was a vital plant to Native Americans. All parts are edible, including the seeds and flowers, and its fibrous leaves and stalk were used to make cordage, baskets, and other woven objects. Some six miles from Lake Havasu City, Ariz, is Whipple Bay, a scenic marshy inlet on the California side. It is a Wildlife Haven and Refuge for migrating birds. The Whipple Mountain Wilderness is in the background of the Bay in San Bernardino County, Calif. 10 miles northwest of Parker, Arizona. The landscape is diverse, ranging from valley floors and washes to steep-walled canyons, domed peaks, and eroded spires towering to 4,000 feet. Sonoran creosote bush scrub and the Sonoran thorn forest populate the area. In addition, dense stands of palo verde, ironwood, smoke tree, and cholla saguaro, fox tail, and Mojave prickly pear all grow here. This unique array of vegetation supports a variety of wildlife. Access to the eastern boundary of the wilderness is by 4-wheel drive vehicle on a power line road.

General Whipple saved much of the material generated by his various explorations and in 1950 his descendants donated the Mexican Boundary Survey, the Pacific railroad route material, and some of his diaries to the Oklahoma Historical Society. Fort Whipple at Prescott originally encompassed 1,700 acres and was established to protect miners and settlers from Indian raids. In the 1880s, when a hospital was built there, Fort Whipple was the information and entertainment center of the Prescott area. The early newspapers relied on telegraph dispatches received at the Fort and the first experimental telephones were installed there. Achille La Guardia was bandmaster of the 11th Infantry from 1892 through 1898. Several of his family members, including Fiorello, later Mayor of New York City, performed in the band. Several officers and ladies of the Fort staged theater performances to raise money for a town hospital and after a fire razed most of downtown Prescott in 1900, the Fort made its ovens available to local bakers so they could supply the devastated community with bread.

Today, mere traces remain to indicate how important the Fort was in the growth of Prescott. It was recently designated as an historic district on the National Register of Historic Places and one of its magnificent old houses on officers row is now the Fort Whipple Interpretive Center, a satellite museum of Sharlot Hall Museum in Prescott.[1193] The Interpretive Center, a joint venture of Sharlot Hall Museum and the Northern Arizona Veterans Affairs Health Care System is a 6,000 sq. ft. house and is the repository of historical data and artifacts of Fort Whipple.[1194]

Maj. Gen. Amiel Weeks Whipple and Eleanor Mary Sherburne had the following children:

4667 i. Elizabeth Sherburne[10] Whipple[1195] born in Portsmouth, and married Col. Robert Watkinson Huntington. He commanded the first Marines who landed at Guantanamo, Cuba, in the Santiago campaign of the Spanish-American War.[1196] Elizabeth was accepted into membership of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution 21 February 1903 and assigned national number #42692. Her great grandfather David Whipple served as a private in the war. She resigned her membership 3 January 1918.

\+ 4668 ii. Lt. Col. Charles William Whipple born 28 September 1846.

4669 iii. William Whipple[1197] born in Portsmouth 28 September 1846; died in infancy.

4670 iv. David Whipple[1198] was appointed to Annapolis by President Andrew Johnson and entered the Marine Corps following graduation. Among his duty stations was Dry Tortugas where he contacted yellow fever and died.[1199]

3517. George Alonzo[9] Whipple (David[8], David[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1200] was born in Greenwich, Hampshire Co., Mass. 3 May 1826 and died 20 March 1893 in Amherst, Hampshire Co., Mass. at 66 years of age. He married Hannah Nutting there 6 May 1847. Hannah,[1201] daughter of George Nutting and Judith Hastings, was born in Amherst in August 1824 and died there 27 March 1915 at 90 years of age. Hannah's grandfather, John Nutting, was a Revolutionary Soldier who fought at Ticonderoga. Another ancestor, also named John Nutting, was killed by the Indians while defending his garrison house in Groton, Middlesex Co., Mass. in 1676. George was an active real estate investor and entered into more than 20 transactions between 1853-78 [Registry of Deeds, Northampton, Hampshire Co., Mass.]. He was also a farmer and butcher and inherited his father's farm in fee with the provision he care for his parents in their old age.

George Alonzo Whipple and Hannah Nutting had the following children born in Amherst:

\+ 4671 i. Abbie Howard[10] Whipple 10 February 1849.

4672 ii. John Farwell Whipple[1202] 18 October 1851 and died there 3 December 1856, at 5 years of age.

4673 iii. Mary Emeline Whipple[1203] 12 July 1853 and died 15 April 1881 at 27 years of age. She married William Somers in Boston, Suffolk Co., Mass. 10 February 1876.

\+ 4675 v. George Amiel Whipple 20 August 1861.

3509. David M.[9] Whipple (Mathew A.[8], David[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1205] was born in Malone, Franklin Co., N.Y. 6 October 1837 and died 9 March 1892 in Huron, Beadle Co., S. Dak., at 54 years of age. He married Martha M. Olin in Canton, St. Lawrence Co., N.Y. 25 September 1856. Martha,[1206] daughter of Joseph M. Olin and Mary Ann Barrett, was born in Canton 18 November 1836 and died 29 March 1892 in Huron, at 55 years of age.

David M. Whipple and Martha M. Olin had the following children born in Canton:

\+ 4676 i. Charles E.[10] Whipple 12 November 1856.

4677 ii. Harriet Elizabeth Whipple[1207] 25 October 1861 and died 24 March 1923 at 61 years of age. She married Solomon W. Roberts in Canton 5 October 1880.

4678 iii. Archie J. Whipple[1208] 9 June 1871 and died 21 February 1918 at 46 years of age.

3522. James Madison[9] Whipple (James[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1209] was born in Greenwich, Mass.[1210] 18 November 1808 and died 30 January 1893 at 84 years of age. He married twice. (1) Gennet McRorie in Springfield, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1830. She was born in Scotland in 1812 and died in 1861 at 49 years of age.[1211] (2) Lucia Scribner in 1862. Lucia,[1212] daughter of Marcus Scribner and Cornelia Van Court, was born in 1837. He was a farmer living in Springfield in 1850.

James Madison Whipple and Gennet McRorie had the following children:

4679 i. Flora D.[10] Whipple[1213] married Dr. Burdett Warren 1 November 1870. No children born to this union.

4680 ii. Clarence A. Whipple.[1214]

4681 iii. Oscar F. Whipple[1215] born in Springfield in 1832 and was living in Otsego, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1850.

4682 iv. Elizabeth M. Whipple[1216] born in New York State in 1835 and died 3 September 1868 at 33 years of age. She married James M. Wederspoon of Hartwick, Otsego Co., N.Y. 4 January 1858. They had two children, details not provided. They were living in Otsego in 1850.

4683 v. Marcia J. Whipple[1217] born in New York State in 1838 and was living in Otsego in 1850.

4684 vi. Irving D. Whipple born in Otsego in 1846.[1218]

James Madison Whipple and Lucia Scribner had the following children:

4685 vii. Jennie Whipple[1219] born in 1864.

\+ 4686 viii. Oscar M. Whipple born 30 May 1866.

4687 ix. James Dana Whipple[1220] born in 1869.

3523. Lewis[9] Whipple (James[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1221] was born in Springfield, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1810 and married twice. (1) Maria Vibbard in Springfield. (2) Sylvia Dutcher Gilchrist in Springfield 21 November 1840. She was born 13 June 1804 and died 26 April 1884 at 79 years of age.[1222] He was a farmer in Springfield in 1850.

Lewis Whipple and Maria Vibbard had the following child born in Springfield:

4688 i. Louisa[10] Whipple[1223] in 1835 and died there in 1843, at 8 years of age.

3524. Seth J.[9] Whipple (James[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1224] was born in Springfield, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1813 and married Mary Gilchrist there. She was born in 1823.[1225] He was a farmer in Springfield in 1850.

Seth J. Whipple and Mary Gilchrist had the following children born in Springfield:

4690 ii. Mary L. Whipple in 1842.[1227]

3525. William C.[9] Whipple (James[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1228] was born in Springfield, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1815 and married twice. (1) Louisa, maybe Lura, Gardner in New York State 11 September 1836. (2) Sarah Williams in New York State 21 November 1839. He was a farmer in Otsego, Otsego Co., N. Y. in 1850.

William C. Whipple and Sarah Williams had the following child:

4691 i. Emma[10] Whipple.[1229]

3526. Electa[9] Whipple (James[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1230] was born in Springfield, Otsego Co., N.Y. 2 February 1817 and married twice. (1) Adam Truax in New York State 24 May 1832. (2) Almond W. Thayer. The Truax family lived in Pitsfield, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1850.

Electa Whipple and Adam Truax had the following children born in Pittsfield:

4693 ii. Mary A. Truax in 1835.[1232]

3527. Charles H.[9] Whipple (James[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1233] was born in Springfield, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1819 and married Octavia Delong in New York State. The family lived in Pitsfield, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1850.

Charles H. Whipple and Octavia Delong had the following child born in Pittsfield:

4694 i. Lewis[10] Whipple bef 1850.[1234]

3529. Ezra S.[9] Whipple (James[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1235] was born in New York State 9 April 1823 and married Lavinia Take of Otsego, Otsego Co., N. Y. there in 1844. He was a farmer in Otsego in 1850.

Ezra S. Whipple and Lavinia Take had the following children:

\+ 4695 i. Francis Benton[10] Whipple.
4696 ii. Jennie M. Whipple[1236] born in 1863 and died in 1938 at 75 years of age. She married Frank Congdon who died in 1943.[1237]

3532. Isaac Truax[9] Whipple (James[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1238] was born in Springfield, Otsego Co., N.Y. in 1832 and married Mary Chamberlain 23 July 1850. She was born in either 1830 or 1831.

Isaac Truax Whipple and Mary Chamberlain had the following child:

\+ 4697 i. William Isaac[10] Whipple born in 1863.

3539. Louisa[9] Johnson (Bathsheba[8] Whipple, James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1239] was born in New York State in 1815 and married Franklin Lombard. The family was living in Howell, Livingston Co., Mich. in 1850.

Louisa Johnson and Franklin Lombard had the following children born in Howell:

4698 i. Apollos[10] Lombard in 1841.[1240]
4699 ii. Caroline Lombard in 1843.[1241]
4700 iii. Levi Lombard in 1846.[1242]

3540. Franklin[9] Johnson (Bathsheba[8] Whipple, James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1243] was born in New York State in 1818 and married Sarah Sabine. The family was living in New York in 1850 where he worked as a trader.

Franklin Johnson and Sarah Sabine had the following child born in New York State:

4701 i. Henry[10] Johnson in 1844.[1244]

3545. Chiron Tracy[9] Whipple (Seth[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1245] was born in 1821 and married Carolina Hicks 10 August 1844.

Chiron Tracy Whipple and Carolina Hicks had the following child:

4702 i. Clarence F.[10] Whipple.[1246]

3549. Fennimore C.[9] Whipple (Seth[8], James[7], James[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1247] was born 23 September 1834 and married Lydia E. Clark 10 February 1862. Lydia,[1248] daughter of Thomas Clark and Armilla Carr, was born in 1838 or 1839.

Fennimore C. Whipple and Lydia E. Clark had the following children:

3590. Laurel[9] Whipple (David[8], Aaron[7], Col. Moses[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1288] was born in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. 22 February 1809 and died there of paralysis 19 April 1889, at 80 years of age. She was buried in Croydon Flat Cemetery. She married Hon. Lemuel Powers Cooper in Croydon 4 January 1831. Lemuel,[1289] son of Dea. Sherman Cooper and Mary Powers, was born in Croydon 19 July 1803 and died there of distemper 14 April 1890, at 86 years of age. He was buried in East Village Cemetery.

Educated at Newport and Claremont Academies in New Hampshire, Lemuel taught school for more than 20 winters and was long interested in management of the town schools. He employed scientific practices in farming and was the largest sheep rancher in New Hampshire. He was active politically both locally and statewide. He was a Selectman for seven terms between 1833-48, State Representative (Whig) 1844-5, State Senator 1862 and 1863, was a leader in organizing the New Hampshire Republican Party, served on the Board of Trustees of the State Reform School at Manchester, and ran for Governor against future president Franklin Pierce on an anti-slavery ticket of the Labor Reform Party. He was a strong abolitionist and his farm was part of the Underground Railroad, the last stop before entering Canada. His outspoken support of abolition caused his removal from the Croydon Congregational Church for charging in a prayer meeting in June 1843 that members of the church and its Ministers were unfriendly to him because he was an abolitionist.

Graeme G. Whytlaw, Jr., 508 SE 20th Pl., Cape Coral, Fla. 33990 provided the author his Whipple pedigree on 31 March 1989 and while it descends from Matthew Whipple of Ipswich through his son Joseph it comes forward to Laura Whipple through John, not Deacon James as is shown here. Whytlaw's descent: Matthew[1], Joseph[2], John[3], Joseph[4], Samuel[5], William[6], Laurel[7]. He had no birth, marriage, or death dates for Laurel but children he listed are the same as listed here. Whytlaw's information lacked documentation. Laurel's descent presented here is documented so the author has opted for it. Readers who descend from this line who can clarify or further document the line are encouraged to communicate their findings to the compiler. The descent from Laurel forward is as provided by Whytlaw.

Laurel Whipple and Hon. Lemuel Powers Cooper had the following children born in Croydon:

4735 i. Sherman[10] Cooper[1290] 20 August 1833. He was graduated from the New York Medical College in 1856, was employed as Deputy Resident Physician at Blackwell's Island Hospital in 1857, and settled at Claremont, Sullivan Co., N.H. in 1858. He served in the Union Army beginning in 1861 as Assistant Surgeon of the 6th Regt., N.H. Volunteers and was promoted to the rank of Surgeon in March 1863. He returned to Claremont in 1864 and resumed his practice. He was residing there in 1867.

\+ 4736 ii. Mary Powers Cooper 20 December 1834.

4737 iii. Ellen Cooper[1291] in 1841. She was educated at Kimball Union Academy and like her sister studied French in St. Marys, Canada East. Her proficiency in French was so great she instructed the language at Brattleboro, Windham Co., Vt. where she resided in 1867.

3591. Adeline[9] Whipple (David[8], Aaron[7], Col. Moses[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1292] was born in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. 1 September 1810 and died 12 October 1895 in West Newton, Middlesex Co., Mass., at 85 years of age. 3594. David C.[9] Whipple (David[8], Aaron[7], Col. Moses[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1301] was born in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. 14 June 1817 and died 5 November 1852 in Hanover, Grafton Co., N.H., at 35 years of age. He married Clementine Chandler in Hanover 1 January 1845. Clementine,[1302] daughter of Henry Hilton Chandler and Anna Wright, was born there 12 November 1818 and died 6 March 1893 in Enfield, Grafton Co., N.H., at 74 years of age. She married (2) John Wright Dodge in Hanover 1 July 1855. Clementine descends from Henry Chandler the immigrant ancestor, who with wife Annis and four children, settled in Roxbury, Suffolk Co., Mass. in 1637. David was a cabinet maker at Croydon Flats for several years before becoming a carpenter and joiner and eventually became a building contractor at Mill Village (later Etna) in Hanover. His death certificate was sent to his son Henry C. who was living at Bristol, Grafton Co.

\+ 4747 i. Henry Chandler[10] Whipple born 25 June 1846.

\+ 4748 ii. Margaret Perritt Whipple born 18 September 1851.

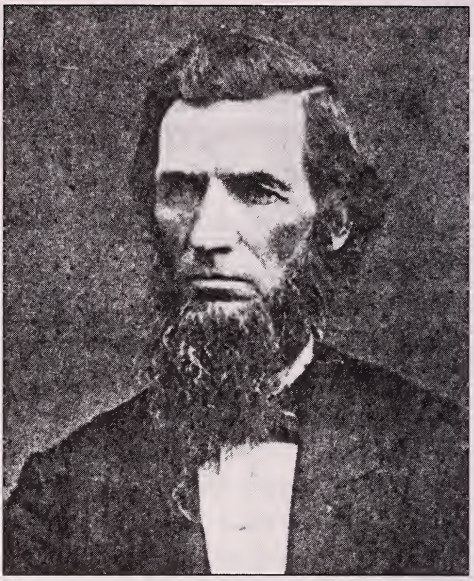
3596. Dr. Solomon M.[9] Whipple (David[8], Aaron[7], Col. Moses[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1]) was born in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. 28 July 1820 and died 16 January 1884 in New London, N.H., at 63 years of age. He married Henrietta Kimball Hersey in New Hampshire 9 June 1850. Henrietta,[1303] daughter of Amos Kimball Hersey and Dorothy Smart, was born in Sanbornton, N.H. 10 October 1830 and died 18 September 1910 in New London, at 79 years of age. Henrietta comes from a long line of pioneers, being fourth in descent from James Peter Hersey, one of the first settlers of Sanbornton. James' wife Polly Sheafe of Portsmouth was from one of the oldest families in the country. After attendance at Unity and Lebanon, N.H. Academies, Solomon entered Norwich University where he was gaduated in 1846. He pursued his medical studies at Dartmouth College and Woodstock Medical School at Burlington, Chittenden Co., Vt., graduating from the latter in 1849. He began his practice in New London that same year. He joined the New Hampshire Medical Society in 1852 and was its President in 1876. The New London town history noted he had a physical weakness which gradually undermined his health. He practiced in New London longer than any other physician and at the end endured a long illness, dying from pulmonary hemorrhage. He occasionally contributed to the medical and political journals.



Solomon M. Whipple, M. D.

Dr. Solomon M. Whipple and Henrietta Kimball Hersey had the following children:

Amos H. Whipple.

\+ 4749 i. Dr. Ashley Cooper[10] Whipple born 4 February 1852.

4750 ii. Amos Hersey Whipple[1304] born in New London 21 June 1856 and died 24 January 1916 in Boston, Mass., at 59 years of age. He was as strongly attracted to the world of business as his older brother was to medicine and his younger brother to law. At 14 he began working in his father's drug store established in 1870. He eventually owned it until selling it in 1893. In 1882 he bought the New London and Potter Place Stage Line and established livery stables at both ends of the route. He began promoting New London as a summer resort and in 1886, in partnership with Wilfred E. Burpee, converted the ladies' boarding-house on the old Academy property into the Heidelburg Hotel which became a noted and successful summer destination. He was one of four partners to build the telephone line in 1888 from New London to Potter Place. There were four telephones on the line: Whipple's Drug Store in New London, Dr. Elkin's office in Scytheville, Howard Greeley's store in Wilmont Flat, and the railroad station at Potter Place. He moved to Boston in 1893 where he operated the Nottingham, Thorndike, and Winthrop hotels and during the summer the Rockland House at Nantasket Beach. He owned and operated the Copley Square Hotel from 1900 until his death and had an interest in the Winter Place restaurant. He never married.

\+ 4751 iii. Sherman Leland Whipple born 4 March 1862.

3597. Barnabas Cooper[9] Whipple (David[8], Aaron[7], Col. Moses[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1305] was born in Croydon, Sullivan Co., N.H. 21 January 1823 and died 14 April 1908 in Biddeford, York Co., Maine, at 85 years of age. He married Sarah Jane Whitney of Newport, Sullivan Co., N.H. in Croydon 12 September 1849. (Intent to marry was published in town records without a date.) She was born in Claremont, Sullivan Co., N.H. in 1827 and died in 1924 at 97 years of age.[1306] An industrious farmer, Barnabas resided with his father on the family homestead in 1867.

Barnabas Cooper Whipple and Sarah Jane Whitney had the following children:

4752 i. Edgar Barney[10] Whipple[1307] born in Croydon 11 November 1850 and died in 1928 in Mt. Dora, Lake Co., Fla., at 77 years of age. He married Mary Jane Pollard in Hanover, Grafton Co., N.H. 18 June 1876. She may have been married to a Mr. Whitney prior to marrying Edgar. Mary,[1308] daughter of James Pollard and Mary Flower, was born 4 November 1836 and died 4 September 1914 at 77 years of age.

4753 ii. Warren L. Whipple[1309] born in Croydon 6 April 1852 and married Leona Haven.

4754 iii. Mason Elmer Whipple[1310] born in Croydon 4 March 1854 and died there of canker rash 5 June 1858, at 4 years of age. He is buried in Croydon Flat Cemetery.

625. The Atlanta campaign was the principal operation in the Western Theater during 1864. General William Tecumseh Sherman commanded 105,000 men against the Confederate army of 65,000. Sherman attempted a direct assault against Kenesaw Mountains but was repulsed, suffering 2,000 casualties to only 270 for the Confederates. However, the Confederates suffered heavy losses near Atlanta on 20-22 July and Sherman marched his Army into Atlanta unopposed on 1-2 September. The four-month campaign cost the Union more than 26,000 killed and wounded and the Confederates more than 23,000.

687. Archibald's Pennsylvania birth is established by the 1850 Warren county, Ind. and the 1860 Benton county, Iowa federal censuses. According to family tradition, his grandfather Archibald was a Scot or Ulster Scot who came to America with his wife Margaret Ramage or Rumage of Edinburgh, Scotland. The grandfather served in the British Army prior to the Battle of Bunker Hill and later deserted the British to fight with the colonial forces. He appears to have associated himself with the Scotch-Irish living in Pennsylvania where his son Thomas and grandson Archibald were born. Thomas and wife Sarah (Jackson) Kearns moved from Pennsylvania to Ohio to Indiana where Thomas had a successful private and public life in Warren County.

895. The Battle of Antietam Creek in Maryland was fought 17 Sept. 1862. Gen. George McCellan led the Union Army of approximately 87,000 and Gen. Robert E. Lee the Confederate Army of about 40,000. This was the first of Lee's attempt to take the war into the North, the other being Gettysburg. With 23,110 casualties – 12,410 Union and 10,700 Confederate —, it was the single bloodiest day of the Civil War. It was a strategic victory for the North and changed the course of the war. Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation five days later (22 September) which stopped Great Britain and France from entering the war on the Confederate side. No country could support a slave holding country in a war against a country whose avowed purpose was to free those slaves. Consequently, the Confederates had to fight on alone.

901. Fort Henry, which commanded the Tennessee river, fell to the Union Army led by Brig. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant 6 Feb. 1862. After that victory Grant's Army attacked Fort Donelson in Stewart Co. and won the day in a battle that began on 13 Feb. and ended on the 16th with the surrender of 12,000 Confederate soldiers. The Confederate general asked for surrender terms to which Grant replied, "No terms except unconditional and immediate surrender. . .or I propose to move immediately upon your works." This response gave Grant the nom de guerre "Unconditional Surrender." Estimated casualties: Union 2,331, Confederate 15,067. The loss of Fort Donelson was a catastrophe for the South. It assured Kentucky would stay in the Union and opened up Tennessee for a northern advance along the Tennessee and Cumberland rivers. The Battle of Shiloh in Hardin Co. Tenn. on 6 and 7 April 1862 was another Grant victory and forced the evacuation of Confederate troops from Tennessee and split the rebel forces along the line formed by the Mississippi river. This battle was named for a country church near the battlefield. The siege at Vicksburg, Miss. from 22 May to 4 July 1683 resulted in another Grant victory. Grant's Army numbered approximately 33,000 to nearly 60,000 Confederate troops.

907. The Battle of Atlanta on 22 July 1684 was the largest, bloodiest, and perhaps most closely fought battle of the Atlanta campaign. It involved eight hours of continuous fighting and was won by the Union forces who suffered 3,700 casualties to 7,000 for the Confederate Army.

1199. Dry Tortugas is a cluster of seven islands composed of coral reefs and sand about 70 miles west of Key West, Fla. Now a National Park, it is known for its famous bird and marine life and its legends of pirates and sunken gold. Its name comes from the fact it has no fresh water. The U..S. military, because of the strategic location in the Florida Keys, began constructing Fort Jefferson, a massive fortress, in 1846. The invention of the rifled cannon made the fort obsolete and it was never completed.

(1) Clarice Johnson Rogers in Salem, Mass. 4 September 1901. Clarice [136] was the daughter of John Riley Rogers. Clarice and Guy were divorced in 1925. (2) Helen Gross Davis in Erie, Penn. 13 October 1925. She was the daughter of Ferman Ennis Davis.[137]

Guy was an educational psychologist, a noted professor, editor, and inventor. He earned an A.B. from Brown University in 1897 and a Ph.D. at Cornell University in 1900 where he studied under E.B. Tichener. He began his career in "pure" experimental psychology, working on discrimination of tones and chords and contributed several pieces to its apparatus including the "Whipple Disk Tachistoscope" and a chronoscope before moving to the application of psychology. He began work on the landmark Manual of Mental and Physical Tests: A Book of Directions Compiled with Special Reference to the Experimental Study of School Children in the Laboratory or Classroom in 1906. It was published in 1910. This work contributed much to the standardization of test administration and was followed by a two-volume second edition in 1914-15. Also in 1914, he translated from the original German text William Stern's Psychological Methods of Testing Intelligence which introduced the new method of describing test results by means of the "Mental Quotient," later renamed the "Intelligent Quotient." He was elected to the governing council of the American Psychological Association in 1914.

He became an Associate Professor of Education at the U. of Illinois in 1914 and in 1917 joined the unique new program in applied psychology at Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh becoming one of the first professors of applied psychology in the country. He was also Acting Director of the Institute's Bureau of Salesmanship Research. He served on the famous Committee on Methods of Psychological Examining of Recruits after the outbreak of WWI and helped create the classic Army Alpha and Beta group intelligence tests. He also served as an advisory staff member to the Division of Psychology in the Surgeon General's Office, U.S. Army.

He was a Professor of Experimental Education at the U. of Michigan (1919-25) during which time he served on the National Research Council (NRC) and became a director of the National Intelligence Test which was used to test millions of school children in the 1920s. Whipple was co editor of the new Journal of Educational Psychology (1910-20) and left academia for textbook publishing when he joined Heath and Co. (1928-37) as its editor for elementary school books. He was secretary-treasurer of the National Society for the Study of Education and editor of its yearbooks for more than 25 years. He spent the latter part of his life in Clifton, Mass. which was near the Marblehead Yacht Club which he had joined as a charter member. His obituary appears in the American Journal of Psychology.

He married Mary Gage 20 September 1866. She was born 10 February 1843 and died in 1921 at 78 years of age.[280]

George served in the Civil War with Co. F, 64th regiment of New York Volunteers and was a prisoner of war after being captured at the Battle of Gettysburg in July 1864. He was 19 when he enlisted on 9 October 1861. He was 6' 2", not much of a scholar, but had read the Bible, Josephus, and Uncle Tom's Cabin. He was a farm hand working month to month when Henry V. Fuller of Little Valley, N. Y. enlisted him and a number of acquaintenances. The military pay was "$13.00 a month, board and clothes, and doctor bills." Before leaving for training, he learned of "a soldier's duty" from Edmund Watkins, a neighbor who had served in the War of 1812. His initial training was at Camp Elmira, N.Y. where he joined approximately 3,000 other recruits. Henry Fuller was second lieutenant of his company.

Following completion of basic training, the 64th was taken by rail to Washington, D.C. where it arrived the evening of 12 December at Camp R.E. Fenton located on a hill northeast of the city. They were transferred to Camp California three miles beyond Alexandria, Va. on 7 January 1862 where they spent the winter. Soldiering began in earnest in the spring when they marched to Manassas but the enemy left before they got there. George got typhoid fever and was in a hospital near Camp California for more than three months. His first battle was at Antietam. The Irish Brigade formed the first line and were "almost wiped out by a fearful volley." The 64th then charged and were on the enemy before they could reload. The enemy line broke and the 64th captured many prisoners. Following that battle they spent three days burying their dead.

In October 1862 they went into winter quarters at Falmouth where they were visited by soldiers of the 154th of N.Y., including George's uncle, Henry Francisco Whipple of Co. H. George fought in the battle of Gettysburg and was captured on 2 July trying to help Capt. Fuller, who had been shot, to the rear. George was taken to the rear of the Confederate lines where he saw his uncle Henry who had also been captured. Day and night forced marches finally got them to a Confederate rail line where they were shipped to Richmond, Va. and imprisoned at Belle Island. Henry Whipple showed up several days later and was eventually transferred to the prison at Andersonville, Ga. where he died.

George's group was paroled the end of December 1863 and exchanged for Confederate troops at City Point He weighed 192 pounds when captured and was down to 118 when released. He was sent to Annapolis, Md. where he was issued new clothing and given a 30-day furlough. In early April 1864 he was reassigned to his old regiment and participated in the battles at the Wilderness, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor, and Petersburg. While on sentinel duty 29 September at Petersburg, he was struck on the right side by a piece of shell. It was 10 days before his enlistment ended. He was hospitalized at City Point and discharged following recovery.[281]

Salamanca, he began the study of medicine. He began by working with Dr. Henry Learned, his future father-in-law, and then studied at the Eclectic Medical Institute at Cincinnati, Ohio where he earned an M.D. degree in January 1876. He practiced at Randolph, N. Y. for three years before entering the Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital in Chicago where he studied homeopathy, receiving a degree in 1880.[303] He began a practice in Quincy in the spring of 1880 which ended upon his retirement in 1927. He was one of the leading physicians in Quincy and one of the best known Masons in Illinois. He joined Cattaraugus Lodge No. 239 18 April 1868 and affiliated with Quincy Lodge No. 296 on 7 April 1882. He was awarded Masonry's highest degree including grand commander of the Knights Templar in 1905-06

His retirement was prompted by failing health and he moved to the home of his son Arthur in Benton Harbor, Mich. several months before his death. He died of a heart attack. His funeral services were held in Quincy's Masonic Temple 17 November with Rev. A.S. Chapman, pastor of the Vermont Street Methodist church officiating. Quincy lodge was in charge of the services at Woodland Cemetery. Governor-elect Louis L. Emmerson, grand master of Illinois, sent flowers.[304] By will dated 19 June 1928, he distributed his various Masonic jewels and awards to sons Henry, Merritt, Arthur, and William and grandsons H. Reed and Paul Whipple. Arthur was given two-fifths of the remainder of his estate with the balance divided equally among Henry, Merritt, and William.

Andrew J. Harkness in Salamanca, N.Y, 12 December 1863. She Married at 15 and cared for her 10 children until they were grown and fed and did laundry for a number of laborers who worked for her husband in the lumbering business. At the same time she found time to read about a variety of subjects. When she was 63, her brother Spencer said she was "the best read woman of my acquaintenance" and was in "perfect health without a gray hair" and able to do more work than most younger women. The Harkness family was living in the state of Washington in 1911.[309] 4161. James Spencer[10] Whipple (Henry Francisco[9], Joseph[8], David[7], Samuel[6], Samuel[5], Cyprian[4], Lt. John[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1]) was born in Steamburg, N.Y. 1 October 1852 and died 1 April 1941 at 88 years of age. He married twice. (1) Sarah R. Dean in New York State 25 November 1873. Sarah,[325] daughter of Seymour Dean and Margaret Everts, was born in New York State in 1848 and died there 30 August 1928, at 80 years of age. (2) Amy Tucker of Albany, N. Y. in 1930. She was born in 1870 and died in 1957 at 87 years of age. She was buried at Salamanca's Wildwood Cemetery.

James went from living in a log house in Newton Run, Salamanca, to high political office in his county and state and became a nationally known conservationist. He lost his father at age 12 and began work driving an ox team hauling white oak logs down the slopes of Cattaraugus county's North Mountain (on whose summit he had a summer home in later years) to a barrel mill on the west end of Salamanaca. He then worked at a sawmill before moving to Toledo, Ohio where he learned the steamfitter's trade. At 21, missing the Allegheny River Valley, he returned to Salamanca to work nights for the Erie Railroad as a switchman. He advanced to car dispatcher, clerk in the freight office, clerk in the ticket office, and ticket agent. During the days he studied in a local law office and was admitted to the bar in June 1881.

He became interested in politics early in life and rose rapidly in a public career which claimed most of his adult years. At 27, he was elected Coroner and Justice of the Peace. In 1887, he was elected to the first of four term in the State Assembly followed by election as Chairman of the County Board of Supervisors. He served as United States Commissioner for several years and was Clerk of the New York State Senate, 1898-1905, the longest term anyone had held up to that time.

During his legislative career he was a member of the Judiciary Committee and Chair of both the General Laws and Insurance Committees and of a special committee formed in 1888 to investigate the affairs of New York Indians. His committee visited every reservation in the state and its report called for the repeal of all existing laws relating to Indians except those prohibiting the sale of liquor and intrusions upon their lands, to extend state laws over them, and to absorb them into citizenship. In March 1898, he introduced a bill into the Assembly, "An Act to Provide for the Welfare of the Indians of the State," which embodied most of the recommendation of his Committee. The bill was extremely controversial and was defeated.

He was appointed Commissioner of Forests, Fish and Game in 1905. During his six-year term, great progress was made in the work of preserving the forests and in creating a public sentiment for conserva-tion of all the state's natural resources. A conservationist when that field was in its infancy, he traveled the state urging the planting of trees and other conservation policies, delivering over 600 speeches on forestry and conservation of natural resources. He originated the idea of observation towers to detect forest fires, compelled railroads to use oil burning locomotives in the forest reserve, secured passage of the law allowing the governor to close the forests in periods of fire danger, established the first state game reserve, and issued the first state hunting licenses. He, along with Gov. Charles Evan Hughes, represented New York at a conservation convention convened by Pres. Theodore Roosevelt in Washington, D.C. in 1908 where he was one of the speakers. He resigned 3 October 1910 and returned to Salmanaca to resume the practice of law with his son Burdette. During his law practice he represented the State Excise Department and as a Referee in workmen's compensation cases. Gov. Alfred E. Smith appointed him to the State Industrial Board in 1927 (he was 75) and he served until his 80th birthday when he retired.

He was active in Salamanca's literary societies, was a member of Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Elks, and Masons. He was a member of the Salamanaca Club, the Albany Club, and the Republican Club of New York City. He got the flu in Florida where he was visiting with his wife Amy and appeared to recover but suffered a relapse and was enroute home by train when he died. His funeral was held in Salamanca 4 April and he was buried in the family plot in Wildwood Cemetery. The New York Section of the Society of American Foresters dedicated a plaque to his memory on 6 September 1941. William G. Howard wrote and published a booklet about his achievements in 1942.

	5230	xiv.	Eva Norton[432] born in Highland Co. in 1875.

4273. William Henry[10] McKinley (Angeline[9] Whipple, Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[433] was born 21 December 1849 and died 25 March 1931 at 81 years of age. He married Charlotte Eliza Gould in Benton Co., Iowa, 14 January 1875. She was born 6 August 1854.[434] According to the 1895 Benton Co. state census her birth place was New York State.

She died 1 February 1938 in Benton Co., at 83 years of age.[435] William settled his family in Harrison Township near Vinton in 1878. His farm was about seven miles north of Vinton along the Cedar River. He was known as the "Sorghum King," served on the Harrison Township school board, and was an active member of the Vinton Methodist church and the Benton county Democratic Party. He served on the credentials committee of the July 1894 county convention.[436] His holdings in 1917 included 282 acres in Section 16, 80 acres in Section 9, and 60 acres in Section 15, all in Harrison Township.

William Henry McKinley and Charlotte Eliza Gould had the following children:

	5231	i.	George Walter[11] McKinley[437] born in Green Hill, Warren Co., Ind. 21 or 26 February 1876 and died 4 December 1936 at 60 years of age. He married Emma Geiger 3 May 1904. Emma,[438] daughter of George Geiger and Mercey Bench, was born 6 November 1879 and died 26 February 1951 at 71 years of age. They are buried in Benton County's Bear Creek Cemetery
+	5232	ii.	Angeline McKinley born 22 October 1877.
+	5233	iii.	James Hiram McKinley born 26 February 1879.
+	5234	iv.	Janette McKinley born 29 September 1880.
	5235	v.	Estella McKinley[439] born in Vinton, Benton Co., Iowa 1 March 1883 and died there 19 April 1911, at 28 years of age. Shr is buried in Vinton's Maplewood Cemetery.
+	5236	vi.	William Archibald McKinley born 13 September 1885.
+	5237	vii.	Grover Cleveland McKinley born 1 December 1886.
+	5238	viii.	John Carlysle McKinley born 1 November 1888.
+	5239	ix.	Lura McKinley born 29 August 1890.

+	5241	xi.	Merton Wallace McKinley born 13 May 1895.
+	5242	xii.	Elizabeth McKinley born 1 September 1897.
	5243	xiii.	(Daughter) McKinley[440] born in Cedar Township, Benton Co. 1 September 1897 and died the day of birth.

4277. Evaline[10] Holtz (Lavina[9] Whipple, Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[441] was born in Eugene, Vermillion Co., Ind. abt 1842 and died in Bement, Platt Co., Ill. She married John W. Craig who was born in Ohio abt 1838.[442] John was in the livery business and Evaline was a teacher in the Eugene Sunday School in 1866. Her sisters Mary and Viila were among her students.

Evaline Holtz and John W. Craig had the following children:

5244 i. Alice[11] Craig[443] born abt 1872, probably in Eugene. She married Ross R. Fuller. Alice was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution through the service of her great great grandfather Nehemiah Whipple who was a private in Capt. Simeon Wright's company of Vermont militia, Col. Gideon Warren's regiment in 1779. The DAR record incorrectly identifies Nehemiah's birth place as Rhode Island. He was born in Hardwick, Mass. Alice's DAR ID No. is 49686.

5245 ii. Claude Craig born abt 1877,[444] probably in Eugene.

4278. Mary[10] Holtz (Lavina[9] Whipple, Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[445] was born in Eugene, Ind., probably in 1844 or 1846. The Eugene federal census of 1850 gives her birth year as 1844, the 1860 census gives it as 1846. She married (__) Coffin.

Mary Holtz Coffin had the following child born in Bement, Ill.:

5246 i. Bessie[11] Coffin.[446]

4280. Angeline[10] Whipple (Eliza Roxana[9], Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[447] was born in Warren Co., Ind. in 1842 and died 15 December 1887 in Vinton, Iowa, at 45 years of age. She married Samuel Aungst in Vinton 24 January 1860. Samuel was born abt 1834 and died 12 September 1888 in Benton Co., Iowa, at 54 years of age.[448] His death was reported as follows: "One of the worst accidents that ever occurred in this county happened Sunday afternoon 9 September at Mr. S. Aungst's lime kiln. Mr. Aungst went into the lime kiln to draw off some lime. When he opened the slide, instead of lime falling, almost a ton of fine dust—red hot—enveloped him and what might be said cooked him. He died about 3 a.m. 12 September. A funeral, conducted by Rev. A.W. Fuller, was held that afternoon. Aungst was proprietor of one of the finest lime kilns in the state. He had built up his business until it extended over a large territory. His wife preceeded him in death. Several orphan children are left."[449] Since her mother wasn't married until 18 September 1845, it appears Angeline was born out of wedlock. When she married Samuel Aungst, the Benton county marriage record gives her maiden name as Whipple. She was an invalid for years and suffered much prior to her death.

Angeline Whipple and Samuel Aungst had the following children born in Benton County:

5247 i. Joseph[11] Aungst.[450]
5248 ii. Frank Aungst.[451]
5249 iii. Lucy Aungst.[452]
5250 iv. Harry Aungst.[453] His given name may have been Henry.
5251 v. Minnie Aungst.[454]
5252 vi. James Aungst aft 16 October 1867.[455]

4281. Frances A.[10] Gardner (Eliza Roxana[9] Whipple, Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[456] was born in Warren Co., Ind., maybe in 1847 but probably in 1850.[457] The probate records of her mother's estate state she was age 39 on 16 October 1889. Her younger half-brother Hiram was the source of the information. She married Harper Scott in Vinton, Iowa. He died aft September 1902. Harper owned a hotel at Reinbeck, Iowa which he sold and returned to Vinton in September 1902.[°]

Frances A. Gardner and Harper Scott had the following children born in Vinton:

\+ 5253 i. Eliza May[11] Scott.
\+ 5254 ii. Will Scott.
5255 iii. Louis Scott[459] married Susan Emery. They had a child, name not provided, who died in infancy.
\+ 5256 iv. Hiram Harper Scott.
5257 v. Holland M. Scott abt 1868 and married Gertrude Warner in Benton Co., Iowa 11 January 1900.[460] Holland was a first sergeant in Co. G, 49th regt. of the Iowa National Guard and was called to active duty during the Spanish American War. He had two brothers, names not provided, who were members of the same company.[461]

4283. Hiram Whipple[10] Kearns (Eliza Roxana[9] Whipple, Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[462] was born in Vermillion Co., Ind. 14 August 1853 and died 13 February 1936 in Benton Co., Iowa, at 82 years of age. He married Mar- garet E. Benson in Benton Co. 3 December 1884. Margaret, daughter of Henry C. Benson and Fannie Hilton, was born in Benton Co. in 1866 and died 1953 in Vinton, Iowa, at 87 years of age.[463] Hiram and Margaret are buried in Section 18, Maplewood Cemetery. Hiram's parents moved to Iowa from Indiana when he was a year old settling on a farm three miles west of Vinton where his father farmed until his death in 1865, age 56. His mother was 15 years younger than his father and 15-year-old Hiram, the oldest, had to help her run the farm and care for the younger children. He married at 31 and began farming on his own, eventually acquiring 265 acres in Taylor Township, Benton Co.[464] He was the Republican nominee for Benton Co. supervisor in 1908 but withdrew from the race on the recommendation of his doctor. He suffered a nervous breakdown caused by heat stroke while working in a stone quarry. "There is scarcely any doubt he would have won the office had his health permitted him to conduct the campaign He is known by all to be honest and upright, just the kind of man to be entrusted with county affairs. There is universal regret in both parties that illness caused him to withdraw."[465] He was administrator of his uncle Cyrenius Whipple's estate in 1901-02.

Hiram Whipple Kearns and Margaret E. Benson had the following children born in Benton Co.:

5258	i.	Milo E.[11] Kearns[466] and lived in Dallas, S. Dak.
5259	ii.	Ora H. Kearns[467] and married John E. Johnson.
5260	iii.	Clifford P. Kearns.[468]
5261	iv.	Henry A. Kearns[469]
5262	v.	Lola Kearns 8 October 1893[470] and died 15 October 1893 in Vinton, at 1 week of age.[471]
5263	vi.	Blanche K. Kearns[472] in 1898 and married Walter Steinmetz.
5264	vii.	Florence L. Kearns[473] in 1903 and married (__) Lynk.

4285. Dr. Archibald Jackson[10] Kearns (Eliza Roxana[9] Whipple, Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[474] was born in Vinton, Iowa 11 October 1858 and died 15 June 1917 in Loup City, Sherman Co., Nebr., at 58 years of age. He married Elsie Matilda Viles in Vinton 24 November 1887. Elsie,[475] daughter of Jotham Sewall Viles and Sarah D. Frost, was born in Delavan, Walworth Co. Wisc. 19 February 1864 and died 14 May 1936 in Salina, Saline Co., Kans., at 72 years of age. Elsie's family moved to Benton County when she was seven months old. She was educated in the country school near the family farm following which she attended Tilford Collegiate Academy in Vinton. After their marriage she operated the Loup City telephone exchange in their home, occasionally taught in the public schools, and was active in the Order of Eastern Star, her church, and community. Their sons were educated at home through the seventh grade by their parents. She is buried at Loup City.

Archibald was a product of the Vinton public schools and the Tilford Collegiate Academy (class of June 1882). He was apprenticed to a Vinton doctor before attending Missouri Medical College and later the medical department of Washington University (St. Louis) graduating in March 1886. He practiced in Sherman county until his death of arteriosclerosis in 1917. He arrived in Loop City on the Kearney to Black Hills Stage as the railroad was not built until after his arrival. He was both a physician and surgeon and served as the county medical examiner. He was also the assigned surgeon in the area for the Burlington and Missouri River Railroad for 10 years. He was a Republican who supported William McKinley for President in 1896 and wrote to the Vinton Eagle that September that folks in Benton County "need not fear that Nebraska will go for free silver," which was the main plank in Nebraska's William Jennings Bryan's campaign as the Democratic nominee.[476]

Dr. Archibald Jackson Kearns and Elsie Matilda Viles had the following children:

\+ 5265 i. Rev. Raymond Viles[11] Kearns born 22 May 1889.

\+ 5266 ii. Rev. Archibald Jackson Kearns born 11 February 1891.

4286. Perry Nathan[10] Kearns (Eliza Roxana[9] Whipple, Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[477] was born in Benton Co., Iowa 9 July 1861 and died 4 May 1921 at 59 years of age. He married Willamena A. Turner in Benton Co. 21 October 1886. She was born in Vinton, Iowa 7 May 1864.[478] Perry was a successful Benton county farmer in Jackson Township and Willa was from Taylor Township. They were married by Rev. D.W. McLane.

Perry Nathan Kearns and Willamena A. Turner had the following children:

5267 i. Pearl N.[11] Kearns[479] born 15 July 1888 and died in Waterloo, Black Hawk Co., Iowa.

5268 ii. Nina Kearns[480] was born in Vinton 30 May 1895 and died in 1961 in Dixie, Wash., at 66 years of age. She married Frank Knowlton.

4287. William Perry[10] Whipple (Cyrenius Thomas[9], Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[481] was born in Taylor Township, Benton Co., Iowa 26 December 1856 and died 6 June 1910 in Vinton, Iowa, at 53 years of age. He was known as W.P. He married twice. (1) Katherine D. Joyce in Vinton 7 September 1881. Katie,[482] daughter of Patrick Joyce and Mary Donelan, was born near Mt. Auburn in Benton Co. 28 July 1858 and died of puerperal peritonitis 14 April 1886 in Vinton, at 27 years and ten months of age. She was a graduate of St. Mary's Academy, Notre Dame, Ind. and was a favorite teacher and assistant principal in the Vinton high school before her marriage. Her funeral on 16 April, drew an overflow crowd to the Catholic church and she was buried with her parents in the Catholic Cemetery west of Vinton. Years later their remains were moved to the George Gale lot in Vinton's Evergreen Cemetery just across the road from the James E. and Ellen Whipple plot. The Joyce graves are unmarked as their stones were not moved from the Catholic Cemetery. Vinton Lodge No. 83, I.O.O.F. passed a resolution of respect on 19 April which Resolved, That in the decease of Mrs. Whipple we recognize the lamentable fact that [we have] lost a warm friend, society one of its brightest and most exemplary ornaments, the husband a true, devoted, and estimable companion, and the little ones left to a father's care, an affectionate and ever watchful mother. W.P. moved to his parents farm home in early May so he had some female help in raising his two-and three-year-old sons.[483]

William Perry Whipple.

(2) Jennie Keith in Vinton 18 October 1887. She was born 24 June 1861 and died 11 November 1959 in Vinton, at 98 years of age.[484] W. P. and Jennie are buried in Section 18 of Maplewood Cemetery in Vinton. They were married at 8:30 p.m. at her mother's home with Rev. E.H. Avery of the Presbyterian church officiating. About 100 guests were in attendance for the ceremony held in the north parlor which was "elegantly" decorated with flowers. Jennie was a school teacher before her marriage. They moved into a home on the western edge of town which W.P. had purchased about four months previously and constructed an addition, new barn, and fence.

W. P. attended the common schools near Vinton and entered the U. of Iowa in 1873, graduating from the collegiate department in June 1877 and from the law department in June 1878. He was a member of the Zetha-gathian Society and was its representative at the commencement exercises in 1876. He was one of five selected by the faculty to compete in the junior oratorical contest coming in third. He was awarded first prize in June 1878 for the best essay on the subject: "Should the Grand Jury be Abolished?" He began the practice of law in Vinton 14 August 1878 in partnership with E.L. King, a graduate of the Agricultural College at Ames, under the firm name of King and Whipple. W.P. was elected city attorney in 1879, '80, '82, '83, '84, '85, '86. In November 1883 he formed a partnership with Horace E. Warner, a graduate of Wisconsin's Beloit College. Warner, a man of great literary talent, was a frequent contributor to the Century Magazine, the Atlantic Monthly, and other publications.

W. P. added a real estate office in 1884 and became a major broker of town and farm properties. In 1886 he entered the mortgage business and in 1887 the insurance business. He also invested in farm property and residential property in town, including the W.P. Whipple subdivision in partnership with his father, and business property, including joint ownership with H.J. Wilcox of the Watson Opera House which they purchased in July 1900 for $6,000.

The Vinton Eagle of 4 Jan. 1887 contained a display advertisement as follows:

W.P. Whipple, Attorney at Law. Will loan money at a low rate of interest, negotiate the purchase and sale of mortgages and notes, pay taxes, correct defective titles, rent houses and farms, take depositions, write and acknowledge deeds, and all other legal instructions. COLLECTIONS A SPECIALITY. Foreign collections made through the agencies of the Continental Collection Union, established in all the commercial cities of the United States, Canada, and Europe. MICHIGAN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, DETROIT, MICHIGAN writes favorable policies and pays losses promptly. Cash and paid up values endorsed on all endowment policies. Loans money on approved security at low rates and for long time. Address or apply to W. P. Whipple, agent.

He was also solicitor for the Vinton Savings, Loan, and Building Assn. and in January 1895 was elected an Association director. He was a director of the Vinton Savings Bank whose charter was issued in June 1900; an incorporator and treasurer of the Benton County Telephone Co. which offered service countywide as well as to LaPorte in Blackhawk and Brandon in Buchanan counties. The company was formed in response to farmer's need for service.

Real estate transactions became a major part of his business. He made John R. Christie, who was studying law with him, a partner in charge of the real estate department. They advertising land in Minnesota, Nebraska, and Kansas including 250,000 acres in Trego and Graham counties Kansas as well as local properties. Whipple was also serving as trustee for parties making loans on properties. The firm joined the National Real Estate Association in the fall of 1887 and in an advertisement in the Vinton Eagle of 19 November claimed the firm "had more sales than all other Vinton agencies combined." He sold the real estate business in December 1888 to J.E. Whipple, his cousin, who had recently moved to Vinton from Sidell, Ill.

In January of 1888 he merged his law firm with G.M. Gilchrist, one of the leading lawyers in the northeastern part of the state. The Eagle editor called them "men of good judgment, safe counselors, and opined that business entrusted to their care will receive strict attention." He predicted the firm would become one of the strongest law firms in the area. However, Gilchrist was appointed judge of the 17th District in January 1889 so Whipple formed a partnership with Cato Sells, a Vinton native who gave up a practice in LaPorte to return to Vinton. Sells was an active member of the Democratic Party and after his return was named chairman of the Eugene caucus and the county Democratic convention. The firm was named Whipple & Sells. Gilchrist was defeated in his effort to be elected district judge in his own right in the November 1889 election and returned to his law partnership with Whipple. Sells opened his own law office and was appointed U.S. Attorney for the northern district of Iowa by Pres. Grover Cleveland in January 1894. Gilchrist retired in May of 1893 and Whipple continued as a solo practioner until June of 1894 when Morris Zollinger, a Vinton native and recent graduate of the U. of Iowa law school, joined the firm which was renamed Whipple & Zollinger. Zollinger left the firm in September 1896 to begin a practice in Northwood, Iowa. In October, W.P. induced his old partner, Judge Gilchrist, to end his retirment in Mississippi and return to the firm as a partner. In December of 1898, the firm associated with S. R. Montgomery, former superintendent of schools in Belle Plaine, and opened a branch office in that town under the name Gilchrist, Whipple & Montgomery. Frank Brown, Gilchrist's son-in-law and two-term county judge in Buffalo Co., Nebr. joined the firm's Vinton office in the fall of 1901.

W.P. was among the most active public men in the community and was often called on to be the main speaker at Decoration Day and Fourth of July celebrations. He was a member of the Vinton school board and served as its President. He also served on the local temperance committee and was a delegate to a number of its state conventions. He was one of the organizers and stockholders of a company that built a 2-story home at Harvey, a temperance town, seven miles from the 1993 Chicago World's Fair. The home was divided into eight rooms which the stock-holders occupied while attending the fair and rented to other friends and neighbors who attended for $1 a day. He was a member of the Vinton Chapter of the IOOF serving as Noble Grand in 1888.

He was a Republican and served as chair and secretary of the county central committee and regularly attended local, district, judicial, and state nominating conventions and was a delegate to the National Republican League Convention in Denver in June 1894. He was one of the organizers of Vinton's Young Men's Republican Club whose members had to be under age 35.

In June 1895, he purchased the Keith property on the corner of Whipple and Brackett streets, considered one of the best corners in town, and built a 2-story colonial home designed by architect W.F. Murphy. It was 41.4 x 53.3 feet with the main floor featuring a reception hall, a library, a sitting room, a dining room, and a kitchen. The second story was divided into four chambers and a bathroom. The exterior had porches on both the east and south sides with open balconies. It was plumbed and wired for electricity. The family moved in in October 1896. The home was assessed for tax purposes at $6,000 (real market value $24,000) in 1899. Only three other properties in Vinton were valued higher.

Beginning in 1901 he was elected to five terms in the Iowa State Senate (29th through the 33rd General Assemblies, after receiving the unanimous nomination for State Senator (45th district). He led the Republican ticket in the fall election in both Benton and Tama counties, winning by 1,016 votes. In 1908 his Vinton supporters urged him to seek the Republican nomination for Congress but he declined because Bernard Murphy of Vinton was the announced candidate for Lieutenant Governor and Whipple didn't think another Vintonite should seek endorsement for a major office.

He played a prominent role in the legislature, especially in the areas of law and education. He was a member of the Judiciary Committee during all sessions, and was Chair of the Insurance Commission. Among his more notable accomplishments was passage of the Whipple bill which authorized a State Educational Board with authority to manage the State University, State Agricultural College and State Normal School. Following adjournment of the 30th session (1904) the Des Moines Register and Leader named him one of the Senate's leading members writing that "lawyer Whipple's solid judgment and his legal attainment made him a power." He was chair of the insurance committee and a strong member of the judiciary committee and Chair of an Interim Committee to investigate the state educational institutions. In 1905 he endorsed a statewide primary and encouraged the coming session to adopt the idea.

After his death a colleague, Sen. Shirley Gillilland, had this to say about Whipple: "Senator Whipple was the author of many important measures. But they were not a measure of his value to the state. He was, when necessary, a power on the floor, but he was relatively stronger and more helpful in the committee room, where his keen analysis, broad grasp, large information, and splendid reasoning powers made him invaluable to his colleagues. He would have made an Attorney General surpassed by none in the state's history. There was enough of the executive in his endownments to have rendered him illustrious as the head of our commonwealth. He was however, more markedly a judicial temper. His well-stored mind, his mastery of the law as a science, his clearness of reasoning, his ability to recall precedent and apply principle would have brought him fame as a member of our Supreme Court. He was loved and trusted by us all."

When Co. G. of the Iowa National Guard returned to Vinton from service in Cuba during the Spanish-American War in May 1899, W. P. delivered the address of welcome. His cousin, J. E. Whipple, quartermaster sergeant, responded on behalf of the Company. He also presented W. P. a unique souvenir — a large paper weight made of a section of a palm tree with the name Whipple in relief and two small pieces of wood from the battleship USS Maine embedded in its surface.[485]

William Perry Whipple and Katherine D. Joyce J had the following children:

5269 i. Cyrenius J.[11] Whipple[486] born in Benton Co. 1 October 1882 and died there 16 June 1897, at 14 years of age. Known as Rene, he died by drowning in the Cedar River about two miles below Vinton. He was at a picnic with 15 to 20 other children and went swimming in deep water. Several boys tried unsuccessfully to save him. He body wasn't found until 5 p.m. the next day. Because of the condition of the body, the funeral was held that evening at the family home with 500 friends in attendance. Services were conducted by Dr. Avery of the Presbyterian church and the large funeral cortege wended its way slowly to Maplewood Cemetery where he was buried in the family plot.[487]

\+ 5270 ii. Milo Robert Whipple born 13 March 1884.

5271 iii. Charles Whipple[488] born in Vinton 24 March 1886 and died there bef 14 April 1886, at less than 1 month of age. Charles' mother died 14 April and the news of her death as reported in the Vinton Eagle of 16 April 1886 noted "Two bright children are left to the sorrowing husband."

William Perry Whipple and Jennie Keith had the following child born in Vinton:

\+ 5272 iv. Virginia K. Whipple17 October 1902.

4288. Milo Enoch[10] Whipple (Cyrenius Thomas[9], Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[489] was born in Benton Co., Iowa 16 September 1858 and died 16 March 1934 of a stroke of paralysis in Vinton, Iowa, at 75 years of age. He married Charlotte L. Barr in Clinton, Clinton Co., Iowa, 20 September 1881. Charlotte,[490] daughter of John W. Barr and Charlotte Davis, was born in Vinton in 1858 and died there 24 March 1926, at 67 years of age. Both were buried in Section 18, Maplewood Cemetery. Obituary:

> Friends of Mrs. Milo E. Whipple who came to Vinton several weeks ago from Groton, Vt. for medical treatment were shocked to learn of her death early this morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Manwell, where she had been rooming. Suffering from asthma and complications, Mrs. Whipple decided to consult her old family physican in Vinton. Her condition improved rapidly after her arrival here, but last week she contracted the flu. She was downtown Saturday and Sunday. Last evening she became suddenly worse. In her weakened condition she could not withstand another attack. Funeral arrangements await word from Mr. Whipple and other members of the family. Mrs. Whipple was a daughter of the late Capt. Barr of Vinton. She was born and reared in Benton County. For many years the Whipple family farmed in Taylor Township, operating the farm northwest of Vinton on the Red Ball. Some years ago they went to Montana and operated a ranch near Glendive. Five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Whipple went to Groton, Vt. Surviving Mrs. Whipple are the husband and three children, a son and two daughters. The son Dudley lives in the West, and the daughters are Mrs. Maud Andrus of Allegan, Mich. and Mrs. Stanley Furman of Groton, Vt. There are several grandchildren. Mr. Whipple has not been able to get out the last few months because of a severe attack of rheumatism.[491] The funeral of Mrs. Milo Whipple will be held Monday morning at ten o'clock from the Vinton M.E. church. Burial in Maplewood cemetery. Mr. Whipple arrived in Vinton yesterday from Groton, Vt. and a daughter, Mrs. Maud Andrus of Allegan, Mich. will reach Vinton tomorrow.[492]

Milo's family lived in Taylor township about two miles northwest of Vinton. A Susan Warner, 17, was living with the family in 1895 according to the Iowa state census. In January 1888 they lost their home and part of their furniture in a fire caused by a defective flue. It was discovered too late to contain and the loss was estimated to be $1,800. It was insured for $800. Milo contracted with Jacob Couts to build a 28 x 28 2-story frame dwelling in the spring.[493] Like his older brother W.P., Milo was active in the county Republican party often representing Taylor Township at the county convention. He was also a director of the West Limits school and President of the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Co. He was known for raising and selling at auction fine stock of thoroughbred shorthorn cattle and grade Norman and Roadster horses. His "Iron Clad" and "American Wonder" potatoes, which he sold to the public, were considered the best available. He was appointed to take the 1900 U.S. census for Taylor township. The family moved to Glendive, Mont. (date unknown) where they operated a ranch until moving to Groton, Vt. abt 1921. Milo moved back to Vinton from Groton in 1930.

Milo Enoch Whipple and Charlotte L. Barr had the following children born in Benton Co.:

5273 i. Dudley H.[11] Whipple[494] and married Grace Deer. He was living in Everett, Wash. in December 1900. His letter dated 12 December describing the business and weather in the Puget Sound area was published in the Vinton Review of 27 Dec. 1900. He joined the 13th Cavalry, about April 1901 and in August was stationed at Ft. Meade, S. Dak., two miles from Sturgis arriving at Sturgis from San Francisco by train. He was living in Oak Harbor, Wash. at the time of his father's death in 1934.

5274 ii. Hiram D. Whipple 10 July 1883.[495]

\+ 5275 iii. Maude Maree Whipple 6 September 1885.

5276 iv. Charlotte Whipple[496] in 1892 and married (__) Surmon. Charlotte was living in Groton, Vt. at the time of her father's death in 1934. Her name was listed as Jeanie in the 1895 Iowa state census for Taylor Township.

4289. Selmon Thomas[10] Whipple (Cyrenius Thomas[9], Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[497] was born in Taylor Township Benton Co., Iowa 20 August 1861 and died there 30 July 1912, at 50 years of age. He married Anna C. Edwards in Taylor Township 8 January 1885. Anna[498] daughter of Albert Thornton Edwards and Martha Jane Brewer, was born in Vinton, Benton Co., Iowa 27 October 1866 and died there 10 September 1948, at 81 years of age. Both are buried in Section 18, Maplewood Cemetery. Anna, the oldest of 11 children, was graduted from high school at 17 with a teaching permit. During high school she worked as an apprentice in a millinery shop and later used that talent in making her own hats—big plumes for fall and winter hats, flowers for spring and summer hats. Her daughters loved to parade in those big plumed hats pretending they were fancy ladies. She had been taught to sew and after marrying at age 18, she made most of the family's clothes with an old pedal sewing machine. She also crocheted lace for petticoats, knitted mittens, and was constantly darning and patching. She was an excellent cook and baker and made six large loaves of bread every other day. She also kept two large stone cookie jars full—one with sugar cookies, one with molasses cookies. There were no cookie monsters in the family because the kids could help themselves whenever they wanted.

Sell's father purchased the William Porterfield farm west of town in January 1887 for Sell to operate and his oat harvest that August averaged 40 bushels per acre. His dairy was one of the first to install a telephone after the service became available. The family home was destroyed by fire the following March. Fortunately most of the loss was covered by insurance and they built a new home with 10 rooms, a furnace, a bathroom, a green marble fireplace, and acetylene lights at a cost of over $3,000. While it was being built, the familhy lived in a large tent. [499]

Sell was elected Taylor Township Assessor in November 1896. Because his brother, W. P., died before making provisions for a substitute trustee to manage the property willed to Sell by their father, Sell petitioned the court to appoint J.G. Carrier in W.P.'s place. The court did, requiring Carrier to post a $10,000 bond. Carrier determined that Sell would not "waste or squander" the 40 acres left in trust for him and would honor a $1,000 note owned to G.M. Gilchrist and a $4,000 mortgage owed to the Vinton Savings Bank and ended the trust 30 December 1910 by conveying the land and obligations to Sell.

Sell died at 1:40 p.m. 30 July 1912 twelve weeks and four days after falling from his machine shed while repairing its roof (3 May). He fell on his head and shoulders, broke one wrist, sprained the other, and injured his back causing paralysis from the chest down. After a week in bed it seemed as if he was regaining some movement but the improvement soon ended and he suffered a great deal until his death. His son Frank preceded him in death and he was survived by his wife and 12 children, the youngest 18 months old. His obituary said "he was known throughout this section of the county as one of the biggest-hearted and kindest of men and would be mourned by many." His funeral, held at the family home, was attended by both farm and city folk. The line of carriages extended from the home to Maplewood Cemetery. Rev. Reavis of the Christian Church officiated.

When Sell died, Anna was given a life estate in all his property. Their 12 children would share equally in his estate following her death. Nine children were still at home and she took over the supervision of the farm while still running the household. On 14 March 1914, Anna petitioned the District court to be appointed guardian of her minor children: Edward, Bessie, Eugene, Martha, Clara, Cyrenius, and Nellie, and of the property left to them by their grandfather Cyrenius Whipple. Value of the property was said not to exceed $6500. She was duly appointed and posted a bond of $500. Her brother-in-law Milo Whipple was one of her sureties. On 1 April the court allowed her to place a loan on the property of $5,000, the proceeds of which were to pay off a loan then due and for the payment of other debts. The new loan was due in five years and bore annual interest of 6%

On 23 March 1920 Anna informed the court that she and seven of her adult children had entered into a contract to sell the property, still encumbered by a $5,000 mortgage, to Wm. Barkhurst for $30,000. She said she lived on the property but is no longer able to conduct the farming business; that the farm is not sufficiently productive to be equal in value to the interest she could earn from the money generated by the sale; and asked for authority to sell on behalf of the five minor children of whom she was still guardian. On 29 April the court found the sale to be advantageous and required Anna to post a $20,000 bond to protect the minor children. Her son Selmon, brother-in-law Milo, and Howard L. Catlin were sureties. Milo stated his net worth at the time was $20,000, Selmon $1,000, Catlin $13,000.

In October 1931, Anna petitioned the court to discharge her guardianship and to be released from any further service in the children's trust. She reported that all the children had lived with her and were sup-ported by her until they reached their majority, that they are all now past age 21 except Nellie and that she has reached her majority by virtue of her marriage. Edward, Bessie, Eugene, Martha, Clara, Rene, and Nellie joined in asking that the discharge be granted and stated nothing was due any of them under the guardianship. The court agreed on 19 March and discharged Anna from further services in connection with said trust, exonerated her bond, and released the sureties. (The author has copies of the various Benton county district court documents.)

Anna moved into Vinton following the sale of the farm and bought a house. She sold the home about 1937 and moved to daughter Clara's home where she lived until her death in 1948. Daughter Martha remembers the years immediately following her father's death as hard but "Momma was our guide and a good example for all of us. We knew when we pleased and displeased her by the way she looked at us. I always felt secure because her judgment and wisdom were the best." Martha said her mother's faults included "self denial" because she denied herself by making her children come first. She remembers telling her mother when she got married, "Momma you won't miss me for there are three more at home." Her answer came with a very grave voice, "Not any one of you can take the place of another." At the end she suffered a massive stroke and died a little over a week later and was buried at Maplewood Cemetery.

receiving his education in the Vinton schools and Tilford Collegiate Academy. He began farming on his own account in the early 1880s. He did general farming and raised considerable stock. A Republican, he served as Township assessor.

The 1910 federal census for Taylor township described Sell as age 48, married 25 years to Anna C, age 43, who had borne 12 children, 11 survivors. His farm was owned free and clear. Selmon T., Jr. was age 22, single, and working as a farm laborer for someone other than his parents. William H. was 20, single, and working on the home farm. The other children at home were: Harry L., 17, single; Edward C., 15, single; Anna B., 13; Eugene H., 9; Martha J., 7; Clara A., 3; and Cyrenius, 1 1/2.

4293. John G.[10] Edmonds (Luana[9] Whipple, Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[504] was born in Eugene, Vermillion Co., Ind. abt 1854 and died 17 February 1904 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, at 49 years of age. He married Mary (__) in Kansas in 1881. They were divorced in South Dakota in 1903. John, despondent over his divorce, took his own life 17 February 1904 by swallowing carbolic acid. At the time of his death he was living in a "dingy little room" above the Light House Mission on S. First St., Cedar Rapids. The day before his death he filed a suit in Marion, Iowa charging his in-laws with alienating his wife's affections. The newspaper described him as the "handsome and promising son of a respected and wealthy parents living on a fine farm a mile from Vinton." He inherited $10,000 upon his father's death which "led him into a love of ease and made him encourage rather than resist the enemy, the bottle." He eventually lost the battle to "the common enemy of so large a part of mankind—the demon of drink." His money lasted a comparatively short time.

He worked at Quinn's store in Vinton and traveled from place to place following his marriage, finally settling in Cedar Rapids in 1892 where he worked at the W.G Haskell coal yards and later for the city parks department. He became an accomplished carpenter and built almost all the "charming rustic work" in Bever Park.

Mrs. Edmonds eventually moved to Dakota, staying there long enough to secure a divorce under the laws of that state. Grounds were non-support. Following the divorce she returned to Iowa, living with her mother Caroline and step-father Jesse Beechley on a farm about 3 miles from Mt. Vernon. In his suit against the Beechley's Edmonds asked for $10,000 damages. His complaint was that from the time of their marriage until the fall of 1902, their married life had always been happy and contented, but that the defendants had persistently sought to alienate his wife's affections and finally succeeded in taking both his wife and a 4-year-old daughter from him. According to letters found in his room, Edmonds' son and mother had written pleading with him to drop the suit. The Sunday before his death, Edmonds met with one of his boyhood friends, Jim Watson, and talked in a despondent way. "You started with nothing, Jim," he said, "and now you are respected and contented. I started with everything a young man could wish for and now I am despised and penniless, practically a beggar."[505] In the 1885 Iowa state census of Benton Co., John and Mary and children Hattie May and Guy R., were living on Concord, Street. In the 1895 state census there were living in Vinton's third ward and John was identified as a carpenter. They lived next door to the James E. Whipple family. James and John were cousins.

John G. Edmonds and Mary (__) had the following children born in Cedar Rapids:

5290 i. Hattie May[11] Edmonds in 1883.

5291 ii. Guy R. Edmonds in 1884.

4294. Cyrenius R.[10] Edmonds (Luana[9] Whipple, Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[506] was born in Benton Co., Iowa in 1863 and married Tovina (__) there abt 1891. According to the 1895 Iowa state census, Cyrenius and family were living in the second ward of Vinton. His age was given as 32 and his work was laborer. Tovina was 25 and son Glenwood M., was 3.

Cyrenius R. Edmonds and Tovina (__) had the following child born in Benton Co.:

5292 i. Glenwood M.[11] Edmonds in 1892.

4307. James Ezekiel[10] Whipple (Lucien Ransom[9], Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[507] was born on a farm in Benton Co., Iowa 3 September 1857 and died 14 May 1914 in Vinton, Benton Co., Iowa, at 56 years of age. He married Malissa "Ellen" Thompson in Georgetown, Vermilion Co., Ill. 7 April 1881. Ellen,[508] daughter of John W. Thompson and Rebecca Campbell was born in Georgetown 7 January 1859 and died 3 September 1918 in Iowa City, Johnson Co., Iowa, at 59 years of age. James, was raised in Eugene, Indiana, lived near Paola, Kansas for two years (1868-70) then returned to Eugene where he entered the business world. He clerked in a drug store, became an insurance salesman and real estate agent before becoming Treasurer of a newly organized Savings and Loan Bank. He was also a member of the Eugene Dramatic Club.

He founded the Cayuga, Indiana Journal on 14 May 1887, the Sidell, Illinois Journal in 1888, and moved to Vinton in 1889 where he had a joint insurance agency-real estate office until he was elected City Clerk and Superintendent of the City Water and Light Plant. He was Chairman of the County Republican party and was elected County Recorder in 1896. When the Spanish-American broke out, he resigned the Recorder's post and enlisted in Co. G. 49th Regiment, Iowa National Guard and became Quartermaster Sergeant, the same rank his father held in the Civil War. The Iowa 49th was one of the few regiments to serve in Cuba. He wrote and published a book about the 49th and its service in Cuba (The Story of the 49th, self-published in January 1903). A copy is in the Library of Congress. He remained in the National Guard following the war and rose to the rank of Major.

After the war he was copublisher and editor of The Vinton Review, a weekly newspaper. He suffered the first of three strokes on 4 March 1911. His left side was paralyzed, limiting his activities for the remaining three years of his life. He was given a military funeral by his National Guard comrades. He and Ellen are buried in Vinton's Evergreen Cemetery. Their only child Blaine, his wife Pearl, and son Dick are buried in the same plot.

James Ezekiel Whipple and Malissa "Ellen" Thompson had the following child born in Eugene, Vermillion Co. Ind.:

\+ 5293 i. Lucien Blaine[11] Whipple 22 June 1883.

4309. Frank M.[10] Whipple (Lucien Ransom[9], Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[509] was born in Eugene, Vermillion Co., Ind. in 1861 and died of Uremic poisoning 24 March 1910 in Cayuga, Vermillion Co., Ind., at 48 years of age. Watson Funeral Home of Cayuga, handled the burial. He is buried in Lot 146 in the Eugene Cemetery. His death certificate was signed by D. Darroch. He married Ellen Naylor in Vermillion Co. 27 April 1884. Nathan M. Tutt, Justice of the Peace performed the ceremony. Ellen,[510] daughter of John M. Naylor II and Louisa Sturm, was born in 1863 and died 23 February 1932 in Cayuga, at 68 years of age.

"Dutch" ran a meat market in Eugene and in Cayuga (abt 1888) in partnership with Worth W. Porter on Thompson street and as an individual proprietor on Division street (1895-98). In 1898 the building housing his market was badly scorched by an adjacent fire that burned the Robert Elliott grocery store to the ground. Dutch moved some of his stock to the sidewalk to save it. Someone stole a ham that didn't do them much good. It was an imitation ham of printed cloth filled with sawdust. Beginning in 1900 he ran the "hack" between Cayuga and Eugene hauling passengers and mail. He served three years as Cayuga town Marshall (1906-08) and with his wife, became overseer of the Collett Home for Orphans in 1908 and died while serving in that capacity. Ellen retired after his death. He is buried in Lot 146 in the Eugene Cemetery.[511]

Frank M. Whipple and Ellen Naylor had the following children born in Eugene:

5294 i. Zoe[11] Whipple who married twice. (1) Earl Martin.[512] (2) Harry Jaco.[513] Zoe was a 1909 graduate of Cayuga, Ind. high school.

5295 ii. Edna M. Whipple in 1886 and died of typhoid fever 10 May 1889 in Cayuga, at 2 years of age.[514] Alex Kinderman, M.D., signed the death certificate.

4310. Anna M.[10] Whipple (Lucien Ransom[9], Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[515] was born in Eugene, Vermillion Co., Ind. in 1863 and died there of acute nephritis 27 February 1914, at 50 years of age. Nephritis is an acute or chronic disease of the kidneys characterized by inflammation, degeneration, firboris, etc. Certain types were formerly called Bright's Disease. She married William W. Fultz in Eugene 15 September 1881. Services by Nathan M. Tutt, Justice of the Peace. William was living with his uncle William H. Fultz at the time of the Eugene 1880 census. His death certificate gives his age as 66 at time of death. William,[516] son of Isaac Fultz and Anna Keller, was born in Eugene in 1860 and died there of cerebral hemorrhage and chronic nephritis 15 December 1926, at 66 years of age. Both funeral services handled by G.L. Watson Funeral Home, Cayuga and they were buried in the Eugene Cemetery.

William, in partnership with G. L. Watson, who had come to Eugene in 1880 to be the school principal, acquired a building on lot 8 in 1885 and began operating a business known as Watson and Fultz. Sometime later they acquired the stock of coffins from Henry Hosford and that was the beginning of the Watson family in the undertaking business. Like most stores of the time, they carried a broad line of hardware, implements, and farmers supplies in general. According to their ad in the 14 May 1887 Cayuga Journal, they were also dealing in furniture and jewelry and "Careful attention to undertaking."

Watson sold his interest to Wm. L. Parke in 1891 and the firm, named Fultz & Parke advertised "Light-Running McCormick Steel Binders and Mowers. The advertisement featured pictures of teams of horses pulling both pieces of equipment. Fultz sold his interest to Thomas E. Cordrey sometime after 1898. He was an original lot owner (Lot 78) in the Eugene Cemetery and he and Anna are probably buried there.[517]

Anna married William W. Fultz and her brother Edmund Whipple married Clara B. Fultz, sister of William W. Fultz.

Anna M. Whipple and William W. Fultz had the following children born in Eugene:

	5296	i.	Arch[11] Fultz[518] and died at age 7.
+	5297	ii.	Frank Fultz in 1882.
	5298	iii.	James Fultz[519] abt. 1883 and died in 1953 at 70 years of age. He married Effie Bowers in Eugene in 1910.
	5299	iv.	Lucien Fultz in 1885 and died there in 1939, at 54 years of age. He is buried in Lot 22 in the Eugene Cemetery. He married Mary Groves in Eugene in 1910. When his brother Frank resigned from the Cayuga Rural Free Delivery route in 1908, Lute was appointed and carried the mail for the ensuing 30 years.[520]

+ 5300 v. Suzie Fultz in 1890.

+ 5301 vi. Clara Belle Fultz in 1892.

+ 5302 vii. Mayme Fultz in 1894.

5303 viii. Paul Fultz[521] in December 1896 and died there 29 July 1897, at abt 8 months of age.[522]

+ 5304 ix. Rex Fultz in 1902.

+ 5305 x. Cora Fultz in 1902.

4312. Ellen[10] Whipple (Manley Nehemiah[9], Abraham[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[523] was born in West Hamilton, Butler Co., Ohio 27 January 1842 and died 31 January 1906 in Chula, Livingston Co., Mo., at 64 years of age. She married James Wright Burgess in Pleasant Township, Putnam Co., Ohio, 27 March 1862. James,[524] son of Archibald Burgess and Agnes C. Brownlee, was born in Poland Center, Mahoning Co., Ohio 31 October 1839 and died 30 January 1915 in Chula, at 75 years of age. He served in the Civil War and Ellen was a teacher before her marriage. They are buried in May Cemetery near Chula.

Ellen Whipple and James Wright Burgess had the following children:

5306 i. Ida[11] Burgess[525] born in Ottawa, Putnam Co., Ohio 29 March 1863 and died 9 December 1942 in Greenville, Tex., at 79 years of age.[526] She married Thomas J. Dryer in either Chula or Chillicothe, Livingston Co., Mo., 28 January 1891. He was born in Keokuk, Iowa 4 February 1862.

5307 ii. Laura Burgess[527] born, probably in Ottawa 17 October 1866 and died 30 September 1867 at less than one year of age.

5308 iii. Charles Burgess[528] born in Ottawa 10 November 1868 and died 27 April 1937 in Alameda, Calif., at 68 years of age. He married Pearl Wright in San Francisco, Calif., 8 January 1900. She was born in Ottawa.[529]

+ 5309 iv. Ella Agnes Burgess born 13 July 1871.

5310 v. Lily Burgess[530] born in Ottawa 18 October 1873 and died there 26 August 1874 10 months of age.

5311 vi. Infant Burgess[531] born in Ottawa 5 April 1875 and died the day of birth.

5312 vii. Martha Alice Burgess[532] born in Ottawa 8 June 1876 and died 29 August 1935 in Arnett, Ellis Co., Okla., at 59 years of age. She is buried in Gage Cemetery in Ellis.

5313 viii. Stella May Burgess[533] born in Ottawa 13 May 1879 and died there 24 June 1880, at 1 year of age. The day of death may have been the 25th.

\+ 5314 ix. William Burgess born 21 August 1881.

\+ 5315 x. Harry Burgess born 14 October 1883.

4313. Mary[10] Hattaway (Louisa M.[9] Whipple, Abraham[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[534] was born in 1857 and died in 1885 at 28 years of age. She married John C. Crossley who was born in 1852 and died in 1886 at 34 years of age.

Mary Hattaway and John C. Crossley had the following children born in Hagerstown, Md.:

5316 i. Olive J.[11] Crossley[535] and married J. D. Scott. She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution through her great great grandfather Nehemiah Whipple (1750-1809) of Vermont. Her DAR ID No. is 83735.

5317 ii. Winnie Crossley[536] married Joseph Teetor. She was a member of the the Daughters of the American Revolution through her great great grandfather Nehemiah Whipple (1750-1809). Her DAR ID No. is 86220.

4314. Alphonso[10] Whipple (Horatio[9], Nathan[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[537] was born in Madison, Ohio 7 February 1845 and died there 18 January 1915 at 69 years of age. He married Sarah Ann Wright 9 January 1871. Sarah,[538] daughter of Richard P. Wright and Emily H. Pearse, was born in Warrensville, Ohio 30 April 1850 and died 24 October 1923 in Madison, at 73 years of age. She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution through her great great grandfather, Enoch Wright (1763-1810), who served in the wagon service at Yorktown, Va. in 1781. He was born in Pittsfield, Mass. and died in Whitehall, N.Y. The lineage is from Enoch to Enoch who married Tryphena West in 1783; to Orren (1783-1846) who married Phoebe Pearse (1790-1884) in 1807; to 4316. Henry Whipple[10] Brown (Miranda[9] Whipple, Nathan[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[540] was born in Beloit, Wisc. 4 December 1841 and died 27 February 1907 in Rockford, Winnebago Co., Ill., at 65 years of age. He married Emeline Amelia Hall in Galena, Ill. 9 September 1863. Emeline,[541] daughter of Edward Lyman Hall and Frances Penfield, was born in Catskill, N. Y. 29 September 1839 and died 24 January 1924 in Rockford, at 84 years of age. She is buried in Greenwood Cemetery in Rockford.

Henry completed a course of instruction at the Mercantile College in Chicago 22 October 1862. The course title was "Science of accounts, including bookkeeping, lectures, commercial calculations, and practical penmanship." He enlisted (14 November 1864) as a private in the 72nd regt. of Illinois infantry during the Civil War and was discharged 23 May 1865. According to his enlistment papers he was 5' 8" with black eyes, brown hair, and a light complexion. He homesteaded in Furnas county, Nebr. 10 Feb. 1873.[541] He was the first judge in the county (organized 8 April 1873) and performed its first wedding that year when he united Benjamin Luce and Miss Lanver. He is listed as being crippled in the 1880 Federal census of Furnas County. The Agricultural census for 1880 showed he was tilling 60 acres, had 30 acres in permanent meadows, 10 acres of woodland, and 60 unimproved acres. He sold $400 in farm products and had two horses, three milk cows, two other cattle, and 30 barnyard poultry. He harvested 600 bushel of corn from 20 acres, 55 bushel of wheat from 5.5 acres, and 20 bushel of potatoes from 1/16th acre. He also cut 50 cords of wood and made 300 pounds of butter.

Henry Whipple Brown and Emeline Amelia Hall had the following children:

+ 5328 i. Jessie[11] Brown born 19 March 1865.

5329 ii. Frances Brown[543] born in Rockford 9 November 1867 and died there 1 December 1948 at 81 years of age. She married Frank Pierce in Rockford in 1887. He was born 16 September 1868 and died 8 February 1934 in Rockford, at 65 years of age.[544] Both are buried in Greenwood Cemetery, Rockford.

5330 iii. Charles E. Brown[545] born in E. Dubuque, Ill. 5 August 1869 and died 27 January 1936 in Hays Center, Nebr., at 66 years of age. He married Elinor Wright 1 April 1897.

5331 iv. Frederick Hall Brown[546] born in Rockford 7 April 1870 and died 16 October 1940 at 70 years of age. He married Jean McQueen in Malta, Ill. 14 February 1901. She was born in Ayrshire, Scotland 1 March 1866.[547] Both are buried at Greenville Cemetery, Esmond, Ill.

5332 v. Ida Brown[548] born in Richmond, Nebr. 25 August 1872 and died 16 September 1946 in Rockford, at 74 years of age. She married Ottis Craig there 1 February 1899. He was born in 1865 and died 4 January 1916 at 50 years of age.[549] Both are buried at Greenwood Cemetery.

5333 vi. Amy Brown[550] born in Richmond 11 May 1874 and died 15 January 1960 in Rockford, at 85 years of age. She married twice. (1) Joseph Boyers. (2) John Burrows in Rockford 4 November 1896. He was born in Rockford 20 October 1864 and died there 11 July 1950, at 85 years of age.[551]

5334 vii. Grace Brown[552] born in Richmond 4 August 1876 and died 7 December 1952 in Rockford, at 76 years of age. She married Clarence Miners in Beloit 2 June 1895. He was born in Roscoe, Ill. 19 July 1875 and died 7 January 1949 in Rockford, at 73 years of age.[553] Both are buried at Wildwood Cemetery in Rockford,.

5335 viii. Kate Brown[554] born in Richmond 5 August 1879.

5336 ix. Minnie Brown[555] born in Richmond 9 September 1882 and died 6 March 1972 in Rockford, at 89 years of age. She married John Krug there 5 September 1905. He was born 31 October 1880 and died 26 March 1955 in Rockford, at 74 years of age.[556] Both are buried at Greenwood Cemetery.

4317. Mary M.[10] Brown (Miranda[9] Whipple, Nathan[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[557] was born in Illinois in 1848 and died, probably in Los Angeles, Calif. aft 1907. She married Nelson Smith.

Mary M. Brown and Nelson Smith had the following children:

5337 i. Henry[11] Smith.[558]
5338 ii. Ethel Smith.[559]
5339 iii. Florence Smith.[560]

4322. Ransom Eli[10] Olds (Sarah[9] Whipple, Nathan[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[561] was born in Geneva, Ohio 3 June 1864 and died 26 August 1950 in Lansing, Mich., at 86 years of age. He married Metta Ursula Woodward in Lansing 5 June 1889. Metta,[562] daughter of Joseph Darwin Woodward and Mary Eleanor Bennett, was born in Pinckney, Mich. 6 June 1864 and died 2 September 1950 in Lansing, at 86 years of age.

It is believed Ransom entered elementary school in Cleveland and left school after completing the tenth grade in Lansing to work in his father and brother's machine shop where he became a skilled machinist and learned pattern-making and moulding. He attended the Lansing Business College for several months in 1882-83 studying bookkeeping and business practices. He began his business career at age 21, and became one of the country's best known auto manufacturers as founder of both the Oldsmobile and Reo automobile companies. When the family moved to Lansing it traveled by lake steamer from Cleveland to Detroit and by train from Detroit to Lansing. He later claimed traveling on these steam-powered vehicles started him thinking about a steam-powered road vehicle to replace the horse and buggy.

He built his first steam carriage in either 1886 or 1887. The three-wheeled vehicle was powered by a one-horsepower engine enclosed in a box 18 inches high located behind the single seat. The body was white-wood, the frame was oak, and the wheels were steel. To prevent being embarrassed by failure, his test drive was before dawn and lasted about a block before the engine was "exhausted." As dawn approached "two pushers" helped get it back to the shop. After tinkering with it for three or four years, he tore it apart and started over.

The second steamer had two two-horsepower engines on a rear platform joined to form one power unit directly connected to the driving wheels thus eliminating the transmission and gears which had proved a problem on the first vehicle. He used four wheels for greater stability. The front wheels were close together and greater in diameter than the rear. A reporter from Scientific American witnessed the test and his article of 21 May 1892 was reprinted in the July issue of The Hub, one of the most important trade journals in the carriage industry. The Francis Times Company of London purchased the car for $400.00 and it was shipped to a branch office in Bombay, India in the spring of 1893, the first U.S. made horseless carriage shipped to a foreign buyer.

Ransom was awarded 34 patents, the first on 28 July 1891 for a governor on steam engines, the last 4 February 1941 for an internal combustion engine.

He tested his first gasoline car 11 August 1895. Its dark green body was trimmed in red. A two-seater, one seat was adjustable so passengers could face backward if they desired. The one-cylinder five-horsepower engine was beneath the body. Ball-bearings were used throughout and the wheels were fitted with cushion tires. It weighted 1,000 pounds, was steered with a tiller, burned common stove gasoline contained in a three gallon tank, had a top speed of 25 miles per hour, and would travel up to 50 miles. Olds said road conditions limited both the speed and distance and said nine to 12 miles an hour was a more realistic speed. This car was destroyed in a fire in 1901 but the Smithsonian has one of his $1,400.00 four-passenger cars supposedly produced in the fall of 1897.

In August 1896 he determined that the gasoline internal combustion engine was superior to steam to propel road vehicles and from then on the company promoted the "Olds Safety Gas and Vapor Engine."

He filed the patent for the car 18 September 1896 and it was awarded 23 November 1897. The patent application disclosed he wanted "to produce a road vehicle that will meet most of the requirements for the ordinary uses on the road without complicated gear or requiring engines of great power" The Olds Motor Vehicle Co., organized 21 August 1897, was capitalized at $50,000.00 and issued 5,000 shares of stock. Olds was given 50 percent ownership—1,250 shares directly and 1,250 shares as trustee for the P.F. Olds & Company. His consideration for the shares was "professional services," including being company manager. Oldsmobile was adopted as a trade name in 1900 but not registered until 1902. The company also produced an electric phaeton, making Olds the only major automobile designer to produce and sell all three kinds of cars. In October 1900 he tested the prototype of what would become one of the most famous automobiles of all time, the curved-dash Oldsmobile, a tiny one-cylinder vehicle that became the inspiration for the song "My Merry Oldsmobile." It sold for $600.00 and so captured the public's fancy, it became the No. 1 seller.

When Olds resisted model changes, key stockholders removed him as general manager in January 1904. By summer, he had sold his stock and resigned from the board. The company then shifted to high-priced, high-powered cars and eventually suffered a sharp decline in sales. By late 1908, it was acquired by the General Motors organization.

Backed by a new group of investors, he incorporated the R.E. Olds Company 16 August 1904 capitalized at one million dollars. In return for the use of his name, reputation, years of experience as a developer and manufacturer of automobiles, the right to his patents, and some of his Lansing property to use as a site for the company's factory, he was given 52% of the voting stock. He changed the name to Reo (Ransom E. Olds) Motor Car Company after his old company threatened litigation if he used the Olds name. The first Reo was a five-passenger, two- cylinder, 16-horsepower car which weighted 1,500 pounds and sold for $1,250.00. It was test driven 14 October 1904 and by 1907 was producing nine percent of the cars sold in the U.S., ranking third behind Ford and Buick. Reo began building cars in Canada in 1908, one of the first American companies to do so. In 1910, Olds purchased a stove and farm equipment manufacturing plant in Lansing and converted it into a facility to produce trucks. The Reo "Speed Wagon" trucks were introduced in 1911 and continued in production until 1975 as Diamond Reo Trucks, Inc.

By 1915, Olds had reached a point in his automotive career where he wanted more time for other endeavors and he retired as Reo general manager in December. He continued as company president until 20 December 1923 when he became chairman of the board. Reo quit making cars in 1936 to concentrate on its truck business. For the first time in 40 years, Olds was no longer involved with the manufacture of automobiles and he resigned from the board December 28.

Automobiles had never been his only interest. He organized Lansing's Capital National Bank in 1906 and served as its president until its failure in March 1933. He patented a gasoline-powered lawn mower in 1915 and formed the Ideal Power Lawn Mower Company of Lansing to manufacture it. Next to automobiles, it was probably his most successful product. He bought rights to a refrigeration process in 1932 and formed the Kold-Hold Manufacturing Company and developed a refrigeration system used on Reo trucks. He formed the R.E. Olds Company in 1912 to manage his investments which included hotels in Florida, Missouri, and Michigan, a retirement home for ministers in Florida, an office tower in Lansing, and land development near Tampa, Fla.

He also found time for public and civic service. He was elected to the Lansing School Board in 1893 serving until 1899 and was a Taft delegate to the 1908 Republican National Convention. In 1902 he was on the Executive Committee of the National Association of Automobile Manufactures and on the Road Improvement Committee of the American Motor League in 1903. He was on the Board of Lansing's Edward W. Sparrow Hospital Association 1910-50; a Trustee of Kalamazoo College, a Baptist-affiliated school 1909-50; the Governing Board of Hillsdale College, another Michigan school with Baptist connections 1920-37; Board of Ttrustees of the First Baptist Church of Lansing 1913-50; and Co-chairman of the Baptist World Mission Crusade in 1946. He and Metta were active supporters of the YWCA and YMCA and in 1914 provided the land and building for the Ladies' Library and Literary Club in Lansing. Metta served on the Women's Hospital Board that directed the nurses' training program, was an active member of the Lansing chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and on the Governing Board of Storer College for Negroes in Virginia.

His contributions built the R.E. Olds Science Hall at Kalamazoo College and the R.E. Olds Hall of Engineering at Michigan State University. He was awarded honorary degrees by Kalamazoo College in 1924, Michigan State University in 1939, and Michigan College of Mining and Technology in 1941. In June 1946 he was an original inductee in the Automotive Hall of Fame. The year of his death, Reo Motors produced 9,368 trucks and the Oldsmobile Division of General Motors 396,757 cars, 80 times more than were produced a half century earlier by all the manufacturers in the country. He truly was one of the fathers of the American automobile industry.

Oldsmobile was the oldest automobile brand in the country when General Motors announced on 12 December 2000 it was planning to eliminate the Division and ended production in the summer of 2004. Once considered the crown jewel of GM's car divisions, it started to lose its identity in the late 1980s when most GM cars began to look alike. As recently as 1986 more than a million Oldsmobiles were sold, nearly a quarter of a million more cars than sold by Honda in the U.S. in 2000.

But Olds sales only totaled 262,759 through late October 2000, even trailing Hyundai, a Korean import.

Ransom Eli Olds and Metta Ursula Woodward had the following children:

4333. Ithamar Cyrus[10] Whipple (Cyrus Avery[9], Ithamar[8], Rev. Benjamin[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[579] was born in Chautauqua Co., N.Y. 18 December 1839 and died 30 January 1912 in Cheyenne, Wyo., at 72 years of age. He married Virilla Eunice Wyckoff in Waterloo, Black Hawk Co., Iowa 8 December 1863. Virilla,[580] daughter of Isaac Wycoff and Eunice Field, died 2 August 1919 in Seattle, King Co., Washington. She was buried in Cheyenne.

In 1845 at age 7, Ithamar moved with his parents to Johnson Co., Indiana and to Linn Co., Iowa eight years later. He left Marion, Iowa for Cheyenne, Dakota Territory, with his wife and son William in February 1867. When reaching North Platte, Nebr. they found the regular stages booked for weeks in advance by emigrants headed for the west coast so they joined a wagon train hauling mining machinery to Idaho Springs, Colo. and from there went on to Cheyenne which was little more than a camp when the Whipples arrived. The Union Pacific tracks reached there in November and the town became a melting pot of the west: buffalo hunters, trappers, traders, railway workers, engineers, Indians, soldiers, mule skinners, bull whackers, stage drivers, gamblers, actors, and miners crowded into town day and night On 20 December 1867, the Cheyenne Leader announced that "a line of stages [carrying mail] is now run between Fort Randall (about 3 miles from town) and Fort Laramie. With the Dakota Territory seat of government at Yankton, hundreds of miles to the east, Cheyenne citizens began agitating for a territory of their own and on 25 July 1868 Wyoming Territory was created from parts of Dakota, Utah, and Idaho.

Ithamar's first job was helping S.I. Fields open coal mines south of town. He then clerked for S.F. Nuckels (who represented Wyoming in the U.S. Congress). After working about a year for Nuckles he opened his own general store. Despite his refusal to sell liquor and to open on Sunday as the competiting stores did, his store flourished. He was convinced that Cheyenne would become a major trading area and built a large brick building (known as the Whipple Block) with a "hot air heating plant" which he opened Thanksgiving Day 1874. It replaced his old store which had burned down six months previously.

In the summer of 1874 Gen. George Custer announced the discovery of gold in the Black Hills on land that had been set aside by two treaties in 1851 as Indian hunting grounds. After the word got out, Cheyenne became the most widely heralded outfitting center and place of departure for the new gold fields. By 1875 it's population, exclusive of transients, reached 3,000. It had five churches, a good public school, a private school, two hardware stores, three large grocery stores, three retail establishments, a confectionary store, bakeries, a jewelry store, three blacksmith and wagon shops, boarding houses, tailor shops, barber shops, three leading hotels, liquor and cigar stores, saloons, and other places of amusements. It did a much larger business than many western towns of similar size because of the nearby government facilities: Camp Carlin, a supply depot, and Fort D.A. Russell, a 15-company military garrison. It called itself the "Magic City of the Plains."

Ithamar was identified with every progressive proposal to grow the city and was soon elected mayor. In early March 1875 when miners arrived at Fort Laramie with gold ore and stories that they found it "everywhere" in the Black Hills, reports were telegraphed to the east where newspapers gave the stories wide publicity. Cheyenne was immediately deluged with inquiries about the gold and mayor Whipple telegraphed Washington, D.C. that there was "great excitement in Wyoming" and urged that the Indian Country be opened at once.

After the Custer expeditions entered the Black Hills in 1874, it became apparent that the Sioux were not going to be allowed to keep the land. The next year the Dakota Territorial legislature divided the area into counties even though the land belonged to the Sioux and that many people in and out of government believed taking the land was wrong. A high-ranking treaty negotiator told Pres. U. S. Grant that the Custer expedition was "a violation of the national honor." Some of the commissioners who worked on the "agreement" that gave paper legitimacy to the theft reminded the government it was making the Sioux homeless when it owed them protection and care. The government took the Black Hills anyway.

Sioux leaders began efforts to obtain fair compensation for the Hills in the early 1900s. The claim they filed with the U.S. Court of Claims in the 1920s got nowhere. An Indian Claims Commission (ICC) to provide payment for wrongly taken Indian lands was authorized in 1946. The Sioux filed a claim for the Black Hills in 1950 and after almost 25 years of historical research and legal wrangling the ICC offered them $17.5 million plus interest. Following further legal maneuvering, the Supreme Court in 1980 affirmed the ICC ruling and awarded the Sioux $106 million. Justice Harry Blackmun, writing for the majority, said "A more ripe and rank case of dishonorable dealings will never, in all probability, be found in our history."

However, by then the Sioux determined the Hills were linked to their identity and the eight tribes decided unanimously not to accept the money. They wanted the land back — the federal government still owned 1.3 million acres, a small portion of what was stolen — along with trespass damages. The chances of any land being returned is remote and the untouched compensation, with interest, is in a federal escrow account.[581]

In December 1875 the Territorial legislature passed an act "to locate and establish a territorial wagon road from Chenenne to the Black Hills of Wyoming and Dakota." The initial trip of the Cheyenne and Black Hills Stage, Mail, and Express line left Cheyenne 3 February 1876 with seven passengers. Ithamar and Henry G. Hay formed Whipple-Hay enterprise and outfitted a number of drivers to haul loads of merchandise from Cheyenne to the heart of the Black Hills. The wagons were pulled by 4-horse teams and the charge was five cents a pound for freight and $10 for passengers. Whipple also furnished everything from beds to pitchforks for the many stage stations built along the line. In the summer of 1876 more than half a million dollars of Black Hills gold reached Cheyenne and was displayed as dust, nuggets, bars, or jewelry in most of the city's business houses. After Custer's defeat at the Little Big Horn in June, the Sioux stepped up their raids along the Black Hills stage route.

Ithamar prospered and owned and operated several stock ranches in partnership with W.W. Sawyer and Hay. The Whipple-Hay enterprise was known as the Laramie River Cattle Company. He also held ownership in and was Treasurer of the Hidden-Treasure Mine and Mill located in the Black Hills. On 18 January 1878 the last shipment of gold (valued at $7,400) from their mine arrived in Cheyenne.

In addition to being Mayor, he was a Laramie County Commissioner, member of the Territorial Legislature (1873), and President of the City Council. He was one of the founders of the Wyoming Stock-growers' Association, and a major stockholder, Vice President, and director of the Stock Growers National Bank. He received a commission from President U.S. Grant as Receiver and Disbursing Agent for the Cheyenne Land Office in December 1875. In 1887 he was named to a 10-man committee to promote the building of the Colorado Central and Cheyenne Black Hills and Montana Railroad. Laramie county voters approved a $150,000 bond measure in January 1878 to be used to make certain that Cheyenne, not Sidney, Nebr., be the starting point for the Hills Railway.

By 1878 Cheyenne was served by three railroads and conditions were consideraby different from when Ithama opened his first store. Now he was selling fresh grapes and oranges from California, bananas from south of the border, fresh codfish from Massachusetts and fresh salmon from the Columbia River. At the same time, only a short distance to the north, stray bands of Indians were slipping away from their Agencies to stampede cattle herds and harrass travelers. Sow belly and sourdough biscuits still comprised the main diet in many a lonely shack, dug-out, or cabin.

By 1884 Cheyenne had electric arc lights and six miles of water mains connected to hydrants. When fires occurred in deep winter, bonfires were used to thaw the hydrants. Local merchants were no longer advertising buckskin underwear. Instead they promoted "Beautiful smoking jackets, silk plush lap robes, and gent's elegant neckwear." There were 30 schools along the Cheyenne and Black Hills Stage Line which saw its last run from Cheyenne on 19 February 1887. By then the area was free from Indian raids and road agents and was settled with farmers and ranchers.[582]

Ithamar was a member of several civic and fraternal organizations and active in the Baptist church. Under his leadership, the First Baptist Church was organized in 1877. He convened a group of "believers" on Friday evening 21 September which adopted a Declaration of Faith and subscribed to the church covenant. He was elected Clerk, was a Trustee, and over the years served as Moderator when no pastor was present. In 1897 he was elected the church's first Deacon Emeritus. When Wyoming Baptists organized a statewide organization 19 September 1902, he was elected Treasurer.

The church record of 7 February 1912 contains the following resolution: Whereas, it has pleased God in His wise Providence to remove from us to his heavenly home our brother I. C. Whipple and Whereas, he was a Charter Member of this church and a Deacon from its organization and has filled other offices of the church always with great faithfulness, and Whereas he has borne the interest of the church upon his heart and was liberal in time and means to its support, Therefore, be it resolved: that the church has lost a true friend, a wise counselor, a faithful member, a beloved brother, and that we each one feel a personal loss in his departure."[583]

He built one of the grand houses in Cheyenne. It was a modernized French villa type of architecture and built of brick. The ridges of the roof were topped with iron work and many lightning rods. A low iron fence mounted on cut stone surrounded the grounds. The drawing room was unusually large and ornate. Across the second parlor was a music room.

He sold the house on 26 December 1893 to John W. Lacey, a former Wyoming Territorial Supreme Court Justice, who became the legal counsel for the Union Pacific Railroad and a well-known defense attorney. Among his clients was the notorious Tom Horn, cattle-detective and accused murderer of 14-year-old Willie Nickell. Lacey had previously defended 50 individuals charged with murder. All were acquitted but Horn who was hanged. Lacey died in 1936 and his wife in 1944. The home was purchased by the American Hellenic Education Progressive Assn, Cowboy Chapter #211 in 1947. The Club's early reputation was as an elegant setting for meetings and social functions. Later, it was notorious for alleged gambling activities. It became a men's lodge until 1980 then left vacant and became derelict. Betty Anne and Lenny Beirle acquired it in 1982 and began to restore in in February 1985. The restoration was in accordance with the Secretary of Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation and has been described by the National Park Service as a "superb example of the successful use of a historic building. The Beirle's named it the "Whipple House Restaurant" and it opened as a fine dining establishement in November 1986.

Ithamar's death was front page news in The Wyoming Tribune of 31 January 1912. The headline: "WHIPPLE A PIONEER OF CITY DEAD. Came to Cheyenne Forty Years Ago—Was Among First Merchants—Prominent in Business Affairs." He died at his residence at 1723 Carey Ave. His death followed an illness of a year. Hardening of the arteries and other complications caused the death. The funeral was 1 February at the Baptist church. In his honor, Cheyenne banks closed for his funeral.

He married Ida Margart Monteith in Kansas City, Jackson Co.,

Mo. 15 October 1919. Ida,[689] daughter of James Henry Monteith and Agnes Lovina Eva Ann Riedy, was born in New Brighton, Penn. 17 February 1895 and died 22 October 1983 in Peru, Ill., at 88 years of age. Warner was graduated from high school at 15 and entered the U. of Illinois at Urbana in September 1910 paying $4 a week for room and board at a rooming house. Highlights of his first year included concerts by the U.S. Marine and John Philip Sousa's bands. He took especial interest in the experimental work being done by the agricultural department to increase the corn yield. He wrote to his parents on 8 February 1913 about an "amazing electricial show" he had attended. A whole building was wired and filled with visitors for three nights. He wrote that no ordinary person has any idea of the many uses for electric power reporting that "eggs were fried on ice with no fire." There were X-ray machines, wireless outfits, black signals, a whole electric railway, dictagraphs, dictaphones like the one you read about in the World's Work, electric kitchens, and everything imaginable. "It was really wonderful."

During his adult years he served on the LaSalle County Board of Supervisors, was President of the Farm Bureau, President of the Utica Elevator Co., on the Board of the County Shipping Assn., and the U. of Illinois Agriculture Economic Advisory Committee. He was also a 33 degree Mason. He and Ida were buried at Waltham Cemetery.

4469. Dr. Allen Oldfather[10] Whipple (Rev. William Levi[9], Francis Rice[8], Levi[7], Francis[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[705] was born in Oroomiah, Persia 2 September 1881. Oroomiah has also been spelled Urmia and is known today as Resaiyeh, Iran. He died 6 April 1963 in Princeton, N.J., at 81 years of age. See Time Magazine of 26 April 1963 for an obituary. He married Mary Neales in Woods Hole, Mass. 26 September 1912. They were married at the Church of the Messiah where Mary's father had been rector. She was born in Canada and and died in 1960 in Princeton, N.J.[706]

The following text should be read in conjunction with the text accompanying Allen's father's text found in Generation Nine.

Allen's middle name came from Jerry Oldfather, a fellow student with Allen's father at the Lane Theological Seminary in Ohio and fellow missionary in Persia (now Iran). Allen caught typhoid fever in the winter of 1886 and for two months the family thought they would loose him. At age 4 he attended a school taught by his mother for children of merchants and missionaries in Tabriz, Persia. He already knew the alphabet and wanted to learn to read. He took piano and violin lessons and was tutored in French. He was sent to the Mission school in Oroomiah, a five day journey from Tabriz, to prepare for high school. When the family returned to the U.S. in 1896 and settled in Duluth, Minn., Allen attended high school there and worked after school as a paper boy for the Tribune. He entered Princeton in the fall of 1900 and helped support himself by tutoring.

After graduating from Princeton in 1904, he earned a medical degree at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, graduating in 1908. He interned at Roosevelt Hospital and after a brief tenure at the Sloane Hospital for Women in New York City, he became a surgeon to the outpatient clinic at Presbyterian Hospital. He was Director of Surgical Service at Manhattan's Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center from 1921 to 1946. At the time of his retirement in 1946 he had also been a Professor of Surgery at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University for 25 years, training over 300 new surgeons. He was considered a gifted teacher and innovative surgeon.

Whipple and Dr. Walter Palmer established the spleen clinic in 1928 and accumulated valuable knowledge that led to innovative treatments of spleen and liver disease. Working with many colleagues, Whipple made numerous advances in understanding and managing splenic and hepatic disorders. He also contributed to the management of pancreatic diseases and as the pioneer of operations to remove pancreatic tumors became known as the "father of pancreatic surgery." He defined the symptoms of hyperinsulinism, now known as Whipple's triad; spontaneously occurring hypoglycemia (low blood sugar), acute onset of the symptoms of severe hypoglycemia, and the relief of those symptoms by administration of glucose (sugar).

Prior to Whipple's work the pancreas was forbidden territory to the surgeon because of the risk of shock, hemorrhage, sepsis, and jaundice. In 1935 he performed one of the first successful radical operations for removal of an ampullary cancer of the pancreas (now known as the "Whipple Procedure"). The operation takes from 5-8 hours and includes removing the "head" of the pancreas, the attached duodenum, a portion of the common bile duct, the gallbladder, and sometimes a portion of the stomach. The remaining portions of the pancreas, bile duct, and stomach are then sutured to the intestine to restore continuity to the GI tract. The average recovery time in the hospital is about two-and-a-half weeks and the rate of mortality from the procedure is one percent. Readers interested in further information on the pancreas are referred to History of the Pancreas: Mysteries of a Hidden Organ published in 2002. The book includes a long section on Dr. Allen O. Whipple.[707]

From 1945-51 Dr. Whipple reorganized the training program at Memorial Hospital in New York City and revised the surgical program at the American University of Beirut, Lebanon. During World War II he was a member of the National Research Council and a visiting consultant for the Council of Great Britain and North Africa. In 1951 he was elected a Charter Trustee at Princeton University and the following year the Allen O. Whipple Society was established to honor distinguished contributors to surgery. He also received the Woodrow Wilson Award, the highest honor given to alumni by Princeton.

He was one of the founders in 1936 of the American Board of Surgery, the highest certification organization of a general surgeon's training and competence. He served as President of the New York Surgical Society, the Society for Clinical Surgery, and the American Surgical Association. He was a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, of England's honorary Royal College of Surgeons, and the New York Academy of Medicine. He was editor of Nelson's Looseleaf Surgery for 20 years and an editorial board member of the Annals of Surgery 1932-46. In addition to many papers in medical and scientific journals, he wrote several books including The Evolution of Surgery in the United States, The Story of Wound Healing and Wound Repair, and The Role of the Nestorians and Muslims in the History of Medicine.

In a letter dated 25 November 1960 to his cousin Miss Elizabeth Whipple of Duluth, Minn. (the author has a copy), Whipple wrote that portraits of his great great great grandparents, Francis and Abigail (Lamson) Whipple (see Chapter 10), had been hanging in his living room for over 40 years. He said the portraits had been given to him sometime after 1918 by his uncle Frank Whipple's widow, "Aunt May" who told him the portraits had been in their attic at Rockville, Ind. for many years. The portraits are now in possession of his son-in-law, Dr. Richard Bing.

Whipple, who lived at 31 Stanworth Lane, Princeton, N.J., died of a heart attack. He and Dr. George Hoyt Whipple, a 1934 Nobel Prize winner in physiology of medicine and whose biography appears elsewhere in this book, are sixth cousins once removed. Their common ancestors are Joseph Whipple (abt 1640-abt 1709), the first Whipple of their line born in the English American colonies, and his second wife Sarah (__).

Josephine,[849] daughter of Walter Restored T. Jones and Anna Pierson Bailey, was born 2 July 1855 and died 26 December 1939 at 84 years of age. Her father was a leading marine adjuster in New York and her mother was the daughter of Rear Admiral Theodorus Bailey who was second in command under Admiral James Glasgow Farragut (1801-1870) at the capture of New Orleans in April 1862.

Charles' twin William did not survive infancy and upon William's death, Charles was given both names. He spent his boyhood years in the Warner House in Portsmouth. The home, built in 1718, continued in his mother's family by a long line of inheritances from the original owner. The walls in the main hall were painted with pictures including a life-sized portrait of Sir William Phipps on horseback, with flowing curls and the scarlet uniform of an English general.[850] Two heroic-sized Indians were painted on guard on the wall on either side of the main hall window, while the lightning rod installed by Benjamin Franklin remained on the roof.

David Whipple, standing in his naval cadet uniform and from left Charles William Whipple, Percy and Thomas Penhollow in their West Point cadet uniforms. David and Charles are brothers and Percy and Thomas are their cousins. Charles received his West Point appointment from President Abe Lincoln and David his Annapolis appointment from President Andrew Johnson based on a request President Lincoln had left on his desk before his assassination. The picture was taken ca 1865. Courtesy Warren House Museum, Portsmouth, N.H. The picture was a gift to the Museum from Julia B. Munn.

His first military experience was at age 14 at Detroit where his father was stationed. He was a "marker" in a militia company. When his father commanded the defenses of Washington, Charles frequently went into the field with him and ascended in military balloons while his father made maps of Virginia. He met practically every man of prominence in Washington at the outbreak of the Civil War including President Lincoln who, when visiting the outer fortification, would regale him and brother David with stories. After his father's death, Charles received a personal invitation from Gen. George Gordon Meade, commanding general at the Battle of Gettysburg, to visit him in the field and was with the general when the command of the Army of the Potomac was turned over to Gen. U.S. Grant. In 1864, while a student at Georgetown College, he received a personal appointment to West Point from President Lincoln and was graduated from the Academy in 1868. Douglas L. Williams of Shreveport, La., great grandson of Charles, has a copy of President Lincoln's letter to Gen. Joseph G. Totten, Chief of Engineers, making the appointment. It was on executive mansion stationery dated 13 May 1863 and directed Charles be admitted "next spring."

He was commissioned second lieutenant in the 3rd Artillery 15 July 1868 and assigned to Battery B at Newport, R.I. The following February he was transferred to Key West, Fla. where he went through a yellow fever epidemic. He joined the Light Battery "C" at Fort Riley, Kans. 1 Sept. 1870 and aided in the preservation of peace at St. Mary's, Kans. while the Pottowotomie Tribe received their final payment on the surrender of their tribal rights. After service at Charleston, S.C., West Point, Ft. Jefferson, Dry Tortugas (off the coast of Florida), and Oswego, N.Y., he attended the artillery school at Fort Monroe, Va., graduating in 1874. He was assigned to the Wheeler survey and was in charge of parties exploring through southwestern Colorado, northern New Mexico, and southern California, then wild Indian country, from July 1874 to December 1875.

He was commissioned first lieutenant 19 July 1875 and was one of the officers in charge of the ordnance exhibit at the Philadelphia Centennial exhibition in 1876. From 1883-87 he was in charge of the U.S proving ground at Sandy Hook, N.Y. where he conducted experiments with the first life saving gun developed by the U.S. Treasury Department. During these years he wrote many articles on ordnance and other technical subjects.

He was commissioned Captain 9 May 1885 and appointed Chief Ordnance Officer of the Department of the Missouri and supervised the opening of Oklahoma Territory to settlement. He was appointed Chief Ordnance Officer of the proposed expedition to the Philippine Islands when the war with Spain broke out. On 22 June he was was appointed Inspector-General of Volunteers with the rank of Lieut. Colonel and sailed for Manila 23 July 1898, arriving 24 August. He came down with an illness there which broke his health and he left Manila for the U.S. 15 December. He was retired from the regular army with the rank of Major on 2 February 1901 "because of disability sustained in the line of duty."

Alexander Gardiner in Croydon 17 November 1859. Alexander,[903] son of James Gardiner and Emelline Graham, was born in Catskill, N.Y. 27 July 1833 and died 7 October 1864 in Winchester, Va., at 31 years of age. He was buried in Claremont, N.H.

After spending his 18th year in Rio de Janiero, Brazil visiting relatives, Alexander enrolled at Kimball Union Academy in Meriden, N.H. and then studied law at New York City and was admitted to the New York Bar in 1855. In 1856 he moved to Lawrence, Kans. where he ran a Free state newspaper. He was unable to practice law because he refused to take his oath under a pro-slavery constitution. After his press was destroyed by pro-slavery forces in 1859, he left Kansas and began a law practice in Claremont and married Mary P. Cooper that fall.

He was appointed Adjutant of the 14th N.H. Volunteers 20 September 1862 and saw service in New Orleans and Virginia. He was promoted to Major 12 September 1863 and to Colonel 12 September 1864. He led the N.H. Volunteers into battle at Opequan Creek near Winchester, Va. 19 September and was mortally wounded by musket shot which knocked him off his horse. He died 7 October and by then his wife had arrived and was at his bedside at the time of death. His remains were brought to Claremont and his funeral, attended by a large gathering, was held at city hall. He was buried with Masonic honors by the Hiram Lodge. His horse Jenny, with empty saddle, followed the carriage from the city hall to the cemetery. He was made Brigadier General by brevet 18 April 1867. His sword, pistol, and traveling secretary have been passed down to Graeme G. Whytlaw, Jr. of Cape Coral, Fla.

Mary was educated at Kimball Union Academy, studied French at St. Marys, Canada East, and became so proficient she could read and write it equally as well as English. Like her father, she was a school teacher. After her husband's death, Mary began the study of the classics and resided in Croydon all her life.

Mary Powers Cooper and Col. Alexander Gardiner had the following children born in Croydon:

He married Lilla Josephine Plummer in Enfield, N.H. 2 June 1875. Lilla,[921] daughter of Abel P. Plummer and Harriet Jones, was born in Canaan, N.H. 1 August 1852. He completed school at age 16 and went to work as a clerk for his stepfather John Wright Dodge at the firm of Dodge, Davis & Co. He moved with the Dodge family to Enfield in 1873 and continued to work for his stepfather. He went to Bristol, N.H. in 1884 where he was Assistant Superintendent of the Holden & Co. mills, manufacturers of shaker flannels, a firm acquired by Dodge, Davis & Co. In 1887, Dodge, Davis & Co. was incorporated as Dodge-Davis Manufacturing and Henry became Treasurer and Resident Manager. He was elected President and Treasurer in February 1897 after the death of his stepfather.

His other activities included Trustee (beginning in 1890) of the Bristol Savings Bank, one of the organizers (1898) of and first President of the First National Bank of Bristol, member of the first Board of Directors of the Bristol Electric Light Company (1889), Trustee of Minot-Sleeper Library, and a member of the Commission to select a site for a public park in Bristol. He built a new home in 1904 on the crest of Summer street before it dipped down to the town square. The family moved in in May and it remained in the family until 1961. The home was typical of the Victorian era with oak woodwork, hardwood floors, chandeliers, and stained glass windows. The third owner converted the home to a bed and breakfast and it is operated as such today. For information visit http://thewhipplehouse.com.

He married Frances Anna Hoyt in New Hampshire 24 December 1876. Frances,[930] daughter of George Hoyt and Frances Moody Smith, was born in Ashland 15 June 1857 (her birthplace was originally known as Holderness). She married (2) Charles Gavin Platt 25 April 1904. She lived at Andover, Mass. when her children attended school there. Her second husband was from Greenfield, England.

Ashley was graduated from New London's Colby Academy (class of 1870) and began the study of medicine with his father. The next year he was in charge of a ward in the State Asylum for the Insane at Concord, N.H. and in 1872 entered Dartmouth Medical College where he received his degree of Doctor of Medicine. He also studied medicine at the University of New York and practiced at Ashland. He was a Mason and an Odd Fellow and esteemed as both a citizen and physician.

He died of typhoid fever, caught while ministering to his patients. In a eulogy before the New Hampshire Medical Society, Dr. Granville P. Conn of Concord commended him for his zeal in serving his patients but wished he had taken greater care of his own health. Dr. Conn said he worked "as one who never new fatigue . . . and would see patients long after a majority of men would have taken their beds."

Ashley C. Whipple, M. D.

Dr. Ashley Cooper Whipple and Frances Anna Hoyt had the following children:

\+ 5623 i. Dr. George Hoyt[11] Whipple born 28 August 1878.

5624 ii. Ashley George Hoyt Whipple[931] born in Ashland 9 July 1880. He was educated at Abbot Academy and Mount Holyoke College.

4751. Sherman Leland[10] Whipple (Dr. Solomon M.[9], David[8], Aaron[7], Col. Moses[6], Deacon Jacob[5], Deacon James[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[932] was born in New London, N.H. 4 March 1862 and died 20 October 1930 in Brookline, Norfolk Co., Mass., at 68 years of age. He married Rebecca Louise Clough in Manchester, N.H., 27 December 1893. Rebecca,[933] daughter of Judge Lucien Bonaparte Clough and Maria L. Dole, died 20 July 1914. Sherman attended public school and was prepared for college at the New London Literary and Scientific Institute (later known as Colby Academy). He was a candidate for Yale at age 15 and earned a Bachelor of Arts there in 1881 where he was a commencement speaker. He taught at the Boys' high school at Reading, Penn. for a year before entering the Yale Law School, completed one year and returned to New London to teach, and eventually returned to earn his L.L. B. degree with honors in 1884 at age nineteen an a half.

He was admitted to the Connecticut and New Hampshire bars and began practicing with David Cross of Manchester, N.H. After a year he moved to Boston and joined the firm of Train & Teele. His brother Amos opened many doors for him and his first work was collecting bills for market men which led to trying tort cases. He won many of his early cases — he was a master in the art of cross examination — and his reputation as a trial lawyer was soon recognized. His firm, Whipple, Sears & Ogden, became one of the leading law firms in New England.

Sherman L. Whipple

He was special counsel for the Rules Committee of Congress in 1917 to investigate the stock market manipulation. During WWI he was General Counsel for the United States Shipping Board & Emergency Fleet Corporation which was responsible for the handling of soldiers, their food and clothing. In addition to membership in the American, Massachusetts, Suffolk, and Norfolk Bar Associations, he was, at 34, appointed to the Board of Bar Examiners for Suffolk County. He was a member of the Algonquin, University and Twentieth Century Clubs of Boston, the Yale Club of Boston and New York, and the Country Club of Brookline. He was the Democratic nominee for the U.S. senate in 1911 and 1915 when senators were appointed by the state legislature, then heavily Republican. In 1923, after the law was changed to elect senators by popular election, he sought the nomination to run against Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (1850-1924) but was defeated by Col. Wm. A. Gaston.

He was known for the thoroughness with which he tried a case, was a master at every stage—from the opening statement, through the examination and cross examination, the extremporaneous discussion of questions of evidence and of substantive law, to the final argument—and a dominating figure at every moment. He protested against the concealment of facts and documents and said such concealment made a trial a game where the shrewest and most skillful win, rather than where truth alone prevails. He wanted court procedure to be understandable so that litigants would respect the courts.

He took a keen interest in his heritage and was a member of the Ipswich (Mass.) Historical Society. In September 1929, as principal speaker at the Re-dedication exercises of the Whipple House, he said: "The occasion is one of interest to all of us because of our general interest in the history of New England which this house reflects; to some of us because their ancestors here were born, lived their lives and died; to still other because their forebears, nearly three centuries ago, were guests of familiars within its walls. I am of this later class.

"Of the two brothers, Matthew and John, who were settled in Ipswich sometime prior to 1638, I am descended from Matthew. While, therefore I may not claim the close interest of a lineal descent from those who created the 'Whipple House,' I am nonetheless proud as a kinsman to be here, and am most grateful for the gracious invitation of my fellow-members of the Ipswich Historical Society to speak as a representative of the Whipple Clan . . . it quite thrills me to walk in these rooms where for more than a century my ancestors visited their kin and where for more than two centuries my kinfolk walked in their daily vocations."

He was a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church and lived in Brookline. A game of bridge, a horseback ride alone with nature, a few hours on a trout brook, a day on the sea, a stroll through his beloved flower gardens, an evening with Dickens or a biography or autobiography of an illustrious personage relieved the pressures of the law practice. In later years, most of his weekends were spent on his Plymouth farm, where, in the company of his children and grandchildren he would fish, ride horse-back, and inspect his herd of Gurnsey cattle.[934] Charles Edward Banks, author of The Planters of the Commonwealth (Boston: Mifflin Co. 1930) dedicated the book to Sherman who was chairman of the Founders' Memorial Committee of Boston.

It is awe-inspiring to write a tome of this vast nature. The political and social conditions portrayed are done in a deft manner. The depth of biographical data on thousands of individuals is almost unbelievable.

William P. Whipple II, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*

This is a fascinating book. Blaine has a talent to write history in a way that makes people, places, and times come alive.

L. Dale Whipple, Benton, Louisiana.*

WOW! The extent of the research and knowledge of the subject and writing style make this book a must read.

Weldon Whipple, Orem, Utah*

I admire this book. The writing is fresh and engaging and the historical chapters add depth and interest to the genealogical narrative.

Malcolm Whipple, Utica, Illinois.*

The research and meticulous documentation is monumental. The photographs and maps add interest and each segment of the voluminous work expands the reader's knowledge of the descendants of Matthew Whipple's family.

Jana Sloan Broglin, CG, Swanton, Ohio*

Blaine Whipple has spent 50 years researching the Matthew and John Whipple families of Ipswich, Mass., including original research in Essex Co., England. A former Oregon State Senator, he was associated with Presidents John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, James E. Carter, and Vice Presidents Hubert H. Humphrey and Walter Mondale. He was born in a log cabin on George Washington's birthday in 1930 and has authored and published three family-history genealogies.
